

TELEGRAPHIC.

LONDON, May 9.—The Porte sent by telegraph the following account of the disturbances in Salonica:

To the Ottoman Ambassador at London.—The convert to Mohammedanism arrived at Salonica by railway. The Mohammedans proceeded to escort her, according to custom, to the residence of the Governor-General, when about 150 people (whom the Consul of the United States has assembled) rushed at the convert, tore off her veil and mantle, and carried her by force to the house of a Christian. The excited Mussulmans went to the Governor and insisted that the convert should be taken thither. The Governor, hearing that the German and French Consuls had entered the Mosque, which was invaded by the crowd, went there to induce the Consuls to withdraw and to calm the people. All his efforts were useless. The populace wrenched the bars from the grating, fell upon the Consuls and struck them down, in spite of the desperate efforts of the Governor to shield them with his person. The troops ultimately dispersed the people. The Governor of Salonica telegraphs that order has been restored and that the guilty parties have been arrested.

LONDON, May 9.—A correspondent at Berlin says it is generally thought there that the Salonica affair will prove fatal to Turkey. Interference of European powers for the benefit of Christians, is now considered unfavorable, as it is evident the Porte is powerless to protect them against the outbreaks of the fanatics.

A telegram from Berlin says the German coverte Medina has been ordered to leave Messina for Salonica without delay. Russian and Austrian men-of-war have also been ordered to Salonica in consequence of an urgent dispatch from the chancellor of the French Consulate at Salonica. The British Consul ordered a man-of-war to Salonica immediately.

The owners of the steamer Strath Clyde, which was sunk in the English Channel by the steamer Franconia, have gained their point for damages against the latter. The damages were laid at $45,000.

PARIS, May 10.—A correspondent says the foreign governments have forwarded the following account of the origin of the disturbance at Salonica to their legations in Paris: The American Consul was at the railway station when his attention was attracted by the cries of a Christian girl. She was surrounded by a mob of Mussulmans, who wanted to take her forcibly to the Mosque. The Consul took the girl under his protection, and while he was seeking for information as to her nationality, the German and French Consul were separately informed that the woman belonged to their respective nations, and had been dragged into a Mosque. They consequently repaired to the Mosque, where they were beaten to death.

A Paris correspondent learns that the American Consul, fearing that the mob would succeed in forcing his house, sent the girl to the German Consul. The mob in the Mosque compelled the German Consul to sign an order for her delivery, and then murdered him.

Le Pays says several French ironclad frigates and a dispatch vessel have sailed for Salonica.

OMAHA, May 10.—Gen. Crook left to-day for the Red Cloud and Spotted Tail Agencies, in order to discover the feeling of the Indians and thus determine what course to take with them during the coming campaign, whether to use and trust or distrust them. The Indians escaping from Crazy Horse's band have joined Sitting Bull, and are busy getting together guns and ammunition, and trouble is anticipated from this source.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—Flood & O'Brien have offered $2,000,000 for the San Francisco Russ House block property.

German Ocean Once Dry.

The German Ocean, or North Sea, like the English Channel, was once an inland plain or valley, raised far above the sea level. The sea has but recently invaded this depressed plain, submerged its forests, and suspended its river courses. The buried trees of its sunken forests are still standing, rooted in their own vegetable soil, although beneath the waves. Cromer forest, which dips into the water from the coast of Norfolk, is the most famous of the submerged forests of the German Ocean. The ancient woodland has been traced at low tide for more than forty miles. At certain seasons, and especially after great storms, the stumps of oak, alder, yew and Scotch fir are seen standing upright in the water. The condition of the wood and the fir cones—some of the latter evidently bitten by animals—tells us that the sinking of the land occurred at no distant period in the history of our country. The remains of land animals, too, as well as of the forests they inhabited, are discovered in the bed of the German Ocean. In his "Physical Geography of Norfolk," Mr. Woodward tells us that in fifteen years the fisherman of the village of Happisburgh dragged up from their oyster beds as many as two thousand teeth of mammoths. Bones and tusks of mammoths have also been fished up from these watery depths. It takes us back to the time when the European mainland, instead of ending as it does to-day, with the coasts of Norway and France, stretched far westward in one unbroken area, beyond the present coast of Ireland. These were the flourishing days in the forests of oak, chestnut and alder and yew, which are now submerged in the German Ocean and the English Channel.—E.

Proceedings of County Commissioners.

Wednesday, May 3, 1876.

Board met pursuant to adjournment.

Present, Messrs. Wight and Kyle.

Petition for the appointment of Samuel Howe, road supervisor of District No. 3, received, read, and refused upon the ground that the said Howe is not a permanent resident of that District.

