Port Townsend Correspondence.

This ancient Port of entry and commercial emporium still sits at the entrance of admiralty inlet waiting, "like patience on a monument smiling at grief," for some new thing to occur, either in the shape of a flash of lightning, an earthquake, or a party of railroad surveyors. In the meantime business of all kinds is nearly at a stand still, and reminds me of old Capt. Cozen's coffee which he offered George Stevens, "It is weak, Governor," said the ancient mariner, "in fact, it is—d weak," and so is our business. However, when the railroad people have exhausted their resources of humbug and really apply themselves to the work of finishing the road from the Columbia to the Sound; and when the public are assured of the locality where they really mean to terminate the road, then and not till then will we see business revive on the Sound, and as soon as business does take a start, let the terminus be where it may, Port Townsend is sure to be benefited. Thus far, however, the effect of the railroad movements has been to paralyze all kinds of business on the Sound. The uncertainty attending their operations has kept capitalists from investing, and has only benefited a lot of unprincipled land sharks by allowing them to gull the unwary in buying lots in imaginary terminal cities which looked well on paper, but had no existence in fact. When the terminus is decided on, this class of Shysters will have to take up some more honest calling.

What the South Requires.

The Southern States, since the war, have been the prey of beggarly adventurers, who have done their best to bring the whites and blacks into active hostility, and under whose influence the public debt and taxation have been enormously increased, and the trade and commerce of the South have sickened and lost their natural growth. These adventurers in every Southern State have been propped up and sustained by the National Government; which policy has had the effect of aggravating sectional dislike, by persuading the impoverished Southerners that the Executive is in sympathy with thieves and vagabonds, whose only claim upon his sympathy is that they call themselves Republicans.

The Southern people, white as well as black, want fair play. They know that their natural vigor and fertile soil will enable them to repair the ravages of war, and reorganize their social and industrial system, to their own profit and that of the whole Union, if the National Government will hold its hands and recognize, as theirs, the rights and immunities which are freely accorded to the demagogues who consume our substance and make a true reunion impossible. It is the supreme necessity of the South that a man be elected President of the United States who will whip the rone wherever he may find him, and will as jealously guard the liberties of the white race as of their colored fellow-citizens. Such a man Horace Greeley is known to be. All have confidence in his upright and his unequivocal honesty, and from Virginia to the Gulf the conservative people of the South have shouted their approval of his nomination. It is evident to them that Mr.
Greeley can be elected if the Democratic party throw no obstacle in the way.
The nomination of a Democratic candidate against Horace Greeley would make the re-election of Grant a certainty; which re-election would ruin the South by continuing in force, for a period of four years longer, the vindictive and tyrannical practices which have been the one insuperable barrier in the way of Southern improvement, and which threatens to permanently alienate the South from the North.

This is, in brief, the position of the Southern people, as we understand their feelings and desires. They accept the Constitution as it is. They demand universal amnesty, as the complement of universal suffrage. They require that the National Executive appoint only capable and honest men to office, and that there be no interference with the right of self-government, except in such emergencies as are contemplated and provided for in the Federal Constitution. They look upon Horace Greeley as the one man, capable of election, who will give them security and peace, and make this, in truth, a united people. And they require that the Democracy of the North shall not throw Horace Greeley over-board, and insure his defeat, for the sake of personal interests or because of the wrong-headedness of the Bourbons who have largely helped to make us what we are.

These are the views which we desire to impress upon the National Democracy. We know them to be the opinions of all but the Radical office-holders in South Carolina, and we believe them to be the opinions of the large majority of the people of the South.—Charleston News, May 9.

ORIGIN OF LAGER BEER.—The German words Lager Beer, signify stock beer—i. e., beer that has been stowed away.
The story, as told in Germany, is an old one, and runs thus: Many years ago, a shoemaker near Bamberg, sent his apprentice to get a bottle of Bamberg beer, which was sold at that place; but the boy not knowing this, went to the city itself. On returning he met an acquaintance who told him that when he would come home his boss would whip him for staying so long. The poor boy was frightened at this, thought it better not to go home at all, but took his bottle, buried it under a tree and ran away. He went among the soldiers, where he distinguished himself so that in a short time he became an officer.
When one day his regiment was quartered in this little town, the officer thought it proper to pay a visit to his old boss, but not before he had got the bottle of beer which he had buried some years before under the tree. When he entered he said, "Well, sir, here I bring you your bottle of Bamberg beer which you sent me for." The shoemaker not knowing what this meant, was told by the officer all about it. The bottle was opened, and the beer was found to be of superior quality. When this fact was made known, some of the brewers built deep vaults, where they put their beer, and called it, after it had lain some, lager, which did not mean anything more than lying. The officer afterwards married the daughter of the shoemaker, and drank a good deal of lager beer, receiving in this occupation the assistance of his father-in-law.

A Child in Court—The Power of Truth.

The following beautiful illustration of the simplicity and power of truth is from the pen of S. A. Hammond, formerly editor of the Albany State Register. He was an eye-witness of the scene in one of the higher courts;

A little girl, nine years of age, was offered as a witness against a prisoner who was on trial for a felony committed in her father's house.

"Now, Emily," said the counsel for the prisoner, upon her being offered as a witness, "I desire to know if you understand the nature of an oath?"

"I don't know what you mean," was the simple answer.

"There, your honor," said the counsel, addressing the court, "is anything further necessary to demonstrate the futility of my objection? This witness should be rejected. She does not comprehend the nature of an oath."

"Let us see," said the Judge. "Come here, my daughter."

