Make your Mark.

In the quarries should you toil,
Make your mark;
Do you delve upon the soil,
Make your mark;
In whatever path you go,
Make your mark;
In whatever place you stand,
Make your mark;
With a firm and honest hand
Make your mark.

Should opponents hedge your way,
Make your mark;
Work by night or by their day,
Make your mark;
Struggle manfully and well,
Make your mark;
None right should ever fall
By the weapons of his foe—
Make your mark.

What though born a peasant's son,
Make your mark;
Good by poor men can be done—
Make your mark;
Presents which may warm the cold;
Better far than hounding gold;
Is the drying of a tear—
Make your mark.

Life is fleeting as a shade—
Make your mark;
Mark of some kind must be made—
Make your mark;
In the golden hours of youth;
Never, never, never, never, never,
Make it with the stamp of truth—
Make your mark.

Love.

Through gloom and night the hand of love
Can lead to realms of light and rest;
Love can move and love can bind,
Love will seek and love will find
It is the way to every human heart.

Hate and envy never in vain
To crush or chill his noble power;
At his touch the weary plant,
Languid and weary, blossoms a-true,
Ever radiant as a summer's tower.

Still on earth he deigns to roam,
His ponderous realm of light,
When he has seen the world's right,
Is his to replace and his to name.

Sydney Smith, in speaking of the visitors at the Holland House, said Hallam might be generally seen there, "with his mouth full of cabbage and contradiction." A story of Hallam's constant love of contradiction is told in the English papers. After a night of contraction at the Holland House, with "My Lady" Luttrell, Sam Rogers, and Sydney Smith, Hallam returned to his house, his tongue still tipped with ready contradiction. It was late, and the historian not in full health. A watchman went by.

"Past one o'clock," cried the watchman, loudly, with a yawn.

"No," cried Hallam, tartly and loud, throwing up the sash of his bed-room window, watch in hand, "it was three minutes."

"Talk about mean men," said old Fox; "why, there's that Bill Johnson, he's the meanest man I ever heard tell on. Bill was constantly here. Why, don't you think, he had an execution against me for a little matter of groceries, and he came out and levied on the old woman's ducks, and wanted me to drive 'em up and catch 'em for him. I told him to catch 'em himself; and so he chased 'em around the house, and every time he'd catch a duck, he would sit down and wring its head off, and charge for millage!"

Old Squire Greed was notoriously parsimonious; but being ill, was obliged reluctantly to consult Dr. Syntax.

"What shall I do for my head? It's so dizzy I seem to see double."

The doctor wrote a prescription and retired. The recipe ran thus—"When you see double, you will find relief if you count your money."

There was much more fact than fancy in the cross reply of an unfortunate female culprit, when under cross examination in a petty court, by a browbeating limb of the law. "Madam," he demanded, "what sort of conduct have you pursued through life, that should subject you to the suspicion of this outrage upon the plaintiff?" She answered, "Impudence, which has been the making of you, has caused my ruin."

A skunk once challenged a lion to a single combat. The lion promptly declined the honor of such a meeting.

"How," said the skunk, "are you afraid?"

"Very much," quoth the lion, "for you would only gain fame by having the honor to fight a lion, while every one who met me for a month to come would glory I had been in company with a skunk."

Advice to those who wish to pick up something on the turf—Young men, be moderate in your bets. Look at the goose with the golden eggs, and reflect upon his ruin, and ask yourself whether it was not accelerated entirely by what he was in the habit of laying? Take warning from his melancholy fate, and bear in mind that the less you lay, the less chance there is of your being ultimately cut up.

An old tar came down to the cabin of Nelson's ship one cold, drizzly day, with some message, whilst Lady Hamilton was present. Seeing the cold condition of the sailor, she asked which he would prefer—a glass of wine or a glass of brandy. "It don't matter which," replied Jack; "but if your ladyship please, I can be drinking the wine while you are pouring out the brandy."

When the Khan of Tartary has finished his horse-steps, a herald proclaims that all the other princes of the earth can go to dinner; when he becomes a little more civilized, we suppose the herald will be instructed to cry out, before dinner—"Gentlemen, don't wait for me!"

Joe and Bill Benton went to New Orleans with a flat-boat laden with corn. Joe wrote to his father thus:

"No Orleans, Gune the 5.—Dear Dad: Mark's is dull corn any mity loud bill's dead. Your affectionate son, Joe Benton."

"Blessed is he," saith the Book of Mormon, "who bloweth his own horn; for whose bloweth not his own horn, the same shall not be blowed." Likewise: "Who bloweth his own horn, the same shall be blowed with a vengeance."

CONFESSIONS OF A COWARD.

How many cowards, whose hearts are all as this
As mine, are ready upon their knees
To beg, to borrow, and to lend!
The words of Herodotus, and from Mars;
Who, leards searched, have lives like a milk!

It is not often that a man will suffer himself to be tamely posted as a coward, even in the circumscribed sphere of an obscure watering place; and I cannot but anticipate some share of contempt while I go a step beyond that degradation, and acknowledge myself thus, before the whole world of fashion, "a coward—a most scandalous coward." It is, however, with the hope of changing that contempt into something of a more respectful feeling—it is in the sincere expectation of exciting some degree of sympathy, that I have brought myself to make the avowal.

