"BY-AND-BY."

Was the parting very bitter?
Was the hand clasped very tight?
Is a storm of tears-drops falling
From a face all sad and white?
Think not of it, in the future
Calmer fairs, days are nigh;
Gaze not backward, but look onward
For a sunny "by and by."

Were some whispered words too cherished?
Was the touch of lips too sweet?
Are two souls once linked together
Never, never more to meet?
Never here, earth's poor, vain passion
Slowly smouldering out must die,
But its ashes shall return you
Something pure "by and by."

Was the priceless love you lavished
Sought for, played with, and then slain?
Were its crushed and quivering remnants
Calmly thrown you back again?
Cherish too, the remnants gather
Bring them home without a sigh,
Sweet returns they yet shall bring you,
In a coming "by and by."

Is your frail boat tossed and battered,
With its sails all torn and wet,
Crossing o'er a waste of waters
Over which your sun has set?
To the shore all calm and snail,
To the smooth sand warm and dry,
Faith shall bear your shattered vessel
Safely, surely, "by and by."

Are the eyelids very weary,
Does the tired head long for rest,
Are the temples hot and throbbing,
And the hands together pressed?
Hope shall lay you on her bosom,
Cool the poor lips parched and dry,
And shall whisper, "Rest is coming,
Rest forever, "by and by."

And when calmed and cheered and freshened
By her soul inspiring voice,
These look up, the heavens are brightening,
Cease your wailing and rejoice;
Cry not out for days departed,
None will hear you, none reply;
But look on whose light is breaking
O'er a brighter "by and by."

LIFE IN WASHINGTON.

Whisky Lobbyists and Women Lobbyists.

C. H. Webb, in one of his letters from Washington to the New York Tribune, thus describes some of the people he meets at the Federal Capitol:

Of whisky inspectors and revenue officers—men who destrain at a goat and swallow a camel—who hold their positions by uncertain tenures, and have charges to explain away, there is an army. The woe of these innocents would fill volumes, and the tender fatuity with which they relate is especially charming. One of them, who is said to have made $1000,000 since May, last nailed me at Williards the other evening and unbosomed himself in a sort of confessional harikari. He had made nothing he said; indeed he was out of pocket by virtue of his office, and would willingly resign it, if permitted to do so in an honorable manner. But he strongly objected to going out with aren a shadow of suspicion resting upon his character. Had he not been virtuous he might now be happy and wealthy. On the occasion while investigating the business of a distillery, he was surprised, on going to his office, by a large envelope lying on his desk. How it got there no one knew. Opening it, he found in his horror, ten $1,000 notes. Of course he did not know from whence they came, but he had his suspicions. Going down to the distillery he charged the owner with the outrage and demanded either an explanation or an apology. The man denied all knowledge of the money; but convinced that he and none other was the guilty party my friend threw it indignantly on the head of a whisky barrel and left the premises. The end was not then. Some days afterwards, the joke was repeated; this time the monetary inclosure being accompanied by a note, stating that a like amount would arrive in the same mysterious manner from an unknown friend and well wisher, if he would but consent to shut his eyes a little and not worm out secrets of the still. Again he sought the distillery owner, and again and again forced the money into his hands, notwithstanding his protestations of innocence and ignorance emphatically declaring that another experiment of the kind would meet with prompt and severe punishment: he would report an attempt at bribery to the Government. This had the desired effect, and he was not again troubled from the same quarter. Still he was not safe from like persecutions at other hands, and time and time again had he been approached with inducements to betray his trust. Space fails me for the reproduction of his experiences; but I remember that I was well nigh moved to tears, and expressed my sympathy in no measured terms, congratulating myself secretly that I was not a revenue officer, as that virtue which has not been proven on so many memorable occasions might have succumbed under so severe a test.

However I must acknowledge that I rather regretted not being the distillery man to whom all the money was so indignantly returned, since it seemed just possible that he knew nothing at all about it, and was in reality some $20,000 richer for the mistake. In some cases it is pleasant to be the wrong man.

