Puget Sound Dispatch.

Democratic Republican.

The mighty revolution initiated at Cincinnati and fully inaugurated at Baltimore—and which no power on earth can thwart or defeat—is but a return to first principles—the restoration of Democratic Republicanism, as taught by Jefferson and Madison, and as finally carried in almost unanimously throughout the Administrations of Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Adams, Jackson, Van Buren, Harrison, Tyler, Polk, Taylor, Fillmore Pierce and Buchanan. Parties were divided upon measures, but all professed Jeffersonian Republican principles—none more so than the founders of the present Republican party, up to the beginning of the civil war; every platform of both political parties reaffirming the Jeffersonian doctrine, from which the Republican party derived its name, in contradistinction to Federalism, or centralization. Mr. Greeley, who always opposed the Jackson Democracy, during the campaign of 1844 edited a campaign paper called the Jeffersonian, and after the organization of the present Republican party, all its representative men, public speakers and writers, claimed for the party legitimate succession to the Republican party founded by Jefferson and Madison, and all spoke of "modern Democracy" as a departure from Jeffersonian Democracy. In some of the States, as for instance in Wisconsin, the opposition to the Democratic party, under the lead of Carl Schurz, took the name of "States Rights Democracy," upon the platform of the Virginia Resolutions of 1798, and every State in which the Republican party triumphed substantially endorsed the same doctrine by the passage of acts nullifying the Fugitive Slave Law.

The chief measures upon which parties were divided for the past twenty years having been disposed of, and the settlement of which has been universally concurred in, the contest reverts to original principles—the conflict between force and consent as the basis of government. The former is represented solely by a successful military chieftain; it is not the Republican party, but the Grant party; it adheres to no single distinctive principle upon which the party was founded; it retains among its leaders few if any of the founders of the party it assumes to represent; it is composed of men whose only watchword is power and patronage; and its sole policy is that of the Federalists of the early days of the Republic, who had no faith in the ability of the people to rule; a policy nearly unanimously repudiated at the beginning of the present century, and renewed only as a measure of war and conquest. The latter is represented by all who hold the reverse of these doctrines; who believe in the inherent and inalienable right of the people to govern themselves; that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, and that municipal independence is essential to personal freedom.

The choice to the people is between a man whose sole claim to their support is based upon military success—the exercise of the despotic will and iron hand of power—and the untitled American citizen who from the lowest walks of social life has achieved in the arts of peace a name as illustrious as any borne by the fathers and founders of this great Republic; between the military adventurer of a day, and the sage, philosopher and statesman of a generation; between the representative Federalist of the last century and the progressive Republican of 1844. What Democrat or what consistent Republican sacrifices any principle or stultifies any of his former professions by supporting the latter against the former? Late party names are now merged in the glorious old name of Democratic Republican.

Mr. Greeley places this matter upon the right ground in a letter dated June 11, 1872:

I have no possible claim to democratic support and never made any. The democrats will of course, be governed by a consideration of their own interests. It is nowise proper or probable that they should be influenced in making their decision by any consideration personal to myself, and if they could be I do not desire it. Hence I have said nothing to any democrat unless he first addressed me, and even then, I have gone no further than to say that, if I should be elected, I would treat all those who supported me alike, not asking whether they had been in the past republicans or democrats. Yours,
HORACE GREELEY.

SEATTLE.
We take the following from Mrs. Victor's new work, Oregon and Washington, which is a very agreeable and interesting book:

"On the clearing away of the mists of early morning we find the air on the Sound very bright and bracing. A slight breeze just ripples the waters of this Mediterranean sea; the summer sky is delicately mottled with flecks of foam-white clouds; seals sport below; birds flit from shore to shore above; a golden silence, only broken by the paddle-wheels of our steamer, wraps all together in a dreamy unreality very charming to the tourist. Occasionally a white sail, gleaming in mid distance, adds an interest to the scene; while at the same time, suggests what these waters will in time resemble, when palaces shall be reflected in their margins, and the winged messengers of commerce shall glide continually from point to point of these now fire-clad slopes, laden with their precious cargoes of the Orient, making this northern sea a second Bosphorus for beauty and magnificence.

LA CONNER, W. T., July 11, 1872.
Editor Dispatch:—Please send a copy of your issue of July 4th containing the Skagit report to each of the following named persons, the pay for which is enclosed. If you should have back numbers of your paper on hand for which you have no use I would suggest that you could not put them to much better use than by forwarding a few numbers, selected by yourself, with a view of imparting valuable information about

Washington Territory, to the address of the persons enclosed. Every one who expects to make this Territory his home is interested in getting the best citizens of the East to come here and locate, and to do this we must lay the most reliable information before them. I am not long in the country myself, but am very well pleased with it, especially the lower Sound.