I was born the heir of a most respectable and wealthy family, and entered life under auspices of the most favorable description; but before I had well quitted my nursery, an event occurred which has haunted every flattering prospect, which entered like a canker into my very soul, and has tinged every successive stage of my life with misery and contempt.

I was about four years of age when my paternal grandfather died; she had been excessively fond of me, and would scarcely suffer me to be a moment from her side. I need not describe the feelings which this affliction awakened within me. I returned her love with the fervor and artlessness of childhood, and I still cling to her memory with a fondness which, amidst the contumely I have been fated to endure, has survived nearly all the kindly feelings of the heart, and which in its purity and innocence imparts to my solitary moments the most pleasurable sensations I enjoy. She is before me now, in the dignity of a great writer; her tall figure scarcely less bent than in youth; her cheek still flushed with the hue of health; her mild blue eyes beaming kindly on me; and her perfectly white hair turned above a forehead fair amidst its wrinkles. It was my delight to sit at her feet whilst she was employed in the homely occupation of knitting; and to listen to her stories of our ancestors, or of her own adventures with the rebels in the '45," when they occupied, for a time, her father's house in the north. I remember particularly the description of the horror she felt, a short time afterwards, on entering Carlisle, in recognizing over the city gates the heads of several of these guests. This kind friend and companion of my infancy died suddenly, and her fate was kept secret from me; my inquiries were met with the assurance that my grandmother would speedily return, and with this assurance they contrived to pacify me. One day, however, while the servant was absent, I happened to want a toy which I recollected I had left in my grandmother's room, and proceeded thither, unobserved, to fetch it. On entering the apartment, I was surprised by the sight of what appeared to me a handsome chest, and with the suspicion of its containing some valuable article, I proceeded to examine it. I lifted the covering, and gazed for a moment in mute astonishment at the unexpected appearance and situation of my beloved relative. At first I endeavored to awaken her by calling on her name; vexed at her continued silence, I impatiently seized her hand; its icy coldness went to my heart, and the heavy manner in which it dropped from my releasing grasp increased my astonishment. At length I raised the lid, and the cold fixed gaze which fell upon me completed my terror, and forced from me a scream which summoned the attendants, who bore me away, and explained to me the work of death.

From this moment the cause which had wrought this dreadful change became the ruling sentiment of my mind. I listened attentively to every narrative of the progress of sickness and death, and the most fatal diseases became objects of terrible anticipation to me. I frequently woke in the middle of the night; the silence and the darkness were associated in my mind with death and the grave, and I shrieked in agony lest I should die before the morning.

My imagination, thus fearfully excited, outstripped my years; and I was sent to a public school, in the hope that the bustle, the emulation, and the amusements of such a scene would produce a favorable effect upon my mind; but the shaft had struck too deeply—the impression was never to be effaced. I never joined in the sports of my companions, for we could not play without quarreling; fighting was the natural consequence of these contests; I had heard too much of the fatal consequences of an unskilful blow to venture a battle with even the least boy in the school. I was consequently surrounded by a host of tyrants; and happy was the day on which a share of the little luxuries I was enabled to purchase procured for me an exemption from unmerited blows. My time was spent in solitary misery in a retired corner of the play-ground, where I sat continually brooding over the horrors of death; and I now wonder that my senses did not yield to the terrible creations of my fancy. Sometimes I scarcely slept for weeks, for fear I should fall into a trance, and be buried while alive; at other times I imagined that this catastrophe had already taken place, and that the passing scene was but a dream from which I should awake to die amidst the stifling solitude of my tomb. Frequently was I so oppressed with the reality of these fears, that I have poured out my soul in agony to God, and prayed that I might never be conscious of the awfulness of my doom.

In these dreadful fancies, and such as these, were passed my hours of leisure, and I protest that the recollection of them is terrible to me even now. However, I passed through the several forms of the school with the greatest credit, and was sent to Oxford.

Thither my character followed me, and I became the butt and sport of the whole university; my name was given to the proctor by every jack-nape who was detected in any irregularity; if a man had a noisy party in his rooms, and was detected of occupying the bed, and I doubt as little that I should be battered till they obtained entrance, and mine the port that was swallowed till the morning brought a headache and an indisposition. At length my name became associated with so many breaches of discipline, that my father was advised to remove me, in order to prevent the adoption of harsh measures; but, so far from being dissatisfied with my conduct, the old gentleman applauded my spirit, and rejoiced to see changed from the pusillanimous character which I formerly bore. So completely were his views with respect to me altered, that he decided I should enter my uncle's regiment of horse! My father's commands I had never dared to dispute, but this sounded like a sentence of death to me, and appeared totally impossible to be carried into effect. A revulsion of horse! Why, I had never mounted the Fitz-quiet pony which carried me round the park without fears for the safety of my neck, and I had never ventured beyond a walk even upon him. Fortunately, however, as I then considered it, there was no vacancy in the regiment at the moment; my review was extremely short; a letter speedily arrived from my uncle, stating that the junior Cornet had been drowned in the passage, and that he had received the appointment for me; my commission arrived from the War-Office in a few days afterwards, with directions that I should join the regiment immediately. My father hurried my preparations, and I did my best to keep up my spirits; but do what I would, a fit of sickness procured me a month's delay. At length I embarked; but the sensations with which I entered the boat, was dragged up the side of the vessel, and saw the shores lessening to my view, and the waves beating around me, with the fate of my predecessor ever in my recollection, I will not attempt to describe. In those sensations the separation from friends had no share; in my fears for myself all kindly affections were overwhelmed. Dreadful sea-sickness, which I suffered in common with my fellow-passengers, disguised all other feelings, and I lay without having attracted the particular attention of my companions.

