NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.—The Philadelphia Press, which has means of knowing whereof it affirms equal to any journal in the country, says that it is the intention of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to commence work immediately on the West Division of that road, and push the work as fast as possible. Two hundred and thirty miles of road, it is asserted by the company, will be completed this year. The Press says the company will devote its entire attention to the Western Division the coming year, considering it unwise under the present hostile attitude of the Indian tribes west of the Missouri, to attempt to complete any great portion of the Eastern Division this season. The company claims to be in good financial condition, notwithstanding the many newspaper reports to the contrary. This statement corresponds in the main with our own information from semi-official sources, as we intimated over two months ago; and we have good reason for believing that the contemplated work on this Division includes the extension of the present road to Seattle on one end and to Portland on the other. We have good reason to believe that this measure has the approval of the judgment of nearly or quite every member of the Board of Directors, as the best for the interests of the railroad, the only opposition to it being on account of the private interest which some of the Directors have in the Tacoma Land Company, which must give way or involve the Railroad Company in the odium and ultimate ruin which has always attended corporations controlled by inside rings for purposes of private speculation.

The reasons for this are manifest.—Railroads must seek established centres of trade or those centres must seek other arteries of circulation. All experience has proved that while railroads materially aid in developing the natural resources of points and sections, they create nothing and reverse no law of nature; they make no town where nothing exists to constitute the elements upon which towns are made. Every experiment heretofore made upon the hypothesis that a railroad depot or terminus could create a town, without any other advantage, have proved utter failures. We recollect when it was thought by many shrewd speculators that the building of the Panama Railroad would create a large city at Aspinwall, which would be a powerful rival of San Francisco for the Pacific trade on both continents; an almost equally brilliant career was predicted for Dunkirk, N. Y., Duluth, Kalama, Oakland, Vallejo, etc. Did Dunkirk check the growth or impair the commercial prosperity of Buffalo in the least degree? Has Kalama diminished the trade of Portland a dollar; or Oakland or Vallejo that of San Francisco? On the contrary, the growth of these rival railroad towns has materially contributed to the prosperity of the great commercial centre.

Now Seattle is as much the commercial centre of Puget Sound as Portland is of Oregon, or San Francisco of California; its trade is more than the aggregate of all the other towns upon the Sound combined, Tacoma included; the shipping manifests show that not less than three-fourths of the importations to the Sound pass through the hands of Seattle merchants and warehouse men. Of the transportation by railroad through Tacoma, Seattle will have ten tons for its own trade for every ton for the trade of Tacoma. It is now nearly nine months since Tacoma had the prestige of being the railroad terminus, with all the inflation that a large number of speculators could give it, and yet the local paper recently announced as a most important improvement, the proposed building of a private residence 24 by 30 feet, to be adorned by "the first window-blind in Tacoma." It has shown much less progress than was made by either Duluth or Kalama during the first nine months of their existence, and exhibits less encouraging prospects for the future. Seattle in the mean time has maintained its commercial supremacy without the least apparent check, has invested more permanent private improvements than all that have been made in Tacoma outside the railroad, and has suffered no depreciation in real estate values in consequence of the adverse action of the railroad managers.

Railroad men must seek commercial centres to promote the interests of their roads, or suffer the inevitable loss of the carrying business being turned to other channels. They can neither make trade nor divert it from its natural centres.
 AWARD TO H. A. WEBSTER.—By private letter from Washington we learn that the award of this Commissioners appointed to assess the damages to Mr. Webster, in extending an Indian reservation over his improvements, has been allowed by Congress, and he has drawn his money from the Treasury. It amounted to about $30,000.

ANTI-LIQUOR MOVEMENT.—The women of Olympia have inaugurated an organized crusade against drinking saloons by forming a "Women's Temperance Prayer League," of which Mrs. C. A. Huntington is President and Mrs. Gov. Ferry is Secretary. A committee, consisting of Mrs. Giddings, Mrs. Ferry and Mrs. King, was chosen to visit the City Council, and urge the withholding of licenses, in behalf of the "League." We believe these ladies do not propose to visit the saloons in force to pray, or hold mob prayer meetings in the streets, but to appeal to individuals to aid their cause, and to address their prayers to God in secret, for his blessing upon their efforts. It seems to us that this is much more in accordance with the sanctities of religion and the decencies of social life than the Ohio plan of "praying to be heard of men," while the modesty of women commended by St. Paul, is put to open shame. Such exhibitions are only adapted to the capacities and tastes of such "sexual mistakes" as Dunaway and Gale, who are striving to reform society by abolishing all distinctions of sex.