When lovely woman stoops to lobby—what should be done with her? Really, I don't know, unless to make it one of the conditions of granting her request that she shall wear an unbecoming bonnet the rest of her life.—The pressure which is brought to bear beneath delicately gloved hands is really amazing; hydraulic force is scarcely a circumstance in comparison. There is a power behind the throne which only the throne can realize, and the number of shorn samsons is something marvelous—more than one stalwart member of our Congress is bound by seven green withes—seventy times seven, in fact. Office or honors for themselves, their relatives, or their friends is what these ladies ask, and if they have beauty and brass they seldom ask in vain. A woman interprets a man's "no" by her own construction of the monosyllable, and falls back on the parable of the unjust judge and the fair petitioner for an assurance that she shall win after much weeping. But as heaven generally sends almonds to those who have no teeth, and rains sags into baskets that are already full, so it happens that the woman who really needs is sent away empty handed. A case was told me of one who came last spring to obtain, if possible, some place in the Treasury. Her husband had been in the army, and was so reduced by hardships encountered in Libby prison as to be incapable of leaving his bed. Her only brother was killed in one of the battles of the Wilderness. She was left with a sick husband and three children to support. Little by little she had parted with her few valuables for the support of her family, until she finally was compelled to pawn her husband's sword. Without friends and without money, it was impossible for her to obtain a hearing, and certainly she must have thought all things considered, it was pretty hard living. Fortunately, her story came to the ears of a kind-hearted and influential gentleman, who at once took her to the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and demanded, rather than asked, a place for her. One was made, but it came to late. The husband died soon after, and the misery and humiliation she had undergone so were upon the wife that she sickened and died during the summer. What became of the children I do not know; but in the right order of Providence they too should have died, for such legacies are expensive to the country. Retrenchment is a natural consequence of the intrenching done during the war, but it should not be forgotten that a great many husbands and fathers sleep in the trenches, and Government patronage could not be better bestowed than on their widows and orphans.

It is singular how rapidly time passes in Washington. No one needs much, and few accomplish anything. I speak, of course, of visitors; yet no one has a leisure moment.—In the morning there is breakfast to be got, and that in itself is no small job. Along toward noon the ladies and all must go up to the Capitol, and skirmish around in the two Houses, and through the halls, chatting with friends and watching the occasional bear fights on the floors. This consumes the afternoon, and then the receptions, and Germans fill up the evenings. As for the members of Congress, their time is equally divided between making laws and breaking the commandments, that it is scarcely worth while to go into detail. Residents of Washington jog along very much like the residents of any other place making all the money they can off the strangers, and lamenting the good old times. Newspaper correspondents spend a good share of their time in cooking up news, and the balance in hot water, the consequence of publishing it so, take all in all, it may be said that a cheerful state of society exists and that it is emphatically good to be here.

HORRIBLE!—CHILD CARRIED AWAY BY AN EAGLE.—One of the most startling events that has disturbed the calmness of our citizens, occurred this afternoon. A lady, with her babe had been walking near the river, and for some cause the child was left alone a few moments, in which time an eagle which had observed, but not dreamed of as dangerous, screeching, bore away the babe. The mother rushed toward the child but to late to stop the eagle from carrying it off. The anxious crowd watched its course till it was lost to sight. Two men immediately started in a skiff across the river, in the direction of its track, but of course they were unable to follow it any distance, and nothing has since been heard of the infant thus taken away in the morning of life and its fate is enshrouded in mystery. We were unable to learn the name of the mother or her history, but her condition can be imagined. Those who saw the eagle say it is of the gray species.—

For the first time in the history of science the feat has been practically accomplished of sending two telegraph despatches at the same time, from opposite directions, over one wire, on long distances. The inventor of the instrument is a Boston man, and the invention is one of great importance, making a second wire unnecessary, and doubling the working capacity of existing lines.

Some literary mouser has discovered that the "Editor's Drawer," in Harper's Monthly, is made up by a woman. So are all editors' drawers.

Courting in Right Style.