The Political Situation.
Never, since the great political revolution of 1840, has there been such a popular upheaval of parties as is now going on. The intelligent man is willfully blind who does not see in the present movement the sure precursor of a total breaking up of old party organizations and the utter overthrow of the party in power. It is a great mistake to suppose that this movement is the work of professional politicians or disreputable party leaders; a self forced into it by the popular demand for reform, rather than leaders in the work. The Cincinnati Convention did not originate in Washington, New York, or any of the political centres, or with any of the party leaders, but with the people of the border State, Missouri, remote from political influences. It had small aid or encouragement from politicians. Nearly every Democratic member of Congress at first opposed the endorsement of the Cincinnati Convention, but all are now with it even D. W. Voorhees, whose speech against Greeley has been scattered broadcast by the Grant committees. It is emphatically the people's movement and the politicians have been forced into it. This idea is expressed in the following extract from a speech delivered by Hon. John Wentworth, one of the oldest of the Republican leaders in Illinois, on the 21st day of June last:

There are men enough in this country to beat General Grant if they can consolidate their forces, and I am happy to learn that the last Convention that met, a small and respectable Convention, a mutual admiration society, met in New York, and even there Greeley had a majority. [Applause.] I do not care what party it is, our candidate will have a majority of them too. Still there will be men who hang out, but where are they to go. There will be but two candidates in the field, and one will be Grant and the other Greeley. ["That is it."] In Indiana they have had their Convention, and they have nominated a Democratic ticket. They gave us the National, and we gave them the State ticket and you start and travel all over Indiana to-day, and you will find that there is no such thing as republicanism and no such thing as Democracy. It is Greeley versus Grant and Grant versus Greeley. [Applause.] Go into Pennsylvania, and there you see the same magnanimity. The friends of Greeley gave the Democrats Buckalew and an entire State ticket, and there you find every friend of Greeley, Democrat or Republican, going together, and by-gones are by-gones, and universal amnesty prevails. Have you no heart? So in New York State. Our friends there will give the Democrats their full State ticket, and Horace Greeley and the Governor they nominate will get the vote of that State in a very few months. It is useless for us to go into this fight unless we go into it with that feeling, and as for myself, I am prepared to say that if my Democratic friends want the Governor or Lieutenant Governor of this State, and they will support Greeley and Brown, I will work harder for their man that they can do for ours. [Applause.] When I see General Grant getting into bed with General Longstreet, and I see the great guerilla Mosby come out and endorse him, it is useless to talk to us Republicans about our associating with Democrats. [Laughter and Applause.] I tell you if a man is honest he is good enough for me to work for. General Grant has said, "Let us have peace;" but the Apostle said, "First pure, then peaceful."

SEATTLE.
Seattle contained over 1,500 inhabitants according to the official census of 1870, and now contains over 2,000—perhaps 2,500; while all publications on the subject persist in estimating its population at 1,000 or 1,200.

Not less than four-fifths of the lumber business of the Sound is within twenty-five or thirty miles of Seattle.

NORTH PACIFIC RAILROAD.—It seems to be pretty well understood at present that the Northern Pacific Railroad will cross the Columbia about three or four miles above the mouth of Snake river. A party of surveyors are locating the road from that point to Pen d'Oreille Lake, preparatory to letting the contract for its construction. The Company are indefatigable in their efforts to complete the road at the earliest possible date. The Vice President and several other officers of the Company are expected to arrive on this coast in a short time. Before returning to the East, they will visit Walla Walla, at which time we hope to obtain information in regard to this great enterprise that will be of interest to our readers.—Walla Walla Real Estate Record.

North Pacific Railroad.
A recent letter to the St. Louis Times gives information in regard to the commencement of surveying operations this season on the Montana or middle division of the Northern Pacific Railroad. Three parties, composed as follows, have just left Helena and are now in the field:
No. 1. James Betner, of New York city, assistant engineer; Colonel Leonard Martin, of Green Bay, Wisconsin, transitman; A. O. Lambert, New York city, topographer; G. D. Chenoweth, Washington, D. C., leveler.
No. 2. M. T. Courgees, of Corinne, Utah, assistant engineer; Michael A. Meyendorff, New York city, transitman; Eliot Wilson, St. Louis, topographer; T. N. McKenna, Washington, Pa., leveler.
No. 3. Colonel William W. Delacy, Montana, assistant engineer; C. Billop, New York city, transitman; N. Wilke, Montana, topographer; M. Gibson, Montana, leveler.

The first party begins work at Missoula City, and passes thence through Coriarian defile, down Jocko Valley and Clark's Fork to Pen d'Oreille Lake.
Party No. 2 begins at the mouth of Divide Creek, going up Wisdom and Big Hole river to the head of Bitter Root range in the Rocky Mountains; thence they cross the mountains and descend to Salmon City, Washington Territory.
The third party starts from Salmon City, walking down Salmon and Snake rivers to Lewistown.

