Song of the Ox-Eyed Dairy. The hills are fast to steady blue That looses itself when the sky bends o'er, The wind is shaking the orchard through, And sending a quiver through knee-clopp clover. The air is sweet with stange perfume, That comes from the depths of the woodland places, The fields are hid in a wealth of bloom, And white with the sweep of the ox-eye daisy. And further down we see the brook runs there Where the ferns are cool in the petting shadow, We still may see through the morning dew, The meadow and the wind across it mender, And then when the wind across it mender, And the waving lines of silver fallow, We catch the gleam of his heart of gold, While over her skirts the feet-winged swallow. Clear and simple, in white and gold, Mellow blossom of small space, The field is full as it will hold, And white with the drift of the ox-eye daisy.

Joseph Brisben remained at the farm, but the wife was a changed man. From the day of his release from jail down to the day of his death, he was never known to touch a card, and a drop of liquor never passed his lips. Last April he died, and his confession, duly sworn to before a justice of the peace, was made public after his funeral. In substance it was this: That he was guilty of the forgery for which his brother was suffering a long imprisonment.

That Bad Boy. "I am thy father's ghost," said a sheeted form, in the door of the grocery, one evening, and the groceryman got behind the cheese-box, while the ghost continued in a sepulchral tone, "doomed for a certain time to walk the night," and, waving a chair around, the ghost strode up to the groceryman, and with the other ghastly hand reached out for a box of figs.

we will bring it out all right by the time the entertainment comes off. "By-gum!" said the groceryman, "I would like to have seen that minister as Hamlet. Didn't he look funny?" "Yes," said I, "I should 'a' marked it. He seemed to pre-ponderate; that I, he was too fresh, too numerous, as it were. But at the next rehearsal I am going to work in an act from Richard III, and my chum is going to play the Chinaman of the Danites, and I guess we'll take the cake. Stay, I want to work in an idiot somewhere. How would you like to play the idiot? You wouldn't have no rehearsal or anything?"

At this point the bad boy was seen to go out of the grocery real spry, followed by a box of wooden clothes pins the groceryman had thrown after him. Home as Paul Saw It. In 61 A. D. the lifelong wish of Paul's heart was to be gratified. It was to see Rome, of which he claimed to be a citizen, and he was to be judged by that Caesar to whom he had appealed. That Caesar was Nero. We may come upon Paul's vessel, the corn-ship Cestus and Polux, as it is passing, by the early spring of the year 61, through the Straits of Messina. Leaving the bright one of Stromboli on the left Paul makes a direct run of 180 miles to Puteoli. We know the view that burst upon the apostle as he enters the Bay of Naples, and made for the busy, thriving mart which is now the sleepy and straggling Puzzuoli. The Bay of Naples was the same, but Cestusius was green and smoky, and left it sticking in the wound under the collar, and had to pull it out, and Hamlet said the juice and the seeds were running down inside his shirt, and he said he wouldn't play if he was going to be stabbed with a slice of melon; so while ma was getting the melon seeds out of his neck, and drying the juice on his shirt, I sharpened a cucumber for Lady Macbeth to use as a dagger, but Hamlet kicked on cucumbers, too, and I had more trouble than any stage manager ever had. Then pa wanted to rehearse the drunken scene in Rip Van Winkle, where he hugs Gretchen and drinks out of a flask behind her back, and he got one of the choir singers to act as Gretchen, and I guess he would have been hugging her till this time, and have swallowed the flask, if no honest fool had taken the flask and said a little of that would go a good way in an entertainment for the church. Pa said he didn't know that it was any worse than her prancing up to a grave-digger and hugging him till the filling came out of his teeth, and then the minister decided that we wouldn't have any hugging at all in the play, and the choir girls said they wouldn't play, and I put on a red and blue one, and my chum did the same.

Then we got some ruffled clothes belonging to ma, with flounces and things on, and put them on so they came most down to our knees, and we put sheets over us that came clear to our feet, and when Hamlet got to yearning for his father's ghost, I came in out of the bathroom with the sheet over my, and said I was the huckster who was looking for, and my chum followed me out, saying he was a twin ghost also, and then Hamlet got on his car and said that he wouldn't play with two ghosts, and he went off putting, and then my chum and me pulled off the sheets and we danced a clop-dance. Well, when the rest of the troupe saw our sheet over my, and said I was the huckster who was looking for, and my chum followed me out, saying he was a twin ghost also, and then Hamlet got on his car and said that he wouldn't play with two ghosts, and he went off putting, and then my chum and me pulled off the sheets and we danced a clop-dance. "Oh! we've struck it now," said the bad boy, as he pulled up his mask and rolled up the sheet he had worn. "We are going to have amateur theatricals to raise money to have the church carpeted, and I am going to lose the job." "You don't say?" answered the groceryman, as he thought how much he could sell the church people for an ice-cream and strawberry festival, and how little for amateur theatricals. "Who's going into it, and what are you going to play?" "Pa and ma, and me, and the minister, and three choir singers, and my chum, and the minister's wife, and two deacons, and an old maid, are rehearsing, but we haven't decided what to play yet. They all want to play a different play, and I'm fixing it so they can all be satisfied. The minister wants to play Hamlet; pa wants to play Rip Van Winkle; ma wants to play Mary Anderson; the old maid wants to play a boarding-school play; the choir singers want an opera, and the minister's wife wants to play Lady Macbeth, and my chum and me want to play a double

