

There is no question before the people of this city which is of so much importance as that connected with the supply of pure spring water for domestic purposes. The sooner this great want is supplied, the better it will be for the comfort, health and safety of our city. A great many owners of property in our city wonder why they have been denied the privilege of having pure water brought in pipes to their very doors even this long. They will probably go without pure water several months longer than they should, owing to refusal on the part of the council to take such action as would have occasioned labor on water works to have been begun ere this. And if the wishes of a very few interested persons are carried out, residents of this city will never have the privilege of using pure spring water. Every possible restriction will be offered to keep pure and wholesome water out of the city. This is in the interest of an inferior quality of water, such as some persons would not use in certain months of the year.

DIVIDING OREGON AND WASHINGTON.

The Olympia Standard was moved to publish this: "A close observer of the course of the legislature and the tenor of the members, the whole session remarked the other day that he could see no good reason why a community so diverse in its feelings and interests as eastern and western Washington should desire to be embraced under a state constitution; that there was something more than a geographical division to separate the districts. This is a subject for deep thought, before further steps are taken to secure statehood."

In discussing this subject the Walla Walla Union has said:

It would not be a bad idea to let the Cascade mountains divide Oregon and Washington into two states; the Willamette valley and Puget Sound forming one and eastern Washington and Oregon constituting another. According to the census of 1880, Oregon contained 174,767, and Washington 73,120 inhabitants. If a state were formed out of western Oregon and Washington, it would contain about 175,000 inhabitants. A state composed of eastern Oregon and Washington would contain about 75,000 people. The Territory of Washington is ready to become a state. Why not divide Oregon and Washington and make a great sea coast state out of the one and an inland empire out of the other? The scheme is practicable, and at first glance seems advisable. One of the strongest reasons for carrying out the scheme is found in the extract from the Standard that there is an irreconcilable diversity of interests and feelings between the inhabitants of the eastern and western portions of Washington and Oregon. The variance is as great as the difference in the physical geography of the two sections. What have the press and the people to say about the proposition?

To all of which we beg leave to offer a modest protest. Such a division would not be of advantage to the greatest number of our citizens. The very fact that there is a diversity of interests and resources east and west of the Cascades is good evidence that such sections should be united in a state government. It would be advantageous to Portland, and possibly to Walla Walla, to make the Cascades the dividing line between two great states; but in other important sections the advantage of such a division cannot be appreciated. We are quite certain that our interests are identical with those of Puget Sound, and anything which tends to alienate the two sections is directly opposed to the best interests of the people of Northeastern Washington.

Guiteau's Trial.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—In the Guiteau case, Scoville concludes his argument to the jury, and Guiteau will probably address them to-day. Judge Porter is not well enough to make his speech to-day and the court adjourned until Monday. It seems to be the impression in Washington that Guiteau will be found guilty of murder in the first degree.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The Irish League fund of New York amounts to $200,630. During the year 1881, 716,867 immigrants arrived in America.

Geo. Hart, indicted for the murder of Michael Cress, at Grand Island, broke jail this morning with a prisoner named Darcy, burning through the ceiling into the county treasurer's office, and then putting the fire out with a pail of water.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 20.—Discrepancies have been discovered in the accounts of the financial secretary of the union republican club, Thos. A. Cook, and he has resigned. The amount of default is not known.

New York, Jan. 20.—The Tribune says: A sad account is given in another column of the condition of Mrs. Lincoln. She is now in this city, taking medical treatment for complaint of the spine and eyes, and has spent the time in a partially darkened room, deprived of the solace of reading and unable to get up and down stairs without assistance.

ALBANY, Jan. 20.—The senate has appointed a committee to investigate the Spuyten Duval disaster.

The house has taken six ineffectual ballots to elect a speaker.

CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—The Tribune announces that perpetual motion has been discovered by Prof. Josephus Garrett, who has been a mechanic for many years, and is in no respect cranky. His system consists of two cylinders working transversely in a vacuum upon a model which works until the bearings are worn out, thus creating practically perpetual motion.

Samuel J. Medill was to-day elected president of the Chicago press club.

