THE SAN JUAN DIFFICULTY.

"After a storm comes a calm," is an old saying, but one sometimes only true in part. For example, in the matter of the San Juan difficulty, the storm has subsided into a total calm on the one side, while upon the other it is rapidly increasing in violence. We came to the conclusion last week, from the favorable turn affairs had taken in Victoria, owing to the opportune arrival of Admiral Baynes, that the question at issue would be suffered to remain quietly in its present position until finally adjusted by the heads of the two governments; but it seems we were wrong. Certain members of the Colonial Legislature of British Columbia are by no means pleased with the present complexion of things, and indulge in an extravagant waste of breath, no small portion of it invective, in discussing the subject of the "clandestine invasion," as they term it, of the island of San Juan. These discussions have gone on through several sittings, the unhappy disputants waxing l warmer, until they have finally British naval officers ditto; and that of Gen. Harney totally unauthorized, and devoid of honesty. The General is charged with being everything but an honest or decent man, for stealing the march on them, and is said to be only "fit for Indian fighting." We hope the gallant veteran won't feel very bad on he comes to learn what they say and

Now all this is done for "Buncombe." They well know, or should know, that this is a matter with which they have directly nothing to do, and over which they have no They are going entirely out of the line of their legitimate duty in meddling with it is any shape, and will no doubt be so informed by the home government. The estion is a national, and not a colonial think of him in British Columbia.

But it is easy to see whence comes this feeling of indignation at the so called "clandestine invasion." The Hudson Bay Co. have for many years had quiet possession of the island, and found it a capital place on which to raise sheep and cattle. Now that the Americans in turn wish to occupy it, con-ceiving that they have a clear right, by their etation of the treaty, to do so, the Hudson Bay Co, find it necessary to remove their sheep and cattle to a more inconvenlent, and, at the same time, more inhospitable locality; hence their opposition. It is well known that Gov. Douglas was at Victhe Hadson Bay Co.; if the truth were known, the leading members of the Colonial Legislature are also interested in the same pany. With a knowledge of this fact it is easy to see why the Governor at the outset was so ready to precipitate the two nations into a war, and why the Legislature is so eager to do so now. Their diabolical achemes, however, have fortunately been frustrated by Admiral Baynes and his sonsible officers, who had the wisdom at once to see not only the wrong position of the Gov-ernor and his party, but the calamities that would inevitably result from a collision betwo mations more closely bound to gether than any other two on the globe. The prize was not equal to the risk; the was too great to begand for the motion of the aims of a few individuals. So thought, and wisely, Admiral Baynes and

We have abstained from comments on this subject heretofore, from a desire rather to sllay than add to the excitement. This much has been written with the view of informing the reader of the true cause of trouble, and the present position of the We can see now so cause to pprehend snything serious growing out of The matter will be left to diplomacy for settlement. Thos. H. Benton, in hi speech on this subject at the ratification of treaty, stated to the U. S. Senate that the boundary line agreed upon was the channel De Haro, which left us the entire archipelago, to which at that time he attached no value; and Lord Aberdeen, in a written at the same time, made substantially the same statement. With this my in our behalf, there cannot be a doubt that our right to the island will be ded by Great Britain, the loyal colony of British Columbia to the contrary, no withstanding.

THANKS.—To Mr. Lowell, Purser of the Julia, favors ; also to Freeman & Co.'s Express.

LETTERS FROM SAN JUAN ISLAND. prespondence of the Puget Sound Heraid. SAN JUAN ISLAND, Aug. 14th, '59.

The steamer Julia is about leaving, and, re-embering your request at parting on the wharf of Steilacoom, I send you a few hasty lines. We are all comfortably encamped, in peace and quietness, and I see no cause for anticipating trouble. etness, and is see no cause for anni spacing and the transparent for the excitement, however, how here very great and with reason; for thou. Douglas, in his proclamation or message, expressly declared that "the marines would be landed on the island." It was supposed, and very naturally, that Captain Pickett would scarcely venture to oppose ci et activate in leading supported by the presence armis their landing, supported by the presence of a fleet, counting say 200 guns and 2000 men. Our Victoria neighbors have had some samples of the strange recklessness and disregard of con-sequences shown so frequently by Americans, when stirred by excitement; but it was hardly to be presumed that an army officer would attempt to carry out an order scarcely practicable with ten times his force. Nevertheless, in spite of parleying, representations and remonstrances, the Captain showed so unmistakably his inten-tions in that respect, that Gov. Douglas has, it eems, concluded to choose the lesser of the two evils, swallow the bitter pill of his proclamation accept the wise counsel of the Admiral and other naval officers, (the real fighting men are almost always the least belligerent) and erait. The Tribune and Satellite are now in the harbor, and ast evening I met a dozen of the officers rambling