The Supervisors of Road Districts No. 3, 11, 17 and 20 were each required to give bonds in the sum of two hundred dollars each, for the due performance of their respective duties.

Road Petition of Stockton and others for appointment of viewers, received, read, examined, and approved. William Stockton, John Kahn, and George Allen were appointed viewers, to view out and locate said road, and they are required to meet at the point designated in said Petition as the commencement of said road, June 14, 1876, for the purpose of viewing out and locating said road.

Petition of Woods and others for vacation of County Road, and locating of new road in place of part vacated, received, read, examined, and approved. Salem A. Woods, Henry McClurg, and Charles Taylor appointed viewers, to view out and locate new line in lieu of the part vacated, and said viewers are required to meet on the line of said road to commence viewing the same June 14, 1876.

Report of P. Peterson, W. J. Finlason and G. Goodrich, viewers of the Stillaguamish and Priest Point road received, read, and examined. Their act in selecting O. B. Iverson as Surveyor, approved. They were given until August Term to file complete and final report as viewers with the Survey and Surveyor's Plat of said Road as furnished them by said Surveyor.

From the Auditor's Lists of persons qualified to serve as Grand and Petit Jurors, the Board selected as required by law, Jurors for the November Term, 1876, and March Term, 1877, of the District Court of Snohomish Co. as below set forth, to wit: For Nov. Term, 1876.

Witnesses, Benj. Stretch and J. G. Fallansbee. His bond as retail liquor dealer was examined and approved. Sureties on the bond, Isaac Cathcart and J. G. Fallansbee.

In view of the near approach of the Centennial Anniversary of American Independence, it is fit and proper that steps should be taken by the people of this county to so observe that day, that its celebration may be remembered by all now living here or interested in the progress of our people. Therefore the County Commissioners of Snohomish county recommend that a Mass Meeting of the citizens of the county be held at the county seat, at as early a day as convenient, for the purpose of providing means, and making all necessary arrangements for holding said Celebration at Snohomish City the county seat of the county, and to provide for so conducting said Celebration that full opportunity shall be given for representing the local interests of each part of the county, and as a means of securing a full account for preservation of the early settlement, history and progress of our people, it is further suggested that a suitable person be selected at said meeting to write up these matters and act as Co. Historian, and that the facts thus gathered be published and preserved as a permanent record of the occasion. It is ordered by the Board that the above recommendation be spread upon the records, and published in the proceedings of this session of the County Commissioners Court. The following bills were then examined, allowed and ordered paid to wit: Court Bill, grand jury fees, March Term, 1876.

LOCAL ITEMS.

The residence of Mary L. Sinclair, soon to be occupied by J. N. Low, is approaching completion.

The last few days have been such beautiful weather that everyone begins to believe that summer is close at hand.

Mr. W. H. Ward is now building a residence which, when completed, will add greatly to the appearance of our town.

Mr. J. H. Hilton has added a new meat safe to his butcher shop, and has otherwise improved the premises by removing partitions and enlarging the sales room.

Mr. Eliza Packwood, long and favorably known in this county, is in very poor health. His friends hope his health will improve, though his age renders it somewhat doubtful.

Quite a number of gentlemen are in town looking for lands and business locations. We hope all such will be suited and abide with us. We are not crowded; there is room for plenty more.

From the number of houses now being built, and to be erected this summer, it is plain to everyone, that at no distant day Snohomish will be ranked among the flourishing cities of the West.

DONATIONS TO THE ATHLETIC.—From Mrs. D. Leighton, a specimen of crystallized quartz and chalcocyanide.

From L. T. Ireland a one year old heaver.

A. C. FOLSON, Supt. Scientific Dept.

ACCIDENT.—A man employed at Mr. Hawkins' camp, was struck by a bent vine maple, the blow fracturing his lower jaw in two places. Surgical aid was provided for the man as soon as possible, and though seriously injured, he will eventually recover, with slight deformity.

The Zephyr arrived May 7, from Seattle, bringing the mails, a large list of passengers and freight. Among the passengers was the mother, brother and sister of Mrs. J. Harvey of this place; the two former will remain here permanently, the latter will return after spending the summer with her sister.

On last Sunday morning our citizens had the pleasure of listening to a very able conducted discourse by the Rev. J. R. Thompson of Olympia. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, a Sabbath School was organized by the Union Presbyterian Congregation; there was a large turn out, and the school was organized on a firm foundation, and may now be considered a prominent and favorable feature of our town. There was also church services in the evening, which were liberally attended.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.—Last Saturday was quite a stirring day for real estate transactions. The following deeds were executed in this place: M. L. Sinclair to Isaac Cathcart, All of Fractional Block No 9 Snohomish City Eastern part; consideration $10,000.