SENTENCED TO BE HUNG.—On Saturday last, Thomas Schooley, convicted of the wilful murder of his father-in-law, Henry Forman, was sentenced to be hung at Victoria, at such time as the Governor shall direct. This murder was committed without any provocation while the murderer was in a drunken delirium. Judge Gray, in pronouncing sentence, said: "The act was an atrocious one. Murder in itself is bad enough, but the atrocity of this murder was heightened by the fact that the fatal shot was fired from behind. It was an assassin's hand—a coward's blow. It was not the blow that impelled or passion dealt—it was not the result of an open, fair struggle; but it was the work of an assassin and a coward. What circumstances could have occurred in your past life, prisoner, what could have been your habits or your associations to have rendered you so callous to all the better promptings of your nature, we know not; but this we do know: That you have given way to the sin of drunkenness and to the habit of carrying loaded firearms. The law is plain and distinct on this point and has already been pointed out. Drunkenness is no excuse, no bar to punishment; and perhaps no pretence is more to be condemned than that of carrying firearms in the midst of a peaceable community. Many cannot control a sudden burst of passion or indignation, and if in the possession of firearms they often resort to their use before passion has time to cool or reason to reassert her power, as you have done, prisoner. In a peaceful country like this, there is no excuse for carrying deadly weapons, there was no reason why you should anticipate harm. But we find you armed—not alone in the public streets and places of resort, but in the privacy of your own room, in the presence of your wife and her family, and we find you fully armed, as if anticipating attack or prepared to avenge a real or fancied wrong.

In conclusion, Judge Gray added: "The fate of the prisoner would be a warning to men who carry firearms in every part of the Province. They will be taught that when men take life they will be hanged as sure as there is a God in heaven. Let it be heard far and near, that the Judges and Juries in this Province will not permit this land to be made the assassin's land. I hope that the awful facts which must surely befall you will be heard and felt in every part of the Province as a warning."

WALLA WALLA MOVING FOR THE RAILROAD.—A letter to Hon. A. A. Denny, President of the S. & W. W. Railroad Company, signed by several hundred citizens of Walla Walla, of which the following is a copy, has been received: "A rumor reaches us that there are negotiations on foot for the transfer of your railroad franchise to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, and fearing that the want of action in support of your project has led to misapprehension on your part, we wish to say that we are more strongly in favor of this than any other scheme, and favor the plan of county aid, believing that at the present time our county would vote aid by a three-fourths majority; and this plan is daily gaining favor with our people. And we earnestly protest against any transfer of your franchises into the hands of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, or any other corporation; and we pledge you our earnest and untiring support in building this road."

The spirit of the West says: "The different copies of this letter sent out and which have been returned, are in each instance filled with the signatures of our best and most responsible citizens. The gentlemen who have been instrumental in circulating them inform us that not more than one man out of one hundred has refused to affix his signature to the letter. The signatures already obtained foot up among the hundreds. This, indeed, would seem an indication that our people are in earnest in the matter, and have finally come to the conclusion that Providence assists only those who help themselves."

These facts effectually dispose of the reports which have been industriously circulated by enemies of this project, that the people of Walla Walla were either opposed to it, or lacked confidence in the company which has it in charge. In spite of the attempts of old monopolists and interested speculators to create a diversion by the presentation of other schemes which have no practical basis, the people of Seattle and Walla Walla are as near a unit upon this matter as the people of any community ever were upon any question of public interest, and if this unity of sentiment is backed by corresponding unity of purpose and determination success is already assured. The property holders of Eastern Washington and Oregon and of Northern Idaho, are interested in the completion of this road to more than the entire amount of their present possessions, for it would more than double the value of their property without it, and no other contemplated project offers any such practical results. The opening of the Columbia river to unobstructed or free navigation is a chimera which has no practical support from any quarter; a railroad by the way of the Columbia river to ocean navigation, all engineering examinations have proved to be too expensive to enlist capital in its construction; hence the only practical outlet to the ocean for one of the finest agricultural regions upon the continent is by the way of the Seattle and Walla Walla Railroad. And by the same token, it is manifest to all intelligent men acquainted with the position, that no unoccupied route upon this continent offers as great inducements for the investment of capital in a railroad as this. If the people interested in this road have not the capital to build the road, they have sufficient to subsidize capitalists to engage in it. If Congress will not permit them to grant municipal aid, no one can deprive them from extending to the work their own private means, and if it took the absolute sacrifice of one half the taxable property of the two counties of Walla Walla and King to secure the construction of the road the counties would be much richer for it.

