

PUGET SOUND COURIER.

E. T. GUNN, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER. TRUTH WITHOUT FEAR.

STELLACOOM, W. T., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1854.

TO THE PEOPLE. Once again we have a few words to the people, for which we earnestly desire a little attention and a careful perusal.

Look at the miserable piece of shamefulness in the home government, in sending out here its swarm of federal officials. Those who were of no consequence at home, but only a bore to those who stood higher in power.

Before this was found out, however, it will be observed that they imported a couple of youths to receive the benefits of the army and naval schools, by becoming residents of this territory for a few short days, not to say years, months, or even weeks, which shows their feelings of interest for the people here.

We will now look at the temperance question as the leaders of the patent democracy have spoke of it. Throughout the states they have opposed it, and in some of them they have made it almost a party test.

Let us look at some other facts. The administration at Washington city is in a career of which all honest men deprecate. The fear of falling into dark oblivion hereafter, a fate they will surely meet, causes deeds black and disgusting to be enacted, the shadows of which should shame the name of man.

Another important matter, one that they show all utter disregard to, but yet none the less important. One that interest all—every person. This is the lack of mail facilities throughout this country and coast.

THANKS.—To Stuart's Express for the early delivery of favors on its arrival here on Wednesday last.

CONFIDENCE.—Why is one of the workmen in the Courier office a better man than "Moses"? Answer next week.

BARO CRUDA.—This noble craft, Capt. Diggs, commander, arrived in our harbor during the past week. She has since, passed up the Sound, whether for Black Lake, or some other port, we cannot say.

COLVILLE GOLD MINES.

The Fort Colville gold mines is the present great topic of conversation in both Washington and Oregon territories, and we feel that we should not be treating our readers with a sufficient degree of fairness, and consideration, did we fail even in one number of the Courier to keep them posted up in all of the more important intelligence received from the mining region, and also to give them, our own humble thoughts of the truth or falsity of the rumors that from time to time may reach us.

We are certainly disposed to deal fairly, with all of our readers upon this engrossing subject, and will "nothing extenuate, or ought set down in malice."

We candidly say to our readers, that there has not as yet, any intelligence reached us, either directly or indirectly from the Fort Colville gold mines that is worthy of unlimited credence, or upon which we deem it safe and just to publish an opinion.

There is a rumor prevalent that some Indians, who have recently come over the mountains, report of having found on the Grand Desert, a few days' travel this side of Colville, the bodies of four white men, who appeared to have died for want of water.

A letter has been put into our hands for publication, dated from the plains, but the little news in it, and that so old, that we decline complying with the request.

CONFIDENCE.—Why is one of the workmen in the Courier office a better man than "Moses"? Answer next week.

WE learn by Madam Bonor that the Oregonian is to be moved to the mouth of the Klakkat river.

We rather think the Oregonian will remain where it has always been published, at a place called Portland, twelve miles below Oregon City. Should we, however, decide to move into Washington territory, we should prefer Klakkat to Stellacoom, as by the last census it contained a population of 6000, almost equal to Stellacoom.

When! man, don't let those "little angry passions rise," we know you have been striving hard for a long time to find a place in Oregon suitable for raising white beans, but those little vexations of spirit will all fade away as old age ripens up the grey hairs.

Allow me through the columns of your paper to say a few words in answer to those men who have for the past few weeks, through the same medium, been denouncing liquor sellers in such unmeasured terms, endeavoring to make it appear that they are the cause of all "the ills that human flesh is heir to."

I feel inclined again to take advantage of the liberty you so courteously offer to your correspondents, of addressing the public through the columns of your paper, for the purpose of defining the position I take on the Maine Law question, as from remarks I have heard some of your readers make, when commenting on my last communication in your paper; they appear to think me rather ultra on the subject of temperance.

It appears strange to me that persons who will not use those poisonous beverages themselves, knowing their degrading influence, should talk of being ultra on a question of such vital importance as this, because a person advocates the judiciousness of prescribing intoxicating liquors. It being a well known fact that nearly all the crimes from which our community suffers, arises from their use as a beverage.

With these remarks, I will leave the ultra Julian to reflect, though little hoping to make any impression on such a dogmatic person, but, with Mr. C. J. M. who, I doubt not, has spent many a shilling at his bar, and drank many a glass with me at the bars of others, I have not yet done.

THE RECIPROcity treaty has given a new field to the Lake fisheries on the Canadian side of Lake Huron. Some 200 American fishermen are now engaged within fifty miles on each side of Goderich, in the business.

THE KANSAS Herald of July 14th, announces the project of annexing the whole of Platte county in Missouri, by purchase, to the Kansas territory. It is stated the Missouri legislature will meet in November and give consent.

Dates from Kansas are to the 26th of July, The committee appointed by the legislature to draw up a memorial to the President for the removal of Governor Reeder, reported yesterday. The memorial sets forth the various complaints against Reeder, calling him a clog to the wheels of government, and praying for his speedy removal.

THE DEMOCRATIC state convention was held in Montreal, Vt., on the 25th of July. Hon. Luther B. Hunt, of St. Albans, presided. The nominations for state officers were as follows: For Governor, Merrill Clark, of Poultney; for Lieutenant Governor, Stoddard B. Colby, of Montpelier; for Treasurer, John W. Page, of Montpelier.

THE PRESIDENT has received an autograph letter from the Czar of Russia, in reply to one transmitted to him through our minister, congratulatory upon his succession. The Czar proposes the most lasting friendship between Russia and the United States.

FOR THE POOR SAVED COURIER. GIVE US JUSTICE.

Friends of the cause, let us bestir ourselves, now is not the time to rest. In the last campaign we were beaten, we came up to the ballot-box without any preparation, without any organization; and the consequence was such as might be expected.

Never was the voice of the orator, the pen of the writer, and the appeal of the humblest advocate, more required than now. Let ten every man, woman and child that can raise their voice, rally to our standard, and let this be our motto: Moral and legal assuasion, united—by those we conquer.

THE FOLLOWING communication has been handed us by a friend, with the request that we publish it. For once, we transgress all rules of printing offices, by publishing a communication without knowing the writer's name, and do so, that the subject may be seen in all its lights:

THE MEN with whom I have to contend, have spent much time, and shown much talent and zeal in support of the cause which they have espoused. I cannot give to the public such elegant compositions or ingeniously arranged arguments as they, but must depend on the statement of a few simple facts for the support of my belief.

A Vienna letter in the Cologne Gazette repeats that marked differences have arisen between the Czar and his brother Constantine, and the journey of the Prince of Prussia to St. Petersburg, for the purpose acting as mediator.

The London Quarterly Review has a curious article, in its April number, on the adulteration in food in the British metropolis. If similar practices are in vogue in great cities on this side of the Atlantic...

It seems there is hardly an edible soil in London which is not adulterated in a greater or less degree. The vinegar is water, made pungent with sulphuric acid; the tea is mixed with Prussian blue and gypsum...

But the most deleterious adulterations occur in pickles, candies and preserved fruits. A scientific gentleman, when about to eat some preserved gooseberries, discovered that the prongs of his steel fork were covered with a film of bright metallic copper.

The adulteration of the food is a serious matter, and the gentleman was ignorant of science, a serious illness might have been the consequence, if not death. Another person, observing that he always had a fit of cholera after eating cheese at a certain inn, instituted an inquiry, and discovered that the cheese-maker had used vermilion to color his commodity...

It is impossible to say to what extent these frauds are carried on in the United States. We have no doubt that food is adulterated in all our great cities, though not perhaps to so serious an extent as in London.