Few have an idea of the dimensions of Siberia. One day from some idea of its size by cutting out the size of Germany, France, Austria and Hungary; for there would be sufficient land left over to create Great Britain and Ireland out of the single province of Yeneseck. But all that enormous expanse is empty. The population of Yeneseck is only 372,000, or about half the population of Missouri. The whole population of Siberia is less than the population of London. Siberians do not seem distressed at these distances, and think nothing of riding one hundred miles to attend a ball or a banquet; but entertainments of that sort are only held in towns, which are very few, only seventeen having more than 5,000 inhabitants. Of course, much of Siberia is not fit for colonization; the land is evidently greatly altered since the times of the mammoths and other antediluvian animals. But, nevertheless, there is undoubtedly a great want of population. To supply that want has been the constant thought of Russian statesmen. It is that which partly has led them to establish penal settlements in Siberia. There is a certain appropriateness about that which is quite undesired. It is, perhaps, not altogether unfitting that Siberia, conquered by a half-brigand, should become the home of the convict; yet it deserves a better fate, and is sure to have it sooner than later.

NATURDAY, SEPT. 8, 1888.

To-morrow will be given over to the reception of the Villard party, en route from the scene of the driving of the last spike to Portland.

It is but proper that Spokane Falls should make a becoming demonstration upon this momentous occasion.

The long-looked and hoped-for completion of the Northern Pacific railroad has at last been accomplished.

After years of patient waiting, and the great Northwest has direct and rapid communication with the vast centers of wealth and population east of the mountains.

The road gives the people an outlet to the world beyond, and opens up a vast area of country to the immigrant.

It will be the source from whence will flow the capital, and bone and sinew that is to build up and develop the resources of the hitherto almost unknown territories.

And naturally the consummation of this stupendous project, that has been watched and speculated upon from its very inception, and which is of national as well as local importance, is an event in the history of the country worthy and deserving of the most exuberant celebration and rejoicing.

To-day the formal opening takes place, and immediately the grand trans-continental line is thrown open to freight and passenger traffic.

Those invited guests of President Henry Villard and his associates, who have been collected from all parts of the United States and portions of Europe, numbering in all between 300 and 500, will participate in the ceremonies accompanying the driving of the golden spike, and then be conveyed over the line to the Pacific ocean.

Spokane Falls and other cities and stations on the route will accept this opportunity, by extending to the excursionists an enthusiastic reception, to celebrate the opening of the road.

This city will have the honor, situated as it is on the eastern border of the territory, to give the party the first welcome to Washington, and the Inland Empire. All hail, President Villard and his retinue of distinguished guests.

On behalf of our people we extend to him and them a hearty welcome to Spokane Falls and Washington territory. May their brief visit to the Queen City of the Northwest be one of unalloyed pleasure, and may they depart carrying away a kindly remembrance of the little metropolis and its people.

Of all the exaggerated misrepresentations published about Spokane Falls and country, the following, taken from the Fargo Republican, is the worst:

"One of our old subscribers in one of the Atlantic States writes from Spokane Falls to have the Republican sent to this place, and adds: 'I came to this place in June last, and am waiting till the railroad is completed through before deciding what next. I was afraid of your long, cold winters. I am a lean subject, getting old, and dread the cold, and thought I had better try the Pacific slope. Find the season too high I think. We have had no rain scarcely for eight weeks; vegetation all dried up; crops short; all the good farming land taken and held too high by half; wild prairie held at $40 per acre. This land is surveyed for nine miles in circumference, in lots 30 by 12 feet, right over rocks, cliffs, mountains, and everywhere, and these lots are held at from $200 to $2,000 each, according to locality.'"

There are a class of men who come here expecting to make fortunes in a day, and being disappointed, write the most nonsensical reports about the country. There is hardly a fair statement in the whole extract, the only really true one being that there has been a drought, a condition of things that might happen to any section. We do not know who the writer may be, nor his reason for making such unparadoxical untrue assertions, but we know a good many Fargo people in the city who are exceedingly well pleased with the city and county, and who repudiate all such statements with indignation.

In criticizing a place (and there are always points for criticism in new towns, and old ones as well), why not be just and reasonable. Our advice to the writer of the above is to slide out of the northwest at once, as the road is now open. Men of his kidney are of no use whatever in any country.

The Queen of the Pacific, one of the finest steamships on the Pacific Coast, ran on the sands at the mouth of the Columbia River, Tuesday. Fortunately no lives were lost, and after throwing overboard much of the freight the vessel was saved. At the time of the accident there were a large number of persons on board, who were on their way to join the gold spike party. The accident is another proof of the dangers to be encountered on the Columbia bar, and is seriously felt by the citizens of Portland, happening just at a time when so many strangers are to visit the city and be impressed, favorably or unfavorably, as to its importance as a port.

