Gold in Solution.

INTERVIEW WITH THE MAN WHO PROPOSES TO MAKE GOLD AS CHEAP AS SAND.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—A reporter was yesterday dispatched to interview Colonel Anson C. Tichenor regarding the discovery of gold in the Thermal springs, Calistoga. The springs are situated on the Calistoga hot springs hotel property. All the springs were sold three weeks since to Tichenor, his wife and Judge Andy, of Nebraska, for $14,000. Tichenor then gave out that the springs, especially that called "Chicken Soup," contained large quantities of gold in solution, and announced his intention of putting up works. His operations are carried on in a little shanty on one corner of the property. On one end stands a sixty gallon cauldron and heating furnace, besides an ordinary No. 2 test furnace, a few jars, bottles, an anvil, several cupples and crucibles, with some pieces of old lead complete the outfit. In reply to questions Tichenor, who is an emaciated looking man, about 45 years of age, spoke as follows:
I have for many years suspected that gold is held in solution in water. Why not? Do we not have chloride of gold, which has no affinity for quick-silver plate? Yet gold chloride is not metallic. I first experimented on water brought from the Pacific ocean at the Cliff house. From a gallon of this I obtained a net profit of $1.30, but this was not rich enough for me. Besides I came here, where the water is much richer. There are fifty springs here, all differing somewhat. There are sulphur, iron, quicksilver and magnesia springs and some combining all. From ten barrels I obtained $950.

The Earl of Airlie.

From the Oregonian.]
Among the passengers on the Steamer State of California appear the names of Mr. J. Ogilvie the Earl of Airlie, and Lady Ogilvie, his daughter. The Earl of Airlie is president of the Oregonian Railway Company, and comes for the purpose of looking over the interests of the company he represents in Scotland. He will probably remain several weeks in the State, during which time he will visit various portions of the valley. Col. John McCracken, one of the directors of the railway company, is also a passenger on the same steamer. Saturday morning, Donald Macleay, Esq., one of directors, and Ellis G. Hughes, the attorney for the company, left for Astoria, where they will meet the steamer and accompany the earl to this city.

Wheat and Cotton.

The wheat crop of 1880, there is now no reasonable question, will reach 480,000,000 bushels and over. At least 180,000,000 to 200,000,000 of this will be surplus, but it is yet extremely doubtful whether more than a 100,000,000 to 120,000,000 can be sold in Europe at a price at all approaching the sums received in the past three years for the surplus wheat crop of this country. Anything lower will mean loss of ordinary profits to thousands of farmers. The simple fact is, that short crops in Europe during three years, and poor crops for a longer time, have doubled the wheat production of this country without, so far as is at present known, doubling the European demand in a year of fair crops on that side of the Atlantic. At the same time, cheap food, in a sense, makes its own demand, the same population using up a great many more bushels when wheat is cheap than meets their demand when wheat is dearer.

Live Items.

Some supposed friends of a newspaper have peculiar ideas as to what kind of items a paper requires. Not long since a gentleman came into the Galveston News office and said: "Look here! You miss a heap of live items. I'm on the streets all day. I'm up once in a while and post you."

"All right, fetch on your items, but remember we want news."

Next day he came up beaming all over. "I've got a live item for you. You know that infernal bow-legged gorilla of a brother-in-law of mine, who was in business here with me?"

"I believe I remember such a person," said the editor, wearily.

"Well, I've just got news from Nebraska, where he is going to run for the Legislature. Now, just give him a blast. Lift him out of his boots. Don't spare him on my account."

Next day he came up again. "My little item was crowded out. I brought you some news," and he hands in an item about a cat as follows:

"A REMARKABLE ANIMAL.—The family cat of our worthy and distinguished fellow townsman, Smith, who keeps the boss grocery store of Ward No. 13, (been always on tap) yesterday became the mother of five singularly marked kittens. This is not the first time the unheard-of event has taken place. We understand Mr. Smith is being favorably spoken of as a candidate for Alderman."

The editor groans in his spirit as he lights a cigar with the effort. It is not long before he hears that Smith is going around saying that he has made the paper, what it is, but he is not independent enough for a place like Galveston.

Many readers will say this sketch is over-drawn, but thousands of editors all over the country will lift up their right hands to testify that they are personally acquainted with the guilty party.

Duluth.
Duluth, soft, liquid-sounding Duluth, the "zenth city" of Jay Cooke's dream and of Proctor Knott's wondrous speech, makes a sorry figure in the new census. The Northern Pacific stretches on into the wilderness; an arm reaches away into Manitoba; the Red River pours out its big crops of wheat from an annually increasing acreage; the whole northwest rapidly filling up; and yet Duluth, the young city which it was confidently predicted would handle the commerce of this vast region, actually declines in population.

