THE DOORSTEP
BY S. C. WARDEN.

Not braver he that leaps the wall
By level moor: rather litten,
Than I, who stepped before them all,
Who longed to see me get the mitten.

But now, she blushed and took my arm
We let the old folk have the highway,
And started toward the Maple Farm
Along a kind of fovea by way.

I can't remember what it was
That made me walk with such a gait,
Yet that road path by which we passed
Seemed all transformed and in a glow.

The snow was crisp, and beneath our feet
The sun on snow was full, the fields were gleaming;
By the road's side, the old folks were
Her face with youth and health was beaming.

The little hand under her muff—
O sculptor, if you could but lift it—
To keep it warm I had to hold it.

To have her with me there alone,
To see her face and hear her voice,
To feel her hand and feel her soul,
Where that delicious journey ended.

She took her ringlets from her head
And with a "There you see," dissembled,
But yet I knew she understood
With what a daring wish I trembled.

A cloud passed kindly overhead,
The sun was slyly peeping through it,
Yet had the face, as it were,
"Come, be my next!" do it do it!

My life till then had only known
The kiss of mother and of sister,
But now, how full upon her own
Sweet, rosy, darting mouth—I knew her!

Perhaps she blushes now, yet still,
O little woman, to thy lover!
To feel once more that fresh, wild thrill,
I'd give— But when can live you over?

Calchas Turns Critic.

D. M. McKinney, the elephant in the middle of the Oregon City Enterprise has taken it into his head to malign us. He says he was not present at our lecture, but a person who was took down the following:

"The most perfect type of our race is a mixture of the white with the African. Rising generations may improve the race by such mixture—this is true progress, and ignorant superstitious ideas, object."

We think any cross would be an improvement on Calchas. Those feet of his could not be surpassed by any negro's at least in size. That face of his looks in its idiotic emptiness like a moonless sky across which not even a stray comet of thought has ever darted. Those huge hands of his hang flapping by his sides like torn kites that the wind refuses to bear aloft. Save us from those worm-killers which made the Democracy of Clackamas county select him as being a man of huge understanding. What affects Calchas so badly is the fact of our getting so many subscribers in Oregon City. We intend henceforth to go after Calchas with a red hot poker, and stir up his nest for him, and we believe the Republicans of that county will support us in it, and give us a subscription list of one hundred. What we did say in our lecture is this, that the Spanish people are a mixture of the Caucasian, Mongolian, and Negro Races, and such is the fact, for every school boy that has read history knows that the Moors overran Spain, and that in the Moorish race is more or less negro blood.

We don't believe McKinney would marry a negro, for no sensible negro would marry him unless he wanted her feelings crushed. If McKinney could get "Congressional Globe" better known as B. A. Kelly, as local editor, he would fit out a heavy team, and two jacks-a-sea to let. Go in Mack, and come out "SKiunny." You're huge. You're large. How's the weather up where you live? The air must be thin, or else that almighty soft head of yours would collapse. When we see a light in a hollow "punkin," it reminds us of the intelligent look of McKinney, whose Anglo Saxonism wears the hue of buttermilk. McKinney will soon make the Oregon City Enterprise an Agricultural paper. Why? Because he'll run it into the ground.

The Louisville Express recently got hold of the Louisville of a mild conservative type, and pressed the question upon him—Why the people of his State had generally made up their minds to support Judge Dent for Governor? The Mississippian, after thinking for some time, gave him specific reasons, which he reduced to writing thus:

1. He is General Grant's brother-in-law.
2. General Grant is his brother-in-law.
3. They are brother-in-law of each other.
4. Judge Dent married a Mississippian lady.
5. A Mississippian lady married Judge Dent.
6. Judge Dent and a Mississippian lady married each other.
7. He is Judge Dent.
8. Judge Dent is General Grant's brother-in-law.
9. That's what's the matter with him.

Railroad Report.
PORTLAND, OON. APRIL 28, 1889.

To the President and Directors of the Columbia River and Hillsboro R. R. Co.

