EASTERN STATES.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The observer at Kitty Hawk reports at 11:35 A. M. to the chief signal office as follows: The U. S. man-of-war steamer Huron struck two miles north of No. 7 station at 1:30 A. M. The foremast and maintopmast are gone, and the steamer is a total wreck. Assistance is needed immediately. The sea is breaking over her and several have been washed ashore, drowned. The number on board is about 135. The Huron sailed yesterday from Fort-res Monroe for Havana.

NORFOLK, Nov. 24.—As soon as the news reached here to day that the U. S. Steamer Huron was ashore, the wrecking steamer Resolute was dispatched, and Rear Admiral Trenchard, commanding the North Atlantic squadron in Hampton roads, sent the U. S. steamer Sawtara and tug Fortune to the scene of the wreck. The storm raged all last night along the coast. The wind blew about 70 miles an hour. Storm signals have been flying the past three days.

The Huron was built at Chester, Pa., and was first christened the Alliance, but was afterwards named the Huron. She was a third rate screw 541 tons, and when she went ashore had a crew of 119 men and 15 officers. She carried four guns and was schooner rigged. The story of those well acquainted with the coast is that the Huron got caught in the height of the gale, and while trying to hold on head to the wind, her machinery gave way, her sails were useless and she drifted ashore.

The signal office observer at Kitty Hawk reports to the chief signal officer at 5:50 P. M. as follows: Among those saved are E. T. Warburton, of Pennsylvania, cadet; ensign, R. N. Dering; assistant engineer George R. Ryan; John M. Murphy, ships cook; C. N. Sanders, of Pennsylvania, past assistant paymaster; Patrick Namee, ordinary seaman. Assistance is wanted immediately. The men are only half clothed; the dead uncared for. Seven are now lying dead on the beach. Others who perished are still in the breakers. Only four officers and thirty men were saved. The captain perished. Lieut. Palmer's name is not given as saved. The bodies of the drowned will be taken to Norfolk tomorrow. The Huron is completely under water and a total wreck.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 25.—At some places between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland the Baltimore and Ohio railroad bed is ten feet under water, and no estimate of the damage can be made until the water subsides. Trains due here since 8:30 o'clock last night are still delayed at Cumberland. No trains for the west left this city last evening or to day. Between Martinsburg and Cumberland fifteen miles of the company's telegraph wires are down.

St. Louis, Nov. 26.—The extensive fire-clay works of Howard & Evans, of Chattenhen four miles west of this city, were damaged by fire to day. Loss, $50,000; insured.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—There has been no such flood in the Potomac river since 1852. At Georgetown, property along the river front is damaged considerably.

RICHMOND, Nov. 25.—The floods are subsiding in all directions. Great damage is reported to farming interests on the big and little Sandy and Dam rivers. All the bridges over Fall Creek are swept away. The damage to the Virginia, Midland & Richmond, and Danville roads in this vicinity is enormous. Stanton river bridge, on the Danville road, washed away last night, with a train of cars loaded with tobacco, en route from Danville for Richmond. The Milton & Sutherland narrow gauge road is greatly damaged. No details. Reports from Caswell county, North Carolina, on the Virginia line, indicate heavy losses in the county to public and private property.

CANADA.

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—A Halifax special gives the full text of the award of the fishery commissioners. Kellogg's dissent is as follows: The United States Commissioner is of the opinion that the advantages accruing to Great Britain under the treaty of Washington, are greater than the advantages conferred upon the United States by the said treaty, and he cannot therefore concur in the conclusions announced by his colleagues, and the American commissioner deems it his duty to state further, that it is questionable whether it is competent for the Board to make an award under the treaty, except with the unanimous consent of its members.

E. H. KELLOGG.
Judge Foster, agent of the United States Government, said: "I have no instructions from the Government of the United States in regard to the course to be pursued in the contingency of such a result as is just announced, but if I were to accept in silence the paper signed by the two commissioners, it might be claimed hereafter that as agent of the United States, I have acquiesced in treating as valid the award. Against such an inference it seems my duty to guard. I therefore make this statement, which I desire to have placed on record."

LEAVENWORTH, Nov. 26.—The Nez Percés Indians captured by General Miles, including Chief Joseph, arrived here last evening, and were placed in the military prison at Fort Leavenworth, where they will be kept until a reservation in Indian Territory is provided for them.