The truth is Jay Cooke began a hopeless battle against nature when he founded the town. He laid it out on a hillside, where it was hung by the eyelids, as it were, ever since. He had only the open lake for a harbor, and when he undertook to make an artificial one by cutting through the tongue of land which forms the St. Louis Bay, the ice driven by the fierce storms of winter tore out the quibs and demolished the work. The grades and trestles on the road from the junction of the Northern Pacific to Duluth are fearful in the eyes of an engineer, and the road, such as it is, is kept in tolerable repair at ruinous expense. Who but Jay Cooke could ever have thought of building a city at such a place?

Only seven miles away, on the Wisconsin shore, is a level site, with forty miles of water frontage on bay and river, and a natural land locked harbor, which might be connected with the northwestern system of roads by a shorter route than that to Duluth and over perfectly easy grades. But what? The great city—if it shall be at all—it will certainly not be Duluth.—N. Y. Sun.

Under date of New York, September 23, the Chicago Tribune of the 3d contains the following dispatch:

The Earl of Airlie Castle, Scotland, with his son and daughter, has returned to New York, and is at present at the Windsor hotel. His estate is one of the largest in Scotland, and his influence, both in political and social life, is widely felt in his native country. He is one of the foremost of Scottish noblemen, and exceedingly popular among his people. He is a great admirer of republican form of government, and for many years has taken a great interest in the affairs of the United States. The earl and his son and daughter this morning took a ride through Central Park. The party visited the Metropolitan Museum. After spending about two hours in the park and museum the party returned to the Windsor hotel, where they entertained several of their old friends, who came into their country to reside many years ago. Later in the day the earl and his family were driven in a close carriage to the Grand Central depot, where they took the train for Niagara Falls. They had a special palace car for their use. Their baggage filled a truck, and to each piece was attached a metal tag, upon which was engraved the family coat of arms. It is the intention of the earl, after a short sojourn at Niagara, to visit Chicago, St. Louis, Salt Lake City and California, and if he has the time, he will make a southern trip. The object of his visit to the United States is not only to make personal observations of the country and people but to give his son and daughter a thorough knowledge of American habits and customs. If he should remain in this country until Congress convenes, he will visit Washington and take notes of the proceedings of that body.

State of Washington.

After considering our wonderful past growth, our solid present and our bright future, the editor of the Lewiston Teller says: "With this prospect ahead, can any sane man say that the people of Washington were premature in providing themselves with a constitution under which they may urge their admission as a full-fledged State? It is the height of nonsense to say that her people are incapable of supporting the burdens of a State government. Her great natural resources, exceeding those of almost any other State in the Union, combined with the energy of her population, composed of the more hardy and energetic from all the older States, entirely precludes the opinion that she will suffer by reason of her assuming statehood. There is no reason that can in justice be urged by Congress against her admission at the next session, and with a proper Delegate from Washington and a proper Delegate from Idaho, with good common sense, both in Congress at the next session, the work of admission can easily be accomplished. The Presidential election will be over, and no political game can be played by either party by reason of her admission, and there is no reason why both Democrats and Republicans should not accede to the wishes of the people of Washington for wearing the habiliments of a State."

Out Among the People.

On Tuesday last, we bade farewell, for a season, to the busy scenes of the city, and sitting behind one of King & Davenport's superb teams, drove out toward the coming city of the northwest, now called Cheney, alias Billings, alias Depot Springs, alias Section Thirteen.

o.s. Lumber was scattered all about; foundations were being laid; trees were being felled; and the continuous story of Cheney's future greatness was being told to wondering visitors.

When the goods arrive he will open out for general business. J. W. Still, he of good Republican proclivities, is establishing a butcher shop there; and two other men from the adjacent prairies, are putting up a livery stable.

Cheney during the past month, adding largely to the exchequer of the N. P. R. R. More blocks are being laid out, and this line of self-protection will be carried on all summer, if buyers are only plentiful enough.

Being of the regular telegraph and stage lines, Cheney ought to be supplied with mail facilities of some kind.

Our stay in the enterprising town of Cheney was necessarily brief, and we bade adieu to the embryo city, and swept over the hills toward Medical Lake. As our journey continued, roads improved and better farming lands encompassed us about; until well in the Four Lake country, where splendid farms and rich lands are seen on every hand.

W. Brower, would do credit to any new country. Situated as this little city is, by the side of the most famous watering place in the Northwest and in the midst of a fertile country, Medical Lake certainly has a bright future.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—It was nearly 6 o'clock and growing dark when Mand S was brought on the track. The sky was cloudy and a strong south wind was blowing.