My uncle had just left the general when I reached the camp, and congratulated me on my good fortune, in having arrived at a moment when they were on the point of attacking the enemy, an event which would take place on the following morning. He then made a thousand inquiries respecting his friends in England; but imagining from the incoherence of my answers that I was greatly fatigued, he recommended me to seek refreshment in sleep, and calmly at hand I threw myself on the earth, and endeavored to persuade myself that this was one of my dreadful dreams; but the regular tramp of the sentinel, and the canvas canopy above me, too plainly assured me of the terrible reality. At one time I had determined on feigning sickness—but even had danger would be present as in the battle; other plans I endeavored to arrange for avoiding the fatal field; but seeing no way of escaping, I resolved to fortify myself with landrum, as the only resource against the discovery of my fears. After a few hours of agonizing suspense, an old servant of my uncle's entered my tent to assist me in accosting my uncle. I had read much, and had feelings of strong commiseration, of the conduct of criminals on the morning of execution, during the participation of the sacrament—the interviews with friends, ministers, and sheriffs—pinning the arms, knocking off the iron, arranging the procession, and other similar modes of increasing the suspense of the awful hour. Feelings similar to those which I had imagined must prevail on such occasions did I experience, while the veteran was excitedly expatiating on the probable events of the day; and when he mentioned the certainty of our division having to sustain the brunt of the fight, my trembling would have betrayed me had the possibility of the existence of such a sensation as fear entered the mind of the soldier. He mistook it for the agitation of impatient valor, and begged me not to be too eager, as coolness was everything on these occasions. Heaven knows I was cool; and when he mentioned the certainty of our division having to sustain the brunt of the fight, my trembling would have betrayed me had the possibility of the existence of such a sensation as fear entered the mind of the soldier. STEILACOOM LIBRARY LECTURE. Agreeably to appointment, Monday, H. I. Stevens appeared in town last Monday evening, to lecture before the Steilacoom Library Association.

Eight o'clock found the M. E. Church filled with people, a large portion of whom were ladies, eager to listen to the hon. gentleman's discourse. The speaker, on appearing before them, stated that he would address them on the subject of the Indians east of the Cascades, and expressed the hope that his auditors would not consider him egotistical if he made frequent allusion to himself.

Starting with this preface, he went on to narrate events that transpired among the Indians shortly prior to the last war; giving circumstantial accounts of interviews between himself and their leading chiefs; describing their persons and characteristics, &c., &c. The lecturer's hair-breadth escapes, on several occasions, from the tomahawk and scalping-knife, were thrillingly told; and the dauntless courage he displayed in confronting the savage malcontents, while they were igniting the flames of war, inspired his hearers with great respect for his fearlessness and patriotism.

More than once did he have the good fortune to avert an Indian war, and save his country from annihilation at the hands of the merciless savage, by thus placing himself in the breach. A young man near the centre of the church, with watery eyes, weak nerves, and a brick in his hat, found it extremely difficult to restrain his feelings during this recital; at intervals he would mutter, in a tone and accent only audible to those nearest him, "Hoohah for Gov. Stevens; he's the bould soldier boy."

The audience, at the close, departed for their homes but little edified and not well pleased. To many, the story was a "thrice-told tale," and some thought themselves sold cheap. The Library Association have resolved to look somewhere else for the next lecture.

MOVEMENTS OF TROOPS. Company E, 4th Infantry, arrived last Friday at Fort Steilacoom, from Vancouver. Capt. Judah and Lieut. McCall are the officers attached to the company.

Remnants of companies left here in hospital, when Col. Casey's command went to San Juan, will go down on the U. S. Steamer Massachusetts to-morrow morning, to rejoin their companies. Lieut. Harvie will accompany them, and return again in a few days to resume his duties here as Acting Assistant Quartermaster. Capt. Judah will remain with his company at this post.

It is rumored that two companies will come up from California by the next steamer.

MONK'S ARREST.—A letter in the Fort Smith Times states that in the midst of the Mountain Meadow Massacre, a girl of 18 or 14 years old threw herself upon John D. Lee, (the Captain of the band of murderers, and a Danite Saint) and pleaded for her life, after seeing her father, mother and brothers butchered; and took her into the bushes, robbed her of that jewel which to a virtuous girl is dearer than life, and after satisfying his beastly desires, deliberately cut her throat, and left her weltering in her life's blood.

The Portland Daily Advertiser learns by a gentleman recently from Walls-Walls that the Snake Indians attacked a party of twenty-seven emigrants on the south government road, near Malheur river, dangerously wounding one man. The party retraced their steps and came in by the old route on Snake river. The emigrants are arriving at Walls-Walls in good health, but some families are short of provisions.