GENTLEMEN:

With this I send you two maps—of them, one showing the general location of the line of your road, from Columbia city to Portland, and the other, a map and profile of the vicinity of Columbia city and the location of the bluff near Germany hill. It is only on the first mile and a quarter that any steep grade is required, and further survey may reduce this from 60 feet to 60 feet per mile; and a change of the line as far as terminate at a point half a mile further down the river will enable you to secure a grade of only forty feet ascent per mile. From Germany hill no grade exceeding 20 to 25 feet per mile will be found necessary in order to conform to the gentle undulating surface and to make light work of the grading for the entire distance to Portland. The curvature is also very light and at only two or three points will be required a heavy curve as one of 4°. It will be difficult to find in Oregon thirty miles of road possessing equal advantages and facilities for railway construction. It was unnecessary for the purposes of this preliminary survey to run a line of levels, except from the river to the "Germany Hill" summit. From there the country is a gently descending plain, to Scappoose Plains, a distance of seven or eight miles, with a difference of level of not to exceed sixty feet from Scappoose Plains to Portland. The line is practically level following as near as may be in the edge of the bottom lands and across the points of the foot hills and filling up the intervening low lands. Gentle curvature and light undulations of grade will secure great economy of construction on the whole route.

The greatest part of the distance between Columbia city and Portland is covered by heavy timber of value for lumber purposes and which will prove of great value when properly developed, both for the road and the country at large.

Extensive tracts of good land lie adjoining and west of this line and within a few miles of Columbia city, which without a Railroad will remain many long years a wilderness. Should this line be built, as rich a farming country would be developed as is now to be found in the State of Oregon.

Not less than 50,000 acres of land in the immediate vicinity of the line would be enhanced in value at least $10 per acre, which in the aggregate is $500,000, a sum if judiciously expended sufficient to build and equip your road. The income, or rather I might say, the created value of Columbia city itself would prove a handsome return for the investment in the road, and in a few years might reasonably be expected to equal the entire cost of the said road.

Columbia city possesses great advantages as a Railway terminus or as a point in the Columbia where a Puget Sound line might cross the Columbia. It is on a direct line from Portland to the Puget Sound, the country on that side of the river having the better facilities for construction and more economically and easily and rapidly built than a corresponding portion of such a line on the north and east side of the Willamette and Columbia Rivers. It has a spacious and level surface, deep water, at the highest point on the Columbia River which is accessible to the largest class of sea-going vessels entering the Columbia without obstruction of bars or shoals which affect the river navigation for all points above. There is also a larger and more fertile back country than has generally been supposed, and extensive beds of iron ore add largely to the prospective value and extent of the undeveloped resources of Columbia city and county.

In the present uncertainty of the railway enterprises of Oregon it is impossible to predict what railway connection you will be able to make, but that your road to be of its greatest value must be an extension of or in connection with the upper Willamette valley road or roads, or possibly with a road running from Portland up the Columbia river, is I think, indispensable. Believing that you now have the means of showing the capabilities of your road and that you can offer certain, and valuable inducements to parties possessing the capital necessary to build and equip your road, I will add nothing more: except my hearty wishes for your success.

I remain Gentlemen, your obedient servant,
GEORGE H. BELDEN.

Don't Trouble Yourself!

We learn that Mr. Flanders is going East shortly in the interest of the official renegades who bolted the regular nomination during the late contest. We would advise Flanders to stay at home and attend to his business both public and private. In due season the people of the Territory will in an emphatic manner make their wishes known concerning the position to be made of these "bread-and-butter patriots," and any pusillanimous effort such as Flanders alone could make, to avert the impending fate and escape a just punishment, will prove unavailing.

[From the "N. H." Register July 29.]
Gen. Sherman's Speech.

Of the several excellent speeches made at the Alumni Dinner, at Dartmouth College, Thursday afternoon, none were better than Gen. Sherman's, and we give it complete:

GEN. SHERMAN'S SPEECH.