We learn from Rev. Dr. Nevius that the school under the patronage of the Episcopal Church will open some time in October, according to announcement to be made next week.

It will be held in the building erected as a chapel and school house for the present. The services of an accomplished gentleman, Mr. O. B. Batten, of Maryland, have been secured, and he is on his way from the East. Mr. Batten is well known by Bishop Morris, and is commended by him.

WAS IT SUICIDE?—On Thursday last week, R. R. Grandford, acting coroner, was called to hold an inquest over the body of John Thos. Marshall, north of Pon Prairie. A revolver with three loaded and two empty chambers, was found with the body. Two wounds were inflicted, one on the forehead and another in the right ear. The verdict of the jury was in accordance with the above facts. It is hardly thought, by the neighbors, that Mr. Marshall came to his death by his own efforts.

Dr. Piper claims that either of the wounds would have prevented his shooting the second time. A pool of blood was smeared on the door step. It is claimed that he was evidently drawn into the house after the shooting took place. The case is a mystery, and the real cause of the young man's death may never be told.

AN AWFUL SIGHT.—Last Wednesday afternoon, at about 2 o'clock, a wind storm arose, bringing with it clouds of dust so thick as to hide the sun and shutting us up in utter darkness. In our office during that dreadful hour, we found it necessary to light up, for it was too dark to do anything; chickens went to roost and little children took off their shawls and whispered: "Kiss me good night, mother." It was the meanest spell of weather we ever saw and men rushed about covered with fine alkali dust, about an inch thick; we never saw the like and hope we never will again. After we had all the dust we wanted, it commenced to rain and then it brightened up and all looked serene by sunset.—Walla Walla Watchman.

Says the Tacoma Ledger: "Engineer V. G. Camp Chelan News.

CAMP CHELAN, W. T., Sept. 20, 1880.

The usual number of soldiers decorated the parade ground on the morning of Sunday, 19th of September, according to their honorable commanding officer for inspection, after which the boys were living in hopes which cannot be demonstrated through the medium of the pen.

An old challenge that had been drawn for three years past was answered and put into execution yesterday. The challenge contained strong and confirmed statements. It was made by N. Walsh of D company, 2d infantry, the captain of a base ball nine residing in the respective quarters of D, E and I companies of the 2d U. S. Inf.

The challenge was accepted by Tommy Andrews, the little hero of F company, also the bearer of the honorable title of captain of a base ball nine. According to contract, he gathered his little nine together and led them safely on the base ball ground of their antagonists.

The game was called at one o'clock, sharp, by the umpire, who was a professional base ball player, formerly of the White Stockings of Chicago. He was introduced on the grounds by N. Walsh and accepted by our brave little hero. The silver dollar was tossed and little Tommy gained the first innings to the bat for his brave and gallant nine, whose protection was sought only by playing and demonstrating audacity in the superlative degree.

After time had been called by the umpire, Wm. Gottes, of company F, was unanimously chosen scorer by both nines. J. Boies was called, who led off with a safe base hit; J. Mahady followed, giving credit with his usual score of nine. W. Gilbert was the next to the bat, swinging his bat with such velocity as to make 2d base, on his base hit, at the same time bringing home J. Boies which scored them one run. Next came O'Brien to the bat, who unluckily, which was never known before, was put out on three strikes. Murphy followed and added another run to the score; then came Grace, who made a splendid base hit, running to first he fell and stepped all over himself, putting the spectators in mind of a grasshopper dying with the hiccoughs; of course, as usual, he added another blank to the score. Next came the challenging nine to the bat. Nobby Walsh was the first who was gracefully caught out on a foul by Gilbert, the little Roman behind the bat. Then came Ashton, who scored a run; after which came Burke, who was put out on 2d; likewise Kelley, who was put out by a splendid throw from Gilbert, the catcher, to Tommy Andrews on 2d base, who caught the ball like a star and put it on his victim, when the umpire shouted at the top of his voice: "Three out! side out," which left three to one after the first inning in favor of F Co. I will not take your valuable space to state all the innings. The game ended at 3 P. M., with the score standing 29 to 2, in favor of the noble F Co. Let me here say that Tommy Andrews is undoubtedly the best 2d baseman in the 2d infantry; he catches the ball so easily and gracefully, that the spectators cannot but behold him in speechless wonder. May the tyrant live and add credit to F Co.'s base ball score sheets.