KITTY HAWK, Nov. 26.—6 P. M.—The Huron has broken up to day and the only fragment lies submerged within 200 yards of shore. Four bodies can be seen lashed to the bowsprit. No bodies of officers can be found. The captain of a schooner says he saw the Huron Friday, at 4 P. M., heading east northeast, with all her fore and aft sails set, wind blowing furiously from southeast. This was the last seen of the vessel until reported ashore at 1:40 P. M., head on, with foremast and maintopmast gone and sails blown away. The following is a statement by some of the survivors relative to the disaster: Thick weather, fresh gale directly on shore, fore and aft sails set, reefed foresail and mainsail carried away, jib boom bent, the fore storm staysail struck between 1 and 1:30 A. M., boats washed from boat davits, lowered first cutter which swamped ten minutes later. Lieut. Palmer was drowned about the same time as the Captain. The living saved themselves by swimming ashore. No aid from shore except when near the beach. The man-of-war Powhatan and Swatara and brig Fortune are anchored near the wreck.

Flag communication was opened with them through the steamer D. & J. Baker. No assistance can be rendered them from the steamer as the surf is still very heavy. Survivors go to Norfolk this evening. An observer at the scene of the wreck reports as follows: Drowned, whose bodies have been recovered, white men, Barret Baleh, Wm. Green, James Couch; colored, Geo. W. Miles, and Matthias Hayes.

The signal service observer at the scene of the wreck reports at 5:25 P. M. the surf boat of the wrecking steamer D. & J. Baker in attempting to land was swamped with nine men on board—Jas. S. Ykson, Stephen Bell, Dennis McCoy, Willis Walker and Capt. J. J. Guthrie, paymaster of the life saving service, were lost.

RICHMOND, Nov. 27.—The loss to private property in this city by the flood can be safely estimated from $300,000 to $400,000. Other losses will greatly augment this amount. The damage in Manchester, on the opposite side of the river, will reach $100,000. There is considerable suffering among the poor. Many had to camp out last night, and are still shelterless. The damage to the James river and the Kanawa canal is not as serious as was at first supposed.

LYNCHBURG, Nov. 27.—Amherst bridge, 900 feet long, and erected after the flood of 1870, was swept away Saturday night, and with it two new iron bridges of the Atlantic, Mississippi and Ohio railroad, below the city. The latter was erected at a cost of $70,000. Four bridges on the same road, between Bonsecks and Big Spring, were all swept away; and the Stanton river bridge and trestle at Galveston are seriously damaged. There is a considerable break in the canal above the city, and the damage west of here is reported to be more serious than that of 1870.

CENTRAL AMERICA.

GUATEMALA, Nov. 25.—The topic of absorbing interest is the conspiracy to murder the President of Guatemala and his advisors, and to overthrow the Government, which was discovered on the 1st inst., in time to prevent it by the arrest and execution of seventeen of the ringleaders, including Major Kopsky, in charge of the artillery barracks, Capt. Delone Ronlas, second in command, and Gabriel Aguliar, a rich priest.

EUROPEAN.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The Roumanians officially announce that they took the strong position of Provitz on November 23d, after two days fighting.

Nov 26.—On Monday a frightful gale raged around the British Isles. Saturday night thirty vessels went ashore between Ramsgate and Deal, and many lives are reported lost.

The Standard announces that the acquisition of harbor and coaling stations in the Sandwich Islands, having greatly increased the influence of the United States Marine in the Pacific, it has been considered advisable that a British man-of-war shall always be detached to represent the British flag at and near these Islands.

A special from Constantinople says a report is current that Mukhtar Pasha has withdrawn from Erzerum.

PERA, Nov. 25.—A correspondent says: A private letter from Sofia represents that things look unsatisfactory. Mehemet Pasha can get neither men nor artillery enough to form a relieving army.

A Cettinge correspondent states that the Turks evacuated Maria and all the villages of Kromea district, and returned beyond the Bogania. The Mirades are again in revolt, and have advanced to the vicinity of Sentari.

A Belgrade correspondent announces that Serbia's intervention is now certain. It is stated that her independence will be proclaimed, and all her militia have been ordered to march to the frontier on Nov. 28th.

THE INDIAN WAR IN IDAHO.

For the Northern Star, by Skookum the Trapper.

