Coeur d'Alene Lake and Its Trib- utaries.

The following extracts we take from the Coeur d'Alene Spectator:

In intervals of work on the Coeur d'Alene bar last summer, Capt. Sorensen made several steamboat recon-noitering trips up the river. His map to which we refer, resulting from these surveys, shows Coeur d'Alene Lake to be T shaped, with an arm at right angles at the base; in other words, its general shape is not unlike the letter L, the arm, bending at right angles at the bottom, representing the head of the lake, the vertical line the main lake, and the cross the foot of the lake.

These three natural divisions are named respectively, Coeur d'Alene, Center and Fort lakes. The first is about ten miles long from east to west, the second twelve miles long from north to south, and the third ten miles long from east to west—each averaging about three miles in width. The average depth of water so far as soundings have been made, is shown to be about 150 feet. It is believed to be much deeper in the channel.

Into that part called Coeur d'Alene lake, and its northeast and southeast extremities respectively, empty the Coeur d'Alene and St. Joseph rivers; the first, navigable to the Old Catholic Mission, thirty-one miles from Coeur d'Alene bar, and by water sixty two miles from Fort Coeur d'Alene.

Just above the Mission are rapids, that bar further progress up the stream, which at this point, takes for the first time the character of a rapid mountain torrent.

The St. Joseph river is navigable for fifty miles above its mouth. Beyond are rapids, and unexplored country. Thirty miles above the mouth of the St. Joseph, and emptying into it, is the St. Mary's river, navigable fourteen miles from its junction with the former.

The average depths of these streams at low water is about twenty feet, while at the head of the lake's single outlet, Spokane river, the average depth is only twenty inches at the same stage. Accordingly, while the former are very sluggish below the rapids the latter has a swift current, throughout its entire course. In some parts where the mountains recede from the rivers, the banks are uniformly low and flat for miles, and here beautiful grassy meadows stretch away on either bank to the foot of the mountains which further on again approach and embrace the stream.

When floods occur the meadows are overflowed and the rivers become chains of lakes of greater or less length, and averaging three miles in width.

Capt. Sorensen states that about three miles of shore line at the southwest corner of the lake are still unsurveyed and that from some point in this section a wagon road is said to run to the Snake river landings via Rockford. Freight brought to the terminus of such a road on the lake, and thence shipped by steamer to the post, would find a route about forty miles shorter than the present one via Spokane Falls.

The Coeur d'Alene bar is the only obstruction to a free passage of the steamer up the Coeur d'Alene, but the experience of last summer shows that even that is not a serious one, as the channel is easily dredged, and sufficient water for light draught obtained with little trouble. Only one shoal has been found in the lake; this lies about three miles from the head and two miles from the east bank of the Center lake.

Besides the rivers mentioned, there are several creeks, the principal ones, Wolf Lodge and Blue creek, emptying into the eastern part of Fort lake.

Our Schools.

The Willamette Farmer, in reviewing the report of our Territorial School Superintendent, says: "The report of the Superintendent to the Territorial Legislature shows that the school laws made by a Territorial Teacher's convention, which met at Olympia in July, 1876, and afterwards at Seattle in July, 1877, and a third session was held in Olympia in 1877. The result of this deliberation was embodied in a bill passed by the Territorial Legislature that went into operation Jan. 1st, 1877. This revision seems to have been successful in affording the people of Washington a perfected school system, which works to the satisfaction of all friends of education. The Board of Education of the Territory received no compensation for time or services, other than the payment of actual expenses incurred, and there is no chance for speculation with school funds. The tables published with regard to statistics is imperfect, because in eight counties the Superintendents have failed to make their annual reports, but we have reviewed the same and, making a computation from the reports made in 1876, place the number of school children enrolled in the Territory at the present time, at over 12,000. The number of children and persons of school age in the Territory must be over 25,000, and even more than that, as there has been rapid growth in all parts of the Territory during the two years since the enumeration of 1879 was made. It is also necessary to remember that a great portion of the Territory is sparsely settled, and that what population there is has come in at a rapid rate of late, and as a natural consequence the school districts have not been as yet fully organized in many of their newly populated regions. The amount of common school fund apportioned to the several counties two years ago was over $100, 000, which shows that Washington has already the foundation laid for a generous public support for common schools."

Send your little child to bed happy. Whatever cares press, give it a warm good night kiss as it goes to its pillow. The memory of this in the stormy days which may be in store for the little one, will be like Bethlehem's star to the bewildered shepherds. My father—my mother loved me! Nothing can take away that blessed heart balm. Lips parched with the world's fever will be soothed downy again, as the child's youthful memories. Kiss your little child before it goes to bed.