CONSIDERABLE surprise was expressed by those of our people acquainted with Hon. Chas. Besserer, editor of the Walla Walla Watchman, upon learning that he had shot and probably killed a man named Ed. Kleber, with whom he had a slight altercation, Monday evening.

Mr. Besserer is known as a peaceable, law-abiding, inoffensive man, and would be the last person one would suspect of using a weapon. From the published particulars it seems that Kleber, who is a brewer, took offense at some item in the Watchman, and went so far as to threaten Besserer with injury. While under the influence of liquor Kleber called at Besserer's office and commenced abusing that gentleman. The excited man made demonstrations toward Mr. B., and grasped him by the lapel of the coat, when the editor drew a pistol and shot him, as he was retreating.

At last accounts Kleber was still alive, but with little hopes of his recovery. Mr. Besserer was examined Tuesday, and acquitted, the judges deciding that the shooting was justifiable and in self-defense.

The celebration connected with the driving of the last spike awakens reminiscences of a similar event that occurred some years ago, when the Union Pacific Railroad was completed.

M. L. Grimmer, of the Northern Pacific Hotel, has a copy of the Gold Hill News, No. 12, of May 12th, 1859, from which we copy the following short extract from a letter written from Dayton, by an enthusiastic correspondent, showing that the finish of the road was the cause of a vast amount of rejoicing everywhere along the line, even though the road was not in bad odor with the public.

"I wish to thunder you had been here yesterday noon. At 12 o'clock the telegraph office was crowded with anxious listeners, and the driving and when W. T. Harned, the gentlemanly operator, announced that it was done, three rousing cheers went up for the railroad and Charles Crocker. Then all hands made a rush for the National, where, by special invitation of 'Boss,' they took drink to the railroad and Charles Crocker.

Well, you may believe that set the ball a-rolling beautifully. Flags went up, whistles blew, and pistols in town were let loose. The Dayton battery, consisting of a half dozen available bands, made the loudest noise anybody ever knew of was kept up for two hours. 'Twas enough to drive any respectable spike crazy.

The gray-haired veteran and great moral luminary whose ponderous brain and inflexible pen furnishes the daily material for the Sprague Herald considered it necessary, last week, to make a personal onslaught upon the editor of this paper, and, no doubt, as he puts on his paragonical and lalla-dala young man airs, and with a feline-like smile republishes the article referred to, congratulating himself upon his profound and great scope of humor.

He grows deliriously funny over our youth, and perhaps imagines that we are totally annihilated. We may not be as intellectual and pure as this Herald fellow, our age may be less; our experience more limited, still we are comfortably tough and do not intend to be flattened out by the kick of a mule. The controversy that led to the jejune effusion in the Herald was none of our seeking. If we maliciously attack a place and its people we expect retaliation, and as we are peacefully disposed, and believe in the lesson that teaches us to love our neighbor, make it a rule never to first commence abusing a sister town or its organs. The Herald, with a viciousness as low as it is inexcusable, assailed Spokane Falls and its citizens because the town happened to secure the U. S. Land Office. Naturally we objected to this guerrilla warfare, and for so doing ran up against a row. It was as silly in the Herald to manifest symptoms of rage over the choice of location for the Land Office as it would be in us if we were to find fault with the location of the railroad shops at Sprague. What we said in response to his tirade was general in its purport, and did not particularly refer to the Herald man, although we do not object if the shoe fits him. Now we do not propose to 'blow' over. We can stand all the Herald can give, but when it abuses the Falls we will be heard from again. But kind, benevolent, christian friend take a word of advice in the meantime from a 'young editor' to one grown ancient and decrepit in harness: 'Go a little show on the road you are traveling.'"

Word reached this city, Monday, that a chief of the Spokane Indians, named William, had been shot by a half-breed named Bill Jackson, Saturday, and that the wound would probably terminate fatally. The shooting occurred on Deep Creek, and resulted from William protesting against liquor being brought into camp. The half-breed escaped, and it is supposed he has gone to Montana. He is a hard customer, coming from a family noted for its toughness. It was one of his brothers who was killed at Cheney in the spring. As he is known in this place it is probable that he will give Spokane a wide berth for some time to come.

Accident on the Road. Our wide-awake correspondent at Heron siding sends us the following account of an accident that occurred between 6 and 7 o'clock Tuesday evening: Freight engine number 223 jumped the track sixteen miles above Heron, at a place called Big Cut, Tuesday evening, injuring the engineer, Mr. Ball, and one brakeman, whose name I could not learn. Both men were severely hurt, but not dangerously. Where the accident occurred is a side-track, and when the engine reached the switch it jumped the main track, and the freight cars came on with such force that they threw the tender over the engine, demolishing the cab and damaging the engine to a considerable extent.

Green Company. The Leonard Grover Comedy Company, one of the best theatrical organizations on the road, gave two performances in Cannon's Hall to large and appreciative audiences this week. Tuesday night the company gave 'Our Boarding House,' and Wednesday evening 'Cud, the Tom Boy.' This troupe has appeared before critical audiences in almost every large city in the Union, and is highly spoken of by the press. Here the members labored under the disadvantage of playing on a cramped stage, without scenery and the usual conveniences, yet this did not detract to any great extent from the excellence of the performances. It is by far the best company that has ever visited Spokane Falls, and should Mr. Grover ever return he will be welcomed with high honors.