"Oit eaut, you nasty puppy—let me alone or I will tell my ma!" cried out Sally—, to her lover, Jake—, who sat about ten feet from her, pulling dirt from the chimney jam.

"I aren't techin you, Sal," said Jake.

"Well, perhaps you don't mean to, nuther, do yer?"

"No, I don't."

"Cause you're too tarna' scary, you long-legged, lantern-jawed slab-sided, pigeon-toed gangle-kneed owl, you-you hain't got a tarna' bit of sense; get along home with you."

"Now, Sal, I love you, and can't help it, and if you dont let me stay and court you, my daddy will sue your'n for that cow he sold him t'other day. By jingo, he said he'd do it."

"Well look here Jake—if you want to court me you'd better do it as a white man does that thing—not set off as if you thought I was poison."

"How on earth is that, Sal?"

"Why, side right up here, and hug and kiss me, as if you really had some bond and sinner of a man about you. Do you 'pose a woman's only to look at, you fool you? No they are made for 'practical results,' as Koseuth says—to hug and kiss and sish like."

"Well, said Jake, drawing a long breath "I must I must, for I do love Sal—," and so Jake commenced sliding up to her, like a maple piker going to battle. Laying his arm gently upon Sal's shoulder, we thought we heard Sal say—

"That's the way to do it, old hoss—that's acting like a white man orter."

"Oh, Jerusalem and pancakes!" exclaimed Jake; "if this aint better than any apple sass eror marm made, darnd sight, Lasses, buck wheat cakes, slap jacks and lasses ain't no where 'long side you, Sal! Oh, how I love you!"

Here their lips came together, and the report that followed was like pulling a horse's foot out of the mire. We left.

A Curious Story.

The New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer is responsible for the following story:

Every one knows of Elias Howe, the famous sewing machine man, who died at Bridgeport Connecticut, a few months ago, and who was supposed to be worth at least four or five millions. He had long enjoyed a monopoly of his lucrative trade and had a patent that brought him one dollar for every sewing machine made in the United States. When his estate was settled, his executors declared that it was not worth more than $600,000, at which his heirs, raised a huge outcry, charging the executors with fraud of the most gigantic character. Legal examination was made, and the figures proved (instead of larger than had been stated) to be represented by zero, a number of debts having been discovered that were before unknown. Such is the story in the vicinity of Bridgeport, and the heirs of Elias Howe, who had expected to be made rich by legacies, are doomed to dreadful disappointment.

What became of all of Howe's money is a question no one seems able to answer.—Some say he paid so much to the Washington lobby that he was beggared; others that he lived too extravagantly to save anything, and others again that he gambled and bought lottery tickets for many years previous to his demise. It is not probable that any of the allegations are true, and consequently the mystery is deeper than ever. The wooden nutmeg State is in a sore quandary about Howe's fortune; and it is singular, indeed, that a man whose annual income must have been $400,000 to $500,000, should be found insolvent at his death.

VALUABLE FACTS.—A legal "stone" is 14 pounds in England and 16 pounds in Holland; A fathom, six feet is derived from the height of a full grown man. A hand, in horse measure is four inches. An Irish mile is 2240 yards, a Scotch mile, a Scotch mile is 1918, a German 1306, a Turkish 1625. An acre is 1840 square yards, 1 foot 3/4 square inches each way. A square mile is 1760 yards each way, and contains 640 acres. The human body consists of 240 bones, nine kinds of articulation or joints, 100 cartilage or ligaments, 400 muscles or tendons, and 100 nerves besides blood arteries, veins, &c. Potatoes planted below 3 feet do not vegetate at one foot they grow thickest, and at two feet they are retarded two or three months. There are no solid rocks in the arctic regions owing to the severe frosts. The surface of the sea is estimated at 150,000,000 square miles, taking the whole surface of the globe 190,000,000 square miles. Its greatest depth is supposed to be equal to the height of the highest mountain, or four miles.

The year 1868 will see the Union Pacific Railroad completed to Green river, on the eastern border of Utah.