On Camas Prairie's grassy plain
In northern Idaho,
The settlers are aiming,
To fight the deadly foe,
The wild war whoop is ringing,
Where blooms the verdant slope,
And flashing wires bringing
Cries of help, where lives no hope.
Help—help. Oh Indian fighters
Where ever you may be,
Come save us from the danger,
Of an Indian massacre.
In the bright warm days of summer,
When the wild birds sweetly sang,
Like a pealing clap of thunder,
These cries of pity rang.
Startling settlers from their slumbers
There was danger everywhere,
For the savages in great numbers came
To slay his family dear.
Where's the army? Where's the army?
With their Generals so brave,
Who will fight the red fiends till they die
The defenceless one's to save.
And the Freedman's Bureau Hero came
And said he was no coward,
And fighting Indians was his game;
I'll settle it, says Howard.
He had borne the brunt of battle
And held a high command,
And where muskets loudly rattle
For home and country bravely stand.
He had fought the rebels in the south,
In Arizona; Indians wild,
He drove them from the canons mouth
And then baptized a red skin child.
In a lecture given at Lewiston
The fate of Gettysburg had hung,
He charged and broke the rebel line
And the hard fought victory rung;
He forgot to mention Chancellerville,
The rebels changed him there
And drove him from his stronghold,
That night he could out run a deer.
Well this warrior came to Idaho,
To settle all the trouble. But he never thought
That Joseph—Like a fox round him
Would double. Come to the Reservation
I have at Lapwai.
And I'll forgive your murders,
If you learn to sing and pray.
The war whoop rang out loud and shrill
And the settler in haste must fly,
For the savages swarmed from every hill
With their war cry—all must die.
Is there no helping hand to save
In this dread hour of danger?
Our loved one's your assistance crave
Oh come brave hardy ranger.
In answer to this cry for help,
From hamlet, town and village,
Brave volunteers who felt no fears,
Nor came for wealth or pillage.
Where the snowy Cascade mountains
Reared their rough and rugged head,
Where sparkles natures fountains
The Indian fighter sped.
Down the steep and narrow canyon
Through the dark and gloomy wood,
Over dry and dusty by roads—
Like a rushing mountain flood?
From every point of compass,
The piercing eye could scan,
Rushed the brave and hardy mountaineer
To save his fellow man.
Up brothers! Mount your fleetest steed!
Dash in the deadly fray;—
For helpless one's your presence need
Up! Mount and spur away—
So from cabin town and city
The brave and fearless came,
They for murderers felt no pity,
Our fathers did the same.
Where the settlers humble cabin,
Nestled in the shady wood
Now the fire brands lay scattered,
Comes the cry of blood for blood.
From east and west, from sunny south
And from the frozen north,
To avenge their brothers murder
Rode the Indian fighter forth,
We will follow with a vengeance
Wherever they may go.
And shake aloft the bloody scalp
In northern Idaho.

But hark in tones of thunder,
Howard sends his mandate forth;
I don't want an Indian fighter
From the bleak and frozen north.
For you come here to murder
And plunder—scalp and kill,
And raise the cry of vengeance
O'er valley plain and hill.
What have my pets been doing?
That you burn to shed their blood;
I a different course pursuing—
Will teach them how to worship God.
I shall take chief Joseph by the hand,
And say my erring brother,
You must not murder in this land
The baby and and its mother.
And I'll speak to brother Watkins,
He knows what he's about.
We both shall write to Washington
And have you pardoned out.
To the settlers at Mount Idaho
Who daily beg for arms—
I'll issue none—but pray to God
To keep them from all harm.
So go back home you mountaineer
And all who wish to kill
In sparing Joseph and his band
I obey my father's will.

Iron Shipbuilding.