E. C. Ferguson & wife the same day executed 7 deeds. O. P. Murhard, W. H. Ward P. Trana, D. E. Lodi, W. P. Eddy, J. Barr, and U. P. Congregation forming a total of 13 town lots in Snohomish City Western part, together with 33 acres of land north of town consideration of all some $1100,00.

The Petition for Postal Route up river recently circulated on the river was a short time since forwarded to Washington by Sheriff Stretch, the following letter relating to the matter has been received by him. We submit it for the information of our readers:

WASHINGTON D. C., April 17th, 1876.

B. STRETCH, Esq.

Dear Sir:—Yours of March 27th, came to hand to-day. Also received a petition for the establishment of a Post Route from Snohomish City to Falls City.

I will draw a bill for a route to night and present it in the House to-morrow. It requires an act of Congress to establish a Post Route, but you can depend upon it that I will get the route established and then have post offices established and postmasters appointed as you desire. It may take three months or more to do this thing, but have patience and all will be done.

Yours truly,

O. JACOBS.

DIED.—Mrs. Pagden, wife of the Superintendent of the Talbot Coal Mine, died at Talbot May 9. She was buried in the Masonic Cemetery.

THE WORK COMMENCED.—The contract for the freighting and piling the first two and a half miles of the rail road was given by Mr. Coleman yesterday to Mr. Joe Sarber, and the work was commenced at once by the driving of a few piles to mark the line. Mr. Sarber's contract includes the construction of the wharf, a piece of which, 50 by 150 ft., will be the first work done, so as to permit the landing of ties, iron and other materials. Mr. Coleman will furnish everything, and Mr. Sarber will do all the work, the piling, capping, stringing, everything but putting down the ties and iron.—Tribune.

We notice in the West Coast Star, published at Menlo-City Cal., our home for many years, an account of a fearful double murder the details of which are too sickening to reproduce. Were it not for the list of names, well known citizens of the place, old friends of ours in former years, who figure as jurors in the inquest, we should be inclined to believe that the beautiful little town was progressing backwards. But with such men as appear as officers of the court of inquiry and jurors, we know that vice and immorality, culminating in murder, is an extraordinary exception, and not a frequent occurrence.

CORRESPONDENCE.

FALLS CITY, W. T.

Editor Northern Star:

In No. 16 of your paper you mention some facts regarding the farming lands of the Upper Snoqualmie valley. As you wish to aid in developing the natural wealth of this country, which has been heretofore underestimated, I will give your intelligent readers in the East, or some friends who may come here during the summer, some valuable hints regarding manufacturers. I refer to the manufacture of charcoal stoves, which I believe to be a lucrative branch of business. At present we ship our valuable material in logs, sap and all, to San Francisco, and there the millmen run them through their machines and pack ready for market all over the world. Why not bring a stove machine out here, right at a mill-site on navigable water, in the very midst of these timber lands?

I feel sorry to see our new settlers burn up this very valuable timber, such as spruce, maple and a kind commonly called cotton wood. Notwithstanding that I was brought up in the midst of machinery and wheel-work, alone I can not improve this enterprise, as my large family and my land claims need to much attention. Will some one who has a knowledge of machinery, or a practical man with some means, take an interest in it? I will cheerfully furnish the details of the water-power, and everything else connected therewith. The power and the land I refer to is not mine; the most of it is government land, the balance can be got cheap; it is located in the midst of a rich agricultural region. No one need inquire either in person or by letter, except those who mean business.

Besides this, there is another branch of industry; I mean the manufacture of furniture and wooden ware. For there, Snohomish City would be a splendid point, or even Falls City would be good on account of power and material. Planning machinery is the next best. I will mention that this, for the present, would have to be done on a limited scale as a home industry.

For further particulars apply to me at Falls City, King Co., W. T., or the office of the NORTHERN STAR.

J. G. JANICK.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., April 16th, 1876.

We take a few extracts from a letter written by R. H. Hewitt, to a compositor in this office:

We reached here—the City of Los Angeles, twenty-eight days from Olympia, but we stopped one day at Seattle and twelve days at San Francisco on business. Had an exceedingly rough and sick passage! Los Angeles looked like a city in mid-summer glory. Roses and peach trees in blossom and many orange trees loaded with half-ripe fruit.

This is a great, big straggling town, containing a mixed population of from 12 to 14,000 Americans, foreigners of every name and nature, Mexicans, Germans, and the everywhere present "Heavenly Chinese." I went to work the day after I reached here in a job office with lots of work to do.