A Religious Fish.

A short time ago mine boat Steward, of the Denton Hotel, purchased a rock fish weighing about sixty pounds. Upon opening in he found in its belly a certificate of membership to the M. E. Church, which read as follows:

MEMBER.
METHODIST E. CHURCH,
QUARRELY TICKET, 18

Our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory.—2 Cor. iv. 17.

Oh! what are all my sufferings here,
If, Lord, thou count me meet
With that enraptured host's appear,
And worship as thy feet?

The paper was of course in a crumpled and wet condition but on exposing it to the sun, and ironing the kinks out of it, it became quite legible. Wise heads are puzzled to learn how and when it got there. Some think the fish was originally a missionary who was drowned and transformed, or that the rock has been picking some dead man's pocket. Who can solve the mystery?—Denton (Md.) Journal.

—The funniest incident that has lately transpired is the case of a doting mother, who, being satisfied that her child merited a flogging, first had him placed under the influence of chloroform.

A prominent Western railroad engineer authorizes the New York Tribune to give his opinion, based on extensive observation and inquiry, that a full quarter of the money hitherto subscribed and paid by confiding stockholders in this country to build and equip railroads has been stolen by directors, engineers, financiers, etc., while a fourth of their gross earnings since construction have in like manner been stolen by directors, agents, superintendents, conductors, etc.

CAUSE.—As the season of the year has now commenced in which this infantile disease is most prevalent, the following extract from the Medical Gazette, of Paris, is published for the benefit of mothers who usually treat croup without the aid of a physician: "Langerier, after observing the effect of sulphur on the odium of grapevines, was led to administer it for the croup. He mixes a teaspoonful of the mixture every hour. Its effects is described as wonderful. The disease is cured in two days, the only symptom remaining being a cough arising from the presence of loose pieces of false membrane in the trachea. Langerier says he has followed this plan in seven cases, all being severe, especially the last, in which the child was cyanotic, with protruded rolling eyes and noisy respiration."

THE FUTURE MODEL VILLAGE.—The future model village of New England as I see it, shall have for the use of its inhabitants not merely a town lyceum hall and a town library, but a town laundry fitted up with conveniences such as no private house can afford and paying a price to the operators which will enable them to command an excellence of work such as private families seldom realize. It will also have a town bakery, where the best of family bread, white, brown, and of all grains, shall be compounded; and lastly a town cook-shop, where soup and meats may be bought, ready for the table. Those of us who have kept house abroad remember the ease with which our foreign establishments were carried on. A suit of elegant apartments, a courier, and one female servant, were the foundation of domestic life. Our courier boarded us at a moderate expense, and the servant took care of our rooms. Punctually to the hour every day, our dinner comes in on the head of a porter from a neighboring cook-shop. A large chest lined with tin, and kept warm by a tiny charcoal stove in the center, being deposited in an ante-room, from it came forth, first, soup, the fish, then roast of various names, and lastly pastry and confections—far more courses than any reasonable Christian needs to keep him in healthy condition; and dinner being over, our box, with its debris, went out of the house leaving a clear field.—Mrs. Stowe.

SAVE A MOTHER'S TEAR.—Not long ago two friends were sitting together engaged in letter writing. One was a young man from India. The other, a female friend, a part of whose family resided in that far off land. The former was writing to his mother in India, when his letter was finished, his friend offered to include it in hers to save postage. "If sent separately it will reach her sooner than if sent through a friend, and it may see her a tear." His friend was touched with his tender regard for his mother's feelings, and felt with him that it was worth paying the postage to save his mother a tear! Would that every boy and every young man and young woman, were equally saying of a mother's tear.

Philadelphia has at last got a lot of comfort out of New York. The latter city has always been stingy of compliments for the Quaker Metropolis, and has always contended for superiority in everything. Recently New York "caved in" and acknowledged that the city of brotherly love excelled her in whisky brands.

BREVITIES.

If you cannot bite never show your teeth. Education is the cheap defense of nations. The best organ-grinder—a hollow tooth. Italy's paper money is engraved in this country.