Assured by the kind manner and tone of the Judge, the child stepped toward him, and looked confidently into his face, with a calm, clear eye, and in a manner so artless and frank that it went straight to the heart.

any excitement in the way of earthquakes, fire from heaven to destroy us like the cities of the plain, shipwrecks, or railroad terminus, I will inform you, and as it is about time that a railroad excitement was started here, you may not be surprised at any time to see the "toilers of city lots" around with their maps with "positively the very last chance" for sale. Yours truly, J. G. S.

many falsehoods were scattered like chaff. The little child, for whom her mother had prayed for strength to be given her to speak the truth as it was before God, broke the cunning devices of matured villainy to pieces like a potter's vessel. The strength that her mother had prayed for was given her, and the sublime and terrible simplicity—terror, I mean, to the prisoner and his associates—with which she spoke, were like a revelation from God himself.

Mrs. Twain's Shoe.

Propos of the revival of roller skating here, the following little domestic colloquy will do;

Mrs. T. Mr. Twain, I am surprised and grieved to—

Mr. T. Don't interrupt me, woman!
I tell you it's absurd—you learn to skate! You'll be wanting to play fairy in the Black Crook; next, I tell you skating is an accomplishment suited only to youth and comeliness of face and symmetry of figure. Nothing is so charming as to see a nice girl, in the coquettish costume of the rinks, with cheeks rosy with excitement, skimming the ice like a bird—and swooping down upon a group of gentlemen and pretending she can't stop herself, and landing in the arms of the very young man her father don't allow her to know—and darting away again, falling on her head and exposing herself to remarks about her carelessness.

(Mrs. T. tries to speak), saying: "I
—"

Mr. T. Madame, hold your tongue!
And always taking care to fall when that young man is close by to pick her up—Oh, it is charming. They look pretty, and interesting, too, when they are just learning—when they stand still a long time in one place, and then start one foot gingerly, (shows how) make a break for the other side of the pond, and leave the balance of the girl springling on this side! But you! You look fat and awkward and dismal enough at any time, and when you are on skates you will waddle off as stuffy and stupid and ungainly as a buzzard that's had half a horse for dinner.

(Mrs. T. tries again to speak): "Oh —Ma—"

Mr. T. I won't have it, madam!
And you get under a little precarious headway, then put your feet together and drift along, stooping your head and shoulders (shows how) and holding out your arms like you expected a church was going to fall on you; it aggravates the life of me! And Tuesday when I was ass enough to get on skates myself and kicked the Irish giant's eyes out the first dish, and lit on my head and cracked the ice so that it looked like the sun with all its rays dropped where I struck, and they fined me ninety dollars for ruining the man's pond. I was terrified with the conviction that I had gone through to the inside world, because I saw the parallels of latitude glimmering all around me; and what was it but you in your awkwardness, fetching up over me with your confounded "tillers" on! I can't stand the pew rent, and I won't.

Mrs. T. Mr. Twain I am surprised to—

Mr. T. Hold your clatter. I tell you, you shan't bring odium upon the family by your disgraceful attempts to skate, sprawling around with your big feet like a cow ploughing her way down hill in slippery weather. (shows how.) Maybe you wouldn't be so handy about displaying those feet of yours if you knew what occurred when I took those shoes down to get 'em mended.

Mrs. T. What was it? Tell me what it was? Tell me what it was this minute! I just know it's one of your lies!

Mr. T. Oh don't mind, it ain't of any consequence; go to bed.

Mrs. T. But it is of consequence—You have got to tell me; you shan't aggravate me in this way. I know what bed till I know what it was.

Mr. T. Oh, it was't anything!

Mrs. T. I know better! You're just doing this to drive me to distraction.
What did the shoe-maker say about my shoes? What did he do? Quick!

Bristling up to him with clenched hand.
Mr. T. Well, if you must know, he —he—however, it's of no consequence.

Mrs. T. Mr. Twain! Shaking her fist in his face.

Mr. T. Well, he took it and gazed on it a long time in silence, and then burst into tears. (Shows how.)

Mrs. T. Why, you born fool! Twain, are you going stark-staring crazy?

Mr. T. He just stood there and wept as if his heart would break, poor devil!
There, now, let's go to bed.

Mrs. T. Bed, you lunatic! I'll never close my eyes till I know what the idiot was crying about—and you won't either, you can't tell me that. Come?

Mr. T. Oh? It don't matter.

Mrs. T. Mr. Twain, if you say that again I'll make you sorry for it. What was that quibbling crying about?

Mr. T. Well, he, he—

Mrs. T. Well, he, he. Out with it!
Do you want me to—to—Twain? I'll snatch them pet ear-locks off till the sole of your head's as bald as the top of my hand.

Mr. T. Well, he—poor fellow, he fairly doted on his grandmother—fairly doted on her. She had nursed him, you know, because his mother was so feeble, and so—well, he came to this country fifteen years ago, and first he set up in the vegetable line, and got along pretty well, and was about to send to England for the old lady, when hard times came and he got broke. He went into all sorts of things, you know; but he got disappointed every time, till this present business fished out all right, and he sent right off for the old woman.
She landed here four weeks ago, but died the very same night. It was hard, very hard, after all his waiting and toiling for fifteen years, to get her over at last, and have her die on his hands—He—he—well he was disgusted. However, he laid her out, and he and his friends sat up with her, and by-and-by the memories of her virtues softened his bitterness and turned it to a tender grief—a settled melancholy that lung about his spirit like a pall for many days.
However, by patiently striving to keep sad thoughts out of his mind, he was finally beginning to regain some of his old time cheerfulness, when your shoe reminded him so painfully of his poor sainted grand-mother's coffin—

Mrs. T. That, you brute! (Slaps his face.) And if you dare to come back here again I'll kick you out again.
You degraded old ruffian! Out of the house with you! (Exit, leading Mark out by the ear!)

WEY ARE TIMES HARD.—People talk about hard times, and well they may.
An exchange ventures a few plain words on the situation, and here they are for the benefit of our readers: "We are fast becoming a nation of schemers to live without genuine work. Our boys are not learning trades; our farmer's sons are crowding into cities, looking for clerkships and post offices; hardly one American girl in each hundred will do housework for wages, however urgent her need; so we are sending to Europe millions' worth of products that we ought to make for ourselves. We must turn over a new leaf.