Work of the Month
The first thing a farmer must do, with his fruit trees this month is to overhaul them, prune them, thin them out and head them back till they look almost ruined.
A little radical, yet necessary, re-good crops in the future. While overhauling the trees he should scrub off all the dead bark, especially if the orchard is old. If it is young, there may still be winter killed spots, with dead bark, which should be removed before it becomes a hiding place for insects. If he has no young orchard he should go straightway to the best nursery he knows of, and buy trees to make one. If the orchard is sod-bound with grass, he should plow it. The litter from yards, wood houses and barns may be hauled out and put over the roots of the trees to the improvement of yards and trees.
Don't make the mistake of piling it around the tree, but spread it evenly over the ground.

Send your little child to bed happy. Whatever cares press, give it a
the stormy days which may be in
Bethlehem's star to the bewildered
child before it goes to bed.

O, SAN! CAN'T YOU SEE?—There is money to be made by getting your bill-heads printed. You can send such a bill through mail to a customer anywhere, for one cent, while one made out in writing, can't be sent for less than letter postage. A thousand bill heads printed cost from eight to ten dollars per thousand, and one can save on that lot on postage alone $20.
Can't you see the milk in the cocoa-nut?

If a feller catch a feller carrying off his wood, should a feller whale a feller if a feller could? Intentional theft!

If a body want a body him to advertise, shouldn't a body pay a body to advertise?

If a body catch a body winking at his wife, should a body with a pistol take a body's life?

Grape vines should be trimmed this month. Cut away at least four-fifths of last year's wood, and train the vines on trellis or stakes.

Gooseberry and currant bushes should be pruned thoroughly. A heavy ground mulching with any course litter, straw, tan-bark, chips sawdust, any old refuse matter that comes handy will pay well this year and years after.

Hot beds should be repaired and seed sown in them for early plants.

This is the month for plowing gardens and all grounds intended for roots and vegetables.

The manure piles around the barns should be spread on the meadows and gardens so that the spring rains will leach its substance and fill the ground with new plant food.

No better month could be selected for clearing up the yards, building fences around the house, planting out shrubbery and flowers, beautifying the home generally, so that the children will love it and like to stay there.

Hon. Fernando Wood died at Hot Springs, Arkansas, on Sunday night.
He was born in Philadelphia June, 1812, of Quaker parentage, and from the occupation of a cigar maker rose to be a ship-owner and successful merchant of New York city. He served repeatedly as a member of the house of congress, and was mayor of New York city from 1855 to 1857 and from 1861 to 1863. In the latter capacity in 1861 he created a great sensation throughout the nation by recommending that New York secede from the union and state and become a free city. His long public career has been marked by intense partisan spirit which has called down upon him severe criticism from the republican leaders and press, by fair abilities and a tireless activity.

The per centage of increase of population in the territories, from 1870 to 1880, a period of ten years, is given as follows:

Territory	Pop. 1870	Pop. 1880
Dakota	824	124,502
Arizona	329	40,441
Washington	213	75,120
Wyoming	128	20,788
Idaho	114	32,611
Montana	100	39,187
Utah	66	143,907
New Mexico	29	118,436

Send your little child to bed happy. Whatever cares press, give it a
the stormy days which may be in

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—There is good authority for the assertion that Gould has purchased the Montreal Telegraph Company. With this purchase and a system now organizing for Mexico, he is autocrat of the wires of the continent.

FARGO, Feb.—The N. P. railroad company has ordered to be delivered during the present year, thirty large standard freight engines, 600 box cars, 400 stock cars, 500 flat cars, and a lot of new sleepers. This modest little order was given to the Barney & Smith Car Company, and will aggregate $1,500,000. This is a little more than the present number of cars now owned by the Northern Pacific, and when received their rolling stock will be double its present capacity...

The O. R. & N. Co. will after March 1st carry wheat and other produce from Walla Walla to Portland for eight instead of ten dollars per ton.

During the present special term of court, Alex. Shannon acts for the sheriff, and Ben Bravinder has been appointed bailiff.

ANOTHER MEETING OF BRIDGE BUILDERS.

A FREE BRIDGE TO BE BUILT AT SPOKAN FALLS.

Persuant to adjournment, another meeting of the citizens of Spokan Falls was held in Graham's Hall, last evening, with Mr. Zigler in the chair. Reports from the committees on survey and subscriptions were heard, all favoring in an overwhelming manner the location of a free bridge at the foot of Howard street.

Mr. McCammon moved that the committee on subscriptions, as now constituted, shall continue their labors, and report to a meeting of subscribers to the bridge, to be held at Graham's Hall Saturday evening, Feb. 10, at 8 o'clock.