YAKIMA CORN.—The Record says: "We have been among the fields of yellow corn quite recently in this county, and though we run the risk of being accused of telling a whopper, yet it is nevertheless true, that on the farm of C. V. Fowler, in Moxee, opposite this place, a stalk of corn may be observed having eleven ears upon it, and they are not nuttish nuthers." Stalks are common having five and six ears. The other day he brought into town a stalk which had nine full grown ears upon it; Mr. Bourdais also brought in two stalks having 16 ears. Mr. Fowler's place is new land, and planted this season for the first time. We could publish hundreds of such instances of the remarkable productiveness of our soil did we desire.

No secret sin ought to have a "night key" to its doors. No wicked practice should have access to its back windows. Many present a sly temptation will present itself, at the door decently clad "in the white robe," and with a smooth word on its tongue. The dangerous sins are those which are "gently dressed."

The trustees of the Territorial hospital for the Insane have presented their annual report, from which we have culled the following:

August 15, 1879, there were 75 patients in the hospital. Since then 32 have been admitted. Discharged recovered 9; discharged improved 4; died 9; in all 22, leaving 85 now in the hospital, or a gain of 10. The percentage of recoveries is 28.13 and of mortality 8.42, which compares favorably with that of other like institutions. The ratio of insane in this Territory to the whole population is small, compared to that of other states. In California it is 1 to 454; in Oregon 1 to 523, while in Washington it is 1 to 870, or little more than half as great as that of California. The annual appropriation for the hospital is $26,000 and only $22,820.40, have been used. This sum was paid for the subsistence and clothing of the inmates; salaries of employes and for many permanent and valuable improvements. At the same time the food has been of the best quality and abundant. Of the admissions during the last year 5 each were from King and Pierce; 4 from Clarke; 2 each from Jefferson, Lewis, Spokan and Yakima and 1 each from Columbia, Cowlitz, Kitsap, Klickitat and Snohomish. Taking the average number of inmates during the year at 80, the whole cost per day for each patient has been about 78 cents. Altogether this showing is a good one and speaks well for the management of the institution in a financial and sanitary point of view.

CORNER STONE LAID.—The Masonic fraternity of The Dalles laid the corner stone of their new brick building, with the impressive ceremonies of the order. Mr. Conger, of Portland, was expected to be present on the occasion and act as grand master, but could not be present, and Dr. J. A. Richardson officiated. The fraternity met in their hall at 1 o'clock, and marched to the ground in full regalia. The Masonic hymn by Prof. Williams, Dr. Doane, and others; prayer was then offered by Rev. L. J. Whitcomb, followed by an excellent address by Rev. H. K. Hines. Another hymn was then sung, and the following articles deposited in the receptacle:

History of Wasco Lodge, with a list of masters from the time of its organization to the present time; copy of the proceedings of the grand lodge; proceedings of the grand chapter; the Holy Bible; copies of the Empire, Mountaineer and Times; photographs of the first and present master, and O. S. Savage; genealogy of the family of W. Lord; fraternal letters addressed to the W. M., whoever he may be; a number of ancient coins were also deposited; a copy of the Granite State Free Press published at Lebanon, N. H., by J. T. Storrs, S. W. The ceremonies were witnessed by a large crowd of interested spectators, who had congregated at the place for that purpose.

Hampton's Speech.

The speech delivered by Wade Hampton at the opera house at Staunton, Va., on the afternoon of Monday, July 26, has become so famous that it is proper to give the entire document, or at least that part of it which contains the remarkable passages so often heretofore referred to. The following, therefore, is the original and genuine report, as it appeared in the Staunton Valley Virginian of July 29. After alluding to the fact that his ancestors were Virginians and had fought side by side with the sons of the old State, and his own services in the late war, he said: "So it is that I am bound to you by bonds which death alone can sever. So it is that I, like so many veterans of the confederacy, am jealous of the honor and proud of the glorious heritage bequeathed to her by her Lee and Stonewall Jackson. Do not understand that I come here to dictate a policy to you, or to advise you what you must do; rather am I here to consult with you as a Democrat, as a man and as a southern soldier; as one who looks back to the time when he shared with you privations and suffering and defeat in the army of Northern Virginia."

I am here to voice the earnest hope that I feel, to utter the fervent prayer of my heart, that Virginia, the mother of States, will not prove recreant to her high traditions. We have always looked to her to lead, and we know that she has the right to do so. We know her history, and we know that in seeking the path of duty she has ever found the way to glory. I adjure you by your traditions, by all that you hold sacred, to lead again, Virginia, as you have done heretofore, not always to victory, but always to honor.