This last party will take boats with them. The others will depend upon pack mules for transportation.
The link between Snake River and Pen d'Oreille will be located by Captain Eastwick, of the Pacific or Eastern Division, General Rosier has charge of the Dakota, or Western Division, with headquarters about 100 miles West of the Red River of the North. The preliminary surveys have, for the most part, been completed, and the work of locating the line is now being hurried along. Under the direction of Engineer Thomas Roberts, a careful exploration is now being made of the Missouri River from Sioux City to Fort Benton.

THE FUR SEAL OF ALASKA.—The fur seal of Alaska is not to be confounded with the ordinary seal, such as is found along the California coast and is caught in great numbers on the banks of Newfoundland and the coast of Labrador. It is of medium size and of grayish color, and the male is ornamented with whiskers like a cat. Once these seals were very abundant in various parts of the world, and immense numbers were killed in the islands of the southern Atlantic in the latter part of the last century and the beginning of this, while they were also plenty on nearly all the Aleutian Islands; but indiscriminate and careless slaughter has completely exterminated them in the Southern Ocean and the only places in the world which they now haunt in numbers are the two Alaskan islands of St. Paul and St. George and a small island on the Siberian coast. The fur seal, in fact, seems to be the most timid animal that lives. The discharge of a fowling piece or the attack of a dog is sufficient to drive the seals away forever from a rookery which they have tenanted from immemorial ages. Once frightened off they never return, or at least they have never done so within the memory of man. The most probable supposition is that they are guided by the same unerring instinct which prompts the salmon and the shad to seek at their breeding time the very stream in which they were born, and that, once driven from their rookery, they cease to breed, and soon become extinct.—[Alaska Herald.]

CAN WOMEN KEEP A SECRET?—The Nineteenth Century solves this query as follows:
"Men say women can't keep a secret. It is just the reverse women can, men can't. Women carry with them secrets to their graves that would kill any man. Women never tells, man always does. Women suffers and dies, man blabs and lives. Man cannot keep a secret, woman cannot make it known. What is sport to the man is sure death to the woman. Adam was a sneak. Eve would have kept the apple a secret. Be ye fruitful. Who ever heard a woman talk about her love fascos? Everybody has heard a man gossip. Man delights in telling of his illicit conquests, woman would cut her tongue off first. Men are coarse in their club-room talk, women refined in their parlor conversation. Who ever heard a woman talk of her lovers? Who has not listened to the dissipation of the men? Men boast, women don't. Women never tell talk out of school, men are always babbling. So down with another old adage. Woman can keep a secret, and her ability to do so is proved by the conduct of a St. John's (Newfoundland) girl, who did not tell her lover she was worth four millions in her own right until after the marriage."

Puget Sound Dispatch.

Vol. 1. No. 33. BERTH BROWN, EDITOR. Seattle, Thursday, July 25, 1872.

A Grand Exhibition.

On the 26th of June two of the grandest Conventions ever assembled in that State met at Springfield, Illinois; every county in the State was represented in each, and between the two the best talent and the highest political and social elements of the State were represented.

At the evening session of the Convention General McClelland, for the Committee of Conference appointed by the Convention to meet a similar committee from the Liberal Republican Convention, submitted the following ticket for the State offices, as agreed upon by the Joint Conference Committee:

- For Governor—Gustavus A. Koerner, of St. Clair. Lieutenant Governor—General Charles Black, of Champaign. Secretary of State—Edward Rammell, of Peoria. Auditor of State—Daniel O'Hara, of Cook. State Treasurer—Charles H. Lampler, of Sangamon. Attorney General—Lawrence Welden, of McLean. Clerks of the Supreme Court—First Grand Division—R. A. Milbanks, of Jefferson; Second Grand Division, Daniel A. Brown.

Of the nominees on the State ticket, the Governor, Secretary of State and Attorney General are Liberal Republicans, the Lieutenant Governor, Auditor and Treasurer are Democrats, also the candidates for Clerks of the Supreme Court.

A committee was appointed to invite the Liberal Republican Convention to join this Convention, and soon reported that the Liberal Convention was on the way to the ball.

Immediately afterwards Gov. Palmer, President of the Liberal Convention appeared in person with Gov. Koerner, and amid the wildest enthusiasm on the part of the delegates and spectators, advanced to the platform, where he was met by Governor Allen, President of the Convention.

Governor Palmer then announced that the Liberal Republican Convention had heartily endorsed the nominations proposed by the Joint Committee of Conference, and gladly joined hands with the democracy in the response.

Governor Allen said he desired to meet the advances of the Chairman of the Liberal Republican Convention in the same way which were made, and like Paul, "forgetting the things that are behind," strike hands with him in a common cause.

As the Chairman of the two Conventions advanced to meet, the delegates of both expressions showed the delegates cheering loudly for several minutes.