Vol. 1, No. 28. BERLICH BROWN, EDITOR. Seattle, Thursday, June 6, 1872.

Official Insolence.

A request made by a number of the largest tax-payers in the County upon the County Auditor for a more explicit statement of the financial condition of the county than he chose to make in his official report, has brought forth, through the organ of the "ring," the following insolent response:

A few words in connection with the above "petition." The only evidence I have that such a petition ever originated is from its appearance in the last issue of the Puget Sound Dispatch, and the only tangible reason I can assign for not receiving it from the hands of the originators (in the ordinary way of presentation) is that they were ashamed of their own handiwork, or disliked to assume so much responsibility. It certainly could not be that the whole affair was gotten up for any political effect—the high respectability of the signers would preclude such an idea. Possibly it was not the intention of the majority of the signers to have the thing published, but owing to the pressing necessity of the Dispatch editor, in his last expiring efforts to give an interest to his dying sheet, and being left in the hands of the originators, they could not resist his powers of persuasion. But whatever reason the public may assign, there the thing is.

My first impression (and probably the most correct one) was to treat the thing with the contempt it deserves. But, in conversation with three of the signers, finding that they had been enticed into the plot, and having evidence that several more were honest in their intentions and signed the thing in good faith, I then, and then alone, I make this statement: When they, or any other equally sincere, with an explanation of the annual exhibit as last published, in any one of the items, or have any doubt or any misgiving in regard to a part or the whole of the exhibit, I will cheerfully devote all the time necessary for the purpose, and make public all the facts pertaining thereto.

A word in regard to the attitude of the Dispatch towards myself, which I think fully explains its course; but which the next edition thereof will emphatically deny—it is the truth nevertheless:—Some time in last August, I was called upon by Captain Wright to aid by subscription a new paper to be started in this city. I was willing to subscribe until I learned that Berlich Brown was to be its editor. I at once declined to aid that or any other paper edited or controlled in whole or part by him. At that time Mr. Ike M. Hill had control of and was publishing the Dispatch and was employed to do the County printing; but as soon as Berlich assumed the control, I used my prerogative, and withdrew the public printing from the Dispatch and furnished it to the Intelligencer. By so doing, I incurred the displeasure of Berlich Brown and the proprietors of the Dispatch, which I shall hope to merit as long as they continue to publish or control it. I was immediately made aware of their displeasure by the financial man of the concern, that they (including Berlich, proprietor, and financial man) would cook my goose, &c., &c., next election. Very well, gentlemen, proceed. I will be here when you get through. I want no better evidence that I am right than your opposition. Your only show for "public pay" (with which your paper must collapse) is in my defeat, and the election of an Auditor of your peculiar ilk. So sail in with your dye stuff, &c., &c.

GARDNER KELLOGG.

On Thursday last, on invitation of J. R. Robbins, Esq., we took passage on the steamer Zephyr, Capt. Wright, which had been chartered to carry the railroad surveying party of Capt. Sheets to the Skagit River. The day was lovely, the little steamer a model of neatness, beauty, and speed, and the route as beautiful as the poet or painter could conceive. On the down passage the boat touched only at Utsalady, and entered the Skagit River after dark, landing the railroad party at a farm house on the right bank about 8 miles from the mouth. The next morning we passed up the river to the jam, or raft, which is about 12 miles from its mouth, advancing about 50 yards further than any steamer had ever before penetrated. This jam is formed by floating trees, which had become interlocked and extended from bank to bank, covering the whole surface of the stream for about a quarter of a mile in extent, and has existed apparently for ages, forming an impenetrable barrier to the navigation of the stream by the smallest craft. Were this obstacle removed we were informed by those who had explored the river to its source, and a similar jam a short distance above, it would be navigable for sixty miles farther, opening a country nearly equal to the famed Valley of the Willamette in extent, and far exceeding it in fertility. The cost of removing these obstructions would probably not exceed $10,000, and the advantages would repay the cost a hundred fold. The attention of our Delegate in Congress has been called to this fact, but in that as in many other matters pertaining to the interests of the people of this Territory, he has not yet seen sufficient personal inducement in it to make it a matter of Congressional effort.

ere classical flows assuming "prerogatives," the attributes of absolute sovereignty, nor did we ever aspire to become a recipient of sovereign favor from any man. If he has got a newspaper to acknowledge his "prerogative" for $40 a year, to be paid in county scrip, he has placed himself upon an equal footing with keepers of squaw broileries, Peter Panik lotteries, and confidence quack doctors of disreputable practice, who use the same medium of communication with the public on the same terms. We have no ambition to compete for such favors.

Towards Mr. Kellogg, personally, we have no prejudice. We had no personal acquaintance with him and knew of no enmity he entertained towards us until several months after we had engaged in business in this town. We should certainly deem ourselves unworthy the respect of any gentleman, if we should entertain or express such an enmity towards a man we had never known, as he professes to have entertained towards us before he could have known any thing of our private or social character. As to the call which he characterizes in such contemptuous terms as a "petition," and "a thing," we never saw it, or were consulted in the matter, until it was presented to us for publication, and it is a sorry compliment to some of the most influential gentlemen in his own party, without whose aid he could never have been elected, to charge them with being under the influence and control of a man he affects to detest solely on account of his former political associations.

We are very certain that no man connected with the publication of this paper ever uttered any such threats as he charges, and if they did, we cannot conceive how that can excuse official negligence or dishonesty. What the signers of the call, and what the public generally want to know, is, what has become of the money which they have paid for County purposes, not what Gardner Kellogg thinks about men or things which have no connection therewith.

THE SKAGIT.