What is Virginia's duty now? You hardly realize how much depends on the action of your State. With a united South casting one hundred and thirty-eight electoral votes, we need only New York and Indiana, and I believe we shall have them. Will Virginia, when we have success within our very grasp, sacrifice the Democratic party, will she sacrifice the South, will she sacrifice the national government, by aiding, indirectly though it be, to elect a Republican President? I will not believe it. I stood four years by the side of Virginians, and I know the stuff of which they are made. In those four years I never saw them falter. At this crisis I cannot, I will not think that you prove recreant to the exalted teachings, the ennobling inspirations of your glorious past. Put by everything that distracts your attention from our one great object. Look only to that; fight for it and win the fight. I have nothing to say to you about your local differences; we have them in our own State, but we have resolutely put them behind us.

Realize if you can what will follow a Republican triumph in November. You have seen what strides that party has made toward centralization; you have seen your judge stricken down by the mailed hands of the national government; you have seen the Republican party mass troops at the polls to overawe your free suffrage; you have seen their deputy marshals, their supervisors, their returning boards—the instrument of an overthrow of the last vestige of State rights. I tell you, my countrymen, the fate of the South will be harder than ever if the Republican party is successful in this campaign. We shall behold no more free elections, no more untrammelled expression of political sentiment; and no one of us now living will ever again see a restoration to Democratic rule and principles.

If we elect the Democratic nominees the Republican party will go to pieces like a rope of sand. Their mission is ended, if ever they had a mission. There is nothing that holds them together to-day save the cohesive power of the spoils." The Democratic party is the party of peace and of union that would blot out all sectional differences forever, and it has proven this in the nomination of General Hancock at Cincinnati. There was but one feeling there among the southern delegates; that feeling was expressed when we said to the northern Democratic brethren

"give us any available man." They gave us that man, and we have put it in the power of the people to elect the ticket. They can elect it if they will. You will hear from one to-day who will speak for North Carolina. Governor Vance will confirm my words that we can carry the South, if we will only carry Virginia. He has come like me to appeal to you not to forsake us in the hour of need. Consider what Lee and Jackson would do were they alive. These are the same principles for which they fought for four years. Remember the men who poured forth their life blood on Virginia's soil, and do not abandon them now. Remember that upon your vote depends the success of the Democratic ticket.

Says the Independent: "It is noised around that quite exciting times prevail in several localities over the probable and possible result of the coming election as now anticipated.

Gentlemen, keep cool. Have a clear conscience when the tale is told next November. The medicine to effect this is to tell the truth and misrepresent the doings and sayings of none of the candidates or any one else. Be your own judge of men and vote for whom you please when the time comes. The men best qualified should fill the various offices in the Territory. As a general rule, the men who want office most are the least qualified for it. He who would use other than fair means to be elected, is unworthy your votes."

LAND OFFICE AT COLFAX, W. T., Sept. 25, 1880.

The Spokan Times

A Mistake.

A Western editor, whose style of writing was calculated to arouse people to deeds of gore, being himself not much on the muscle, found it necessary to keep a fighting editor, and he had a speaking tube connected with the heeler's room to call him when danger reported. One day a gentleman whom the editor had referred to as a cross-eyed dromedary, came in to request a correction, and as the fighting editor was out he didn't respond to the signal of distress, and while the editor and his visitor were on the floor under the desk, the former agreed to correct and the irate man left. Pretty soon a gentleman from the rural districts came in to give the editor a big squash and get a notice, and about that time the fighting editor returned, and a boy in his room told him that the boss wanted help. The man was quick to respond, and dashing into the chief's room and seeing the latter in a somewhat disordered condition, the result of his previous visit, he thought the countryman was the cause of it and climbed him, and after staying up some furniture, ran the victim across the street to where an empty hearse was standing in front of an undertaker's shop. Into the vehicle he jammed the farmer and shut the door. The commotion he had created scared the horses and they started off on a dead run. People soon noticed the runaway and ran after it, and were shocked at beholding the hearse collide with a post and become a total wreck, and their horror at seeing a human figure precipitated to the sidewalk was only equalled by their amazement at seeing it spring nimbly to its feet and take off across the country yelling murder. They thought it was an attempt to bury a man alive, and part of them went to get the undertaker to lynch him, while the rest pursued the farmer, who was found hiding in a swamp. And after he was brought in it took over three hours to get matters explained, and then the farmer went before a Justice of the Peace and made affidavit that he hoped to be struck by lightning if he ever entered a newspaper office again.

Keep to One Thing.