Governor Koerner then, in a brief speech resigned thanks for the honor conferred upon him, and pledged his best efforts for the success of the ticket and cause represented.

The Chairman of the Democratic and Liberal Republican Committees of Conference to select an electoral ticket reported that the two committees had been able to agree, and suggested that the matter be referred to the Democratic and Liberal Republican State Central Committees. The recommendation was adopted, and the Convention adjourned.

manis of country, as is exhibited in the cordial and enthusiastic support extended to him by the people of the South, the Democracy of the North and considerable numbers of the old members of the party founded by his genius and now controlled by renegade Democrats.

If old Abolitionists can serve under the leadership of Grant, B. F. Butler, John Logan, Morton, Carpenter and the like, with Longstreet, Tombs and the guerilla Mosby, they surely cannot impair the consistency of Democrats who prefer Horace Greeley, the honest man.

"You're another."—Everybody has heard this witty retort bandied between strict Hoodlums whose early education had not taught them the trick of repartee or the use of elegant invective. The scholarly editor of the Courier, who tells us he graduated at an American college and spent three years in France and Germany in finishing his education, and acquired a contempt for the coarsest of social late course because they were practiced by the nobility; for the same reason probably falls back upon the vernacular of his boyish days in his newspaper controversies. He can write unlimited platitudes to prove what fools Adam Smith, Say, and all the old standard authors on political economy were, because they cannot come back at him, and no newspaper writer of the present day has the time and patience to read his prosy essays which are undoubtedly very learned and logical to those who have had the advantages of an university education, which is necessary in order to comprehend them; but when it comes to discussion of practical facts this man of learning has only the resource of the Hoodlum; to throw back the words of his antagonist or bowl out "You're another!" Is that what he is liked for? Is he only set up there like a Poll parrot or an echo to distract the attention of the people while his master's rob the public treasury?

There is a question of venality yet pending, involving the character and standing of his chief employer, as a gentleman and a man of honor, in the settlement of which the citizens of this Territory have an interest. All the abominable or attempt at explanation offered by his organ, "You're another!" This Hoodlum will not have another man from the contempt of a discriminating public.

EDITOR DISPATCH.—The Olympia Tribune publishes the following as its guess of the result of the Presidential election: States vote for Grant and Wilson:

Table with 2 columns: State, Votes. Includes Alabama, Arkansas, California, etc.

Making a total of 23 States, with 299 electoral votes, or 55 more than a majority of the Electoral College.

States vote for Greeley and Brown:

Table with 2 columns: State, Votes. Includes Delaware, Florida, Georgia, etc.

Eight States with 69 electoral votes, or 115 less than the number required for an election.

The following are set down as doubtful States:

Table with 2 columns: State, Votes. Includes Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, etc.

The States supposed after election will be as follows: For Greeley and Brown: New Hampshire, 3; Vermont, 3; Massachusetts, 11; Rhode Island, 1; Connecticut, 5; New York, 35; New Jersey, 13; Pennsylvania, 23; Delaware, 3; Maryland, 8; Virginia, 12; West Virginia, 5; North Carolina, 11; South Carolina, 7; Florida, 5; Georgia, 12; Alabama, 9; Louisiana, 8; Mississippi, 7; Texas, 10; Missouri, 9; Wisconsin, 10; Nebraska, 7; Kansas, 3; Iowa, 11; Oregon, 3.

This is the best possible show for Grant—giving him the doubtful States, viz: Maine, Louisiana, Iowa and Ohio. If these States should go for Greeley, Grant will make a poorer show than General Scott did in 1852, when he was defeated by Pierce.

Another Malicious Lie.—A far more chief maker and meddler in the private or social affairs of others, is held in detestation by all decent people; and when such a character plies his vocation through a public print, he becomes an intolerable nuisance, which all honorable persons will avoid as they would avoid poisonous reptiles or moral lepers. The editor of the Intelligencer is pre-eminently one of that character; a mercenary attorney who for years has offered his professional services to the public without achieving a brief, forces himself into infamous notoriety by a system of malicious mendacity, restrained by no sense of personal shame, or consideration for the most sacred relations of private life, the sanctities of religion, the privacies of the family relation, or the decent social custom of permitting others to manage their own personal affairs free of molestation. The mendacious meddler, after devoting columns of his paper to assaults upon the personal character of a lawyer in this city, in a matter in which he had no concern whatever, upon which we took occasion to refute his calumnies by the irrefragable testimony of the public records, vents his spite by assailing us in our family and church relations. He says of us.

"Only last week, we are most creditably informed, he was circulating around among those whom he dared approach to get signatures to a spurious resolution, which in fact asks the removal of the Rev. Mr. Summers, the respectable clergyman in charge of Trinity Church in this city."