On Thursday last, on invitation of J. R. Robbins, Esq., we took passage on the steamer Zephyr, Capt. Wright, which had been chartered to carry the railroad surveying party of Capt. Sheets to the Skagit River. The day was lovely, the little steamer a model of neatness, beauty, and speed, and the route as beautiful as the poet or painter could conceive. On the down passage the boat touched only at Utsalady, and entered the Skagit River after dark, landing the railroad party at a farm house on the right bank about 8 miles from the mouth. The next morning we passed up the river to the jam, or raft, which is about 12 miles from its mouth, advancing about 50 yards further than any steamer had ever before penetrated. This jam is formed by floating trees, which had become interlocked and extended from bank to bank, covering the whole surface of the stream for about a quarter of a mile in extent, and has existed apparently for ages, forming an impenetrable barrier to the navigation of the stream by the smallest craft. Were this obstacle removed we were informed by those who had explored the river to its source, and a similar jam a short distance above, it would be navigable for sixty miles farther, opening a country nearly equal to the famed Valley of the Willamette in extent, and far exceeding it in fertility. The cost of removing these obstructions would probably not exceed $10,000, and the advantages would repay the cost a hundred fold. The attention of our Delegate in Congress has been called to this fact, but in that as in many other matters pertaining to the interests of the people of this Territory, he has not yet seen sufficient personal inducement in it to make it a matter of Congressional effort.

Below the jam the land bordering upon the river has been all taken and is occupied by a thrifty and industrious class of settlers, who all seemed delighted with their locations. It is heavily timbered; principally with cotton wood, and other soft woods which are easily and speedily removed. One settler told us he had had land cleared for the plow for $25 an acre on contract, and that one crop would pay all the expense of clearing, planting and harvesting. The soil, as far as we observed, was surpassingly rich, and the cattle and hogs, of which there appeared to be an abundance for the population, were all in first rate condition, having sustained themselves through the winter on the natural growth of the soil. We have no data from which to make an exact estimate, but it is safe to calculate that within ten miles of the steamboat navigation on the Skagit River, there are five thousand farms of 160 acres each, which can be much more easily reduced to cultivation than was any portion of western New York or northern Ohio, and much more accessible to profitable market than were either of those sections at the time they were settled, with a much better prospect for the future, and a vast advantage of soil and climate in favor of this country.

On the Snohomish, and various other rivers emptying into Puget Sound from the East there are many thousands of acres of lands of like quality yet uncultivated, accessible to market, and in the most equable climate in the world, and yet there are many who think this can never become an agricultural country, and many of the immigrants from the prairie regions of the Northwest turn away from it in disgust because the lands are not cleared of their timber, which from the natural fecundity of the soil could not help growing.

The "Puget River Company," composed of some of our most enterprising and public spirited men, will send on in a few days to make a thorough survey of the Skagit, and if upon their report it is deemed practicable, they will place a steamer on the river about the jam to aid in settling up the country.

THE OREGON ELECTIONS.—The moral to be drawn from the overwhelming defeat of the Democratic party in Oregon, following a like result in California, is, that party ties can no longer bind the people to the support of corrupt rings and selfish and unscrupulous leaders.—The honest sentiments of the majority in both States were in favor of the principles of the Democratic party, and were so expressed in the preceding elections. But in both cases the management of the Government fell into the hands of political sharpshooters and blacklegs who used the power entrusted to them for their own selfish purposes, betraying the principles and pledges of reform which the people demanded. It is a grave mistake to suppose that the money or influence of Ben. Holliday has produced this result. The men who combined to lead and manage the Democratic party in that State are solely responsible for its overthrow. They left the people only the alternative of choosing between a corrupt ring who were robbing the public to enrich themselves and a monster monopoly which conferred as much public benefit as it derived private emolument. Two years ago, when the Convention of the Democratic party was packed in the interest of a ring and controlled by open corruption the fate of the party was sealed and nothing but the indiscreet interference of the agents of Ben. Holliday in the election and the prejudice thereby created saved it from defeat at that time.

Here, in Washington Territory, the ring combinations are now all in the Republican party, and will meet with a like fate whenever the election comes off.—The bonds of party discipline and party tyranny are broken, and the people are free.

BLACK MAIL PRESS.—There is nothing more disgraceful in journalism, or a greater nuisance in society, than a black mail press, which for pay will publish any personal slander, advertise any immoral exhibition or business, and compel contributions under the penalty of assaults upon private character and business. The Intelligencer is one of that class. There is nothing mean, low, vile or slanderous, which it will not publish for pay, regardless of public morals or private rights. Any rival in business, any personal enemy, may by innuendo or direct slander, assail his opponent through the columns of that paper by paying advertising rates. Every man has his enemies, and no man is safe in his private character from these vile attacks where the public press tolerates and encourages such a system. Such a newspaper is more detrimental to the public morals than a gambling hell or a house of prostitution, and has less claim upon public sympathy and support. There is no excuse or necessity for it. Offences against society which the laws do not reach, are proper subjects of newspaper criticism; but the man who resorts to newspaper assaults upon private reputation to gratify a personal resentment, where the laws afford ample redress for his private wrongs, is a malignant defamer who should be held in utter contempt by all honorable men, and he who consents to become the medium of such publications for pay, is as vile as the hired pimp to the most brutal passions of men.

DEMOCRATIC DEMORALIZATION.—Judge Eaton, of Illinois, a prominent Democrat, has written a letter to the Chicago Times in which he thus testifies to the general demoralization of his party and the causes of it:

"You think I assume too much when I say our choice is necessarily to be made between Mr. Greeley and Mr. Grant. Would that I could see that we could have a wider range of choice! If our party were drilled to the discipline it once was; if we could count upon every Democratic vote in the country; if we could kindle in them that enthusiasm which can alone be aroused by confident hope, then we might have some chance of electing a majority of the electoral votes inasmuch as a plurality vote in most of the States can elect electors.

But in my judgment, our party is so demoralized we cannot depend upon all the voters who have acted with us." And he proceeds to say further:—"The truth is, we are hopelessly demoralized, and the course of events for the last two months has done more to produce this state of things than all our disastrous defeats in the last twelve years. Hence it is that I think it would be impossible to unite our party, with all its strength, on any candidate our convention might name, no matter how acceptable he might be to us all."