Turned Around. S. J. Rickard's Bank Exchange formerly fronted on Main street, next door east of the Black Hawk stable, but the new transformation under way on that corner has made a change in the situation. This week the Bank Exchange was moved upon a lot on fronting on Howard street, and to the rear of the new buildings soon to occupy the corner of Main and Howard streets. The removal is by no means disadvantageous to Mr. Rickard, as his place occupies a position just as public as he had before. He has taken the occasion to refit his sample rooms, which were always neat and orderly, and has fitted a club room in connection with the saloon, which will be found cozy and comfortable, everything being arranged for the convenience and pleasure of his patrons.

Removal. On or about the 15th of September H. C. Hayward will remove to the building now occupied by the First National Bank. His present quarters, including shelving, counters, etc., are now for rent.

Soldiers' Meeting. There will be a meeting of the old soldiers at Kaufman's real estate office, 301 1/2 Broadway, Saturday evening, 7:30, to perfect arrangements inaugurated at our last meeting of the organization of a Grand Army of the Republic Post. We have received the necessary information and are now preparing to act. Bring your discharge papers with you.

C. G. BRADSTRAW, Pres't. CHARLES SWEENEY, Sec'y.

Church Directory. Services will be at a uniform hour in all the churches, as follows: Sunday services at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. The bell of the Congregational Church will ring at 10:50 and 10:55 for the morning, and at 7 o'clock and 7:25 for evening service. The last bell will toll.

Take Notice! 'Forget not the assembling of yourselves together.' Social meetings for prayer and conference will be held in the different churches on Thursday evening at 7:45. The warning bell at 7:15; last bell at 7:40. Local time will be used in ringing the bell for all services.

Going to Stone. The late firm of Bloomer & Titus, doing business in the furniture line, on Main street, between Howard and Stevens streets, has been dissolved, the senior partner having purchased the Junior's interest. This amicable change occurred last week, and now the establishment is owned and run solely by Charles Bloomer. This gentleman is a practical cabinet and furniture maker, understands every detail of the business, and withal, being a popular member of the community, ought to do well. He will continue the establishment at the old stand.

Shot. Word reached this city, Monday, that a chief of the Spokane Indians, named William, had been shot by a half-breed named Bill Jackson, Saturday, and that the wound would probably terminate fatally. The shooting occurred on Deep Creek, and resulted from William protesting against liquor being brought into camp. The half-breed escaped, and it is supposed he has gone to Montana. He is a hard customer, coming from a family noted for its toughness. It was one of his brothers who was killed at Cheney in the spring. As he is known in this place it is probable that he will give Spokane a wide berth for some time to come.

LOCAL. Fine Grain. Friday J. P. Christensen, a farmer living five miles east of this city, left at this office some samples of a variety of wheat that he calls the 'Danish.' It is about as large and fine grain as we have ever seen. The stalk stands some five or six feet in height, the heads are from six to nine inches in length, while some of the grain will measure almost half an inch. Mr. Christensen planted seventy-five pounds this spring on half an acre of ground, and harvested therefrom thirty bushels of clean grain, notwithstanding the drought. In a favorable season it will yield not less than seventy-five bushels to the acre. If the grain makes good flour, it will be a very valuable product for the farmer. Mr. C. left specimens of both the grain and heads at this office, where any one interested may see them. The owner will offer a small quantity of the seed for sale, and B. W. Forest is acting as his agent in this city. A short time ago our attention was called to a similar grain, raised in California, and the owner honestly thought he had made a new discovery of cereals, but that grain was hardly equal in appearance to that now before us.

RECEPTION NOTES. Turn out to the last spike. The visitors arrive to-morrow. Evergreens are sprouting out everywhere.

Station agent McCoy has covered the depot with decorations. Every flag in the city should be thrown to the breeze to-morrow.

Bathrooms has raised a fund to celebrate the driving of the last spike. The party will remain here all day, not leaving until 11 o'clock at night.

It is hoped that all the ladies of our city will be in attendance to-morrow. A reception committee was: up the road to-day to meet the excursionists.

President Villard and his German friends will spend the day on Lake Fond d'Oreille. Extensive arrangements have been made at Sand Point for the coming of the boats.

Those who can spare the time should repair to the mill to-day and help decorate. The address of welcome and answers will be delivered in the lower room of the mill.

Seats will be provided in the new mill for all who may attend the afternoon reception.

There is to be union service at the mill in which all the churches will join, to-morrow night.

The arches at several points in the city promise to be attractive features of the demonstration.

Such men as Grant, Lincoln, Teller, Evans, and a host of other notables will be among the party.

The receipt of General Villard at Minneapolis was one of the grandest ever witnessed in the whole country.

From present indications it is evident that there will be a great many people for decks to come. Let it be remembered that every town on the line, from the mountains to Portland, will make some demonstration on the arrival of the excursionists.