He then proceeds to denounce this as a "detestable act," with much vituperation of the same sort, and recuses us of like practices at Salem and Olympia. It is not necessary to say to those who know any thing of the church organization, that what we are accused of doing would be strictly within the line of our duty as the Sanction Wardens of the Church, the minister being only a missionary in charge, and not the Rector of the Church, the Bishop alone being responsible for his position here; and very likely no responsibility for his support, and he no official relations to the Church organization, more than any other member of the Church temporarily engaged here. It is utterly worthless in the rates and practices of the Church to memorialize the Bishop for a change of the same sort, or to elect a Rector and sustain him without aid from the missionary fund. It is an impertinent for an outsider, who knows nothing of the Church polity and never attends its services, to meddle with its private affairs, as to meddle with the domestic relations of a family he never visits.

More than that, his whole story is false; we have circulated no petition to the Bishop of any kind, and asked no human being to sign any such petition, and he cannot produce a single man, woman or child to prove the charge upon which he pretends to be "credibly informed." By assuming to be the confidential friend and champion of Mr. Summers, he declines that gentleman's character more than he does ours, for no clergyman of any self respect or regard for his sacred office would seek the confidence and support of a notorious liar, leader of religious fanatics, and in matters of difference acting between himself and his Church.

We do not desire church or family differences proper subjects of newspaper discussion, and have never alluded to these subjects in print but to rebuke lies and defeat the purposes of impertinent readers and mischief makers.

Steilacoom Correspondence.

Editor Dispatch.—On Monday morning, the 19th inst, we left Seattle on the steamer Albatross for the Sound. Nothing of interest occurred on the passage to Steilacoom with the exception of taking the Celestial bridal party aboard at Ecopost, the particulars of which were published at the time in friend Prosch's paper. At Steilacoom we stopped at the Pacific Hotel which is kept in good style by Wm. Veigh.

On Tuesday and Wednesday we visited Judge Jacob's Court which is in session on this week. We were very favorably impressed with Judge Jacob and believe him to be one among a thousand, a truly honest, upright and just man; and such may well be proud to own him as a citizen.

On Thursday we visited the public school, which is under the charge of Mrs. Dr. Hemenway and another lady. There are at present some sixty pupils in the school and the discipline which seemed to rule them was remarked by everyone.

In the afternoon we visited the Insane Asylum, under charge of Bill Harmon, Esq, and were delighted with the manner in which everything was conducted. At the best it is only the abode of sorrow and suffering but Mr. Harmon tries to make it pleasant and comfortable for those under his care. To see them on the grounds or in the sitting park, their faces beaming with delight and pleasure would do the soul of a philanthropist good.

On Friday evening the Vienstems Brothers gave a concert which was in every way a success. Court having adjourned until Monday everyone of note is going hunting. A grand time is expected. More anon. DOLLY VARDEN.

RICH SILVER MINE.—Mr. Ballou has just returned from the recently discovered silver ledge at the head-waters of the north branch of the Chilliwack River, about 35 miles from where the Chilliwack empties into the Fraser. The ledge is of great thickness and has been traced for a distance of about two miles. We have before us a certificate of assay from this ledge. It was assayed at the Government office, New Westminster, with the following result: Silver 59 1/4 ounces per ton of 20 cwt.; gold 1 ounce; copper, a large percentage. Mr. Ballou informs us that he has left two men at work on the ledge.—Colonist.

June 1st, 1872. THE VERY LATEST NEW MARKET

Corner Commercial and Washington streets.

Great Reduction in Prices. Summer prices established at the Seattle Market.

Sale of Pt. Townsend Market. Business confined exclusively to Seattle.

Prepared to contract Beef at SIX CENTS a pound during the Summer.

Just Received. 50 head choice Island Beeves; 50 head from east of the Mountains.

To Arrive. 500 head of choice mutton Sheep from Oregon, in charge of James How.

Meats and Vegetables delivered in any part of the City accessible by team free of charge.

Seattle Market closed on Sundays.

WE ARE NOW PREPARED TO CONTRACT for supplying Mills, Sawmills, Loggers and Hotels with Beef by the carload at six cents per lb. during the summer, commencing June first.

The Retail Trade Will be supplied at the very lowest rates. Especial attention is called to our JUNE PRICES. The Seattle Market will remain open on the 1st of Saturday evenings, giving every one a chance to procure their Monday necessities, which it will be closed until Monday morning.

Having disposed of our Post Townsend Market, we shall in future devote our attention to the interests of Seattle and the wants of the citizens in our line of business, trusting thereby so doing we shall merit their continued patronage and good will.

BOOTH, FOSS & BORST, Proprietors.

WE TAKE PLEASURE IN ANNOUNCING to the public the removal of Mr. THOMAS MURPHY to our employment. He will be remembered as the person who gave our house such a valuable reputation, last fall, for having a choice quality of small goods of all descriptions, consisting of Bologne Sausage, Pork Sausage, Beef Sausage, German Sausage, Summer Sausage, Liver Puddings, Black Puddings, Savelloys, Tripe, Head Cheese, etc.