Our trip here was sufficiently interesting and exciting. The information we gathered on the way (including that obtained from the officers of the Active, which alone we could rely upon) indicated that our landing would be opposed. Cap-tain Alden had conversed with Gov. Douglas, and, I believe, with the naval authorities, and they had left the impression upon his mind (either by positive assurances or otherwise) that the landing would not be permitted. But John Bull, the "bloody old bruiser," is used to rows of all descriptions, in every quarter of the globe concluded that the course pursued by Gov. He well knows when it is expedient to talk, when Douglas is very reprehensible; that of the "nation of shop-keepers" knows how to calc late, and would see San Juan and Vancouver's late, and would see San Juan and vancouver's Island sink rather than have the bread of several millions of her operatives suddenly fail them. However, our old and well-tried commanding officer, with his orders in his pocket, had no hesi-tation as to his course, for we steamed ahead, and, after some detention by fog, reached the island next morning at low tide. The men and howitzers were very handsomely disembarked at a point near Capt. Pickett's camp, in less than an hour, by means of three small boats only. The command set out in search of Capt. Pick ett's camp, and the steamer, Col, Casey on board, entered the harbor to land the stores at high tide. The Tribune alone lay in the harbor, and tice. The 2750ms alone by in the introduct and our friends on above thought she would take some action in the matter, but nothing "turned up." Her commander, Capt. Hornby, came on shore in the afternoon, at the request of Col. Casey, and a conference was held in his tent; Mr. Campbell and Capt. Prevost, the two Boundary Commissioners, being present. What was said and done is quite unknown to us, of course.

I write this in the intervals of superintending the landing and hauling away of the armament of the Massackusetts. Lieut. Kellogg, of the 3d Artillery, is on the crest of the hill, marking out the lines of a field-work which we shall amuse ourselves in constructing, wherein we shall mount the said guns. My Infantry commudes are busy with their companies, the whole command as gay and lively as possible.

We have just got the news that four compa nies of the 8d Artillery are on the way to rein force us. With eight companies, and a com-mander who has the confidence of officers and men, we shall feel perfectly secure in any event. Col. Casey has named our camp after the officer who has given such substantial proof of being "the right man in the right place," when enrusted with the execution of orders involvingo matter what consequences.

As to the cause, necessity, and veritable history of this imbroglio, quien sabe? I must con-fess that I am too dull to see through it. A few months will solve the mystery. In the meantime we will try and have a good time, and mind trictly our own business.

DEFOT FOR ARMY STORES.—We are informed that it has been decided to make Stellacoom the depot for the army stores for the military posts on the Sound. They will be received and stored here, and from this point distributed as required.
This imposes increased duties and responsibilities on Lieut. Harvie, but he is fully equal to them.

The establishment of institutions of learning is always indicative of healthy progress and im-provement. Steilacoom already boasts of several excellent institutions, among them a small but very choice library. As yet we have had no high school or academy, but shall be without one for a very little while longer.

Rev. Geo. W. Sican designs opening an academy in Stellacoom for the instruction of the youth of both sexes. He is not only well qualified by education and disposition for this arduous duty, but his also had several years' experience as a teacher in a leading academy of Pennsylvania. We need not, however, go back to his native State for evidence of his qualification; his success as teacher of our public school for the past year affords abundant proof of it. He proposes to give a thorough practical education in the various branches. The academic course will consist of three departments. The tuition per quarter of eleven weeks in each department will be as follows, viz: Primary department-Orthograghy, &c., $8; Junior department—English Gram-mar, &c., $10; Senior department—Algebra, &e., $12 per quarter.

Mr. Sloan will go to San Francisco about the 20th September, and return at the end of Octo ber. He will open his school on the first Monin November. Parties abroad who may wish to communicate with him on the subject will address to Steilacoom P. O., Pierce County,

By the arrival of the Julia, on Tuesday last, from Victoria and intermediate ports, we have received several items of news, for which we are indebted to the politeness of Purser Lowell.