We earnestly entreat every young man, after he has chosen his avocation, to stick to it. Don't leave because hard blows are to be struck, or disagreeable work performed. Those who have worked their way up to wealth and usefulness, do not belong to the shiftless and unstable class, but may be reckoned among such as took off their coats, rolled up their sleeves, conquered their prejudices against labor, and mutually bore the heat of the day. Do not be ashamed of work, and of hard work. We can get, but work for half price rather than be idle. Be your own master, and do not let society or fashion swallow up your individuality—hat, coats and boots. Do not eat up or work out all you can earn. Complain your selfish body to spare something for profits saved. Be strict to your own appetite, but be useful to others' necessities. Help others and ask no help for yourself. See that you are proud. Let your pride be of the right kind. Be too proud to be lazy; too proud to give up to every difficulty; too proud to wear a coat that you cannot afford to buy; too proud to be in company that you cannot keep up with in expenses; too proud to lie, or steal, or cheat; too proud to be stingy.

MARK TWAIN'S NAME.

I have a horse by the name of Jericho. He is a mare. I have seen remarkable horses before, but none so remarkable as this. I wanted a horse that would shy, and this fills the bill. I had a deer last shying indicated spirit. It is correct, I have the most spirited horse on earth. He shies at everything he comes to with the utmost partiality. He seems to have a moral dread of telegraph poles especially; and it is fortunate that these are on both sides of the road, because as it is now I never fall off twice in succession on the same side. If I fell on the same side it would be monotonous after a while. The creature shied at everything he has seen to-day except a haystack. He walked up to that with an intrepidity that was astonishing. And it would fill any one with admiration to see how he preserved his self-possession in the presence of a barley sack. This dare devil bravery will be the death of this horse some day. He is not particularly fast, but I think he will get me through the Holy Land. He has only one fault. His tail has been chopped off, or else he has set down on it too hard sometime or other, and he has to fight flies with his heels. This is very well, but when he tries to kick a fly off of the top of his head with his hind feet it is too much of a variety. He is going to get himself into trouble that way some day. He reaches around and bites my leg too. I don't care particularly about this, only I don't like to see a horse too sociable.

Territorial Democratic Platform.

Resolved, That we endorse the nomination of the soldier-statesman, Winfield Scott Hancock, and his worthy compeer, W. H. English, their letters of acceptance and the platform of the convention which nominated them. We are in favor of a speedy admission of the Territory of Washington into the Union; and to that end we will lend our united efforts. We are opposed to the present policy in the management of the Indian tribes which has been forced upon us by the Republican party, and our Delegate in Congress is especially instructed to use his influence to change this policy for the better. Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by this convention to communicate with the national Democratic committee and to represent our wants and ask that we hereafter be properly recognized.

Territorial Republican Platform.

Resolved, That we unanimously adopt the declaration of principles as embraced in the Chicago platform of the national Republican party. We heartily endorse the present administration of the general government and that we believe that posterity will award to it the honor of being one of the praiseworthy in the history of our country. Resolved, That we favor the early admission of our Territory into the sisterhood of states, and our delegate is hereby instructed to use all proper means to secure the same. Resolved, That we regard the unrestricted immigration of the Chinese into this United States as a very grave evil, which should receive the prompt attention of congress and the treaty making powers of the United States and we favor the speedy modification of our present treaty with China in order that the said immigration, which works so peculiar a hardship to the people of this coast, may be restricted and limited. Resolved, That the opening of our rivers and the removal of obstructions to navigation is not only local but national importance, and our delegate should endeavor to secure liberal congressional appropriations to aid and encourage the same. Resolved, That we favor the abandonment of our present Indian policy, believing that while some good results therefrom yet "evils do much more abound" and we ask such legislation as will place them on the same footing as other citizens secure them in the enjoyment of the same rights and privileges only, and make them amenable to the same laws (Apples). That we deprecate the colonization of Indians from abroad within the limits of the territory, and heartily approve the efforts of our delegate in endeavoring to create whatever may be the forms of government, a real despotism; no summary laws separation of Church and State for the good of each common school to be fostered and protected. Third—Home rule, honest rate honest money, consisting of gold, silver and paper convertible in coin on demand; the strict maintenance of the public faith, State and National, a tariff for revenue only. Fourth—The subordination of the military to the civil power, and a general and thorough reform of the civil service. Fifth—Right to a free ballot, as the right preservative of all rights, and must and shall be maintained in every part of the United States. Sixth—The existing administration is responsible of conspiracy only, and its ill maxims of right to surround the ballot box with troops and deputy marshals to intimidate and obstruct the election, and the unprecedented use of the veto to maintain its corrupt and despotic power, insults the people and impairs their institutions. Seventh—The great fraud of 1876, by which upon a false count of the electoral vote of two States, the candidate defeated at the polls was declared to be President, and for the first time in American history the will of the people was set aside under threat of military violence, struck a deadly blow at our system of representative government. The Democratic party, to preserve the country from the horrors of a civil war, submitted for a time in the firm and patriotic faith that the people would punish the crime in 1880. This false promise and dreads all others. It imposes a more sacred duty upon the people of the Union than was ever addressed to the conscience of a nation of free men. Eighth—We execrate the course of this administration in making places for political criminals, and demand a reform by statute which shall make it forever impossible for a defeated candidate to bribe his way to the seat of a usurper, by villainies upon the people. Ninth—The resolution of Samuel J. Tilden not again to be a candidate for election to the exalted place of his countrymen, and from which he was excluded by the leaders of the Republican party, is received by the Democrats of the United States with sensibility, and they declare their confidence in his wisdom and patriotism and integrity unshaken by the assaults of the common enemy, and they further declare to him that he is followed in retirement by his chosen for himself by the sympathy and respect of his fellow citizens who regard him as one who, by elevating the standard of public morality and purifying the public service, merits the lasting gratitude of his country and his party. Tenth—Free and a living chance for American commerce on the sea and on the land; no discrimination in favor of transportation lines, corporations or monopolies. Eleventh—Amendment of the Burlingame treaty; no more Chinese immigration except for travel, education and foreign commerce, and therein carefully guarded. Twelfth—Public money and public credit for public purposes solely, and public lands for actual settlers. Thirteenth—The Democratic party is the friend of labor and the laboring man, and pledges itself to protect him alike against the corporations and the common. Fourteenth—We congratulate the country upon the honesty and thrift of the Democratic Congress which has reduced the public expenditure $40,000,000 a year; upon the continuation of prosperity at home and the national honor abroad, and above all, upon the fact that such changes in the administration of this government as shall insure its genuine lasting reform in every department of the public service.