WE TAKE PLEASURE IN ANNOUNCING to the public the return of Mr. THOMAS MURPHY to our employment. He will be remembered as the person who gave our house such an enviable reputation, last fall, for having a choice quality of small goods of all descriptions, consisting of Bologne Sausage, Pork Sausage, Beef Sausage, German Sausage, Summer Sausage, Liver Puddings, Black Puddings, Saveloys, Tripe, Head Cheese, etc.

As there has always existed in the minds of many people, and more especially the ladies, a sort of antipathy in regard to the manufacture of these small goods by butchers, the public, and of course the ladies, are very respectfully invited to visit our sausage apartment and witness the modus operandi of making these goods. Mr. Murphy will be found in this apartment, always willing to give any information desired in regard to his business.

MASSON.—A special meeting of St. John's Lodge will be held on Saturday evening, June 8, at 7 1/2 o'clock. Important business to be transacted. A general attendance requested. By order of W. M.

Seattle Library Association.

SEATTLE, June 4, 1872. Seattle Library Association met pursuant to adjournment. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The Committee on Library asked further time to report. The Committee on Constitution and By-Laws reported a Constitution.

Motion made and carried that all persons present desirous of voting at this meeting could do so by signing or giving their names to the Secretary. The Constitution and Preamble was amended and adopted.

Motion made and carried that the association proceed to the election of Directors. The following named members were elected Directors: D. Horton, G. F. Whitworth, C. P. Stone, Mr. Dinsmore, F. H. Lamb, Mrs. Weed, O. Jacobs and A. Mackintosh.

Motion made and carried that the association proceed to the election of officers with the following result: H. L. Yesler, President; L. P. Smith, Vice President; David Kellogg, Recording Secretary; Mrs. D. Tuitt, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. H. L. Yesler, Treasurer; Mrs. J. M. Lyons Librarian.

The association then adjourned to meet next Tuesday evening, at 7 1/2 past seven o'clock. G. N. McCONAHA, Secretary Protem.

FEARFUL ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday evening Mr. Charles Hall, employed at the chute of the Coal Company, where coal is discharged from cars upon the wharf, was struck in the breast by a loaded car and seriously if not fatally injured. He is about twenty years of age, of industrious habits and excellent character: a brother of Professor Hall, of the University. The sufferer has the sympathy of, and his death would be deplored by a large circle of friends.

Among the passengers by the Prince Alfred, now on the way from San Francisco to Victoria, are Col. C. H. Larrabee and his daughter, the wife of Capt. G. H. Burton, U. S. A.

BEEF CATTLE.—Mr. Foss, of the firm of Booth, Foss & Bors, is now on the way from the Yakima, by the way of the Columbia river, with 200 head of beef cattle for this market. This house has furnished more beef and of a better quality than any other on the Sound, and they are constantly increasing their facilities.

DELICIOUS TREAT.—A small steamer, the James Mortie, has been placed upon Lake Washington which will make two trips a day from Yesler's Landing to the Coal Mine, each trip connecting with a hack running from the Occidental Hotel in this city to the landing. The land passage is about three miles, and the passage by steamer about twelve miles, making one of the most attractive trips for its length that can be offered upon the continent.

The Ladies' Festival, at the Pavilion this evening, promises to be one of the most pleasant affairs of the season.

FOURTH OF JULY.—The plans for the arches and other adornments for the occasion, have been shown to us, and exhibit artistic skill and taste of a high order. All the preliminaries for the coming celebration are working in the most satisfactory manner and give promise of the grandest public display ever witnessed in this Territory.

BUILDING MATERIAL.—The stone for the foundation of Schwabacher Bros. & Co's. new building is being delivered from Bellingham Bay; the piles are driven and the masons will soon commence operations.

There are a number of enterprising men from California now procuring their outfit in this city preparatory to settling upon public lands. Their faces are turned towards the Skagit river.

The North Pacific being laid up at Olympia for repairs in consequence of the collision in Victoria harbor, her place was supplied by the Alida, which is now weather-bound at Victoria. The consequence is that we have had no mails from either way since Monday morning.

Mr. C. E. Wood, Superintendent of the Port Discovery mills, was in this port on Tuesday with his new steamer S. L. Mastie. This is the staunchest and most powerful steamer we have ever seen upon the Sound.

NOTICE.—The next regular meeting of the Ping Uglies will be held at the North Pacific Gardens at 8 o'clock P. M., on Saturday, June 8th. All are invited to attend. All joining in the procession will be served with an elegant dinner on the Fourth of July.

PERSONAL.—During the past week we had a visit from Gov. Goodwin, Gen. Filton and Mr. Smith, of the N. P. Railroad. We learn from these gentlemen that Judge Rice, the Vice President of the Company, accompanied by Gen. Roberts, Mr. Confield and others, is expected here about the middle of the present month. Judge Rice, the Vice President of the Company, will remain upon the Sound, as resident director of the Pacific Division of the Road.

Hon. Allen Francis left this city one day last week with his new steamer Rose of Alaska, which is to be engaged in the fur trade.

The steamer Zephyr left for Olympia yesterday at 12 o'clock with freight and passengers, expecting to be back in time to make her regular trip to Suohomish to-day.

IMPROVEMENT.—The Seattle Market has put up during the past week a beautiful white marble meat table, about 10 feet in length, and this is flanked on either side by flower pots of rare varieties and beauty. This is now the largest, cleanest and most attractive market north of San Francisco.

Col Stone, J. C. Whitaker and O. S. Warren left here yesterday, in a sloop which they have fitted up, for a pleasure trip among the numerous islands in St. George's Channel. They took fishing tackle, dogs and guns and will undoubtedly have a very pleasant time.