MORE GOOD NEWS.—Mr. H. M. McCartney, chief engineer of the Ben d'Orville division of the N. P. R. R., has authorized an agent in this city to rent for him a dwelling house. As there are no very good houses available at present, we presume he will have to take up temporary residence in the best he can procure and await the erection of a more suitable structure.

We learn from reliable authority that Judge Wingard was instrumental in giving this section of country its last heavy mails, by ferrying the same across a swollen stream this side of Walla Walla. We all thank him.

Mr. Freidenrich, of the firm of Freidenrich & Berg, will start for San Francisco in a few days to purchase new goods for the spring trade. In the mean time, goods at the Boss Store will be sold at the very lowest figures.

NOTICE TO CARPENTERS!

Over the Falls.

A SKIFF OVERTURNS WHILE CROSSING THE SPOKAN RIVER, JUST ABOVE THE FALLS.

On last Saturday afternoon, while W. T. Nicholls and I. T. Benham were engaged in fishing in the upper end of town, they saw an Indian and his woman with a small baby attempt to cross the swollen stream in an open boat. By holding to the ferry rope, the boat was pulled from the shore. The Indian man sat in the bow of the boat and his clootchnan near the middle—both holding to the rope. As the frail craft glided into swift water the current bore so hard against it as to frighten the natives, and instead of dropping the stern of the boat down stream, they held on firmly and caused it to capsize. They still clung to the rope, which held them above water, and their shrieks were indeed heart-rending. The ferry-man was carrying a passenger about 100 yards below them; but it was useless to undertake to stem the current. He landed his passenger on the opposite shore, rowed up along the bank of the river where the current was light, then crossed over. In the meantime Mr. Nicholls, a man of cool judgment, had arrived at the scene, and was trying to urge the Indians to work their way to shore. As the ferryman reached land, the Indians were so exhausted they let go and were washed down stream. Mr. Nicholls jumped into the skiff and started for the rescue. He passed the woman who was swimming nobly, and caught the man by the hair as he ceased to swim. With the red man clinging to the edge of the skiff, Mr. Nicholls hurriedly pulled for the woman, and all were being swept rapidly toward the falls. The woman gladly grasped hold of the boat, and the brave young man pulled them to shore, landing just above the rapids. The natives were so exhausted they had to be hauled out of the water.

And now the saddest part of the incident we relate: When the skiff capsized, the infant, which was strapped with its back to a board, became separated from its mother. It descended the river in company with the boat, and was seen tossed by the waves, as it dashed down to the rapids to the falls. There the faint murmurings of the struggling child were hushed by the thundering of the mighty cataract.

Mr. Patrick Egan was in this city last Saturday. He left his team seven miles this side of Colfax. He has gone back with an additional team and wagon, and will divide his load of 3,400 lbs., in order to reach this city as early as possible. Therefore, our supply of paper will be forthcoming in a few days. Mr. Egan, we think, is entitled to just credit for the manner in which he has battled against the elements, and made some progress when the roads were almost impassable.

Among those present to attend court, we notice the familiar faces of Hon. N. T. Caton, D. F. Percival, Judge Barney, L. E. Kellogg, Mr. Griswold, Thos. Ford, Wm. Marshall, M. Smythe, S. C. Liberty, J. M. Hutton and many others whose names we do not now call to mind.

Capt. Nosler's professional card will be observed in another column. Persons wishing to buy choice real estate will do well to call upon him. He is giving his full attention to real estate business.

Cavalry horses have been dying at Fort Colville for some unknown cause. The veterinary surgeon of the 1st cavalry regiment passed through this city for the purpose of examining them.

Engineer Knapton, in charge of the Sheels surveying party, is locating the branch road of the N. P. Co. from a point on the main line 14 miles north of Ainsworth up the Yakima river.

Our March weather has, so far, been very pleasant, as the meteorological table, prepared by Sergt. Moore of the U. S. Signal Service, will show.

THE "TIMES" GEM MAP OF GREAT SPOKAN COUNTRY.

Gives the Location, Distance and Direction from SPOKAN FALLS of each Town and Military Post tributary to this Great Center, also, the directions to be followed by the two proposed Railroads now under course of construction (showing how they are to enter and pass through the city of Spokan Falls.) It is pronounced a "real Gem." It gives the location of all the principal and many little towns between British Columbia on the north, Oregon on the south, Idaho on the east, and Camp Spokan on the west. The "TIMES GEM MAP" is more accurate than any other yet published. Price, on Postal or other Cards, only six cents each; two for 10 cents, or six for 25 cents. Send Postage Stamps, or coin, to TIMES, Spokan Falls.

Thursday Evening Club.