Some 1,000 citizens signed the call for an anti-mormon meeting Monday night. It is intended to make a strong protest in congress against allowing polygamy any longer to disgrace American civilization.

Another Death in Seattle

SEATTLE, W. T., Jan. 20.—Louis V. Wyckoff, sheriff of King county, died suddenly at his residence in this city this morning.

He arose as usual, but acting a little strange, his wife asked him what was the matter. He turned toward her and replied, "I am dying," and then he fell upon the bed and expired. Mr. Wyckoff came to this city in 1864, and has ever since remained here. He was elected sheriff in '71, which office he has held ever since. No better man walked the streets than L. V. Wyckoff, and his sudden death has cast a pall over the whole community.

The past five days have been days of tragedy, fatality and excitement in this little city, one man committing suicide, one being murdered, three being hung, and one falling dead.

Farmers are very much annoyed by the thieving cattle and horses which steal hay and other articles from their wagons and sleds while unattended in this city.

L. Blumner & Co. have sold their handsome drug store in Union block, corner First and Stark, Portland, to Chas. Cornelius, son of the late Ben. Cornelius of Washington county, Or., who will take charge in a few days.

Columbia county prospered last year. It is pleasant to record items like this from the Chronicle which says: "While there were mortgages received at the rate of one for every day in the year, there were 155 real, and 63 chattel mortgages satisfied, at least double the number satisfied in any preceding year."

From Wednesday's Daily.

A general thaw is threatened.

Harry Hayward will be able to open out his stock of goods next Monday.

Attendance at our district schools has increased so that the number now is nearly one hundred.

Miss Eleanor, daughter of Governor Newell, and John Fowell Jordan, eldest U. S. Navy, were married on the 13th inst.

Two hundred and eighteen out of the 230 property owners in our city are anxiously waiting for the council to permit spring water to be brought into our streets.

The U. S. mail back in this city is now provided with the finest straight-runners to be seen upon our streets—the work being done at the Eagle blacksmith shop, with F. A. Stanford as blacksmith.

CASCADE PASS.—The Tacoma Ledger says: Engineer Eckleson, having finished his work on the Snoqualmie Pass, last Monday moved over on the Tacoma Pass route, where work will be continued all winter if practicable. Work will be done on one of the passes leading into Green river which has not hitherto been explored, and report says that a preliminary examination shows the entire practicability of building a railroad through it, and the tunnel will be only 1,000 feet in length.

Puget Sound Pilots.

At a meeting of the Pilot Commissioners of Puget Sound, held at Port Townsend, on December 30, 1891, the following preamble, orders and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The Legislature of Washington Territory has repealed the pilot law, entitled "An act to establish pilots and pilot regulations for Juan de Fuca Strait, Puget Sound, and all American waters pertaining thereto," which act was approved January 30, 1888, and

WHEREAS, There is no pilot law, and it becomes necessary for this board to close up its business: it is therefore

Ordered, That all licenses heretofore issued by this board be, and the same are hereby revoked, and the bonds to the same are hereby cancelled; and it is further Ordered, That the secretary give notice to merchants, underwriters, boards of trade and chambers of commerce and all persons interested in the commerce of Puget Sound, that from and after January 1st, 1892, there will be no legally authorized pilots for Puget Sound except English pilots, acting under the authority of licenses granted by the Pilot Commissioners of British Columbia, and steamboat pilots acting under licenses of the United States steamboat inspectors.

Resolved, That this board regret that the late legislative assembly of Washington Territory, after repealing the old pilot law, should have adjourned without making suitable provision for the protection of our commerce by the enacting of a new law which would have corrected the errors and defects of the former act, and would have protected the interests of underwriters, owners and pilots, and this board before it shall finally adjourn desires to record its unanimous opinion that the commercial interests of Puget Sound imperatively demand that the next legislative assembly, which will meet in 1892, shall enact such pilotage laws as will be efficacious and just.

We understand Dr. Littlefield and seven other prominent men arrived on the train last night and took supper at the Delmonico Restaurant, leaving friend Dodge in the best of spirits.