We hope to see the town assume a holiday appearance to-morrow that will surpass in extent even that of the Fourth of July.

General Wheaton, of Fort Spokane, kindly contributed flags for decorative purposes, and will be in attendance in person.

Dr. C. S. Penfield and Peter Deuber will endeavor to have the vocal music programme a feature of to-morrow's demonstration.

The band, a glee club composed of male and female voices and the Gesang Verein Concordia will furnish the music for to-morrow.

It would look like—well, the most stupid meanness not to extend the coming party a fitting greeting, as some very, very few men have suggested.

It would not be a bad idea, as has been suggested, to have a delegation of Indians present to-morrow. They would be a curiosity to many of the visitors.

The City Council, feeling alive to the importance of this day, has ordered the streets cleaned as far as possible and sprinkled for to-morrow.

At 11 o'clock, P. M., when Mr. Villard arrives with his foreign guests, an immense bonfire will be kindled in front of the freight depot, and the whole country illuminated.

To-morrow will mark a day in the history of the Falls that will be remembered for decades to come. Let it be remembered that the memory of it will not be shadowed with regrets.

Spokane Falls will not have another opportunity to celebrate the completion of a transcontinental railroad for some years to come, and therefore should do itself proud on this occasion.

We doubt if there was ever so large a party of notable men together at one time in this country as have assembled at the last spike driving, nor a crowd representing a greater amount of wealth.

Besides, the regular invited guests with their friends, will be a great number of strangers, who will visit Spokane to-morrow. Let us receive them with open hands and an abundance of hospitality.

Cheneyites, with their usual liberality, have donated a thousand dollars toward defraying the expenses of suitable demonstration upon the arrival at that place of the Villard party, and the trains get in at night. The county seat deserves for decades to come. Let it be remembered that the memory of it will not be shadowed with regrets.

Spokane Falls will not have another opportunity to celebrate the completion of a transcontinental railroad for some years to come, and therefore should do itself proud on this occasion.

SCRAPINGS.

September 8th. Buy school books of S. Heath. Front street is being smoothed off. Bob Hargrove has up a new electric light.

The gold fever is spreading in this section. Dr. Burch is rushing the work on his new bridge.

The Grover Comedy Company was well patronized. Seasoned lumber is said to be a scarce article just now.

The contractor is going on steadily with the Catholic College. Lumber is arriving by the car loads for the new lumber yard.

Most ministers at troupe occupy Cannon's Hall next Friday evening. The smoke nuisance clings to the country with annoying pertinacity.

We hear some talk of the forming of a lodge of the K. of P. in this city. A new town is about to be started in the Big Bend country called Grand Canyon.

The first regular through train commenced running on the road Monday. A force of Chinamen are at work grading for the spur to be constructed at the depot.

A full and complete stock of school books can be found at the Post office Book store. The new bridge is going ahead rapidly.

The skeleton structure connects the two shores. The public school building is going right ahead with a prospect of an early completion.

Geo. Ross is to give up the brewery business in this city and try the life of a farmer. In the deal of weather during the week this section was treated to several pretty hot days.

H. P. Reeves will commence putting up a new building south of the railroad track immediately. The frame work of the Methodist College is up, and the work will be rapidly shoved ahead.

Gift-edged butter, flour, etc. for sale by M. Thompson, commission merchant, on Riverside avenue. The Presbyterian Sunday School will be held before at 10 o'clock A. M. by tent instead of railroad time.

Three large moving wagons were unloaded from the depot Friday; they are gallant rigs for travel. It will be by card that J. H. Brown Company are about ready to open up in the new bank building.

Geo. Brandt will take possession of the elegant suite of rooms over the First National Bank when completed. An accident to a freight train below Wallula, was the cause of the delay of the passenger Friday morning.

The iron for Brown's new block arrived this week, and the contractor is putting the massive blocks of metal in place. A large party expects to go out into the Big Bend country from this place next week for the purpose of looking up land.

The oil wellers meet in Kaufman's office to-day to perfect the organization of a post of the Grand Army of the Republic. Prof. Terman has one of the finest collections of geological specimens, gathered along the line that can be found in the territory.

R. D. Willis, of Spokane, this country, informs that he could find in the neighborhood of that place much better than was expected. From the number of freight cars on the track at this station one would imagine that a good deal of freight had been consigned to this city.

The troop of cavalrymen who escorted Gen. Sherman on his northern trip returned to Fort Coeur d'Alene via Spokane Falls Friday morning. The iron for the Central Block has been received and placed in position, and the balance of the building will be knocked together in short order.

G. H. Morgan & Company are buying up large quantities of grain. They advertised their intention to go into that business, hence the interest.

The clerk of the weather refused to accommodate the public by wetting down the streets this week and so the sprinkling cart has to go out duty to-day. It is evident that the city wants a substantial and placed in position, and the balance of the building will be knocked together in short order.

Workers have been hard at work this week slinging dirt and preparing the foundation for the new buildings to go up at the corner of Main and Howard streets. A slight epidemic, Wednesday, led the public to believe that the long-deferred rain was about to remember us, but the effort was a total failure as regards quantity.

