THE FLYING MIRE.—This popular schooner, whose name is as familiar as household words to the people of Puget Sound, again made her appearance at this place on Saturday last, after an absence of two or three months.

A STORM.—On Monday last we were favored with about as fine a specimen of a storm as the climate here affords for some time.

BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE for December and January has been received. A fire having destroyed the office of the publishers, the December number was delayed in its appearance, in consequence.

ANOTHER PLOT DEFEATED.

It seems that the emissaries of Jeff. Davis in California have not yet suspended their efforts to force that State out of the Union.

A dispatch from San Francisco, dated March 30th, says: Information has been received of a plot concerted by Napa secessionists to capture the Government works at Mare Island.

The Union's dispatch, dated 29th March, says: There is nothing new to be made public about contemplated rebel attack at Benicia.

COUP OF A QUARREL BETWEEN GENERALS.—The enormous land and naval expeditions which the Government, at such vast cost, have collected at Hilton Head and its vicinity, for the capture of Charleston, when all ready to move, says the San Francisco Bulletin, was brought to a standstill by a conflict of authority between Gen. Foster and Gen. Hunter.

ADVICE TO THE GIRLS.

By Aunt Mary.

My DEAR GIRLS:—I suppose you will not be very highly pleased with the prospect of a lecture even from one calling herself your aunt; but as she will endeavor to give you good advice, she trusts you will kindly pardon her plainness of speech, and also give her an attentive hearing.

I honestly believe that nowadays, a young girl marries, she has some sort of a vague idea that a little palace will spring up for her in some lonely spot, all furnished like a fairy tale, where she, with the object of her affections, is to dwell, subsisting upon such delicacies as can be prepared without any trouble on her part; and, in short, that the life she is to lead after marriage is to be one of unalloyed happiness.

I have always thought it a grand sight to see a woman, strong in her principles of right and womanly nobility, bowing her head before a tyrant, and taking upon herself, with thoughtfulness and solemnity, the name of wife; that name which brings with it such a strange mingling of care and happiness.

I can tell you, young miss, who are disposed to marry while you are yet children, that the care of a house, a half dozen noisy children, ill health, &c., will never constitute perfect happiness for you; and you had far better drive men, matrimony, and all such matters from your minds for several years, and in the meantime learn from your mothers the art of making and baking good bread, also of compounding nicely-flavored coffee, for rareeased those branches, with several others of a similar nature, conduce not a little to the comfort and happiness of the married state.

I suppose you will all say that I am a sour old maid, and set my unromantic ideas down to that score. Well, you may be right; but old maids will have their opinions, you know; and as I have been bold enough to express mine upon this subject, I could wish that some courageous member of the other sex would read his brethren a short chapter, pointing out to them the duties devolving upon them, in case they take wives who don't know how to make house, and can't live away from their husbands; though I suppose it would have but little effect, for every man in the Territory would apply it to his neighbor, and so it would drop.

But one thing is certain, girls—they cannot marry you without your consent; and by doing right yourselves, you may prevent their doing wrong to you; and as it is little older before you say "Yes," and see it, in after years, you are not brought to say that "Aunt Mary was right, after all."

[Aunt Mary writes intelligently and correctly on the above subject, which we regard as well chosen; and we hope her advice may be thoughtfully and wisely weighed by those to whom it is addressed. Premature and unequal marriages are too often productive of misery and wretchedness, and call for restraints not at present imposed. But we should be pleased to hear again from Aunt Mary.]

THE ADMINISTRATOR.—Practice, of the Louisville Journal, utters the following opinion of the present administration: "Pride, dogmatism, and egotism, have entered too largely into the administration of our public affairs, and those who conduct them do not seem willing to learn from experience or to guide their future movements by the reflected lights of the past.

A New York paper tells a large story of the freaks of lightning in France. A young girl was struck by lightning and changed to a boy. Whereupon a western paper remarked: Our women are anxious to outfit, but under existing circumstances the government will not receive them. Fame that lightning round and let's have the objections removed.

YEAST POWDERS.—Every housekeeper knows how difficult it is to make good bread, and we therefore take pleasure in calling attention to the fact that to insure uniformly good, light, sweet and nutritious bread, it is only necessary to use the Redington & Co.'s Yeast Powders; which in every respect excel all similar preparations ever offered to the public. See advertisement, in another column.

Uncle Charley Roberts, the heaviest man in California, died on the 7th ult. He weighed 499 pounds. Papers in the interior of California are claiming for their respective localities the credit for excessive dullness.

A man in Victoria, while playing a game of ball, last week, had his nose broken by a blow in the face with the ball.

The California papers are urging the arming of the militia of that State as a guard against surprise by external or internal foes.

The iron-rod vessel intended for the harbor of San Francisco is undergoing alterations which will delay her completion for some time yet.

A boy eight years of age was choked to death in California, the other day, by filling his mouth with nuts, one of which got into his windpipe.

The old man looks down and thinks of the past. The young man looks up, and thinks of the future. The child looks everywhere and thinks of nothing. And there are a great many children in this world.

Marshal Canrobert was married on the 30th of January to Miss McDonnell, at the British Embassy in Paris, and also at the chapel of the Senate. All the French Marshals in Paris were present at the ceremony.