CEMETERY.—The fact is made known that Mr. Brown does not wish a burial place to be made on his lands west of this city, and it is necessary for the city authorities to take proper steps toward securing a permanent burial place. A. M. Cannon, F. R. Moore and L. H. Whitehouse are the members of the committee. The most suitable grounds should be selected, of course. Any offers will be patiently listened to by the committee.

BABY INJURED.—On Tuesday evening, while the engine in Small's mill, at the front, was stopped on the center, Honer Cleveland undertook to render assistance in starting it by pulling on the fly wheel. It seems that the wheel was turned on and the wheel and large belt started with such force as to throw the man down violently, breaking his jaw, paralyzing his lower limbs at least temporarily, and injuring him internally. He was brought to this city this morning, and is now under the care of Dr. C. V. Jones. Dr. Whitehouse was a passenger on the train going west this morning.

With the introduction of pure spring water into our streets, the value of all real property in our city will be increased 20 per cent. No wonder our citizens are getting interested in the matter, and are disappointed because the privilege to lay the water pipes is not granted.

DISAPPEARED.—From Lane Gilliam we learn that a farmer named Cart-right, living on Cottonwood, came into Spokane Falls some ten days or more ago, and selling his team and wagon for $400 cash, proceeded to gamble it off. About the time the money was dissolved Cartright disappeared and has not since been seen or heard of. His friends fear that he has been foully dealt with.—Union.

The Portland "Standard" of last Saturday said: "A gentleman recently arrived in this city from Lake Pend d'Oreille is authority for the statement that it was understood among a number of railroad men in that section that Mr. J. L. Hallett had resigned as superintendent of construction of the Northern Pacific line, and that the resignation had been referred to the president of the company. Various rumors were afloat regarding the case, principal of which was that Mr. Hallett, who is the favorite of Mr. Wilson, strongly objected to the keen supervision and strict business method of Messrs. Sprague and Fairweather, who are reported to be not in unison with the styles of work adopted by the gentleman aforesaid. This is all rumor, however, and we simply tell the story as it was told us.

Remedy for Trouble.

Work is your true remedy. If misfortune hits you hard, you hit something else hard; pitch into something with a good will. There's nothing like good, solid, exhausting work to cure trouble. If you have met with losses, you don't want to be awake and think about them. You want sleep, calm, sound sleep—and eat your dinner with appetite. But you can't unless you work. If you say you don't feel like work, and go loafing all day to tell Tom, Dick and Harry the story of your woes, you'll lie awake and keep your wife awake by your temper and your breakfast the next morning and begin to-morrow feeling ten times worse than you do to-day. There are some troubles that only time can heal, and perhaps some that never can be healed at all; but all can be helped by the great panacea, work. Try it, you who are afflicted. It is not a patent medicine. It has proved its efficiency since first Adam and Eve left behind them, with weeping, their beautiful Eden. It is an efficient remedy. All good physicians on regular standing prescribe it in mental and moral disease. It operates kindly as well, leaving no disagreeable effects, and we assure you that we have taken a large quantity of it with the most beneficial results. It will cure more complaints than any nostrum in the materia medica, and comes nearer to being a "cure-all" than any drug or compound of drugs in the market. And it will not stick to you if you do not take it sugar-coated.

LYNCH LAW IN SEATTLE.

One Man Assassinated and Three Criminals brought to Judgment.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE TIMES.

SEATTLE, W. T. Jan. 18.—On the 17th Geo. B. Reynolds, a prominent citizen of this city, was stopped by foot pads who demanded his money. Instead of complying with their request, he made a motion as if reaching for a pistol, when the foot pads fired. Young Reynolds died two hours after he was shot. The whole community was aroused, and soon a vigilance committee was formed and a vigorous search was made for the murderers. James Sullivan, a one armed man and Wm. Howard were discovered late last night on the wharf. They were given into the combined custody of the chief of police and the sheriff, who locked them up in the county jail.