On Saturday, 13th inst., four Indians (two nales and two femals) were killed on Smith's Island. By whom, or under what circumstances we did not learn.

A white man, wife and children (name and number not stated) were killed at Ensilada, by Northern Indians, on Sunday, 14th inst. An-other white man is said to be missing. The steamer Shuòric passed in the Sound, about the time of these murders, several canoes of North-ern Indians, supposed to have been the perpe-The steamer Massachussetts took four Indian this post on Saturday and Sunday last, from Vancouver; Licut. Hodges, of the 4th Infantry, in command, and Licuts. Ihrie, Kellogg and Dandy accompanying. The four companies num-bered about 180 men.

They embarked on board the steamer Julia at an early hour on Wednesday morning, and landed on San Juan island in the evening of the same day. There are now eight companies on the island, numbering in all some 400 men.

We unintentionally omitted to mention the departure of Licut. Shaaff, with a detachment of twenty men, several weeks since, for Semiahmoo. Licut. Reynolds was also detached for the same place, some weeks ago, but we saw his name mentioned last week among the officers on San Juan, whether simply as a visitor or not is not stated.

An Agregable Supprise.—By the last mail we AN AGREMABLE SURPRISH.—By the last mail we received a neat little epistle, from a correspondent unknown to us, signed "Miss Hattle May," and dated "North Attleboro', Mass., June —," The superscription being plainly in a female hand, we opened the envelope with trembling fingers, when lo! a small boquet of withered but still eautiful and fragrant flowers met our wondering care. Carefully removing the flowers, we next encountered a too brief letter over the above signature, all about the charms and comforts of a little home. We do not exactly understand what Miss Hattie means, but interpret her words into a desire to possess such a home as she speaks of; and, if we are right, we herewith extend to her a cordial invitation to come to Steflacoom, W T., and accompany our invitation with the pro mise of finding for her a home with which she cannot fail to be pleased, So, without more ado, ome hither at once.

Nothing new except the arrival of a leading contractors desires us to say that he can reinforcement to our little garrison—four compacarpenters, at good wages, but cannnot at present get them. At no former time was there ever such activity here in building. Every building in town, of every description, is occu pied, and the demand for additional buildings is far beyond the power of our present force of carpenters to supply. An excellent opportunity is afforded now for builders to erect dwellings for rental, as there are several families here without tenements, temporarily stowed away in

THE FEELING ON SAN JUAN ISLAND .- Among other extracts from the letters of the correspon-dent of the Victoria Gazette, reluctantly omitted st week, for want of room, was the following, which exhibits the state of things existing on the island of San Juan at the time Col. Casey landed. After setting forth the mutual good feeling shown by the people of the two nations toward each other the writer says:—"Some three or four persons had started little tent groggeries near the landing from the harbor, and several parties had been en in a state of drunkenness the night before II. R. Crosbie, Esq., the American Justice, served an order on the liquor-venders, forbidding the sale of another glass of liquor on the Island without a license. He represented to them the evils that might result from the too free indulger ce by persons here under existing circum-stances, and told them that so long as the present infortunate state of affairs continued, no licens ter ordering the inventory and packing of the contraband articles, to be placed in charge of the constable, Mr. Higgins, Mr. Crosbie walked over to Maj. De Courcy, and without recognising him officially, told him of the order he had given, and the disposition one of the men had evinced to create a conflict by threatening to obtain a license from British authorities. Mr. De Courcey replied that the man had already complained to him, and he had As announced in our issue of last week, Com. assured him that if he sought protection from panies A, B, D and M, 3d Artillery, arrived at the British, he had rendered himself liable to be put on board the Tribune, taken to Victoria, and fined £300 for violation of the license law. He had been sent here to see English law executed, and not violated. Maj. De Courcy acted in this matter with that discretion and good feeling which will ensure him the respect of all right thinking people of either nation."

> PRESENTERIAN CHURCH.-We are inform that the cost of the Presbyterian church, alluded that the cost of the Fresdyterian control of the original to last week, will be about $2,000; the original contract for $1,100 having been set aside. Rev. ntract for $1,100 having been set aside. Mr. Sloan, for whom it is being erected, will soon go to San Francisco to purchase a bell, melodeon, and suitable furniture for the edifice. It is designed, we understand, to make it at once an ornament to the town, and a fitting sanctuary for worship, in which comfort and convenience will both be kept in view.