As there has always existed in the minds of many persons, and more especially the ladies, a sort of antipathy in regard to the manufacture of these small goods by butchers, the public, and of course the ladies, are very respectfully invited to visit our sausage department and witness the modes employed of making these goods. Mr. Murphy will be found in this apartment always willing to give any information desired in regard to his trade.

BOOTH, FOSS & BORST, Seattle Market, Seattle, May 20, 1872.

NOTICE To the Merchants of Puget Sound: ON THE 1st INSTANT, WE HAD SHIPPED to our agents from the well known Pacific House of Thomas J. Boone, Esq., of Missouri, TWENTY THOUSAND POUNDS of cured Meats, consisting of a part of Breakfast Bacon, Heavy Bacon, Sugar Cured Hams, Barreled Pork, etc.

We receive these meats direct from first hands by the carload, and hence will supply them at the most reasonable and lowest rates. We now have on hand for the trade, besides a large stock of pure Leaf Lard, in packages of 50 to 100 lbs each, which we shall offer to the trade at the same rates. We have many arrangements with the best of our supplies of any magnitude which the trade of the Sound will warrant, our object being to establish a Wholesale Mart here for these and other articles of Eastern manufacture in our line, instead of having to rely on California and Oregon for such. Being permanently located at Seattle, the most central point on the Sound for distribution—having fitted up rooms suitable for our business in all its branches, and especially with a view of establishing this trade, we can assure the public that we shall maintain this enterprise against all foreign competition. As merchants are not usually prepared with suitable rooms for housing this class of goods, they can procure their supplies from us in any quantity, and we will deliver them, ready to suit, on very short notice, thereby obviating the necessity of keeping a large stock on hand for their trade, besides saving the cost of transportation and keeping, and the use of means necessarily involved. Our stock will arrive on or about the 1st of July. We have prevailing charges at which time we respectfully solicit your patronage. BOOTH, FOSS & BORST, Seattle, June 15, 1872.

Puget Sound Dispatch.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

Seattle, Thursday, July 25, 1872.

SAVINGS BANK.—A Savings Bank under good and liberal management, has been long needed on the Sound, to provide a safe depository for those having small sums of money, and to pay them a fair interest for the same.

TELEGRAPHY.—Mr. J. W. Sweeney a short time since started the project of constructing a telegraph line from this city to Port Townsend, by the way of Peport, Port Blakely, Port Madison, Port Gamble and Port Ludlow.

A LARGE PURCHASE OF LARGE BEEF CATTLE.—On the 9th of July, Mr. L. W. Foster, of the firm of Booth, Foss & Co., purchased from Mr. Benjamin Shippey, in the Yakima Valley, 400 head of very choice beef steers, said to be the best flock of beef cattle in the valley, ranging from three to seven years old, and none under three years.

BASE BALL NOTICE.—The regular monthly meeting of the Dolly Varden B. C. takes place this evening in the Dispatch Buildings at 8 o'clock sharp.

SOME INDICATION OF THE GRECELY sentiment in this city may be observed in the fact that Major Warren opened a subscription for the New York Tribune, and procured 103 subscribers in a short time.

A petition is being generally signed for an increase of mail service. It is supposed that a daily mail long ago.

The imposing iron front of the new store being erected for Schwabacher Bros. & Co. is in place, and the skillful management of Mayor Jordan.

There is now no single case of small pox north of Portland.

The new building for a Livery Stable, opposite the Occidental Hotel, is in process of rapid completion.

Yes! the new store building on Mill street has the roof on and will soon be ready for occupancy. It is to be occupied by Messrs. Snyder & Co. for a meat market.

Dr. Lathrop, whose card will be found in this paper, was lately Physician for the Central Pacific Railroad Co. and has a high character for professional skill.

Dr. Bagley, homoeopathist, comes from Marshall, Michigan, where for many years he maintained a high social as well as professional character.

THEATICAL.—The Robinson Dramatic Troupe, with the infinitely Vivian gave three performances here this week, which were well attended and highly enjoyed by the audiences.

The Herald Boston correspondent says there is no longer doubt that Gen. Earl's will abandon the administration and support Greeley.

During the heated term at Portland, Oregon, the mercury ranged at 100 in the shade. The highest figure here was 88—and that for a few hours only.

It is said that 250 families of Swedes are on their way to Puget Sound.

Gen. Joe Hooker is at Portland. He is a warm supporter of Greeley and Brown, and says that after the 4th of March next we will in fact have peace. The attempt to elect Gen. Grant by Soldiers' votes will be a failure.

Remarkable Cure of Deafness. SEATTLE, June 26th, 1872.

To WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: I hereby certify that I have been under the treatment of Dr. Aborn for deafness and that he has almost entirely restored my hearing. I had been quite deaf for over twenty years, and in one ear had not heard the tick of a watch for the above time; and the second day after he commenced treatment, I could hear very plain, and I feel like a new man. JOHN WEBSTER.

DR. AORN'S SECOND VISIT TO SEATTLE.—Dr. Aborn, Oculist, Artist and Physician for chronic diseases, late of San Francisco and Portland, hereby informs the people who reside at the various towns along Puget Sound and vicinity, that he will make another visit to Seattle, at the request of many influential citizens in that region, who either neglected or were unable to consult him during his brief visit to that place in June last. The Doctor will be at the Occidental Hotel, Seattle, from the 15th of August until the 1st of September.

No CHANGE FOR CONSULTATION.

Dr. AORN will be at his apartments corner Third and Morrison streets, Portland, from the 10th of July until the 15th of August.

Telegraphic

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—News of the determination of the Emperor of Japan to visit Europe and America, and the arrival of his suite by the steamer A merica to-day creates considerable comment. It is looked upon as the most important movement yet inaugurated in the great revolution now going on in that country.

TERRAHAUTE, Ind., July 18.—The Democratic Congressional Convention of the 6th District to-day nominated D. W. Voorhees by acclamation. In accepting Voorhees made an elaborate speech. He denounced bitterly the course of the Administration towards the South and said the South had urged the nomination of Greeley believing his election would restore peace and relief from the outrages which had been heaped upon them.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A Berlin correspondent says that Gen. Sherman has expressed himself disgusted, not only with his reception there, but with German manners generally. At a dinner at Minister B. Mead's at which General Von Motte was present, the great general did scarcely more than exchange salutations, General Sherman's reception, with Prince Frederick Charles passed off in almost the same way.

LONDON, July 18.—The Echo, this afternoon publishes a private letter said to have been written by a person high in authority, at the Vatican, stating that the Pope, on the 1st of November last, bestowed a Cardinal's hat on the Archbishop of London, and "Westminster," the Archbishop of Paris, and Most Reverend Martin John Spaulding, now deceased, who was then Archbishop of Baltimore.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The World says that the city is at work on a new encyclopedia, which will be published soon.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—The race horse Longfellow will be taken immediately to Long Branch. Most horses that have run at Saratoga will run in the Long Branch race in August. The Herald says should Longfellow fully recover and be fit to race again, his owner would not let him start in another race if he were certain of winning $10,000.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A Washington dispatch says that the letter recently published by Reeves, from Senator Sawyer, was written one year ago, while Greeley was in Texas, and when he was talked of as a possible candidate for the Presidency.

Mr. Greeley recently declined to furnish money to sustain a newspaper in Washington, saying: "I do not consider that a legitimate political expenditure. If the people will not support a newspaper there favoring my election, we must go on without one as best we may."

The Liberal Reform Republicans are receiving letters from prominent colored men promising to vote for Greeley and Brown.

DORCHESTER, N. Y., July 19.—An accident occurred on the Auburn Branch of the Central Railroad to-day, caused by a defective journal delaying a coal train. Before the passenger train could be signalled, a collision occurred, and the smoking car of the latter train telescoped with the baggage car. Misses Mills and Cutting, E. B. Smith and a man name unknown, were instantly killed. Thirty others were fatally and several slightly injured.

MADRID July 19.—At midnight last night an attempt was made to assassinate the King and Queen of Spain. Their carriage was fired on. One of the assassins was killed and two captured. The King and Queen were driving home from Pardo Garden when the would-be assassin fired upon them. Neither was hurt, however. There is but one of them in the vicinity. The assassins were a party of men who were conveniently found in the streets. One of them was immediately killed by an attendant of the royal party. Great indignation is everywhere expressed at the murder. The indignity of the crime is increased by the fact that the assassins were not even arrested until they had fled to the coast. The indignity of the crime is increased by the fact that the assassins were not even arrested until they had fled to the coast.

The Grenadier band is to give a series of concerts at Liverpool. They returned from America in excellent health, and are enthusiastic over their reception there.

A steamer from Liverpool to Quebec, taken out by a party of English settlers, pioneers of a colony which it is proposed establishing in Minnesota.

GREENA, July 19.—There was no session of the Board of Arbitration yesterday. To-day the session lasted from one o'clock to four. All the members were present. The English and American counsel were engaged the greater part of the day, yesterday, until a late hour last night, preparing their pleadings. It is supposed the discussion to-day was devoted to the question of the responsibility of England which Lord Tenterden denies. The court adjourned until Monday.

MORNING, July 19.—The King and Queen, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, arrived at the Royal Chapel, to-day, and subsequently walked through the streets, and were cheered enthusiastically by people of all classes, including those who had formerly been enemies of the royal family.