On last Thursday evening, at rather a late hour for commencing the exercises of a literary society, the large audience assembled at the chapel was favored with music on the organ by Mrs. Brandt, songs by Mr. Graham and a recitation by Mr. Absolum; after which the debate took place, participated in by Messrs. Zeigler, Absolum and Batten. Unfortunately there were no judges appointed to decide the question on the merits of the argument. This evening, after music, readings, recitations, etc., the following question will be discussed: "Resolved, That Washington Territory should be admitted into the Union as a state under the constitution framed in 1878." Col. Jenkins will open the debate on the part of the affirmative, and Hon. N. T. Caton on the part of the negative. Other members of the bar have promised and are prepared to take part in the debate.

Stage, who has removed his stock of poultry from Walla Walla to his pretty home one mile southeast of Spokan Falls, informs the public in an other column of the Times that he is prepared to furnish fine chickens or choice eggs on very reasonable terms. Call at his farm, or address the proprietor.

Mr. Isaac Oppenheimer, of Colville, left this city for Portland, Tuesday, to visit with relations and friends for a few weeks. The silver wedding of his aged and highly respected parents will be celebrated on the 19th of the present month.

NURSERY.—Mr. Davidson, informs us that he will soon remove his nursery from Moran Prairie to this city, with the idea of taking advantage of the means to be afforded for shipment by cars, stages, &c.

RETURNED.—Mr. Peter Bracken has returned from a winter's vacation and a visit to San Francisco. He says Spokan Falls is the prettiest, cleanest, dryest townsite he has seen since he left the Golden State. It will be remembered that Mr. Bracken kept the mess-house for the N. P. officers last summer. He has returned to resume his labors. He will take temporary charge of the mess-house on Hangman creek, and will soon arrange for boarding the men again at the front. We are glad to welcome him back once more.

ANDERSONVILLE!!

By JOHN H. McELROY, Late of Co. L 16th Ill. Cav.

"Andersonville" will be a book of 656 large pages, and will contain about three hundred illustrations, drawn under the immediate supervision of the author. It is simply the daily experiences of a soldier, who, captured by the rebels at the beginning of the war, was confined for 15 months in the prison pens of Richmond, Savannah, Andersonville, Milledgeville and Florence.

From out the heart of every loyal man and woman in this broad land goes forth a tender wish which circles itself around the memory of Andersonville, for that Georgia, in which lie the whitening bones of 13,000 gallant young men, represent to them very much of the highest and noblest sacrifice of the war, or the preservation of our national unity. It is more than hundred thousands of dead represent several times that many of their brethren, for whom the prison gates of Belle Isle, Danville, Salisbury, Florence, Columbia, and Cahaba opened only in eternity. There are few families in the north who have not at least one dear relative or friend among these 65,000 whose sad fortune it was to end their service for the Union by lying down and giving forth a soldier's last breath in the prison pens of the Confederacy. The number of their deaths, the horrors that clustered thickly around every moment of their existence, the loyal unflinching steadfastness with which they endured all that fate brought them has never before been adequately told. Hidden from the view of their friends in the North by the impenetrable veil which the military operations of the Rebels drew around the so-called Confederacy, the people were not aware of their suffering.

656 Large Pages.

The present book is the work of a man who is by taste and training a journalist. His reportorial habits of observation, of gathering, arranging and classifying facts, and of presenting them in a comprehensible manner were not allowed to lie dormant, but were exercised continually. The story is told in a plain, simple, straightforward way—told as a soldier would tell it, with a graphic and accurate description of places, scenes and incidents, but without any straining after effect or any pretentious word-painting—any attempt to excite prejudice or partisan hatred.

300 ILLUSTRATIONS!

The act of giving within bounds of this raid made into the enemy's country by the cavalry command in which he was serving as an enlisted man. They meet the Rebel cavalry and after a sharp fight, worst it badly, capturing it from them. For a while the Union cavalry live on the fatness of the land, but it is not long before they are trapped in a narrow valley into a Rebel camp where they are all captured and sent to Richmond. Two months of hardship and exposure on Belle Isle and the tobacco factories end by their being sent to Andersonville. The suffering in which they are held that enters the picture. Then comes six months of terribly suffering in which four out of five of those who enter die. This is ended by the fall of Atlanta, when the Rebels hurry the bulk of them off to other and more remote places of confinement.

PRICE, $3.00, CLOTH BINDING. Among the most thrilling recitals anywhere is that of the desperado who infested the prison pens of Richmond, Savannah, Andersonville, Milledgeville and Florence. This is the story of his life and career. Subscriptions received at the Times Office, Spokan Falls, or at FRANCIS H. COOK, Agent.