Hall & Kelsaw, No. 47 Fremont street, Saturday tried a new steam iron launch they have recently built by way of experimenting on the question of cost of building iron vessels in San Francisco. This is the first iron vessel ever built in this city, and the projectors hope to make it the pioneer of a long line of iron vessels to be built on the Pacific Coast. The boat is a steamer yacht, closed in, 58 feet in length over all, 5 feet 4 inches beam and 3 feet depth of hold. The hull is made of No. 14 boiler iron, strongly fastened. The frames are one inch square, and the deck beams are made one and one-half inches thick. The builders have introduced a peculiarity in her construction, and that is, the rudder is attached to the hull, inside the propeller. The propeller is a four blade, Hurst pattern, and is 28 inches in diameter, working on a steel shaft one and one-half inches thick. The engine was made by Ingram Brothers, of Fremont street, and is five inches bore with six and a half inches stroke. It can work up to 220 revolutions a minute, and to seven-horse power. The model of the launch is adapted for bay or inland traffic. A water-tight compartment has been made in the forward part of the hull, and all the modern improvements in boat building have been put into the boat. Messrs. Hall & Kelsaw are both graduates of the iron shipbuilding yards at Hull and London, England, and have for some years past given much attention to the question whether iron shipbuilding could be profitably conducted on the Pacific coast, and both have come to the conclusion that it can; and have constructed the boat they tried Saturday to ascertain, in a moderate way, the relative cost of constructing iron and wooden vessels. Their success, they say, has fully justified them in their belief as their vessel was put into the water at a considerable less cost than a similar boat built of wood would have cost. The trial trip was made from Long Bridge to Hunter's Point, thence to North Point. The trip was made from Hunter's Point to the Pacific Mail dock in 22 1/2 minutes, and to North Point in 35 minutes, or at the rate of more than fifteen miles an hour.

The Bee Publishing company has been incorporated. The capital stock is placed at $15,000, divided into 1,500 at $10 each. The incorporators are W. S. Chapman, C. D. Beard and W. Eppinger

The Way to Greatness.

Mr Edward Curtis delivered a historical and literary address before the State University at Berkeley, on Friday last, to a large and brilliant audience. Many ladies and gentlemen went over from this city. We give below a brief extract from Mr. Curtis' address:

Of the present titled nobility in Great Britain, and her former leaders of society and state-craft, it can now only be said that they are more ornamental than useful. The men who have carried the name and fame of England around the world are the commoners. Her leaders in statesmanship, in literature, in science, in public works and internal improvements, the men who build and move things, are all, with scarcely an exception, men who have sprung from the ranks. So completely has the brain power of the English nobility degenerated into common place, that of the four hundred gentlemen who have inherited seats in the House of Lords, but two out of the whole number make any pretensions to leadership or statesmanship. The young lords of the proudest titled aristocracy in the world are now content to sit on the back seats of both Houses of Parliament and be led by sons of carpet-weavers, cotton-spinners and ship chandlers, like John Bright, Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Lowe and Mr. Foster, all of whom were small manufacturers or retail merchants.

"Many of the English noblemen of today are, however, gentlemen of polished manners and quite elegant in society; but they seem to have nothing to do. The great world of politics and commerce, that rushes and rolls all round them, affects them not; new discoveries and wonderful inventions, that are so fast revolutionizing the age and making of this globe a new earth, have for these lords only a languid interest. They are like a silver palace car switched off on a side track—beautiful to look upon and tastily ornamented, but utterly useless so long as there is no engine to draw it.

These noblemen are often tastily and expensively ornamented with various accomplishments; but, lacking energy, they lack everything that gives force and centre to a man's life. Lacking any propelling power within them, these lords stand switched off on a side track, while the great train of an advancing and aggressive age thunders on.

I have cited the present intellectual status of the highly born and hereditary class in England for the purpose of impressing on the minds of the students of this University the great truth that it is not birth nor easy circumstances that makes a man, but merit—individual merit, and persistent effort. And to impress upon you the further fact that there is no royal road to learning, or to anything else worth acquiring. No; it is another road altogether, over which many of the world's heroes have frequently gone with torn and bleeding feet before they reached the prize. Difficulties and hardships are great developers of the intellect as well as muscle. They are often—very often—the price of greatness."

EDITORS BORN, NOT MADE.—The young man may be well grounded in history, the classics, the sciences, and in political economy, may study the subjects that seem best suited to editorial needs, and yet fail as an editor. Besides knowledge he needs tact, insight, judgment of men and things, and a kind of newspaper sense, which we have sometimes called the "sixth sense," the journalistic sense. If a man is not born with it, he can only acquire it by actual experience on a newspaper. The trade cannot be learned except in the trade. No professor in a college can teach journalism. He can teach much that is indispensable to it, but after all the workman must learn to use his tools in a newspaper office. We should say then, that the best plan is to give the boy the best general education he can get in a college, having his course in life in mind, and then let him learn practically the business of a journalist as he would any other.