"I forgot!" is never an acceptable excuse. A terrible climax—a spider running up a bathtub handle.

Employment.—Something that must be found for the poor.

Mr Van der Weide, an insurance agent in New York, writes to the American Artisan that in France the party in whose house a fire occurs never receives pay for the loss his neighbors who lose by his carelessness all get their insurance money, but the man upon whose premises the fire originated gets nothing, whether the fire is the result of carelessness, or of crime, or of misfortune. Mr. Van der Weide says that regulation is enforced by order of the Emperor, to whom, indeed, he orders to give the credit of originating it, and that the rates of insurance are lower in Paris than they are in this country.

A country actor, performing the part of Richmond, the other day, in the tragedy of "Richard III," had the misfortune to have his memory completely fail him when he came the words, "Thus far into bowels of the land have I marched without impediment." After having repeated these words several times, the audience testified their displeasure by a general hiss—when, coming forward, he thus addressed them: "Ladies and gentlemen thus far into the bowels of the land have I marched on without impediment, and I declare I cannot get any further."

It has become a popular, almost a national faith in England, that it is not possible to be truly happy unless you drink. Among certain classes, and they are by no means exclusively the lowest, drink is the beginning and the end of everything. The very name of liquor is held to be synonymous with enjoyment, and the dearer the liquor the more it is prized and coveted.

The British navy is being supplied with life boats propelled by steam. At an experiment recently made in lowering one from the wooden screw three-decker Duke of Wellington—the highest above the water line of any English war ship—the boat was steaming away in two minutes and three seconds from the time the signal was given to launch her.

We closed our article last week by saying that selfishness ruled the hour. We shall not elaborate that point further than to say, that more money can be raised in thirty days amongst the liquor dealers of the United States to evade the laws thereof, than all the churches in the country combined, can do raise for missionary purposes in a year.

That instrument as originally drawn contained this inditement against the King of England, viz: That he has forced upon these colonies the inhuman traffic in the inhabitants of the Western coast of Africa.

Ours is rather a human government, having primarily for its object the freedom of our own people, and remotely the freedom and elevation of all the human race.

sions until 1860. During the administration of Gen. Jackson, Mr. Calhoun revived the fundamental doctrine of the party, and talked at nullification. Gen. Jackson rising above and going beyond the fundamentals promptly suppressed this kind of action.

Educational.

Several efforts have been made to form a "Teachers Association" in this county, but thus far without success. Must this always be the case? Are there not enough friends of education in Clarke county to organize such an institution? Let us make one more effort in this cause and we shall hope to succeed.

If those who have signed the above notice will attend, the end sought can be consummated. We sincerely hope it may be a success. If only half a dozen men of the right stamp will come together it must succeed.

Local Statistics.

We have been kindly furnished by Mr. N. Vohwinkel, City Assessor, with the following statistics of this City:

Population.—Men, 181; women, 139; boys, 161; girls, 192; making in all 673 souls. There are 272 tax-payers, of whom 51 are non-residents, with $15,385 Real Estate.

Territorial Items.

We glean the following from the Walla Walla Statesman of the 12th instant: Sea-worms have made their appearance in the Walla Walla market, but at the price—50 cent per quart—are in limited demand.

ACCIDENT.—While crossing a pack train on Monday last at the Takas Ferry, Snake River, owing to a high wind the boat became unmanageable and sunk. A man named K-doric was drowned. The animals were all saved with the exception of two mules.

A WHAT'RS IT?—A gentleman living on Main street, who is given to joking, for several days past has had on exhibition a very queer "bird." Those who were curious have been permitted to look at the strange specimen of the feathered creation, but very few are willing to admit having seen the "white owl."

AT HOME.—Judge Wycbe, who has been absent several weeks holding Court at Fort Colville, returned on Wednesday last, and is at the military post. Judge W. volunteered to hold the Court in place of Judge Hewitt, who has gone to Washington for the purpose of getting certain legislation of the last Legislature set aside. The people of Stevens county appreciate Judge W.'s kindness.