BOY SHOT.—A half-dozen boys, armed with pistols of as many different patterns, assembled on the river bank near the Water Works last Saturday, for the purpose of indulging in a little target practice. A hat was set up as a target, and the boys commenced shooting at it by turns. A little fellow named Bloom was taking his aim when one of the other boys concluded to change his position and running between Bloom and the target, received a shot in the fleshy part of his thigh. The accident put an end to the impromptu sport, and Bloom, who thought he had really committed murder, ran home and left the remainder of the party to take care of his dead and wounded. A physician was called and the wounded limb dressed when the parents of the injured child moved in force upon the Bloom domicile, threatening to sue for damages and do many other dangerous things unless the expenses of the affair were defrayed by them.—Portland News.

LECTURE.—The Lecture by Hon. S. Garfield, on the evening of the 25th, is spoken of as very interesting by those who heard it. The subject was Human Progress, and was treated in a manner unique and entirely original to his audience. The Library fund netted about $30 by the lecture.

REV. C. A. HUNTINGTON has received his commission, given bonds, and entered upon his duties as Indian agent at Neah Bay. Mr. Webster's place, for which the Government has just paid, will give him the finest quarters of any Indian Agent in the country, and we are glad of it.

THE WEATHER.—We have never been an habitual meddler with the weather question, or chronic grumbler at its disagreeable moods; but these soft, clear, beautiful sunny days, do make work in the shop very irksome to us—that's a fact.

EXHIBITION.—There will be an exhibition at the Pavilion, on Saturday evening, for the benefit of the South School. We are not informed as to the character of the performance.

BERRAH BROWN: EDITOR

Seattle W. T., April 2, 1874.

A GLORIOUS PROSPECT.—A Washington telegram announces that a strong company has recently been organized to commence extensive ship-building operations on the Pacific coast.

Over the foregoing announcement the Micawber of the Tribune rhapsodizes as follows: "What a magnificent enterprise it would be to get that company established in Tacoma!"

Now this reminds us of a little story, which has general credence in Oregon; Captain Ainsworth, whose accidental connection with the O. S. N. Co. under fortuitous circumstances had not only put him in possession of a comfortable fortune but given him great self confidence in his business capacity.

PROGRESS OF SEATTLE.—From every section of the country we hear the complaint of "hard times"; none have escaped the universal depression, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the British possessions to the Gulf of Mexico.

OFFICIAL SINCERITIES.—In a recent debate in Congress on the Dedicatory bills, Mr. Daws read the following letter from an ex-official at Milwaukee, Wisconsin:

attention of those charged with seeing that the interests of the Government were protected, to the fact of this fraud upon the public treasury; but what was the result? He stated the case to Senator Carpenter; then to Senator Howe, then to the head of the Treasury Department; and the only response was, he was quietly stricken from the payroll of the sinecure offices, and a more "practical man" awarded his billet.

LAW REPORT.

Since the departure of our regular Law Reporter, that department of our paper has been mainly abandoned; but the following, from the Albany Law Journal, is too good to be lost to our legal readers:

Before Peter Q. C. Shortman, Surrogate: In the matter of approving the last will and testament of Titus A. Peep.

Titus A. Peep, of Greenflat, Hamilton County, is claimed to have made a will, whereby he devised to one John Smith property to the amount of $20,000, consisting of water-lots in Manatee City.

The idea of making a will naturally suggests the thought of death, which is by no means pleasant. It is claimed here that by the act of making a will a man contracts to die; and that if he lives, in violation of this implied promise, he is guilty of a fraud, and is estopped to oppose the probate of the will.

A verdict was rendered that death came to his death by accidental drowning, while in a state of intoxication about the 17th of March.

The sails of the unfortunate vessel were floating at her side. Her condition was the same as when seen by the California. The battle lasted all day, Republican army encamping on the position of the Carlists. The loss of the Republicans in killed was 470. General Loma commanded the centre and Gen. Primo de Nevozo the right. It is possible the battle will be renewed to-day.

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—First charge of arson against Fred. Elliott for having set fire to the Commercial Hotel, on the 12th and 18th instant, was dismissed this forenoon in Police Court. He was afterwards examined on the 2nd charge, which will probably also be dismissed. Donnelle, the lessee of the hotel, will then be tried.