NEGRO MINSTRELSY .- Steilacoom was visited on Tuesday last, by the Taylor minstrel troupe, and treated to two performances. Judging frethe uprearious laughter and frequent plaudits the audiences, on the two evenings, both the conundrums and music proved highly enteraining. Yesterday the troupe left for Seattle and other towns on the Sound, to be absent about three weeks, when they will again re-turn and repeat their performances here.

MARSHAL MeMAHON. It would appear that this distinguished officer, the Army of the Alps, has won the chief he the Army of the Appr, has word the cure hands in the battle of Magenta, for we find that the Em-peror has bestowed upon him in the field of fame the baton of a Marshal of France and the dide of Duke of Magenta-just as the first Napoleon, sixty-five years ago, and near the same field, acknowledged the skill and intrepidity of Marshal Augercau by bestowing on him the title of Duke of Castiglione. Gen. McMahon, then Count, was recalled from the command of the French troops in Africa, to take part in the Italian campaign, where he has already won his baton and a dukedom. As his name impli is of Irish extraction, and has well upheld the character for dash and intrepidity which sol-diers of that race have won for themselves in service of every country in the world. Since 1841, when he commanded a battalion of Chas-seurs, Gen. McMahon has been almost constantly in the field. The soldiers love him, believe in him, and will with one accord follow him with confidence across the line of the enemy, through which he will pierce with his sword uplifted, smiling eye, the coolness of a leader, and the spirit of a brave soldier. He it was who planted the French colors on the Mamolon on that terrific day when Sebastopol fell. The order of the day which he issued on that occasion deserves recalled here, now that he has reached st rung in the ladder of his military career. It is as follows:

the topmost rung in the ladder of his military career. It is as follows:

"Soldiers of the First Division and Zouaves of the Guard: You are about at length to quit your parallels and attack the enemy hand to hand. In this decisive day the General has confided to you the most important part—the carrying of the Redan and Malakoff, the key of Sebastopol. Soldiers I all the army has its eyes on you, and your standards, planted on the ramparts of that citadel, must respond to the signal given for the geteral assault. Twenty thousand English and twenty thousand French, on the left, will lend you their support, by throwing themselves on that side of the place. Zouaves, Foot Classeurs, soldiers of the Seventh, Twentieth and Twenty-seventh of the line, your bravery answers for the success which is to immortalize the numbers of your regiments. In a few hours the Emperor will make known to France what the soldiers of the Alma and of Inkermann can do. I shall give you the signal by the cry of 'Vice l'Emperour!' Our railying word will be, 'Henneur et l'atrie!"

"De McMauox."

The following brief sketch is taken from Galignani's Memenger of a late date. Though short, it is a most complete biography of the distinignant's Messenger of a late date. Though short, it is a most complete biography of the distinguished subject:—

"Count de McMahon (Marie-Patrice-Maurice) was born about 1807, at the clateau of Sully, in the arondissement of Autum. He is descended from an Irish family, which, after living with distinction for many centuries in Irisinad, risked all for the last of the Stuart Kings. The McMahons, carrying their national traditions and historic name to France, Mingled their blood by marriage with the old nobility of the adopted country, and obtained with the hand of an heiress the magnificent castle and extensive estates of Sully. The present General's father, the Count de McMahon, who was an officer of high rank, a peer of France, a Grand Cross of the Order of St. Louis, and a personal friend of Charles N., esponsed a lady of the ducal house of Caraman, and let four sons and four daughters. Of that numerous family, the youngest is the here of Malakoff and of Magenta. He was educated partly at his father's, and partly at the Seminary for young men destined for the Priesthood in that city. He afterwards entered the Military School at St. Cyr, on leaving which, in 1825, he entered the French military service, and in 1830 Joined the army of Algeria, where he soon distinguished himself alike by his gallantry and his intelligence. After the combat of the Col de Terchia, in which he was aid-de-camp to Gen. Achard, the latter said to him, "Can you carry to Col. Rullieres, at Bildah, the order to change his march? As the mission is danger us, I will give you a squadron of light dragooms as an escort." The young officer refused the escort, declaring that it was either too little or too much, and preferred going alone. On arriving at about half a mile from Bildah, he saw groups of the entary's horsecuen on each side, as well as behind him; but he went firmly on, knowing that a deep precipice, called the ravine of Bildah, was a little way in front of him. He there drove his horse, a high-bloaded animal, at the tremendous cha