Every day, it is more apparent to the public that the city is really in need of water works. It is probable now that the works will not be put in before next summer. We direct attention to the card of I. T. Benham, contractor and builder, in another column, and can refer to the class of work he has been doing in this city as evidence of his ability.

If you want a good well at your home call at the Employment Office, and leave your orders. Competent men next door to the postoffice. Wm. Gray, mine host of the California House, talks of securing the rooms over the new brick at the corner of Front and Howard streets, for the accommodation of his increasing business.

A new time card went into effect Sunday, but the change has not benefited this place as regards the arrival and departure of trains. It is still an all-night job to catch a train going either way. Mel Grimmer had a horse down from Backburn last week that could throw his feet in good shape. Mel expects an animal soon that will shake things up lively, having close down record on the turf.

Norton had to saw the old Black Hawk stable in two parts in order to move the building in place. The barn is an exceedingly heavy one, and a vast amount of difficulty was experienced handling it. A gentleman recently from the Big Bend states that there are fields of potatoes in that section, planted after the last rain in the spring, that look green and flourishing, and the bulbs are as fine as any ever grown.

A slight change in the arrival and departure of trains took place Sunday. The eastern bound passenger now arrives at 2:11 A. M., and the train running west lands its cargo of human freight well-billed for the Falls at 12:53 A. M.

John L. Wilson, Receiver of the United States Land Office, has purchased the brick building in Central Block, now being built, from Mr. Boyer, and will locate the office there. He expects to settle down at the Falls early next month.

PERSONAL.

Dr. A. S. Campbell has our thanks for a copy of the report of Lieut. T. W. Symons, of the Engineer Corps, on the upper Columbia river and the great plain of the Columbia, a valuable and exhaustive work on northwestern Washington.

L. Ziegler has one of the finest pair of elk horns ever seen in this upper country. They were purchased from an Indian at Fort Colville, by a resident of that place, and presented to Mr. Z. during his recent trip north. The antlers are a great curiosity, and are considered very valuable.

J. H. Brown & Co. had upward of $5,000 worth of goods on the ill-fated Queen of the Pacific, and we hear that others of our merchants are losers by the wreck. Of course Messrs. Brown & Co., having their merchandise insured, but it is the delay that they are put to that they object to.

Bob Hargrove has made quite a change in the interior arrangement of his assembly depot at the depot. He has had the partition moved back several feet, enlarging the front room, and keeping in stock a variety of canned goods for the benefit of those who are compelled to remain up for the trains.

There is a new boarder at the N. P. Hotel, who arrived this Saturday morning, but rather too young to register. The arrival is a 19½ year old girl, and Mel is as happy as a lord. Glad to learn that the mother and child are doing well. The father thinks of naming her Last Spike, in honor of the event that occurs to-day.

Considerable attention was attracted Wednesday by a party of three men carrying a litter upon which was a woman named Moseley, who had had her leg broken near the ankle at Cheney by the kick of a horse. The Chronicle states that she is in a serious condition, and it would be well if some of our philanthropic citizens looked up the case.

The traveling of sight-seers to the driving of the last spike on special trains is a very popular feature. The western bound passenger on Wednesday night did not reach this point until 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and the eastern bound passenger due early Friday morning did not arrive until late that day. It is possible that there will be one or two less days for several days to come.

Changed. The office of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express has been removed from the old quarters at 10 o'clock A. M. by tent instead of railroad time.

Two large moving wagons were unloaded from the depot Friday; they are gallant rigs for travel. It will be by card that J. H. Brown Company are about ready to open up in the new bank building.

Geo. Brandt will take possession of the elegant suite of rooms over the First National Bank when completed. An accident to a freight train below Wallula, was the cause of the delay of the passenger Friday morning.

The iron for Brown's new block arrived this week, and the contractor is putting the massive blocks of metal in place. A large party expects to go out into the Big Bend country from this place next week for the purpose of looking up land.

The oil wellers meet in Kaufman's office to-day to perfect the organization of a post of the Grand Army of the Republic. Prof. Terman has one of the finest collections of geological specimens, gathered along the line that can be found in the territory.

R. D. Willis, of Spokane, this country, informs that he could find in the neighborhood of that place much better than was expected. From the number of freight cars on the track at this station one would imagine that a good deal of freight had been consigned to this city.

The troop of cavalrymen who escorted Gen. Sherman on his northern trip returned to Fort Coeur d'Alene via Spokane Falls Friday morning. The iron for the Central Block has been received and placed in position, and the balance of the building will be knocked together in short order.

G. H. Morgan & Company are buying up large quantities of grain. They advertised their intention to go into that business, hence the interest.

The clerk of the weather refused to accommodate the public by wetting down the streets this week and so the sprinkling cart has to go out duty to-day. It is evident that the city wants a substantial and placed in position, and the balance of the building will be knocked together in short order.

Workers have been hard at work this week slinging dirt and preparing the foundation for the new buildings to go up at the corner of Main and Howard streets. A slight epidemic, Wednesday, led the public to believe that the long-deferred rain was about to remember us, but the effort was a total failure as regards quantity.