INTERNATIONAL CRICKET MATCH.—A match game between the San Francisco and Victoria Cricket Clubs was played at Victoria on Thursday last and to the great surprise of our Colonial neighbors resulted in the triumph of the former. This is beating our cousins at their own game.

PERSONAL.—The friends of James G. Libby are anxious to hear from him. He was formerly from Portland, Maine, as was last heard from on Puget Sound. A letter from Esther A. Libby, addressed to him, may be had by applying at this office.

Telegraphic

Special to the Dispatch. Oregon Election.

PORTLAND, June 4.—As news of election comes in the Republican triumph appears more sweeping. The State goes Republican by nearly one thousand majority. In the Senate there seems to be a tie vote. House is two-thirds Republican. Republican majority on joint ballot is about eighteen. Entire Republican ticket elected in this county. The vote, with the exception of five small precincts, gives J. G. Wilson, Republican, for Congress, 1921; John Burnett, Democrat, 1044; J. M. Caywood, Republican, for Sheriff, 757 majority. All counties heard from report large Republican gains over last election. Increase of vote in this county since 1870, is 700 to 800; in the State probably 3,000.

The river is rising very rapidly: 18 inches in twelve hours. Steamer John L. Stephens sailed last evening with sixty passengers, 1,000 barrels of flour, 2,000 sacks wheat. Weather very warm and sultry.

VICTORIA, June 5.—The Alida attempted to leave for the second time at six o'clock this morning but failed on account of the wind blowing a gale. It is uncertain now when she can leave.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—No intelligence relative to the decision of the British government on the supplemental article has been received up to this forenoon. It is known from official sources that the treaty of Washington is in peril. Telegrams from London give no hopes of adjustment, as it is said Great Britain requires an unequivocal withdrawal of indirect claims, and the President and Senate are to make no further concessions. Maxwell Woodhull, Assistant Secretary of Legation at London, arrived here to-day with official dispatches from Schenck.

Some Senators say it is impossible for Congress to adjourn on Monday, and ask an extension of time.

Railroad News.

It is reported by a party here just from New York, that Chief-Engineer W. Milnor Roberts expressed an intention to start from there for the Pacific Division on the 15th of May, accompanied by a party of R. R. officials. Up to the present time, no tidings of their movements have been reported here; but if they left about the period designated, we may expect them at Kalama within a couple of weeks at farthest.

This week several young gentlemen from the East reported themselves here at Division Headquarters, to be assigned to duty in the Engineer Department. We understand they are about to take the field in the following positions: Robert A. Habersham, Ass't Eng., to take charge of a party; Geo. H. Paddock, (of Phila.) Transmittant with Capt. G. H. Bernie, Ass't Eng.; Wm. D. Bullock, (of Warren, R.I.) Leveller with Capt. Sheets, Ass't Eng. Geo. H. King, (of N. Y.) Rodman. G. H. Bernie, C. E., is in charge of a party now locating a line northward from the end of the forty miles to Budd's Inlet.

Capt. Sheets and party have been detailed to survey Skagit Pass, where they are on duty at the present time.

Capt. W. H. Taylor has removed here to resume his old post of Railroad Storekeeper, which he held last year and resigned for engagement on the Sound. Mr. John G. Bingham, who succeeded Capt. Taylor, resigns his place to go into business at Portland in a line that promises to develop into a mammoth enterprise.

In Kalama, railroad buildings have made good progress. The exterior of the main car-shop is completed, and the foreman (Mr. D. W. Treat) is now employing his carpenter force at getting out the frame of the addition which is intended for a machine-shop connected with the car factory. As we stated before, this addition is to be 100 by 40 feet. Res. Hale is moving his for a quite spry in graveling the main and side-tracks along the river front in Kalama. He is now using one of the passenger locomotives and a train to bring gravel from the Cowlitz near Freeport. Mr. Hale is doing his "level best" to finish his job before high water; but from the way the river is now rising, it is likely to be "nip an' tuck" between himself and the flood. The railroad grade is to be six inches above the rise of 1865, which was two feet four inches above that of last year.

Mr. G. D. Shannon is now this side of Carroll's working toward the Kalama with all the expedition that can be afforded by the active use of a big locomotive and thirty-six flat form cars. He is also pushing to keep ahead of the rise.

Montgomery has 400 men employed on his ten-mile contract, and outside experts speak approvingly of every branch of his work, and that by last of Sept., the results will be "put upon record." He has his grading force extended in fourteen gangs, beside those on wood and timber work.

Hallett has above 400 men on his 30 miles, and calculates to half through his contract by the middle of June.

THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE.—We have been requested to answer the question whether the next President will be chosen by an Electoral College numbered according to the representation of the States in the present Congress or according to the number to which the States will be entitled under the new Apportionment bill based upon the ninth census.

The second clause of the first section of Article II, of the Constitution provides that "Each State shall appoint, in such a manner as the Legislature therefore may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress," who shall meet, etc. The Forty-second Congress does not expire until the 4th of March, 1873, at which date the new Congress—wherein the States will be entitled to the representation apportioned upon the ninth census—will commence its existence. The President and Vice-President are elected in January, two months before the expiration of the present Congress—whence we conclude that the number of electors in the coming election will be equal to the representation to which the States are at present entitled, or, in other words, the Electoral College will be the same in 1872 as in 1868. The three States not entitled to representation in Congress in 1868 were Mississippi, Texas and Virginia. The total vote cast in 1868 was 294, of which Grant received 214 and Seymour 80. This year the Congress is full, and the entire 317 vote will be cast in the election of a President and Vice-President.—Inter-Ocean.

TEA AND COFFEE.—The duty on tea and coffee has been abolished. The following is a certified copy of the act: An Act repealing the duty on tea and coffee: Be it enacted, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That on and after the first day of July next, Tea and Coffee shall be placed on the Free List, and no further import duty shall be collected upon the same; and all Tea and Coffee which may be in the public stores or bonded warehouses on said first day of July, shall be subject to no duty upon the entry thereof for consumption, and all Tea and Coffee remaining in bonded warehouses on said first day of July upon which the duties shall have been paid, shall be entitled to a refund of the duties paid.