RATES OF PASSAGE.—The latest rates of passage by steamers from San Francisco to the Atlantic States were as follows: Storage, $37.50; second cabin, $54.50; Indian's saloon, $82; upper deck state rooms, $107. The Brother Jonathan took passengers from Portland to San Francisco, last week, for $5 in the cabin, and $2.50 in the storage.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE.—Rev. Father Rossi will lecture on next Sunday afternoon, at 8 o'clock, in Col. Wallace's building, on the subject of Temperance. A reform is much needed here, and we hope the lecture will not be without fruit. We trust a full house will greet Father Rossi on this occasion.

DISHONORED.—Geo. Melville, mentioned last week as under examination for stabbing F. C. Soaman, was discharged from custody on Monday; the injured man and witnesses refusing to testify against him.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—J. W. Sullivan, of San Francisco, by the last steamer sent us the usual bundle of choice Eastern papers. Freeman & Co. and Wells, Fargo & Co. were attentive as usual.

RAIN.—During the past week we have been visited by refreshing showers of warm rain, the precursor of the rainy season.

THE EMIGRATION. Further Massacres by the Mormons.

From a dispatch published in the Sacramento Union, dated Carson Valley, Aug. 29th, we get the following intelligence:— Judge Crane has just returned from a trip to Carson, and up the Humboldt. He states, on the report of immigrants, that the number of persons who will yet arrive across the Plains for California, Oregon and Washington, and Nevada Territories, between April and December, will not fall short of 70,000. Some 20,000, it is believed will be of the best blood. The emigration to Oregon and Washington is very large.

Judge Crane confirms the massacre of the immigration at Sublett's Cutoff. One of the Shepherds brothers will be here to-morrow. The Mormons and Indians robbed them of $900 in gold. A man by the name of Davis confessed, and Sink of the Humboldt, that the Mormons committed the massacre of the Mormon company at Humboldt gave him warning to get out the way. He will be here in a few days. Judge Crane leaves here in a few days for Walker river.

The Valley Tan, published in Utah, speaks thus of the passing emigration: There will be a heavy emigration to California this season; the vanguard has already reached Carson Valley. For some weeks it has been streaming along here, and while it still continues there are said to be large numbers yet on the road. Moreover, the emigration by the Northern route which does not pass here is said to be unusually large.

Great Salt Lake City is rife with assassinations. W. H. Hooper is elected delegate to Congress, instead of Dr. Bernhisel. The hatred is so intense between the Mormons and the Gentiles that the latter claim protection from the U. S. troops.

CAPT. WALLEN'S COMMAND, ETC. The following letters, one from a correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin, and the other from Capt. Wallen himself, at once dispel the painful apprehensions that were a short time since felt for the safety of Capt. Wallen's command: CAMP FLOYD, Aug. 16, 1859.

Capt. Wallen, Lieut. Switzer and Houston, and Dr. Randolph, all of the Oregon and Salt Lake Valley Wagon Road Expedition, arrived here last night. These officers captured twenty of the recent outrages. Lieut. Gordon's company of dragoons has gone there post haste; and two companies of Infantry (Capt. Nellie's company, 6th Infantry, and Lieut. Cunningham's 10th Infantry) march to-day for the same region, to protect the emigrants. This protection is from Mormons as much as from Indians, and it is a pity that our dragoons cannot charge as freely on the one as the other. It is said that several "white Indians" (Mormons) were found in the camp of the savages, and it is to be feared that the church is resorting to its old trick of "wiping out" Gentiles and despoiling them of their property, by using their less guilty because more ignorant red brethren as instruments and agents of their wicked designs.

The following extracts from a private letter addressed by Capt. H. D. Wallen, whom the Indians did not massacre, to a friend in San Francisco, will be read with interest: CAMP FLOYD, U. T., Aug. 16, 1859.

My DEAR * * *—I arrived at this place yesterday with a small escort of 20 dragoons, from Raft Creek, where the balance of my command are now stationed. My object in coming here was to communicate with Gen. Johnston, agreeably to my instructions, and to get an additional supply of provisions to last for another month.

The emigration is so great on the California and Oregon roads that it will be necessary for me to remain until they have all passed safely in.

No trouble from the Indians has occurred as yet on my road, but among the California emigrants, several have suffered. In Sublett's cutoff, Shephard's horse train was attacked on the 27th of July, and T. F. Shephard, W. F. Shephard, W. C. Diggs and G. Haines, were killed, and one woman and child severely wounded. A company of dragoons, under Lieut. Gay, from this place, came unexpectedly upon these Indians, killing twenty of them, recovering some of the stolen property from Shephard's train. Other companies have taken the field, and I hope that they may be equally successful. I was enabled to supply several families, who were in a starving condition, going to California, with the necessaries of life, and sent them on their way rejoicing. One man and wife with eight little children, were without a mouthful of food. We think ourselves badly off, but there is nothing like being in the wide wilderness unarmed and without food.

I shall remain here for a few days longer and return to my camp, and then start for the Columbia river. I have made several important cut-outs in my route from the Dalles to this place, all of which I will write you fully about on my return.

Yours, very truly, H. D. WALLEN.

THE STEAMER JULIA arrived at this place at about twelve o'clock, last night, bringing Victoria papers of the 14th, and San Francisco papers of the 13th inst., for which we are indebted to the politeness of Parson Lovell.

The Portland Daily Advertiser learns from Mr. Thompson, who has returned from a surveying tour east of the Cascades, that chills and fever are at present very prevalent in that region. Nearly every settler in the Umatilla country is afflicted by it.