THE ALLIED SOVEREIGNS AT MILAN. The correspondent of the Londov. News, writ-g from Vercelli, on the 10th June, says:

ing from Vercelli, on the 10th June, says:
A friend of mine, just arrived from Milan, tells me that the most powerful imagination cannot conceive the enthusiastic reception which both the Emperor and the King met in the ancient dwelling place of Viscoulis and Sforzas. On this solemn occasion the people of Milan went beyond the limits of Italian enthusiasm, and greeted their liberators with a hearty warmth that has made the deepest impression on the minds of Napoleon and Victor Emanuel. Although the entrance of their Majesties had been anticipated for four hours, the Milanese were on their gard, so that the march through the streets of the town was really a glorious and triumphal one. The King did not try to conceal the deep emotion which did not try to conceal the deep emotion which his face betrayed, and the Emperor himself could not control the joy he felt on that memorable oc-

The control the joy he felt on that memorable occasion.

Were I to narrate all the touching episodes of that day, I should not write a letter but a volume. In order that you may fully understand the solumnity of the occasion, I must tell you that after the bloody battle of Magenta, the Austrians, on their passing through Milan, had spread the news that the whole of the Picdmontees array had been destroyed. You may castly imagine the anguish of those who had relatives in the ranks of the national army. As the Picdmontees regiments desiled you might see ladies of high rank leave their carriages, and with tears in their eyes auxiously ask for tidings of their sons or of their brothers. Happily for them the Austrian statements soon turned out to be false. When the To Deum was over, the Emperor rode to the Villa Reale, and the King to the Palace Busca. The popular rejoicing continued till a sad procession began. It was formed by the wounded of Magenta, who were carried from the station to the hospital. You might then have seen counts and marquises carrying in litters the wounded Zonaves and Bersaglieri. You would have seen more than 290 equipages of the noblect and wealthiest families of the town waiting to convey the wounded soldiers, who were about to change their hard hospital beds for soft and easy ones.

The palaces of nobles and bankers were thrown open to the troops, and tables laid in a princely fashion for the new comers. It was impossible for soldiers or officers to make the proprietors of ourse and hotels receive payment for refreshments. Money was freely distributed amongst the wounded by halies and gentlemen. A deputation of rich and influential people was sent to the king, begging him to have the loan ordered by the Austrians still raised. Forty million frances were thus subscribed before evening. While these exciting seemes were going on, the admirable proclamation of the Emperor was published. You will no doubt have already received this remarkable document.

at nown city, (towa) May 25th, thus describes a a water spout which visited that locality, and destroyed several lives:—

Last evening, while yet it was light, there arose suddenly a violent wind accompanied by indications of rain. In a few moments, the whole horizon became pitchy black, and the most vivid lightning shot athwart the sky. A terrible thunder storm burst upon us. While yet it was raging fearfully, the sky suddenly appeared unclouded in the east for a space of several inches in width. Many of our citizens discovered indistinctly, at first, the rapid approach of an immense water spout. The phenomenon was so unusual that the attention of hundreds was drawn to it. The appearance of the huge volume of water, as it reached from earth to sky—swaying to and fro like a rope hung in the wind—was exceedingly grand. The water spout remained in sight nearly litteen minutes; when the sky obscured, it was lost sight of.

Scarcely an hour land clapsed before news was brought that Jossio Berry, a member of our Common Council, had been killed in a barn, which was thrown down by the violence of the wind and water. The next express from the entry torought us information that a family, by the name of Morgan, three in number, had been struck, two of its members killed instantly, and the mother so seriously injured, that it is thought impossible for her to recover. Two men, whose names I could not learn, were killed instantly. Many have bad their legs or arms broken, and others have suffered from contusions and fractures, occasioned by the fall of houses which had been blown upon them.