So far have not been on many streets of the city, only four or five, so can tell but little in regard to it.

There are four printing offices in the city, and seven papers. One of them Spanish and one German—four job offices, and my old one at Olympia was better than all of them in every respect. I would have done well to have brought my office down here. Money circulates here. There are four railroads and last month they paid out over $200,000 for labor. Almost as much as the Olympia Termino Railroad would pay out for like services.

Thermometer stood at 75° to-day, but the cool sea-breeze makes it very pleasant this evening.

CHARACTER GROWS.—From the minute a babe begins to notice surrounding objects, his character is under the process of formation. Day by day, through infancy and childhood, here a little and there a little, character grows with the growth and strengthens with the strength, until, good or bad, it becomes almost a coat of mail. Look at a model man of business—prompt, reliable, cool and cautious, yet clear-headed and energetic. When do you suppose he developed all these admirable qualities? When he was a boy. Let us see the way in which a boy of ten gets up in the morning, works, plays, studies, and we will tell you just about what kind of a man he will make. The boy who is late at the breakfast table, late at school, and never does anything at the right time, stands a poor chance to be a prompt man. The boy who neglects his duties, be they ever so small, and then excuses himself by saying, "Oh, I forgot! I didn't think!" will never be a reliable man. And the boy who finds pleasure in the pain of weaker things, will never be a noble, generous, kindly man—a gentleman.

Among the stories told of Finney, the revivalist, is the following: He was passing an iron foundry when the works were in full blast, and heard a workman swearing terribly. "Young man," said the revivalist, addressing the swearer, "How hot do you suppose hell is?" The workman recognized his questioner, and placing his arms akimbo, and looking him squarely in the face, said, "Well, Mr. Finney, I suppose it's so hot there that if somebody brought you a spoonful of melted iron you'd swear 'twas ice cream." Mr. Finney had nothing more to say.

It is said that the Sultan of Turkey offered Mr. Gladstone a quarter of a million dollars a year to come to Constantinople and run the Government for him. The ex-Premier would not accept. He was afraid Disraeli might do something naughty in his absence, and he couldn't give up the possible fun that he might get from pummeling the Pope now and then. It is too bad the Sultan should be discouraged by his refusal. Governor Allen will be out of a place presently, and might be engaged for half the money.—Hearth and Home.

Legal Notice.

In the Probate Court of Snohomish county Washington Territory.

In the Matter of the Estate of L. P. SWIN, deceased, late of said county.

Be it remembered that on the 10th day of April 1876, J. N. Low, a duly appointed and qualified Administrator of said Estate, presented to this Court a petition for an order to show cause why an order of sale should not be granted to said Administrator, to sell all the Real and Personal property of said Estate to pay the claims against said Estate, and that a day be set for the hearing of said petition, and the Court ordered that Saturday, May 6th, 1876, be set for the hearing of said petition; and there being no objections, in writing or otherwise, to said petition on said day, and now on this 8th day of May comes said Administrator and presents a petition subscribed and sworn to as the law directs, and asks that an order of sale be granted. After due consideration, it is ordered, adjudged and decreed that said Administrator sell at public auction all the Real and Personal property of said Estate after legal notice has been given as the law directs. Said notice to be published for four successive weeks in the Northern Star.

Terms made known on the day of sale. Witness my hand and the seal of said Court heretofore aforesaid, at my office in said county, this 8th day of May 1876.

JOHN POPPZOY, Defendant.

Complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said District Court.

THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA send Greeting: To JOHN POPPZOY, Defendant: You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiff, in the District Court of Snohomish County, and to answer the Complaint filed therein, within twenty days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within the said County of Snohomish; or if served out of that but in this District, within thirty days, otherwise within sixty days, or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of the Complaint.

The said action is brought to recover judgment upon a certain promissory note, and foreclose a certain mortgage upon Lots 2, 3 and 4, and the South East quarter of the North West quarter of section 16, in Township 37, North of Range 7 East, State in said County. Said mortgage bearing date November 16, 1874; executed by you to secure the payment of Seven Hundred and Twenty Dollars U. S. gold coin, with interest and costs for the sale of said premises as prayed for in Complaint.

And you are hereby notified, that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint as above required, the said Plaintiff will take judgment by default and the prayer of the Plaintiff will be granted.

Witness the Hon. J. R. Lewis, Judge of said Court, and the seal thereof, this 25th day of March, A. D. 1876.

H. A. GUNSON, Clerk.

The Power of Music.

BY JOE CASE.

I am agent for the Life Insurance Company and had been energetically canvassing Piptown. Before I had been a week, I had nailed every adult citizen for a policy, except Uncle Charley Brown the lively stable man. He wouldn't insure. I tried him seven times a day, but he remained firm.