Wm. Ziegler, son of our townsman L. Ziegler, Esq., who is now conducting a medical home by the name of Medical Lodge, was in the city Monday.

Geo. Brandt and wife have returned from their trip to California, and the affable George is at the desk of Sweeney & Co.'s mercantile establishment once more.

D. W. C. Britt returned Saturday from his trip to Gardiner. He likes Spokane Falls so well that it is not likely that he will change his location for the present.

Dr. G. S. Allison spent a few days last week in Oregon the latter part of last week, for sometime, returned to Cheney recently and returned to his extensive practice Tuesday.

I. T. Benham was on the sick list this week, but his duties are so many that he would not remain in bed but was out superintending his building operations Thursday.

John H. Ward, a prominent attorney of Louisville, Ky., has been stopping at the California House this week. He is out west for his health and we believe has struck the right place.

C. Bradley, who has made extensive researches throughout the country this summer, returned to his home at Dayton, Ohio, this week. He will return to Spokane Falls next spring, and will probably bring others with him.

A. Trout, of Bodie, Cal., was in the city this week on business connected with the new buildings being constructed at the corner of Main and Howard streets by the First National Bank, where he will open a foot and shoe store about the 1st of October.

We had the pleasure of a call Tuesday from that veteran of the stage, Leonard Grover, proprietor of the far famed Grover Comedy Company. Off the stage, as well as before the footlights, Mr. Grover is an agreeable and pleasant gentleman, and we heartily enjoyed his brief visit.

D. D. Spuler and P. Knox started Sunday for the Cour d'Alene gold mines. The boys have a complete outfit and are determined to make a stay of a few camps. We hope they may strike a bonanza and return with their mules loaded down with the true business.

Frank Spenser, a former resident of this county who has been living in California for some time, returned to Cheney recently and has purchased the Sprague material from F. C. Montgomery and will re-locate that paper. Mr. Spenser was in this Monday, circulating among our people.

E. L. Swartz, who is the company in the firm of H. J. Brown & Co., and is in the city this week, has put in his time forming the acquaintance of our people. He is a clever young gentleman, understands the business he goes into and ought to succeed in this thriving city.

Dr. J. H. Baxter, of the U. S. Army, and wife, have been stopping at the Sprague House for several days. Dr. Baxter was one of the physicians in attendance upon the lamented President Garfield at the time of his long suffering and death from the wounds inflicted by an assassin.

Col. Ben. Simpson, general postal agent for Oregon, Washington territory and Idaho, with headquarters at Portland, was in the city Tuesday on business connected with the department. He goes from here for a trip through the north for the purpose of locating new post offices, and examining those already established. We hope that he may make some arrangements, if possible, to have the mails carried directly between this point and Colville. This will have to be done when the mines to the north of the Falls are running in full blast, and the people even at present feel the want of such mail accommodations.

Spokane Falls Extends a Greeting to the N. P. Excursionists.

The Completion of the Northern Pacific Railroad to be Celebrated.

The City in Holiday Attire in Honor of the Great Occasion.

PROGRAMME OF THE PROPOSED PROCEEDINGS.

The people are alive to the importance of the demonstration to take place to-morrow, and the city is taking on its holiday attire. Those who were lukewarm have awoke to new life and are exhibiting an activity that is praiseworthy.

Preparations are being hurried along, and we feel satisfied that Spokane Falls will not be behind other towns celebrating the opening of the road. The American excursionists will arrive to-morrow morning and spend the day in this city. At 11 o'clock P. M. President Villard and his party of foreign guests will pass through the city, stopping only a few minutes, when the entire party will continue on the way to Portland.

The general committee has held several meetings this week, appointing committees and reviewing the work to be accomplished. The street decorations are being attended to, and other necessary arrangements are in the hands of those who will not fail to do their duty. By the exertions of Marshal E. B. Hyde the arch work, the building of the stage in the mill, and securing seats from the various churches has been seen to. Mayor Glover has appealed to the ladies to aid in decorating the room, and that feature will be an attractive one. Dr. C. S. Penfield has organized a Glee Club, while Councilman Deuber has succeeded in securing the German Society known as the Verein Concordia. The streets have been relieved of considerable of the rubbish and will be sprinkled to-day. The Cornet Band will aid in the musical line, while everybody will add their presence to the gathering. Last night Messrs. A. M. Cannon, J. J. Browne and Prof. J. M. Terman, departed to meet the excursionists at some point on the road. There is a general disposition manifested to make the demonstration a perfect success. At a meeting of a majority of the committee Friday morning Mayor Jas. N. Glover was chosen to act as Chairman at the reception to-morrow afternoon and the following programme was adopted:

MORNING. The trains containing the visitors will arrive at 8 o'clock and the guests will be met by the Reception Committee, Jas. N. Glover, A. M. Cannon, J. J. Browne, Prof. J. M. Terman, P. Deuber, Dr. G. S. Allison, W. C. Gray and Dr. B. F. Dorch. Music by the Band.