Approved May 1, 1872. The foregoing is a correct copy of the Act as passed by Congress, and approved by the President.

EDWARD MCPHERSON, Clerk House of Representatives.

A Sermon by Punshon.

The Rev. Morley Punshon was in Portland last year. Lately he delivered a sermon in St. Paul's Methodist Church, New York, which is thus reported:

St. Paul's Church, on the corner of Fourth Avenue and Twenty-second street, was filled to overflowing last evening to hear the celebrated English divine, Rev. Morley Punshon. That gentleman not only preached the sermon, but conducted the ordinary exercises of the evening, giving out the hymns, reading a chapter and making the introductory prayer. In his prayer he asked the blessings of God on this nation, on the administration, on the mother country, and on the pending Alabama claims negotiations. "Let thy spirit descend," he said, "upon the complications that imperil the harmony of nations, and let them be the blessed means of perpetuating Thine own hallowed law—'Peace on earth and good will to men.'" Mr. Punshon is a robust Englishman, with broad shoulders, high forehead and remarkably clear voice. He had a free style in delivery, and his sermon was full of vigorous thought and apt figures.

He took his text from St. Paul to the Romans, vi., 22—"But now being made from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life." "The text," said the preacher "bears somewhat the semblance of a paradox. Freeman and servants. How can ye be freeman and servants? The popular, or rather, the rude idea of freedom is license. I wish to do a certain action, and nothing hinders me; I wish to gratify a certain desire, no earthly power or law hinders me; I am free. That is the rude idea of freedom; but such freedom is the worst and most slavish bondage. It is the tyranny of the hardest of masters, the passions. Ye, being free, are servants of the most despotic master ye could find. But there are other masters just as despotic. See the lark at early dawn winging his way through the blue ether heaven-ward until he becomes invisible and is nothing but a song in the heavens; how free is he, rejoicing in the strength of his wings and the wide sweep of earth and air spread out about him! Is he free? The strong tie of parental love draws him down, down, down to where in the dewy grass, in a secure spot, his mate and her fledglings nestle. The emigrant, heaving his way in the almost unexplored wilds, cutting him a home with his axe, winning his subsistence with his rifle, reigning almost supreme over the wild lands that he has possessed—is he free? A sense of longing, of hoping, of homesickness comes over him and blinds him with the fetters of a despot to the dear old copse where his old homestead is and where his boyhood's feet have played. Here, then, is the service that ye take upon you when ye are made free—a service of love. Have you never heard the story how, in the accursed days of slavery, a master put into the hands of his slave papers of manumission, and, in the first flush of joy at his freedom, the new freeman pledged his whole life to servitude? It is no slavery to be the servants of God; for ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life. It is the highest freedom—the very rapture of liber y."

Home and Farm.

Both UNDO TOBACCO.—A strong and sensible writer says a good sharp thing, and a true one, about boys who use tobacco:

It has utterly spoiled and utterly ruined a man thousands of boys. It tends to weaken and weakening of the bones, and the whole nervous fluid. A boy who smokes early and frequently, or in any way uses large quantities of tobacco, is never known to make a man of much energy, and generally lacks muscular and physical as well as mental power.

To Drive Away Rats Without Pot.

We know of three methods: First, the old French plan; this is followed chiefly in Paris by men who make it a specialty. They take a deep tub with water in the bottom, and a little elevation in the middle like an island, on which is only a place for just one rat to sit. The top is covered, and has a large balance valve opening downward; on the middle of this valve a piece of fried pork or cheese is fixed, and when a rat walks on it, to get the cheese, the valve goes down, and drops the rat in the water, and moves back into position. A rat is made from a rat hole to the top of the tub by means of a piece of broad rubber with cheese, so as to make the walk attractive to the rats.

Second, the New York plan, invented by one of our friends. The floor near the rat hole is covered with a thin layer of moist caustic potassa. When the rats walk on this it makes their feet sore; then licking their feet makes their mouths sore; and the result is they soon die of this disease, not alone, but tell all the rats in the neighborhood about it, and eventually the house is entirely abandoned by them, notwithstanding the houses around may be teeming with rats.

Third, the Dutch method; this is said to be used successfully in Holland; we have, however, never tried it. A number of rats are left together to themselves in a very large trap or cage, with no food whatever; their craving will, at last, cause them to fight, and the weakest will be eaten up by the others; after a short time the fight is renewed, and the next weakest is the victim, and so it goes on till one strong rat is left.

When this one has eaten the last remains of any of the others, it is let loose; the animal has acquired such a taste for rat-flesh that he is the terror of the neighborhood, going round seeking what rat he may devour. In an incredibly short time the premises are abandoned by all others, which will not come back before the cannibal rat has left or has died.

Truths for Our Girls.

Almost every newspaper or periodical we take up contains some kind of advice to young women, until you must be tired of the theme. Much is said that is excellent, but before you rely upon it implicitly, I wish you would notice whether it is the advice of a man or a woman. Neither sex can understand the wants of the other as well as they can the wants of their own, and a great many men who write for the newspaper know less about the female understanding than they do of the mysteries of dress-making, or the management of a cross baby.

You have enough of advice, certainly; I shall only tell you a few well-known truths. Do not make matrimony the sole end and aim of your existence. Now that colleges, schools of art, and the learned professions, are being opened to women, you need not accept the first man who offers himself, whether you love him or not, because you have to be supported somehow, and it is not respectable for a lady to earn her own living. It is better for the moral condition of society that girls should become doctors, artists, telegraph-operators, book-keepers, or any thing that will support them honestly, rather than become the wives of men they cannot love. Girls, never marry for the poor love of either a home or a husband. Do not sell yourselves for gold, for a marriage without love is an inferno more terrible than Dante ever pictured. It is better to be a cheerful, contented "old maid," than an unhappy, discontented wife.