I was in despair. My reputation was at stake. I was bound to have Uncle Charley somehow, but I didn't see how. I became gloomy and despondent. Finally, I took counsel with a sewing machine man who was staying in town.

"Well," said he, "I reckon Uncle Charley is a hard subject. Never tried to sell him a machine, for there are no women at his house. By-the-way, let me sell you one of our improved machines—double oscillating crank movement, patent aggraffo attachment, anchor escapement, copper fastened, vox humana stop—"

"Stop!" said I. "I gave you a promise the other day when you insured. Now, if you will tell me how to get a policy out of Uncle Charley, I'll buy a machine."

"My boy," he asked, "you have heard of the power of music?"

"Well?"

"Are you a playist?"

"Some?"

"Serenade him?"

That night, as the village clock deep tolled the hour of one dozen, shippers' count, I was under the old man's window with an accordion.

Ah! that was music! I played and sang. It was the essence of the Swiss bell ringer, Blind Tom, and the Boston Peace Jubilee all in one.

I was hardly half through the first psalm, when the old fellow looked out of the window.

"Here, young man," said he, "you've made a mistake. There ain't no gals here. I'm an old man."

I struck up, "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

"Git away from there, I tell you!" he then shouted.

"Come down and insure," said I.

Oh, it's you, is it? said Uncle Charley.

"Well, if you ain't got a limestone cheek on you, I never seed one."

Then I played and sang, "Her Cheek was Like the Blushing Rose."

"See here," howled Uncle Charley, "did you know that there was a young doctor in town that wants a case? There'll be a patient ready for him directly."

"Come and examine our new Tontine plan," said I.

Down came a bucket of water on me, I struck up, "That's How the Water Comes Down at Lodore," (which has just been set to music by a friend of mine in New York.)

I played and sang about three bars, when a pan of flour fell over me. I changed off into, "Tis But a little faded flour."

"I say," bellowed the old man, "you over-lasin' snoozy, ain't you goin' to clear out?"

"Sir," I replied, in silver tones, "think it not. That's old. Allow me to call your attention to our clause No. 1749. The plan, you will see, is purely mutual. Our rates—"

"My friend," interrupted Uncle Charley, "I am going to give you exactly three seconds to go West. Improve the shining hour, or I'll come down there and ram heaven out of you."

"Ram?" said I "ram—ram—oh yes, I recollect." And I proceeded to give him:

"The horns upon this ram
They reached up to the moon,
And men went up in December
And didn't come down till June.

The door flew open, and Uncle Charley rushed out and—embraced me!

"Oh," said he—"that tune! I haven't heard that tune for fifty years. It brings back the happy hours of childhood. My mother used to soothe me to sleep with that tune. 'The wool upon his back'—oh, that good old tune! And if you don't believe me, And think I tell a lie, Just come down to Derby, And see as well as I' Whoop! Come in and sit down. I want to hear that ag'in!"

Uncle Charley is now insured in our company. Reader, prepare; I'm coming around your way before long.—Dudget of Fun.

"The Great Unknown."

The following conversation about the presidency is reported in the regular correspondence of the New York Tribune: Judge Jeremiah Black, meeting ex-Speaker Blaine one day, asked him if he felt apprehensive that Senator Morton would defeat him.

"Morton will have fair strength in the convention," replied Mr. Blaine, "but it will not represent a single electoral vote. You see it would never do to nominate such a candidate. I'm not at all afraid of him."

"Are you afraid of Mr. Bristow?"

"No; Bristow has a good deal of strength among the people, but it is not organized. I don't see how he can possibly get a majority in a convention."

"Well, are you afraid of senator Conkling?"

Asked Judge Black, going on with his catechism.

"He cannot carry his own State in the convention or at the election, and his candidacy is an absurdity. No I am not afraid of him."

"Is there anybody you are afraid of?"

"Yes; there is," replied the ex-Speaker, with a serious air.

"Well, who is it?"

"The great unknown."

The books that make a sensation are those that are unreadable. They are like indigestible dinners. The dinners that are easily digested are never spoken of the next

It is a well known as well as a significant fact that women have played an important part in almost all the devltry and corruption exposed during the last five years. In the Credit Mobilier women were the go-betweens. In the Pacific Mail subsidy business, women were used by the chief disaburers of corruption funds, as go-betweens and lobbyists. In the French arms investigation women were important elements. In the Herrington safe burglary case a woman was very deep, being used by the District mag. Last, but not least, we have women in the milkmap case. Four or five women have the Chorpensing claim in hand, and say they will procure its payment.—N. Y. World.