Escort guests about the city and falls in carriages. Line of March-Down Post street to Riverside avenue; up Riverside to Howard; out Howard street across the bridges and about the falls. Returning over same route to Main; up Main street to Washington, stopping at Prof. J. M. Terman's residence to allow the visitors to examine a cabinet of minerals; south on Washington street to Post; south on Post street to Sprague; down Sprague street to Brown's grove; up Riverside avenue along the banks of the river to Post; up Post street to the depot.

AFTERNOON. Meet the guests at the depot at 3 o'clock, and march to Echo Mills, escorted by the band. Exercises to commence at 3:30. Open with music by the Band. Singing by the Gesang Verein Concordia. Selection—"Das Deutsche Lied." Kalliwoda.

Welcoming address by J. J. Browne. Singing by the Glee Club. Selection—"Anthem." "He has not del. so with any Nation." Address by Wm. H. Everts. Singing by the Gesang Verein Concordia. Selection—"Der Wald." Waeser.

More Building. There is no cessation to the building epidemic in Spokane Falls. On every street can be seen unmistakable signs of progress. The highways and avenues are clogged with mortar beds, brick, lumber, and litter consequent upon growth of this description. The trowel and hammer ring out anthems of progression in unison, and the hardy mechanic finds more to do than he is capable of accomplishing. Besides the brick buildings under way, the durability of which, together with those heavy iron framing, attracts the attention of the beholder, there are innumerable frame residences in course of construction, scattered all over the territory embraced within the four sides of the corporate limits. These houses are of every kind, from palatial mansions, costing away up in the thousands, to the humble shanty, requiring an outlay of only a few hundred. There are a large number of these buildings in every degree of construction, now in the hands of the builders, and a great many more will be rushed through before winter puts a stop to operations. And while this addition to the city goes on in the shape of private dwellings, business edifices are not forgotten. It is rather in the season to commence putting up any large brick structures, but a few more frame houses will go up this fall, while those contemplating extensive improvements will postpone further operations until next spring. One of the most important of these buildings to be completed this month is the one that is immediately to be built on the lot at the southeast corner of Main and Howard streets, the former site of the Black Hawk stables. The parties who recently purchased the property have let the contract for a good size, attractive one-story frame, and work has already commenced. J. A. Stewart is the carpenter who has the job in hand, and being a competent workman, we look for a creditable building when finished. There will be two good, large stores, both of which, we understand, have been spoken for. The building will be so put together that no difficulty will be experienced in removing when the time comes for ornamenting the corner with a brick block, which will probably be next summer.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

The regular monthly meeting of the City Council of Spokane Falls...

COMMUNICATED.

The Doctrine of Metempsychosis illustrated by Beecherism...

In an apologue an animal is permitted to talk; as though he were a human being...

His reflections were the following: "I am not a philosopher..."

These surmises overwhelmed him in doubt, and difficulty, which caused him to cry out: "I had I served my God as faithfully as I have..."

Adapted to Fruit. Although this country is comparatively new and but recently settled...

"But I can give voice to my feelings. One withereth and another flourisheth..."

"Peace, Beecher, sole brother of my heart," said the Jackass. "In your unlimited researches after knowledge..."

But this doctrine has even a wider truth. The souls of animals are like those transmigrated into the bodies of creatures who have the semblance of human beings...

The evolutionist replies: "If I am indeed but the walking and human tabernacle of so despicable a brute, how does it come that the members of the church, uphold me as their leader and spiritual guide..."

At this stage of the dialogue a stable man approached with a lantern in his hand, and the great philosopher and orator fearing his conversation with the Jackass might be overheard and the knowledge thus obtained made use of to cast ridicule on him...

These surmises overwhelmed him in doubt, and difficulty, which caused him to cry out: "I had I served my God as faithfully as I have..."

Although this country is comparatively new and but recently settled, yet limited experiments and experience have proven that the soil and climate is peculiarly adapted to the growth of almost all the hardier varieties of fruits indigenous to the temperate zone...

The Jackass, who has a place five miles east of this city, but who expects to move in nearer town. Mr. Davidson has been engaged in fruit raising for over twenty-five years...

ant to the taste. Mr. D. has every confidence in the adaptability of this soil to the production of fruits of all kinds, and will therefore make still greater investments and add more largely to his nursery next season...

Last Saturday we enjoyed a long and pleasant call from Hon. R. S. Cook, of Owatonna, Minnesota, who was on his way home from the Sound, where he had been spending several weeks looking about the country...

He dwelt upon the superior attractiveness of a town, and its appearance of things, well connected with the soil. Speaking of the character of the buildings in process of construction he said that they were far ahead of those of any city or town he had yet visited...

Mr. Cook feels so well convinced that the Falls is ultimately to be a large city that he intends to return next spring and may probably locate here permanently...

On Friday night the train coming west cut the left arm of an Indian near Sand Point. It seems that two Indians were on a railroad trestle near that place when the train came in sight...

Mr. Davidson also showed us a fine, large Downer seedling apple, handsome in appearance, juicy and very palatable. This apple is from a tree four years of age. It is a hardy tree, solid fruit, with good record for keeping, and a prolific bearer...