National Republican Platform.

The following is the platform passed by the Republican convention held at Chicago. Republican rule has restored upon a solid basis payment in coin for all the national obligations, and has given us a currency absolutely good and equal in every part of our extended country. It has lifted the credit of the nation from the point where it per cent. bonds sold at 85, to that where 4 per cent. bonds are eagerly sought at a premium. Under its administration railways have increased from $1,000 million in 1880, to more than $3,000 million in 1882. Our foreign trade, which was $30,000,000 less than our exports in 1880, were $204,000,000 more than our imports in 1879. Without resorting to loans it has, since the war closed, defrayed the ordinary expenses of the government, besides the accruing interest on the public debt, and disbursed annually more than $80,000,000 for soldiers' pensions. It has paid $580,000,000 of the public debt, and by refunding the balance at lower rates, has reduced the annual interest charge from nearly $151,000,000 to less than $89,000,000. At the close of the country has revived, labor is in demand, wages have increased and throughout the entire country there is evidence of a coming prosperity greater than we ever enjoyed. Upon this record the Republican party asks for the continued confidence and support of the people, and this convention submits to their approval the following statement of the principles and purpose which will continue to guide and inspire its efforts: First—We affirm that the work of the last 21 years has been such as to commend itself to the favor of the nation, and that the fruits of the costly victories which we have achieved through legislation, which should be preserved, that the peace regained should be cherished; that the disordered union now happily restored should be perpetuated and that the liberties secured to this generation should be transmitted undiminished to future generations; that the order established and the credit acquired should never be imperiled; that the pensions provided should be paid; that the debt much reduced should be extinguished by the payment of every dollar thereof; that the reviving industries should be ever promoted, and that the commerce already so great should be encouraged. Second—The constitution of the United States is the supreme law, and not a mere contract of confederated states. It is a sovereign nation. Some powers are denied to the nation, while others are retained by the states, but the boundary between the powers delegated and those reserved is to be determined by national and not by state tribunals. Third—The work of public education is one left to the care of the several states, but it is the duty of the national government to advance work to the extent of its constitutional ability. The intelligence of the nation is but the aggregate of intelligence in the several states, and the destiny of the nation must be guided not by the genius of any one state, but by the average genius of all. Fourth—The constitution wisely forbids congress to make any law respecting an establishment of religion, but it is our hope that the nation can be protected against the influence of sectarianism, while each state is exposed to the partiality of its own people. We therefore recommend that the constitution be so amended as to lay some prohibition upon the legislation of each state and to forbid the appropriation of the public funds to the support of sectarian schools. Fifth—We reaffirm the belief avowed in 1876 that the duties levied for the purpose of revenue should so discriminate as to favor American labor; that no further grant of the public domain should be made to any railroad or other corporation; that slavery having perished in the states, its twin barbarity, polygamy, must die in the territories; that every where the protection accorded to American birth must be accorded to citizens by American adoption; that it is the duty of congress to develop and improve our water courses and harbors, but we insist that further subsidies to private persons or corporations must cease; that the obligations to men who preserved its integrity in the day of battle are undiminished by the lapse of 13 years since their final victory; their perpetual honor is and shall forever be the grateful privilege and the sacred duty of the American people. Sixth—Since the authority to regulate immigration and intercourse between the United States and foreign nations rests with the congress of the United States and its treaty-making powers, the Republican party, regarding the unrestricted immigration of Chinese as an evil of great magnitude, invokes the exercise of that power to restrain and limit that immigration by the enactment of such just, humane and reasonable provisions as will produce that result. Seventh—That the purity and patriotism which characterized the earlier career of R. B. Hayes in peace and war, and which guided the thought of an immediate successor to him for a presidential candidate, have continued to inspire him in his career as chief executive, and that history will accord to his administration the honors which are due an efficient, just, and courageous fulfillment of the public business, and will honor his interposition between the people and proposed partisan laws. Eighth—We charge upon the Democratic party the heinous crimes of perjury and justice to a supreme and unstable law for office and patronage; that to obtain possession of the national and state governments, and of the control of place and position, they have obstructed all the efforts to preserve purity and conserve the freedom of suffrage, have devised fraudulent returns and certificates, have labored to unseat lawfully elected members of congress to secure a majority in the house of representatives, have endeavored to occupy by force and fraud places of trust given to others by the people of Maine, and rescued by the courage and action of Maine's patriotic sons, have by methods vicious in principle and tyrannical in practice attached partisan legislation to appropriation bills, have evaded the rights of individuals and vindicated the principle and sought the favor of rebellion against the nation, and have endeavored to obliterate the sacred memories of the war to overcome its inextinguishable good results, freedom and individual equality. We affirm it to be the duty and purpose of the Republican party to use all legitimate means to secure the passage of the proposed appropriation bills, and we submit to the practical sense of the people of the United States, to say whether it would not be dangerous to the best interests of our country at this time to surrender the administration of the national government to a party which seeks to overthrow the existing policy under which we are so prosperous, and thus bring destruction and confusion where there is now order and confidence and hope.