On being searched there was found in their possession a revolver with one chamber empty, from which experts decided the cartridge was discharged during the evening. The men, as far as age, size and general appearance are concerned, answered the description given of the assailants by George B. Reynolds on his death bed; and also the descriptions given by Rev. Jno. C. Fair and Capt. Weeks, of the men who stopped them on the street Monday night, demanding money or their lives. When these facts became known, the excitement of the committee of safety, who numbered among their members almost every man in town, became intense. About 200 men marched to the jail where they were met by the sheriff, deputy chief of police and one aid, who parleyed with the committee a few minutes and finally agreed to take the prisoners before Justice Combs in the morning for examination. Before separating the committee took the shoes of Sullivan and Howard for the purpose of comparing them with the tracks known to be made by the murderers. Plas- ter of paris casts made by these tracks and the shoes found to correspond in every particular. This morning the court assembled at Yester's Hall, Justice Combs presiding. Justice Cannon sat beside him, and Chief Justice Greene, of the Territorial supreme court on another.

Rev. Jno. C. Fair swore they were the men who stopped him Monday night.

Capt. Weeks, in a positive manner, identified them as the men who assaulted him; also swearing that the revolver taken from Sullivan was the one levelled by Sullivan upon him. Weeks' testimony was strong and unequivocal. While the evidence was being taken preparations for the execution of the prisoners were being made outside by the committee of safety. A strong timber was suspended from the forks of two trees on Occidental square, over which were being passed long ropes with nooses tied to the end, under which was placed a wagon. The justice finally announced the examination over, and remanded the prisoners into the custody of the sheriff for indictment and trial at the April term of the district court.

He had hardly uttered the words before strong men seized every officer in the room and tightly held them. Other men seized Sullivan and Howard, and lifting them up as though they were small children, started on the run to the place of execution. Nothing of the kind has ever been done so quick: for in less time than it takes to write it, the unhappy men were thrown into the wagon, the nooses drawn tightly around their necks, and the wagon drawn from under them and Sullivan and Howard were suspended between earth and heaven. Their struggles were few and short. In ten minutes they were dead, though the bodies were left hanging an hour. A few minutes after the hanging, Judge Greene rushed to the spot with a drawn knife and attempted to cut the rope which held them up. He was seized by a number of persons, overpowered and forcibly removed from the scene.

The double execution being over, 400 members of the committee of safety marched again to the jail and demanded the person Benj. Payne, kept there for the murder of police officer Sires in October last. The officer in charge refused to surrender his charge. The committee proceeded to take him, tore down the jail fence; cut and beat the three doors between them and the assassin, and soon had him. Two minutes later they had him also at the place of execution. A third rope was thrown over the beam, and Payne was quickly drawn up between the other two. The three were allowed to hang an hour or so, when all were removed to the undertaker's room and shortly after buried.

Guiteau's Trial

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Guiteau opened to-day's proceedings with the following little speech: "I received thirty checks yesterday, representing about $10,000; some of them worthless, and many are no doubt good. I don't want any one to send me worthless checks. I do my own banking business and my checks should be made out to my order. Any one who desires to send money can do so; but I don't want any worthless checks."

"Well he ain't my reference. I have got better men than he is for reference." The prisoner denied the evidence alluded to by Reed that he struck his father at a table, and said he was a peaceable man, and didn't fight. If he didn't like one he told them to get out, and that settled it. Reed said, "Probably the prisoner forgot that fact."

mind, and its object. This conspiracy was to hang the prisoner." Scoville proceeded to name the conspirators as the district attorney, Judge Porter, Mr. Davidge and five of the government experts, Drs. Gray, Hamilton, McDonald, Kempster and Wooster. As he proceeded, he warmed up with the subject, and denounced in severe language the extraordinary judicial act of Judge Davis. Had a newspaper been guilty of such a bold-faced attempt to influence the decision of an impending case, the editor would have been subject to arrest for contempt.

the crime committed by Guiteau by their attempts to boss and rule. WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—In the Guiteau case, Scoville still continues his argument. Guiteau is frequently interrupting his counsel, spoiling the effect of some of his passages. "Col. Reed, Scoville's associate, regretted Scoville's attack on the stalwarts, and thinks it a fatal mistake. The defense will probably conclude to-day. It is understood that the defense will, at the conclusion of Scoville's argument, make a motion to allow the prisoner to address the jury. It is not expected the case will go to the jury before Wednesday of next week."