SCAN. MAG.—Our community has been fearfully agitated for several days past over a case of scan. mag. Out of consideration for the feelings of friends and relatives, we suppress names, other than to say that Mr. H. Parker, a gentleman who has figured somewhat prominently in local politics, has disappeared. What with runaways and moral delinquencies, Walla Walla is likely to gain an enviable reputation.

THE CAUSE.—From all parts of the Valley we receive the most cheering accounts in regard to the growing crop. The frequent rains of the last month have caused vegetation to put forth with more than ordinary vigor, and the prospect now is the crop of this season will surpass any previous year.

THE TELEGRAPH.—We notice that the telegraph is completed and in working order to the Dalles. The company are now prepared to continue the line on up the river, and are only waiting subscription from the towns on the line. The proposition is to follow the Columbia river to Wallula and thence to Walla Walla.

When Sherman made his triumphant march "from Atlanta to the sea," Grant gave him a brother's welcome, "tenderly" coaxed his sad blunder at diplomacy, and presented him to the nation as the strategist of the war.

NEARLY DROWNED.—Last Sunday afternoon while angling for trout in the stream above Tumwater, Mr. J. V. Moseman met with an accident which very nearly terminated his career in this world. It seems that in his eagerness to hook the finny tribe, he ventured too far upon an unsteady log, which suddenly broke and precipitated him into the water.

RECOVERED.—The box mentioned in connection with the robbery of the residence of Mrs. C. C. Hewitt, some weeks since, which contained the money stolen, was found by some boys, on Sunday last, in a clump of bushes near the house. The lock had been wrenched off; otherwise the box was uninjured. Contenting himself with the money, ($20 in coin and $21 in currency) the thief left the box with the papers it contained probably with a hope of its restoration to the owner. None of the contents are missing save the money.

DEATH'S DOINGS.—Two deaths out of the natural order occurred in Pierce county on Tuesday last. One was that of Mme. Gimel, in Steilacoom, wife of the French gardener of that name, who suddenly expired while engaged in preparations for dinner; being at the time employed in cooking. The other was a child, two and a half years old, of Mr. L. F. Thompson, in the Puyallup valley, whose death was caused, after a very brief illness, by swallowing a brass pin.

The soldiers and scouts headed by Beebe, General Crook's chief scout, attacked and killed a band of thirty-five Indians some miles from the Owyhee ferry. This is the party of Indians that has been committing so many depredations in the Owyhee country for the last two years. As not one escaped, it is probable there will be no more Indian troubles in that section.—Unionist.

We are indebted to Hon. Alvan Flanders for favors received.

Soldiers in Politics.

There are those who look with distrust upon the American idea of rewarding military merit by elevating men of material renown to high civil offices. We do not propose to travel over the ground of the discussion, and we will spare our readers the customary allusion to the Duke of Wellington's failure as Prime Minister, to Cromwell's brilliant administration of England. It is of still less consequence whether the intellectual characteristics and aptitudes developed in campaigns are not precisely those which qualify for civil duties.

Grant has invariably displayed a greatness of soul that never yet went with littleness of mind. Walpole hated so to have a rival that he drove every brilliant man into opposition and secured his own downfall because he would not share his glory. When Hood invaded Tennessee, the Lieut. General gave Thomas all the men he could and all the means, and contributed in every way to the splendid success at Nashville, yet scrupulously refrained from doing anything to take the glory from Thomas, as he might have done simply going on in person.

When Sherman made his triumphant march "from Atlanta to the sea," Grant gave him a brother's welcome, "tenderly" coaxed his sad blunder at diplomacy, and presented him to the nation as the strategist of the war.

Now, it is possible that such a man as that could conduct a Presidential administration like Andrew Johnson, James Buchanan, or Franklin Pierce? Grant has frankness and decision of character. He can say no with an emphasis that is terrific to an importunate office-seeker.