GREENA, July 19.—General Sherman concurred with the Administration still preserve the most perfect secrecy on the subject of the proceedings of the Council. The representatives of Great Britain and the United States refused to answer any communications on the questions pending, in order to prevent the influence of newspapers, and the possibility of their exercising any influence on the minds of the Arbitrators. The Board will hold sessions weekly.

The proof of the Pudding is in the eating. SEATTLE, W. T. oct. 1872.

SCHWABACHER BROTHERS & CO. Seattle, W. T., Aug. 26, 1871.

Home and Farm.

Simple Remedy to Purify Water. It is not generally known as it ought to be, that purified alum possesses the property of purifying water.

Rhubarb Pudding. Line your pudding-dish with slices of bread and butter, cover with cut-up rhubarb, strewed with sugar, then slices of bread and butter, and so on alternately until your dish is full.

Beef Patties. Cut up bits of cold beef and season it with salt, pepper, a bit of mace, and any sweet herb you like; and cold gravy if you have it, if not, bits of butter and lard, and a little water with a teaspoonful of flour stirred in it.

New Mode of Washing. The ill effects of soda on linen have given rise to a new method of washing, which has been extensively adopted in Germany, and introduced into Belgium.

Care of Horses at Night. Few men who handle horses give proper attention to the feet and legs. Especially is this the case on farms. Much time is spent of a morning in rubbing, brushing and smoothing the hair on the sides and hips, but at no time are the feet examined and properly cared for.

My Uncle's Will. "No need of your learning a trade," said my father. "Stick to your books like a Briton, and who knows but what you may yet do without any trade at all."

My Uncle's Will. "No need of your learning a trade," said my father. "Stick to your books like a Briton, and who knows but what you may yet do without any trade at all."

schoolmate, with the cherry lips, and sweet, modest eyes—had a father who owned a boiler shop, and a large foundry, which latter daily seemed to send forth a roar of contempt against every young man who did not learn a trade.

My parents were English, who had emigrated to the 'land of the free and the home of the brave' when I was but three years old; consequently my education had been thoroughly American, and although my rich uncle had promised to make me his heir, I did not care to waste my youth in "waiting for dead men's shoes," which in nine cases out of ten are never worth the wearing.

Fortunately for my purpose I was an only child, and I determined never to give my parents a moment's rest until I had accomplished my purpose. They are dead and gone now, and I say it with bitter regret, that I was not as afloat as I might have been.

But in spite of all discouragement, I did not go whimpering back to them in a year, much less a week, so a suspicion rose in my mind that my father's name could not possibly be Joe Bartlett, although every one called him so. All was not sunshine with me, although I stuck to the trade as I had never done to my books, but the trials I then met and overcome, served to make of me that which it was the height of my ambition to be—a true man.

A peep into the foundry was still fairly land to me, but the machine shop was a little noisy at times, and the talk of a few rough fellows rath'ing grating; but I tried hard to keep my integrity free from the grime about me, which is a harder thing to do, covered with dirt from morning till night, than your nice clean gent's look may think.

Now this was a great temptation, for whenever Katy came to the works, she, of course, only came to her father's office, and if she went there, she might see that her old schoolmate was—in short a very amiable young man.

I hesitated, and Mr. Hall said: "It will be a little more seemly occupation for you will one day fall heir to a large English property."

That allusion decided me. "I came here to learn a trade, sir," I said respectfully, "and not to be a clerk. As regards my fortune, that is all I look to!" holding out my grimy hands.

It was just in the midst of this pleasant time that my father received a mourning letter from England announcing the sudden death of my uncle, and stating that he had left me twenty pounds; the remainder of his property falling to his widow and infant heir, he having secretly married his house-keeper eighteen months previously. My father swore—my mother wept, and I, trying to look deeply concerned, gloried in my trade.

Her parents, just like contrary people, came home long before they were wanted, and found us talking together. Mrs. Hall took away her daughter, and Mr. Hall took me to task, accusing me of loving little Katie, just as though any young man in his senses could help doing that.

Unlike most criminals when charged, I plead guilty, and gently reminded him that he started in life as poor as I was. The result of this interview was that Katie and I were forbidden under dire threats to hold any communication with each other.

I went to my work, and what between my efforts to do my whole duty serenely and my sore heart, the days dragged heavily enough. Although I did not know it then, nor till long afterwards, my Katie drooped like a meek flower, and was at last laid on a bed of sickness; but her parents still held out, and only sent for me when they thought her dying.

Thank God I was enabled to carry some of the same energy that caused me to excel in my trade to that sick bed! Katie got better and we were married, with something of a grudging consent from the old folks, who like so many others, alas! had outlived the sweet experiences of their own youth.

I did not get rich by magic, but by steady adherence to my business, but now that I am old, I can very well afford to let some one else be my uncle's heir.

But in spite of all discouragement, I did not go whimpering back to them in a year, much less a week, so a suspicion rose in my mind that my father's name could not possibly be Joe Bartlett, although every one called him so.