BOSTON, March 26.—At the Republican Legislative Caucuses last night the feeling was very bitter, Hoar's friends denouncing Daves as Butler's candidate and Daves' supporters retaliating with hints about Boston Aristocracy. One of Daves' friends read a letter from Daves, saying he had received a letter, the substance of which was to elect Hoar for the short term, and then, if Daves behaves well during the summer, we may elect him for the long term.—Daves said the letter cut him to the quick and he deserved it, saying he preferred being slain in open field. Second ballot for Senator to-day: Dawes, 92; Hoar, 82; Curtis, 74; Adams, 14; Banks, 6.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—In the Ways and Means Committee to-day, Sanborn's counsel stated that he would submit a written statement to-morrow, and permit an examination of himself by the committee. Simmons, Collector of Customs for Boston, testified in behalf of Sanborn that he received instructions from Secretaries Boutwell and Richardson to assist Sanborn in Internal Revenue examinations, and quoted Horton as an instance that Sanborn had a large influence and acquaintance in legislative matters in New England. He believed that 90 per cent of the $50,000 collected by Sanborn would not have been collected through the regular channels.

Green and Presbury, Sanborn's agents, testified that the cases upon which they were at work were unrecorded in the Internal Revenue offices. They had not represented themselves as agents of the Treasury Department, though they had said nothing to the contrary and had left that inference to be drawn from the Secret Service credential which they presented.

Thirty thousand men make up our regular army. It is thought that most of these are on the plains and in the mountains, where they ought to be; but far from it. Only a moiety of them is there. There are 1,200 men stationed around New York; 10,000 on the Canadian frontier; at least 10,000 South, and many around such places as San Francisco, where they are not earthly use. Now suppose some 15,000 of these, now in the States, were stationed in about the "Indian countries," would we have the regular annual outbreak? Not at all. By an imposing force the Indians would be overawed, and the soldier be put to better uses than eating up our money in rations, and loading.

THE PRESIDENT'S INVESTMENTS.—A Washington letter to the Troy Times says: The President has just bought a large lot in the northwestern part of the city for his future town residence. He pays $22,000 for 15,000 feet and the house is to cost, with the lot, near $100,000. It is understood that the President, when he is released from his official duties, will divide his time between his three residences—on the St. Louis Farm, at the sea shore at Long Branch, and in Washington. He will retire from public life in very comfortable circumstances. He has been, since he entered the army in 1861, one of the luckiest of men, and in this respect his history is curious and interesting. Up to a certain date his life was unclouded—uniformly so. Everything he undertook proved a failure, till he was actually a poor man when he offered his services to the country in the war of the rebellion. Since then his course has been almost invariably successful as a soldier, a politician and a man of business. I am told by those who know the facts and are competent to judge of such matters, that Gen. Grant's investments have been made with great wisdom, with the sole exception of the small venture in the "Seneca Stone Company" and even that concern is looking up of late. His investments here, at Long Branch, and especially near St. Louis, have turned out well. St. Louis people say that his farm in that vicinity will alone make him a large fortune, so rapid is its increase in value.

Two of the edible dogs of China are now on exhibition at the Zoological gardens in Paris. If it be found easy to acclimatize them, it is proposed to introduce this new article of food. The dog in question are small and hairless, and enormously fat. They are fed solely on vegetable food, and regimen which imparts a rare delicacy to their flesh.

John James Flourney, a colored man of Georgia, has memorialized Congress for aid in some shape, either by money or the use of a government vessel, to transport large numbers of colored people who are anxious to go to the rising republic of Liberia. He believes it to be advantageous to the colored race to be separated from that of the Anglo-Saxon. Unless they amalgamate one will be superior and the other inferior to the end of time. Amalgamation, he holds, can never be made universal, and it was a question whether the result of such a step would benefit the condition of either and he refers to the Mexican and Spanish races as specimens of amalgamated races.

Whenever there is an eager scramble for place, as there is now, it means that the true balance between the taxpayers and the tax-users is destroyed, and the advantage is on the wrong side. Whenever office becomes so much more lucrative and desirable than the pursuits of private life, we may be assured that the tax-payers are the donkeys and the office-holders ride them, and it is high time for a revolution; which, by the way, does not always involve bloodshed, as one of our contemporaries, on a former occasion, seemed to think.

There is a story told of a gentleman who protects himself against pickpocket and sense of injury which thieves experience when they can find nothing to carry away by leaving in his country house, when he goes to town for the winter, a demijohn of fine old brandy. A note by the side of it explains that there is no silver in the house, that all the drawers and doors are open, requests that no unnecessary damage be done, and that his guests shall help themselves to the brandy.

Governor Shepard was "a poor boy," General Butler was "a poor boy," but both have become very rich by their daily labor. Bright examples for "poor boys," but rather hard on the country.