THE QUALITIES.—The qualities which both the companies prosecute their work augurs well for the speedy completion of the through line. Even now a tide by stage of four days and a half brings a passenger from the east west of this city. About the same length of time carries travelers by stage east to the cars. Every day this distance is being lessened.

HOW TO TELL GOOD FLOUR.—The proof of a pudding is in the eating, and the best and surest test of flour is to cook it, but it is frequently desirable to know how to select good flour at times when it is very inconvenient to apply the test, and at such times it is well to observe these rules: First, look to the color; if it is white, with a yellowish tint, buy it.

SOME DIFFERENCE.—The very finest of tame strawberries are offered for sale in this market for twelve and a-half cents per pound. The first of the season brought $1 50 per pound, at Victoria, V. I. If we have to pay three dollars a yard for silk which the Victorian can buy for one dollar it is some satisfaction to know that we can eat strawberries at a bit a pound when they have to pay $1 50. We make up for the loss of one luxury by the presence of another.

Haymaking.

There is annually so much good grass merrily man-slaughtered in making it into hay that it becomes the duty of every publisher, editor and agricultural writer in the land, happening to have a better practical knowledge of haymaking, to begin with, at season, preaching as earnestly as they can, every opportunity, better principles, until a radical reform in much of our haymaking practice shall have been achieved.

As clover usually comes first in the routine of haying, and the season for putting mowers afield is close at hand, let us bear in mind that the best standing condition of clover is when the plant itself is fully developed and the heads in full but early bloom, before any considerable portion of them have assumed the slightest tinge of brown. Then instead of being roasted, broiled and baked in the sun until it is as black as Japan tea, as is too frequently the case with clover hay; the best plan is to cut after the dew is off in the morning, cure, in spreads or in the swath, as much as can be done in five or six hours of clear, dry weather, twenty-four hours more in small casks, sheltering from dew and rain, and haul in and put away, with the leaves still green, wilted but not in the least crisped by the sun.

The other grasses are best cut when the stalks and foliage have attained full growth and the seeds are entirely developed, but still in a milky state. Like clover they should be cut after a few hours sun curing, finished off in the cock, cured but not in the least crisped, and hauled in while still green in color, elastic, and possessed of all the aroma of "new mown hay." If the foundation of bays and stacks are made well up clear of the ground, affording full and free ventilation underneath, and then in stacking or stowing away a layer of clean, dry straw, say six inches in depth, is placed every two feet between the courses of hay, there will be no danger of clover or any other kind of grass heating, moulding or rotting, though put away a great deal greener than is the general practice, and infinitely better hay will be the result.

From the best information we can gather, says the Salt Lake News, the two companies engaged in building the railroad across the continent are not more than 850 miles apart—a short distance in our eyes, having been for so many years compelled to make long and tedious journeys to reach such facilities for traveling. Both companies are pushing their work ahead with great expedition. For some reason—probably because of our interest having been principally with the east—we have not been so well informed respecting the progress of the Central Pacific Railroad Company in building their line, as we have with that of the Union Pacific Railroad Company. But as the former's line nears our borders, its progress will be watched with greater interest.

The quality with which both the companies prosecute their work augurs well for the speedy completion of the through line. Even now a tide by stage of four days and a half brings a passenger from the east west of this city. About the same length of time carries travelers by stage east to the cars. Every day this distance is being lessened.

Washington.

Washington, June 15.—In the Senate the currency bill came up. The question was on the amendment of Morrill of Vermont, as follows: For the issue of any increase of national circulation provided in this section, the Secretary of the Treasury shall hereby be authorized and required to permanently withdraw an equal amount of United States notes.

In the House a resolution for the increase of 20 per cent compensation for salary of civil employees, was agreed to by 13 majority. Schenk offered the following resolution: Resolved, That in the judgment of the House it will inflict a serious loss to the national revenues to delay the revision of taxes on distilled spirits and tobaccos until the same be accomplished by a general revision of the entire, internal revenue system, and that the Committee of Ways and Means is hereby instructed to report without delay, separate bills for the revision of the taxes on the manufacture and sale of distilled spirits and tobacco.