The Great Medical Discovery of Washington Territory! MERCER'S PANACEA! Prepared by Dr. Thomas Mercer at Seattle, Washington Territory.

This preparation is carefully prepared by Dr. Mercer, who gives his personal attention thereto. After years of experience he presents this compound Tonic and Cathartic to the public, as better calculated to assist nature in overcoming disease than anything yet offered by the faculty, in all cases of General Derangement of the System.

It promotes digestion and stimulates the different organs into healthy action. AS AN APPETIZER IT HAS NO EQUAL. It is particularly beneficial in eradicating from the system the Effects of Syphilis.

AS A CATHARTIC it is unsurpassed, being unaccompanied with griping and pain. DR. MERCER has also a preparation, which he calls THE LADIES BALM, Being expressly designed for female derangements.

He has also prepared a Pulmonary Syrup, Which is unsurpassed for COUGHS, COLDS and all derangements of the Lungs.

FOR SALE AT THE DRUG STORES AT SEATTLE. Dr. Mercer refers to the citizens of Seattle and Puget Sound generally, who have used his medicines. THOMAS MERCER, Seattle, W. T., June 25th, 1871. 23-1f

PUGET SOUND DISPATCH, An Independent Journal, PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY LARRABEE & CO., SEATTLE, W. T.

BERIAH BROWN, Editor. THE DISPATCH IS MAINLY DEVOTED to the dissemination of information relating to the Puget Sound Country; its Marine, Agricultural, Lumber, Coal and Mineral resources and development, and to the prospects and progress of the great Railroad project now executing in this direction. Its Marine Intelligence is more full and perfect than that given by any other paper published on Puget Sound. Its Local News will embrace all available current incidents of public concernment, showing offensive and indecent personalities and private gossip. Its Political Department is devoted to the discussion of political questions of general interest, absolutely independent of party dictation, and free from party or personal bias; but in uncompromising hostility to all ringleaders and combinations to rouse private interests at the public expense; and will expose and denounce all official corruption and misfeasance which comes to the knowledge of the editor, without fear or favor. Its Law Department is a specialty of this paper, and will contain the opinions and decisions of the Supreme and District Courts of Washington Territory, of general interest, and discussion of questions of law and practice, of special value to practicing lawyers, and of interest to the public.

TERMS—$3 a year, invariably in advance. PROPOSALS WILL BE RECEIVED BY THE UNDERSIGNED for clearing the East half of the Maynard Donation Claim. Specifications to be had of the Office of CHAS. H. LARRABEE, Attorney in Law of LUDIA A. MATHEW, Seattle, June 26, 1872.

THE BRITISH COLONIST, (DAILY AND WEEKLY) ESTABLISHED IN 1858. TERMS—Daily, $10 per year; Weekly, $5 per year. PAYABLE IN ADVANCE. D. W. HIGGINS, Proprietor.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT. Every Man his own Physician. CAUTION. THE immense demand for HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT has tempted unprincipled parties to counterfeit these valuable medicines. In order to protect the public and ourselves, we have issued a new "Trade Mark," consisting of an Egyptian circle of a serpent, with the letter H in the centre. Every box of Holloway's Pills and Ointment will have this trade mark on it, none are genuine without it. N. Y. Chemical Co., Sole Proprietors, 78 Maiden Lane, New York.

The best Liver Regulator known! A Sure Cure for Dyspepsia! Dr. HENLEY'S CELEBRATED BITTERS. BEST TONIC IN USE! A Most Efficient and Pleasant Tonic.

These Bitters are prepared from the most choice and wholesome herbs and roots, and have given relief to the greatest number of cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, loss of appetite, and general debility, and are warranted to cure all cases of the above diseases, and to restore the system to its natural state.

CERTIFICATES. MESSRS. H. EPSTEIN & CO. Gentlemen: I take pleasure in stating that, according to your wish, I have carefully tested and examined the sample of your Bitters, which you sent me, and find it to be a most valuable and beneficial medicine, and also one that cannot fail to be beneficial to the tonic and promoter of Digestion. HOLLAND, M. D., City and County Hospital, San Francisco, June 20th, 1871.

Dr. HENLEY'S Bitters, and have failed to detect anything which could induce any serious or dangerous disease. From the composition of the Bitters, as far as my ability to determine it, I should judge that the Bitters must be a very efficient remedy in Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, and general debility, and in all cases of general derangement of the system, and in all cases of general debility of that nature, and are of the greatest benefit in their use. F. H. ENGELS, M. D., Ass't Res. Physician Apothecary C. & C. Hospital, STATE ASYLUM'S OFFICE, San Francisco, July 21st, 1871.

Messrs. H. EPSTEIN & Co.—Gentle: I have made a careful examination of your Bitters, and have found them entirely free of deleterious mineral substances. Your Bitters are of a most valuable nature, and are of the greatest benefit in their use. F. H. ENGELS, M. D., Ass't Res. Physician Apothecary C. & C. Hospital, STATE ASYLUM'S OFFICE, San Francisco, July 21st, 1871.

VINEGAR BITTERS. PURELY VEGETABLE. FREE FROM ALCOHOL. Dr. WALKER, Proprietor, R. H. McDONALD & Co., Druggists & Gen. Agents, San Francisco, Cal. No. 24 Commerce St., N. Y.

MILLIONS BARE Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects. Vinegar Bitters are not a fancy Drink, made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Brandy, Spirits and other ingredients, colored, scented and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," that lead the upper lip to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Acridities, and containing the most powerful and valuable ingredients for the cure of all diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder. These Bitters have been most successfully used in all cases of Biliousness, and in all cases of general debility, and in all cases of general derangement of the system, and in all cases of general debility of that nature, and are of the greatest benefit in their use.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. For Indigestion and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Biliousness, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Discharges of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, Diseases are cured by Vinegar Bitters, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.