UNIFICATION OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

—Dr. W. F. Tolmie, well known to the early settlers of Oregon, but now living in British Columbia, and a member of the Provincial Parliament, has written a letter to the Colonist on the Canadian Pacific Railway, at the conclusion of which he makes the following judicious remarks on the unification of the British Empire:

There is much of deep interest to us all in Colomb's pamphlet. It is circulating in Victoria and should, by such as feel interested in federation of the Empire, be carefully read and pondered over. This Pan-Britannic unification, the dying desire of the great Chatham, the sentiment for which united empire Americans a century ago sacrificed home and kindred, this noble aspiration is now becoming more deeply felt, and its realization more longed for by English speaking people at home and abroad. It is for the United Kingdom and the Dominion to take the initiative. The Australian colonies will soon join in and Colomb's most sensible and pressing warnings will be carried out in their entirety while yet there is time. Enlightened Americans of the United States, well aware that they already have enough of social and political problems to work out, look with favor on this British federation movement, knowing that Britons are their own co-workers in all that tends to the uprising of humanity; and that each of the great kindred Anglo-Saxon nationalities learning, one from the other what to avoid, may thus "strive together in well doing." Elihu Burritt, the well known learned and philanthropic New Englander, has in the Canadian Monthly for August last an article on the "Integration of the British Empire" that does him infinite credit. There is more pith in this short essay than in Sir Francis Hincks' recent lukewarm dealing with the great subject in the same periodical; or than in tones of able and well meaning Goldwin Smith's jeremiads about disintegration in other monthlies.

JUST MEDITATE ON THIS.—Our Minister to Holland reports that there has been no bank failure there for forty years and that the paper money of the banks equal the gold. There is no failure of a fire insurance company on record, and the companies realize sixteen per cent. yearly, although the rate of interest is only one half per cent. First class railroad travel is only one cent per mile, yet the roads pay good dividends. Pilfering officers are scarcely ever heard of and are severely punished and forever disgraced when exposed. No free passes are granted to anybody. Dishonesty or failure in business means public dishonor. Four millions of people live within 20,000 square miles, and appear prosperous and contented. All live within their income and are industrious and honest.

Victor Hugo is publishing a 2fr. edition of the "History of a Crime." One hundred thousand copies are already ordered for the provinces. The sale of the 7fr. has been enormous. It ran in nine days through fifteen editions. I am told that the second installment will contain a history of Louis Napoleon's Spanish match.

Receipt for making a Russian name:—Take three alphabets and shake them up in a hat; then throw on a table, like a dice; pick out those that fall right side up, stick them in a line, then add either the "itch" or "koff," and you have a genuine, full-fledged Russian general's name.

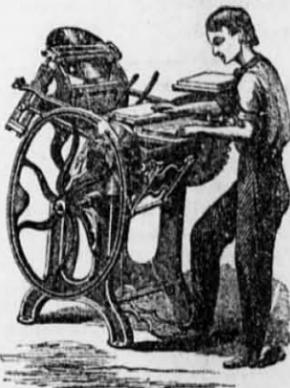

In this Territory the number of children of school age is 13,187, while the number attending school is 7,173, being but a few over half. The number of school houses is 340. Number of teachers 134 males; 143 females.

SATURDAY...DECEMBER 1, 1877.

A Venerable Pioneer.

In the old centres of civilization nothing excites greater interest than the accounts of the lives and adventures of those hardy, independent frontiers-men, who have been the first to advance into the wilderness conquer it from the savage and fit it for the homes of less venturesome settlers, who follow after.

When such accounts excite so much interest among those who have only an idle curiosity to gratify, they doubly deserve our attention when the actors live near us, are still among us, and have led the way in securing for us the homes we now enjoy.

Prominent among those whose names should be perpetuated, and whose deeds should be cherished with respect and gratitude by the people of the northwest is the venerable John Tod, now residing near the city of Victoria on Vancouver's Island. Although over four score years of age, yet he has apparently a lease of manhood for years to come. He seems to scarce belong to this day or generation, when relating events in which he took an active part two generations ago; still his intellect is so active that he takes a lively interest in the questions of the day is a warm friend of progressive thought and science, reads without glasses and is as much interested in the progress being made as the most active young man of the present generation.