The Oregon Farmer is heretofore to be published twice a month, at $3 per annum. Now is the time to subscribe.

IMPORTANT FROM CHINA.

The barque Sea Nymph arrived at Victoria direct from Hong Kong in 17 days, bringing the China Mail to July 21st.

Through the British Consul, which copies from the Mail, we have intelligence that a new difficulty had occurred with the Chinese authorities, which led to an attack on the Taku Forts at the mouth of the Peiho river, on the 25th June, which resulted in the total defeat of the British force, with a loss of five gun-boats and four or five hundred men.

In the action were 12 British gun-boats, mounting 30 guns, with about 1000 men, actually engaged under Admiral Hop, and a small French gun-boat with one gun in the stern. The British lost 464 killed and wounded. The first battalion of Marines, which landed 400 strong, lost 172 killed and wounded. The Cheongpaik had 26 killed or missing, and 34 wounded. No hope is entertained of the missing galle with such succor as the Chinese, considering the circumstances under which the attack took place. Out of a small landing party of 60, the French had 15 killed or wounded.

The British Minister, Mr. Bruce, and M. de Bourboulon, French Minister, refused to see the Chinese Commissioner at Shanghai who negotiated the treaty with Lord Elgin. They declined to hold any communication until they arrived at Peking. Mr. Bruce delayed till the last moment at Hong Kong, and only arrived with the French and American Ministers at the Peiho on the 20th, where the treaty was to be signed at Peking on the 20th. Finding it defended by forts, piles, iron bars and chains, Admiral Hope found it difficult to pass up the Tientsin. They were informed that the Allied Ministers would be received at the northern entrance. Governor General Heng arrived at Taku on the 24th, and sent a letter to Mr. Bruce the day before his arrival at Peking. He was almost silenced, when the order was given to retreat when more were killed than in the advance.

On the morning of the 25th, at daylight, an attempt was made to pass up the river, but it was found impossible. At 10 p. m. the signal was run up to prepare for action. No one was seen in the forts for the 8 hours previous. The Plover, with Admiral, pushed up close to the first barrier, when no sooner had he arrived there than the masts disappeared as if by magic, and the whole of the guns opened fire. It was evident that it was not ordinary Chinese artillery. For two hours the bombardment was kept up, but with little effect on the mud walls, though every Chinese shot told. After 4 o'clock the fire was almost silenced, when the order was given to land. Out of 1000 men who landed, owing to the deadly fire and the deep mud, but 100 men reached the ditches. Prodiges of valor were performed, but without effect. The order was given to retreat when more were killed than in the advance.

The Coromandel was made a temporary hospital ship, and the scene on her deck was truly horrible. The belief is universal that Europeans carried off to sea as well as Chinese. Men with close-cropped hair and Russian features were seen. Two dead bodies floated in the river had incontestibly Russian features, though in Chinese clothes.

The Americans lent a generous assistance by towing with a small steamer some of the boats into action, from the large ships, and after it was over, by taking the men on board and treating them kindly. They are loud in praises of the bravery of the British.

GEN. HARNBY TO GOV. DOUGLAS. HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF OREGON, Fort Vancouver, W. T., Aug. 24, '59.

His Excellency James Douglas, G. B., Governor of Vancouver's Island and its dependencies, Vice-Admiral of the same, &c.

Sir:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 13th inst., which came to me by mail this morning. The copy of Mr. Marcy's despatch of the 17th of July, 1855, to Her Majesty's Minister at Washington, stated in your communication to be enclosed, was not received. This I presume was an accidental omission in the transmission of your letter.

It was with pleasure I received from your Excellency a prompt disavowal of any intention on the part of the Government of the United States to commit any aggression upon the rights of American citizens residing on San Juan Island; and I desire to communicate to you that I shall forward this despatch by the first opportunity, to the President of the United States, to enable him to consider it in connection with all the facts duly reported to him, attending the occupation of San Juan Island, by a portion of the troops under my command.

Your Excellency has been pleased to express how anxious you have ever been to co-operate with the officers of the United States Government, in any measures which might be mutually beneficial to the citizens of the two countries; and your regret is signified that communication with you on the subject of the occupation of San Juan Island, had not been sought during my late agreeable visit to your Excellency at Victoria.

I beg to offer in reply, that I have cordially reciprocated the sentiments of friendship and goodwill you have manifested towards American interests, from the period of my service with this command. In that time, I have on two different occasions notified the Government of the United States of your acts affecting our citizens, in terms of commendation and praise, as assurances of a proper appreciation of the confidence placed in me by your government in that of Her Majesty. On my late visit to Victoria, it was with-out knowledge that any occurrence had taken place on San Juan Island, to outrage the feelings of its inhabitants, else I should then have informed your Excellency what I conceived it became incumbent on me to do under such circumstances.

The explanation which your Excellency has advanced, while it seems to remove the impression at first created of a direct action on the part of the British Authorities of Vancouver's Island, in the recent occurrences on San Juan Island against the rights of our citizens, does not expose any evidence of a preventive nature to a repetition of the acts which have caused so serious a misunderstanding in the minds of the American people on San Juan Island; nor has the course which events have taken since the occupation of the Island by the troops of my command, been of such character as to re-assure these people, could the contents of your despatch be announced to them.