The water-spout seems to have been from thirty to forty feet in diameter, and to have destroyed a large amount of property. Its extent was from seven to ten miles, and it is said to have traveled with great rapidity. In one instance a hear of Mr. Berry's was taken from its foundation, carried some three hundred yarls, thrown down and crushed into a thousand fragments. A child of Mr. Walsh was taken up and carried nearly 800 yards, thrown

The morning light streamed through the cave; the tremendous silence of death was all around, and Alonzo and his companion were composing the old man's abrush limbs for their narrow solitary tomb. They took not from his neck the cross that he had worn in all the years of his peakence, but by its side there lay, within its garment-folds, a massy jewel they had never soen before. Thereon one single word was graven, and Alonzo's eye beheld it—ELTRIDA!

The faithful Hurtswann was at his side, or he had fallen to the earth. On the seat where the once apostate hermit had lately rested, now sat that Christian chief of unblemished faithfulness to his country and his faith, now bearing within his breast a weight of wo unspeakable, "too deep for tears," destined to be the sole tenant of his hone spirit forever. And there before him lay the dead apostate, his body marked with many a sign of penance most severe.

Hurtswann alone prepared his last resting place see he and the chief departed from the dreary hermitage forever. There, at the gaping portain that the suited cavery, hard by the solitary, leaffans, branchless trunk of a blusted tree, lies the unblessed grave, whereou no tear of piety, or love, or reverence, hath ever fallen; "the ione easth of the long-enduring sleep" of Gosalric, the apostate Goth.

Gathering and Saving Fruits.

This is a subject that deserves more attention than it has hitherto received, as the value of most of the fruit sold in our market is much lessened by carelessness or ignorance in gathering, or its treatment afterwards.

Summer Pears should be gathered from me to two weeks before ripening. Some varieties are entirely worthless, being destitute of flavor, if allowed to ripen on the tree.

Summer apples, and especially those sorts inclined to be mealy, should be picked as soon as the skin begins to change color, or they part with their juices, and become we thiess. Ripeness is indicated by the seeds turning dark colored and by the stem parting readily from the tree when the fruit is taken in the hand and lifted upwards.

Winter Apples and Pears should be allowed to runain on the trees until vegetation cases, or there is no reason to apprehend frost.

Grapes, Berries, &c., should attain perfect maturity before being gathered.

Fruit should be gathered by the hand, earrefully, with their stems attached, and laid in baskets, the bottoms of which should laid in baskets, the bottoms of which should be covered with paper, cotton, or some soft material, to prevent bruising. Peaches and other soft fruits require to be handled as light as possible, for a slight bruise is followed by speedy decay. Fruit should be gathered in dry weather.

Schmer Fruits—After gathering, the fruit may be transferred to market baskets, one by one, and taken to market on spring wagons. If it is designed to be kept for family use, it should be taken to the fruit room and stranged on shelves or tables in thin layers. Ripe fruit may be kept in good condition for a considerable time in an ice house, or even in a very cool dry cellar. Seekel pears in a good state of preservation, have been shown at the Massachusetts Horticultural Bociety, in January.

in a good state of preservation, have been shown at the Massachusetts Horticultural slocatety, in January.

Winter Fruit, intended for long keeping, should be laid carefully in heaps four or five deep, in a dry, cool room, some straw having previously been laid on the floor to prevent bruising. Here they may remn'n fir about two weeks, during whi h time they will part with considerable moistare. They will then be ready for packing in barrels. New barrels should be obtained, and in packing, all inferior, knotty or bruised specimens should be rejected, and saved for home use. Fut a little soft paper both at the top and bottom of the barrel, and although perhaps it is not always necessary, if we were packing fine pears or other valuable fruit, we would envelope every specimen with soft paper. We have often seen the benefit of this. Where a single fruit, from bruicing or some other cause begins to deesy, the paper absorbs the moisture, and the other fruit is not injured. The barrel should be well filled, so that the head will press evenly and firmly on the fruit and prevent the rolling or moving about.

Winter Fruits for home consumption should be carefully asserted. The sound specimens of long keeping sorts should be carefully barrelled for late winter and spring use, while others that will not keep as well should be placed by themselves; and all Winter Pears, as a general rule, require to be brought into a warm temperature one or two weeks before they are wanted for use; all the cooking and even some of the table varieties may be treated like apples.

It is therefore necessary to examine occasionally fruit stored away, and remove all that show symptoms of decay. The keeping of fruit is a subject on which light is much needed, and we hope all our readers will give it the attention its importance demands, so that they may be able to present new and valuable facts.