He was born on the shores of Loch Lomond in Scotland some 84 years ago, near where Smollet, the novelist and historian lived. Over 66 years ago, when 17 years of age he left Scotland for America. He was employed in the service of the Hudson Bay Company nearly 40 years, on the mainland passing backward and forward between the Atlantic and the Pacific, by the way of the Company's posts on Hudson Bay.

He oftentimes was sent on many difficult and dangerous errands, and spent much of his time among the Indians wholly removed from his own race. Between 1822 and 1832 he was for nine years kept at a post in the Rocky mountains where he was surrounded by Indians and saw no white men, nor heard any civilized language spoken but once during all of that time. The only language spoken by him and his savage companions during that time was the native Siccanna language.

The instances are very rare where a person is so completely removed from all chances of conversation in their own language, of their being able to speak it after a few years have passed by.

Alexander Selkirk was alone, where he had no chance to speak his native tongue for only five years, and in that time lost the use of it. Mr. Tod at the end of nine years among the Indians, when restored to the companionship of white men, could readily converse in the English language: experiencing no further trouble than being for a short time lost for an occasional word. This case is almost without a parallel in the history of language.

He merits honorable distinction and remembrance from the people of this Territory, as being one of the first to attempt the cultivation of the soil here, he being the first white man who ever put a plow into the soil of Cowhitz plain; this was in 1839.

About 27 years ago he left the service of the Hudson Bay Company and settled on the land where he now resides, some three or four miles from Victoria.

At that time the great Co. owned everything there. He was the first man independent of the Co. who took possession of the soil on Vancouver's Island as a bona fide settler. In conversing with him one can scarcely realize the changes that have taken place since that date, when his adventurous life was exchanged for that of a peaceful cultivator of the soil.

A Judicial Lobbyist.

One of the most equitable features of the revenue bill which became a law upon the 9th day of the past month, was that which imposed taxation upon all kinds of property, save that of the Territory or the several counties composing the same, together with cemeteries for the interment of the dead. In California, speculation in burial lots has become such a source of profit to the directors of some cemetery associations, that all burial lots over $20 in value are now taxed. The prohibitory prices of lots in Lone Mountain led to this. Here such prices are unknown and no such taxation is necessary. But the bill taxed church property and a rattling fight was made to exempt church property. But Councilmen Kuhn, Ping, Stewart, Hanford and Hathaway were obdurate on that point, and the bill went into the lower house with no discriminations upon its face. The founders of our government never designed that church property should go untaxed to build up a sacerdotal aristocracy of non producers, to support whom, all the rest of the community should be taxed. They evidently believed that a religious creed which would not bear taxation was not worth the belief of its advocates, and should deservedly perish.

The bill got down into the house where a different fate awaited it. The members were besieged by a hungry lobby, (prominent among whom were several local clergymen upon whose prayers the Treasury had disgorged $25 per head) and the bill was amended to exempt all church property. Rather than see the Territory left with a defective revenue law for the next two years, the Council consented to a compromise, exempting all churches under $3,000 in value; and in this shape the bill became a law. But the house never would have amended the bill, save for the remarkable efforts of Hon. Roger S. Greene, Judge of the Second Judicial District, in whose handwriting all the amendments were written at the time the bill came back to the Council for concurrence. This officer, who was not a citizen of the Territory at the time of his appointment, went into the House during a recess and harangued the members in his peculiar way, telling them that taxation of church property was unconstitutional, which he knew to be a falsehood.

It is seldom that one sees the judicial ermine so badly sullied, for lobbying is a most despicable avocation even when falsehood is not resorted to as an auxiliary. We have a President who claims to be in favor of a general reform in all branches of the civil service; and in no part of that service is there greater necessity for purity of action than in the judiciary. A judge who will walk within the bar of a Legislature and solicits the votes of its members on any proposition, is bad enough; but when he invokes the aid of falsehood to assist his already too palpable fanaticism, he deserves preemptory removal from the bench. In the name of thirteen members who voted for the taxation of church property, as well as any other kind of property, we ask the President for a new Judge for the Second Judicial District. We can prove all we say by the oath of seventeen as good men as our Territory can boast among her adopted citizens. If the President can do no better, he might reappoint Judge Jacobs, who is at least exempt from the charge of fanaticism.

How Chicago Got a Public Library.