From what has taken place, I do not feel myself qualified to withdraw the present command from San Juan Island, until the pleasure of the President of the United States has been made known on the subject. I can, however, frankly assure your Excellency, that I am fully convinced that the confidence placed in me by your government will be exerted in causing the rights of Her Majesty's subjects on San Juan to be held inviolate.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, Your ob't serv't, W. S. HARNBY, Brigadier-General, Commanding.

FROM SAN JUAN ISLAND.

The excitement on and about the Island of San Juan has entirely subsided. Gov. Douglas now seems content to let the question of sovereignty rest with the home governments for settlement. The following extract from a private letter contains all the intelligence we received from the Island by the last steamer:—

"We are now making fortifications and other improvements, to enable us to hold our position against a much larger force than John Bull has at this part of the world.

The town or city of San Juan, which consisted, when we arrived, of one tent, now contains some ten or fifteen buildings, consisting of stores, bakehouses, dwellings, &c. It is truly wonderful to see the progress of the American people. If the town should continue to grow as fast for three months to come, it will undoubtedly be the largest city in Washington Territory.

Everything is quiet here, with the exception of some rowdiness, which is punished by the officers of the civil law with great promptitude, and reflects much credit on the Justice of the Peace, H. R. Crosby, Esq.

There is room for many splendid farms upon this Island, yet to be taken.

Yours, &c., J. E. DOINGS AT TUMWATER. To the Editor of the Puget Sound Herald: TUMWATER, W. T., Sept. 2d, 1859.

Thinking you would like to know how we are getting along in this part of our growing Territory, I take the liberty of dropping you a few lines by the Julia, which steamer makes this her headquarters during her spare time, after returning with the mail from down the Sound.

The Tannery, which has been so long in course of construction, is now fully under way, and the proprietors (Messrs. Biles & Carter) deserve great credit for their enterprise in establishing so fine a manufactory. I believe this surpasses anything of the kind on the Pacific coast. The wheel by which all the machinery is set in motion is of the overshot style, and measures 28 feet in diameter. One square foot of water from the falls does the business finely.

The new bridge below the falls is now in course of erection, and will be completed in a few days. It connects with the Olympia road; is 300 feet in length, 16 in width, and said to bear up all the weight that can be put upon it.

Since the first of July last, six spacious wooden buildings have been erected here, and the end is not yet.

Yours, &c., CHUCK. SNOHOMISH RIVER, Sept. 15, '59.

To the "Steilacoom Lyceum Association." FELLOW-CITIZENS—I am a "Lecturer" of the new school, i. e. favor of clubs, cliques, and associations of every description, provided they are democratic, ready at all times to answer my country's call, or lecture before ass-o-ci-ations, if necessary.

Having thus defined my position, and being credibly informed there is an ass-o-ci-ation in the city of Steilacoom known as the "Steilacoom Lyceum Association," the members of which meet semi-occasionally, for the purpose of discussing and debating on all subjects foreign to the Ass-o-ci-ation, I would respectfully beg leave to submit the annexed questions and incidents to the grave consideration of the members for debate. Your humble servant wishes to be included as one of the debaters, provided you make it a "full-cocked debate."

1st. Have the treaties made with the various tribes of Indians east of the Cascade mountains anything to do with the association?

2d. Does the "lowering of Looking Glass" affect the financial condition of the association?

3d. Did the rescuing by United States agents of the four horses stolen in the year 1855 from the Blackfoot Indians tend to promote the best interests of the association?

4th. Would a lifelike likeness of the tall, the athletic, brave and dauntless "Eagle of Three Feathers" be a proper ornament for the rooms of the association?

5th. Would it be proper for the Steilacoom Library Association to elect a man an honorary member of the association endowed with less intellect than "Lawyer," chief of the Nez Percé Indians?

6th. What has crinoline to do with flour barrels? TOURIST.

NOTICE.—All persons are hereby cautioned against giving credits or trusting any one on my account, as no such debts will be paid by me. JOHN BRADLEY.

Special Notices.

Dr. Guyot's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Parsnip, put up in quart bottles, contains more of the pure Hermodranthan than any other preparation extant, which is chemically combined with the Extract of Yellow Dock and the Extract of Wild Cherry, thus making a remedy more thoroughly efficient than any other Sarsaparilla remedy now in use. At the same time it is perfectly free from all mineral poisons, which cannot be cast off any other of the Sarsaparilla compounds. The laxative should be aware of the active ingredients of the Sarsaparilla and Purgative of the Sarsaparilla Compound Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla does not contain a particle of these substances, as any one can see by applying the necessary tests.

Let all persons beware of cheap imitations, and use Guyot's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, which is thoroughly efficient, perfectly harmless, and purely vegetable. All kinds of disease yield to its gentle influence. As a purifier of the blood, and the various skin diseases, it has no equal.

Be sure and get the QUART BOTTLES, with English Guaranty. PARK & WHITE, General Agents, Importers and Dealers in all valuable Patent Medicines, 122 Washington street, San Francisco. 26th

For the Lungs, Coughs, Colds, &c., Use Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. We regard the Wild Cherry tree as one of Nature's own Physicians—a sort of Good Samaritan of the Forest—the "medical gum" has relieved the sufferings and saved the lives of thousands. The Balsam prepared by Dr. Wistar is a pure and perfectly reliable preparation of the real Cherry tree, and it is a remedy by no means "had to take." We speak confidently and strongly in its praise, from having witnessed its curative influence in consumptive cases, when all other preparations had proved of no effect.