How to Reach this Country.

Inquiring letters are so frequently received, as to the best mode of reaching this new country, the rates of fare, the shortest routes, &c., that we have compiled the following facts for the express benefit of those who would come among us. Those persons who have friends contemplating a visit to this country, either for pleasure or profit, might secure some extra copies of this week's edition of THE TIMES: There are three routes which Eastern people may take in coming hither. If a person wants to save time, and desires to bring stock, wagons, &c., the quickest and most direct route would be to come from Omaha to Ogden; thence by wagon road to this new country, traversing the distance from Ogden in two or three weeks, when roads are good—say in the month of June, July or August. Those having neither wagons nor teams, can come by rail to Kelton, at a cost of about $50 in emigrant car; thence by stage to Walla Walla, at an expense of $50, exclusive of meals, and on to Colfax or Spokane Falls, at an additional expense of ten and seven dollars, respectively. The remaining route is via San Francisco, by rail, thence to Portland, Oregon, by ocean steamer; thence to Astoria, by boat. From Astoria, $2 to $30, according to cabin occupied, and state of opposition on the route; to Alamo, $18, exclusive of meals and berth. The overland railroad company makes but little difference in price of through-tickets to San Francisco or Kelton. At the present time, the route via San Francisco and Portland is undoubtedly the easiest and cheapest, provided you are not accompanied by your own team, everything being taken into consideration. First class fare from Omaha, St. Joseph or Kansas City, to Walla Walla, via Kelton, is $124 25; via San Francisco, $129. Immigrants from Oregon and California, in the earlier part of the season, when they have the money to spare, often come by water to The Dalles or Alamo; thence overland by teams. Those who travel without teams should come by boat to Pennington or Alamo; and thence take the stage for this upper country via Colfax. Many families make the entire trip overland. Puget Sounders come by way of Portland and Alamo, unless they want a delightful horseback ride over the Cascade mountains in mid-summer. The unequalled route is the great, for horsemen, leading the traveler by way of the Snake Valley, Yajima City, and Alamo. Be sure that your saddle-horse is gentle, sure-footed, strong, and specially adapted for travel. A combination of the combined river route and the overland route is also possible. No one who has an opportunity to do so, should fail to take a trip either up or down the Columbia river, where the scenery is magnificent and beautiful in the extreme.