The Hon. Thomas Hoynes, ex Mayor of Chicago, the guiding spirit of her Board of Education and projector of her famous Public Library, sat flirting with a blonde haired widow on the States Hotel balcony, Saratoga.

"Why is it that you don't put up at Judge Hilton's hotel this summer, Mr. Hoynes? You used to go there in Stewart's time," observed the lady.

"Yes, I know I did; but my conscience won't let me do it now, Madame."

"But how does it affect your conscience, Mr. Hoynes?"

"Well," said the ex-Mayor, as he placed his hand over his heart and sighed, "If I were to go to Mr. Hilton's hotel, I couldn't sleep nights, I'd be lying awake all night thinking that if John the Baptist were on earth he couldn't stop in the same hotel with the Mayor of Chicago."

A little while afterward I pulled Mayor Hoynes away from his beautiful widow and asked him to tell me the story of how they established the Chicago Public Library.

"But there's a joke about it, Eli, that I don't want to get out," said Mr. Hoynes. "I wouldn't have the Chicago newspapers get hold of the whole story for anything."

"Oh, they won't get hold of it," I said "I'll ask the Sun folks not to send the newspapers containing the story to Chicago at all. Keep it back, you know!"

"Well, then, mum's the word. Here it is."

"You know," continued Mr. Hoynes, "that Chicago never had a public library before the fire."

"Then it wasn't burned up?"

"No; but people outside generally think it was and we let 'em think so."

"What for?" I asked.

"Well directly after the great fire, the Mayor of Chicago—Jo Medill—got a letter from Tom Hughes, the author of Tom Brown at Oxford." The letter was full of sympathy for our great loss, and in it Mr. Hughes said Disraeli and he had collected from English authors and other sources 10,000 books, and had already sent them on to Chicago—to reestablish our Public Library, which he took for granted had been burned."

"What did Medill do?"

"Why, he did not know what to do. Medill is an exact man, you know, and he thought we'd have to write back and confess that we never had a public library, and thus lose the books. In his dilemma he came to me and asked me what to do."

"Why, take 'em—don't send anything back—not a book!"

"But we have no library to reestablish," said Medill.

"But we can establish one quick."

"How?"

"Why, just put this car load of books in my cistern—"

"Now don't be a fool—fool, Hoynes! Put the books in a cistern? why the water—"

"No; you don't understand, I've got a big dry cistern. Put 'em all in there, mail down the top—say nothing to nobody—don't let old Storey hear of it, and I'll run down to Springfield to-day, tell the boys how we're fixed, and rush the library charter through, and up I'll come with it—I the President, you know, and you the Secretary—and we'll write Tom Hughes and Disraeli an awful official letter accepting the books, and thanking everybody in England."

"Did you do it? I asked."

"Of course we did! The charter went through the Legislature like a train of cars, and in three days, the train having broken down at Grand Crossing, I walked into Chicago the head of the great Chicago library, and showed the charter all covered with red seals and tape to Medill."

"And the books—?"

"Well, we answered Tom Hughes' letter, and then we lay low and let the books stay in the cistern six months till we got ready to move in the matter and build a library."

"And it is all established now?"

"Yes; and the best library out of New York; a magnificent library! A great many of the English books have the authors' autographs in front. We have Disraeli's autograph copy of Lothair and other works, Chas. Reade's full list of autograph books, Hood's books, Huxley's Tynhall's, Tennyson's 300 English patent books, and even Queen Victoria's life of Prince Albert, with her own autograph on the fly-leaf—and all because we Chicago fellows know when to be damned fools and when to show good horse sense."—Eli Perkins, in N. Y. Sun.

IN MEMORY OF HOWELL ROUSSIN.—Resolutions passed by Olive Leaf Lodge No. 11, I. O. G. T. at their last regular meeting Nov. 24, 1877.

Whereas, one of our number, Brother Howell Roussin, has been removed from our midst by the hand of death.

Resolved.—That the proper emblem of mourning be placed upon the regalia and worn by each member at every meeting during the remainder of this quarter.

Resolved.—That the death of Brother Roussin is a loss to the Order of Good Templars, and to this Lodge in particular, and that we deeply feel and mourn his untimely death.

Resolved.—That Mrs. M. Barnett, his bereaved mother, has the heartfelt sympathies of this Lodge, in her great sorrow, caused by the death of her only, well beloved son, and that we will do all in our power, collectively and individually, to bear up her spirit in this her hour of heart broken trial.