Be cautious, at there are many counterfeits. Look well at the signature before purchasing. Take none unless it has the name of Henry Wistar, M.D., Philadelphia, and a Star and Park, engraved on the outside wrapper. All others are base imitations. PARK & WHITE are the only Agents, to whom all orders should be addressed.

PUGET SOUND HERALD.

STEILACOOM, W. T., FRIDAY, SEPT. 16, 1859.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

A man named Fitzpatrick died in Lynn, Mass., of consumption. For the last twenty-nine days of his existence he partook of no food of any description, except one or two strawberries. This is certainly one of the most extraordinary cases on record. He was so reduced at the time of his death that his leg could be spanned at any part by the thumb and forefinger.

A gentleman, in the course of twenty-five days, was recently in London, Calis, Liverpool, New York, Washington, Cincinnati and Richmond.

The offensive state of the river Thames is exciting general remark in London. The Times says "it is exhaling effluvia more terrible, if possible, than those which created the panic last year."

The Buffalo Commercial learns that the preliminaries have been arranged for a prize fight for $25000 between Australian Kelly and Edward Price, a Boston brawler. The contest is to take place at Point Albino, in Canada. Heretofore, it is said, is to handle Price.

The Saints of Utah are likely to be put upon a short allowance of food. The Deseret News says that the reports from nearly every county and settlement are far from flattering, and in many locations the wheat crop will be almost an entire failure.

A gentleman's leg was amputated at the Massachusetts Hospital in order that he might have an artificial one applied. The amputated leg was four inches shorter than his fellow, but perfectly sound. The patient has waited for twenty-seven years upon a crutch, but prefers to try the other style of "going ahead," even if it is by means of a wooden proppier.

A clergyman, in a communication to the Christian Watchman, expresses the opinion that clergy should be allowed to use hair dye, "until our churches make sufficient advances in godliness to be willing to tolerate gray hairs in a pastor."

In the list of students at University College, London, who received prizes at the hand of a no less distinguished personage than the Premier of Great Britain, we find the names of the two sons of the ex-Governor of Hungary.

The Boston Atlas has a letter giving an interesting account of the celebration of the fourth of July at Heidelberg, Germany, by a large number of Americans. The party, it appears, chartered a steamer, which was gayly decked with flags, and enjoyed themselves during the day to the full bent of their inclinations.

The Philadelphia Bulletin lays down a number of rules of action in case of one's clothes taking fire, and concludes by recommending any lady who should unfortunately find herself enveloped in the flames of her burning garments, to "keep as cool as possible."

A statue of Douglas, life size, from Vermont marble, by Volk, of Chicago, has been set up in the palace of the Illinois autocrat Matteson. It is said to be a perfect facsimile of the Little Giant.

The citizens of Columbia, South Carolina, were on the 2d ult. very unexpectedly put on short rations of bread, owing to a strike among the bakers, who refused to furnish bread at the usual or rate designated by the City Council.

A physician in Louisville has discovered that, by living principally on buttermilk, a human being may prolong existence to the period of two hundred years.

The number of public functionaries in Spain is 229,169, or one for every 73 of the population, a larger proportion than in any other country in Europe.

About the hardest case of frost-bitten wheat is related by the Detroit Tribune, of a farmer who sowed his wheat the 4th ult. after the June frost of $65. The buyer afterwards refused $400 for it.

The first free school in the United States, according to a correspondent of the Newark Advertiser, was established in that city by Moses N. Combes, prior to 1800, in a building erected by him for a school and meeting house.

Raymond, of the New York Times, in his last letter, says: "Theodore Parker has gone to Switzerland, and Mr. Sumner to England. Gov. Servais is in Russia. Mr. Bigelow, of the Post, starts to-day for Switzerland and Germany with his family."

The London Athenaeum is very savage upon a recently published American book. It says: "The preface is the revelation of a phantasmagoric Christmas holiday wheel. The book is written as if with a bow-knife; it is all revolver, firing and brandy-smash."

The King of Bavaria's alliance with Lola Montez has created quite a taste for actresses among his kinsmen. Field-Marshal Prince Charles of Bavaria has just married the widow of the actor Holken, who has received the title of the Baroness Funkenburg, and Duke Louis of Bavaria has formed a magnetic marriage with an actress named Monty, who has been raised to the nobility as Baroness Waldsee.

A German girl in Buffalo, named Monroe, recently swallowed twenty-two needles, and has digested the whole number, under medical care. She intended to kill herself, but did not succeed.

The Pittsburgh Dispatch says Sunday travel upon the passenger railways in that city will be prohibited from the start.

Public meetings have been held in Missouri for the purpose of adopting measures to prevent the driving Texas cattle through that State to the North. It is alleged that these droves have management disease along the routes, of which many Missouri cattle have died.

A steam plow was tried lately at Oxford Park, Philadelphia, with entire success. It plowed at the rate of one acre in twelve minutes. It turned in a small circle, backed, and went up and down hill with ease.

Parents should not require too much study from their children. A child was placed in the New York Lunatic Asylum, lately, owing to too close application to study, which threw it into fits, and resulted in destroying the mind.