Schenk expressed a hope that the resolution would not be insisted on. The speaker stated that the debate was not in order.

Schenk declared the committee could not make revision as soon as they could get through with the ordinary bill. The previous question was acceded—64 to 56.

Pile moved to lay the resolutions on the table eyes 61 nos 71. Schenk moved to reconsider the vote seconding the previous question. He desired to know whether the House would, before disposing of the question, refuse to hear him.

Logan moved a suspension of the rules to enable him to offer a preamble and resolutions providing for the appointment of a committee of five to inquire into the propriety and expediency of removing the seat of the general government to a point near the geographical center of the Republic. The House refused. Ayes, 43, nos 67.

Robinson, by unanimous consent, offered a resolution requesting the President to take measures to secure the release from imprisonment of Wooten and Castello under sentence in Great Britain, for words and acts spoken and done in the United States, and to take measures to secure their return to the flag, with such ceremonies as may be appropriate to the occasion. The resolution was then adopted.

Ashley, of Ohio, moved to suspend the rules for the purpose of offering a resolution relating to the assassination of Solomon Dill and other persons in South Carolina. Pending the vote, the House adjourned.

Washington, June 15.—The award of contract for carrying the overland mails to California was to Carlton Spaedes of Chicago the rate being one thousand dollars per day. Length of line 1095 miles.

Senator Doolittle did not attend the Chase meeting at Philadelphia. Being chairman of the executive committee of Democracy and the conservative members of Congress, he did not feel at liberty to take active measures in advance of the Convention relative to the candidates to be nominated.

The President to day withdrew from the Senate the nomination of Gen. Mott as Minister to Costa Rica, at Mott's own request.

Washington, June 15.—The Intelligence this morning has an article calling on Secretary McCulloch to resign. It is very bitter on the Secretary. It is supposed to have been inspired by the President.

It is the intention of Revard Johnson, the new Minister to England, to leave in the middle of July. No change will be made in the Secretaryship of Legation.

Washington, June 16.—Prominent Democrats assert that the President will not make any Cabinet changes until the 4th of July, on which day he has declared his principles. If Pendleton is nominated, appointments will be given exclusively to Democrats but if Chase, then many must be tendered to the Republicans, who thereby could be induced to support him. There are also many who profess to believe Johnson will be nominated and claim that he will go into the convention with nearly all the Southern votes, and that many at the North who do not either like Pendleton or Chase, could be induced to support him. Certain it is that such a movement is on foot, and has been actively canvassed here.

The Herald correspondent at Richmond says he is authorized to state that Chase will accept the Democratic nomination on a platform embodying universal suffrage. The Chief Justice is now in Richmond, and receives letters daily from Republicans North offering to co-operate with the Democratic party in case he is the nominee, and platform is of the kind set forth.

Washington, June 16.—Witness Woolley has been finally discharged from further attendance, before the impeachment investigating committee and left the city this evening.

Delegations of distillers are here from Kentucky, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana are here urging the Ways and Means Committee to reduce the tax on whisky to fifty cents a gallon. They state that by reducing the tax to this figure the Government will receive from one State alone more revenue in three months than thus far has been received from the whole United States at the present figure.

A FOURTH OF JULY BALL.—As will be seen by an advertisement in this paper, Mr. Dave Brown, the popular proprietor of Oro Fino Hall, intends giving a grand ball on the evening of the Fourth.

MR. GEORGE T. HODGES, C. E. of the V. F. D., was the recipient of a most extraordinary compliment on Saturday last, from the members of the organization of which he is chief, and which, if prompted by the motive it appeared to be, is an evidence that he is little short of being an object of idolatry to the firemen.

A MEETING OF THE MEMBERS OF THE FIRE Department is called for this (Friday) evening at Edding's Hall, to perfect arrangement for a firemen's celebration on the Fourth.

SOME of the lady members of the Episcopalian church, got up an ice cream festival for the benefit of the church fund, on Tuesday evening of this week, which netted $25 00 in coin.