Resolved.—That a copy of these resolutions, be forwarded to Mrs. M. Barnett, as a feeble token of our sympathy and sorrow, and also a copy of them be offered for publication in the NORTHERN STAR.

A citizen of Oak Harbor addressed an open letter recently to the merchants of Seattle, which was published in one of its dailies, soliciting their attention to the amount of trade and business offered by that part of Whidby Island. We can vouch for the truthfulness of the writers' statements, and would add that they are worse treated in matters of mail and steam communication, and opportunities to buy their domestic supplies, and sell their produce than any other region in the Territory of equal wealth, situated as near as they are to regular lines of travel, where first class facilities could profitably be afforded them in these respects at no real inconvenience, and with certain profit to all concerned.

See the new Singer Ad, in another column. It speaks for itself.

Skookum, the Trapper, expresses his indignation at Gen. Howard's refusal to employ independent Indian fighters in rugged rhyme, which will be found inside.

A correspondent furnishes a severe review of Judge Greene's actions, which is worthy of careful reading. Actions, such as described there, are well worthy of censure.

Representative Andrew received a handsome reception on his return from the Legislature to his home in LeConner. He is a very pleasant, popular gentleman and deserved it.

Milton W. Parsons, representing the standard Singer Sewing Machine, was in town the past week. He has resigned connection with the Portland office, and will confine his attention exclusively to the Sound country; calling here about once a month.

A PRAISEWORTHY MEASURE.—Representative Iverson of this county caused a house memorial to be adopted asking for an appropriation for the relief of the public spirited men, who for so long a time past have been hard at work, without compensation removing the jams from the Skagit and Stillaguamish rivers. We hope Congress will act on this measure without delay.

Councilman Ferguson took so active a part in exposing rotten schemes in the Legislature that up Sound papers of both parties speak of him as exerting a stronger personal influence than any other member. The name he has always held as an able Legislator reflects credit on the counties that sent him there. No public reception was tendered him, but the whole Territory will be thankful for the good he accomplished.

IMPORTANT.—After Jan. 1, 1877, there will be no opportunity for collectors of taxes to speculate in county scrip as heretofore. House Bill No. 80, settles this; which is as follows:

An act regulating the receiving of county warrants in payment of county taxes.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Washington, that no order or warrant drawn on the county, treasury and payable out of the revenue of any county in said Territory shall be received in payment of county tax or dues except from the person in whose favor the warrant was drawn, but shall be subject to redemption only in the order in which it stands registered or noted in the Treasurer's book.

SEC. 2. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. This act to be in force from and after the first day of January, 1877.

The unsettled state of the labor market is producing some very wild talk in the city of San Francisco. While some of the organizations like that over which Mr. D'Arcy presided, met and calmly discussed the situation, and sought by the proper means an adequate remedy; yet others came together seeking to rouse the worst element of the city for pillage bloodshed. The love of law and order is too strong there for them to effectuate anything, only to show what characters will come to the surface at such times. Kearny, Bates and Day are among the leaders of this most violent class of agitators. They have all been placed under arrest, and at times the militia have been compelled to parade the streets to preserve public order. This is a sample of the talk indulged in at one of their last meetings:

"I want to make a motion. The man who claims to be a leader—the first man who flags interest in this movement—I want to make a motion that he be hung up to a lamp-post. By the Eternal, we will take them by the throat and choke them until their life's blood ceases to beat and then run them into the sea."

D. N. UTTER, Editor & Prop'r

IF YOU ARE A UNITARIAN,
In faith, it becomes your immediate duty to subscribe for this, the first publication of the kind west of the Mississippi, for the extremely low subscription price brings it within the reach of all, while it makes necessary a large subscription list in order to meet expenses.

IF NOT A UNITARIAN,
There is a possibility that you may not fully understand our principles and doctrines, and to take our paper for a year, which many could afford out of mere curiosity to do, would be a sure method of becoming fully informed concerning our faith, our works and our hopes.

IF YOU ARE OPPOSED TO US,
It might still be necessary to take the paper,
to learn our tactics—the best method of hindering our progress.
Subscribe Now! at the beginning of the new year, that you may have the paper from its first number. Send silver or gold ($1) in