In Clearfield, Pa., a real genuine porcupine lately walked leisurely down the street, and whilst taking a deliberate view of things in general, was discovered by several citizens, who surrounded, and, after driving him into a store, captured and caged him. He is said to have his bristles up considerably about the matter.

The value of the New Jersey blackberry crop this year is estimated at $250,000.

There is a movement in Pittsburgh, Pa., to form a military company on the Zouave plan.

A German in Cincinnati made a bet of $50 that he could drink half a barrel of lager in twenty-four hours. Seeing how he was going on, the other party paid him $10 to stop and throw up the bet. - War has been unremittingly waged against the hogs and hog-owners of New York. The number of pens destroyed during the war was 282, and the number of swine taken prisoners 1552.

A correspondent of the London Star, writing from the seat of war, says: "I have been surprised to find so many Englishmen amongst the officers of the Austrian army. There is hardly a regiment without one."

FARMS FOR SALE

SIXTEEN CLAIMS IN THURSTON AND Pierce counties for sale. - The undersigned, as the agent of others, has for sale sixteen land claims in this and the adjoining counties, all of which are more or less improved, and some under a high state of cultivation. Among these claims are several that are admirably adapted for cattle raising, and others that are not excellent for fertility on the Pacific coast. Some of them are donation claims of 320 acres, and others pre-emption claims of 160 acres. Payment will be taken in cattle or money, at prices ranging from $400 to $5000.

Parties having Farms for sale will find it to their interest to intrust them to the undersigned; he being probably better acquainted with the country than any body now living in this county, the knowledge of which fact has induced many in pursuit of claims to apply to him. Terms moderate.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7th, 1859. To the Editors of the Pacific Medical and Surgical Journal: GENTLEMEN-My attention has been called to an article in the December number of your Journal, in regard to the degree granted by the Philadelphia College of Medicine to Dr. L. J. Czapkay. When the application for the degree was made to the Faculty, it was accompanied by affidavits and testimonials to the effect that Dr. Czapkay was a regular graduate M.D. of the University of Pesth, had served as Surgeon in the Hungarian Army, and was a regular practitioner of medicine. On the strength of these degrees was granted. The ad eundem degree, as his name appears, is conferred on graduates only, and gives us new privileges. Had there been the slightest suspicion of irregularity, the application would have been refused. By inserting this in your Journal, you will do an act of justice to the College, and confer a favor on Yours, very respectfully, H. RAND, Dean of the Faculty of the Philadelphia College of Medicine.

TOWN LOTS!

BILL'S ADDITION TO STEILACOOM.

Agriculture.

When shall we Sow Wheat?

We have conversed, says the Prairie Farmer, with a large number of Illinois farmers upon this subject during the past eight months. The most invariable answer to the above question is, "In the latter part of August and fore part of September—not later than the 10th or 15th of September."

Phosphoric Acid.

In the Zuyder Zee Lands, in Holland, there are five tons of phosphoric acid to the acre. This is far above the average of what is found in combination with lime, or some other substance, in all plants and animals; showing its necessity for the existence of animal and vegetable life.

Summer Pruning.

Too many of our nurserymen and orchardists, says Emery's Journal of Agriculture, are only acquainted with the theory of summer pruning, and fall half of those who practice it had much better break or lose their knives before midsummer. It is a barbarous practice, in our hot climate, to cut every leaf or twig from nursery trees just at the time they need them most.

Supports for Flower Stems.

Galvanized iron wire, number nine, which can be obtained at hardware stores, cut into proper lengths, makes the best supports for the stems of plants of any thing we know of. They are not half as much trouble to make, and are more neat than wooden rods; they need no paint, never rust, and can be used year after year.

A FARM PLAGUE EASILY REMOVED.

W. C. Baker writes, "When you see a gopher, chase him, and he will run to his hole, chattering. Catch me if you can; which you may soon prove to him. You can do it by turning into his hiding place a pall of water; he will soon run out, when you may dispatch him without trouble, for he will make his appearance not feeling in a fit trim for a race with you. Much of the corn supposed to be pulled by blackbirds is the work of gophers."

To MEASURE HAY STACKS.—"More than twenty years since," says an old farmer, "I copied the following method for measuring hay from an old publication, and having verified its general accuracy, I have both bought and sold by it, and I believe it may be useful to many farmers where the means of weighing are not at hand."

TO GROW LARGE POTATOES.—"We only stated that if, when the plants are only a few inches high, the number of shoots be reduced, by pulling them up, to one or two, or at most three of the strongest, the tubers will be much larger—fewer in number, of course, but larger."

125 McCORMICK'S Chicago Reapers!

With extras for all the different patterns from 1852 to 1898. [Agent for the manufacturers for the Pacific coast.]

No single establishment in the world can truthfully claim to have manufactured and sold anything like so large a number of Reaping and Mowing Machines during the same time, while my experience dates back to the origin of my machine, in 1834, having been actively and exclusively engaged in their manufacture for the last fifty years.

As the best Reapers of the Manny machine, claiming the highest honors, etc., at the French Universal Exposition, in 1855, are known by them to be "FALM." The success of my machine, as indicated by sales above, is its highest praise, while the awards, medals, generally, are worthy of no confidence, although reaper makers make a business of laboring and churning to secure the same.