Mr. President I was in hopes, of course that anything I had to say would be said in your dear building which the jingling of glasses and platters might have covered up some of the deficiencies of my words (laughter), but these old gentlemen—cunning ones too—have abhorred to this point, now so beautifully filled with ladies and gentlemen, who probably expect of me more than I can give. I almost felt abashed on attempting to speak in the presence of the Chief Justice and the many men of learning here—aye, of the very boys who but a short time since were speaking in language far more appropriate than I could even hope to utter. I am simply a plain blunt soldier, and can say what I have to say in a few words, direct to the purpose, and if I had any special subject whatever worthy of this occasion, I would endeavor to pursue it, but for want of a better I will express the very great pleasure I have experienced to-day and yesterday in seeing not only the intelligence of the young men whose gratitude we have come here to witness, but the spirit of kindness and reverence which every one of them, and all, in fact, have manifested toward the aged man who direct their interests, and toward the cause of learning.

Learning of all kinds is entitled to our veneration. It makes no difference whether it be at Dartmouth, Yale, or Harvard, at West Point or in the common schools. Learning is learning. It improves us all and we never become too old to learn. We learn to-day, we learn to-morrow, and I suppose we shall continue to learn to the very last hour of our lives. We cannot tell it is for God alone to say on which day we shall make the most progress. I am not and do not profess to be learned in books, learned in art or learned in words, but in deeds. I profess to have some knowledge of forming men into organizations, whereby their physical power as well as their mental power, may produce its full effect. You here have an organization—you here have a system which you may call civil, but it is military. The authority of every one of our Professors is defended, and they group into classes into other classes and even after you leave the institution they have a hold on your affections which makes you a body with a single soul, which the man who wants you may move to some common purpose. That is exactly like a military organization. We combine men by tens, hundreds, thousands and tens of thousands, all united by one purpose and guided by one mind, so that they are a concentrated purpose, and will press forward to the accomplishment of any object. If that object be the salvation of a nation, then the cause is glorious, and enters the feelings and challenges the admiration of all mankind. (Loud applause.) Therefore in that sense, I too profess to be a teacher, simply in the lesser art of combining units into tens, and tens into thousands and directing them in the interests of the Government, which commands me to do that which is her pleasure, and which is my pleasure too. (Renewed applause.)

It is a common feeling among civilians that soldiers are men of violence; there is nothing further from the truth! I appeal to the history of America; to the history of our own country from Washington until the present moment, to show that the military men of this country have always been subordinate to the authorities that be—never setting up their own judgment in antagonism to that of the nation, but executing its will, when that will had found expression in law, with a fidelity beautiful to behold; and so long as I continue to hold power and influence, I shall ever direct that power and influence to the end that the military of this country, whether a small force, scattered over by tens, hundreds, thousands and tens of thousands, gathered for some special purpose, shall sustain the laws of the land and support the authority in any place over me. Therefore I feel the same interest in education that you do. It lessens my task; it lessens the task of every Governor; it lessens the task of the Chief Justice, when throughout the land—in New Hampshire, in Massachusetts, in Florida, in Ohio—where schools and colleges are founded, where men are taught what law means, what order means, what civilization means, what refinement means. For it is easier and more pleasant to govern intelligent men than to govern rude, unlettered men. The one acts from a high motive and principle, aiding and supporting you in carrying out your purpose without compulsion, whereas the other must be driven to it by force. Therefore I have a personal interest in education, and in every intelligent lad I meet I see that which I hope will prevail all over America; and when it does there will be no need of armies and very little need of courts. (Applause.)

Gentlemen, I thank you for the many compliments you have paid; especially would I thank the young men who have alluded to me in three or four passages of surpassing compliment. I would also express my thanks to the President and other officers of the college. I wish them one and all long life. I wish the college may live to the third and fourth and tenth century, and I hope it will live as long as there is an America, and that I know, will live to the end of all time. (Prolonged Applause.)

ORIGINAL ANECDOTE OF LINCOLN.—C. M. Carter, Esq., of Portland, Ore., was admitted to Lincoln's presence; while there a youth entered with a petition for a place in the Navy. Lincoln looked it over, and inquired who wrote it. "I did," responded the applicant. "Well," replied Lincoln, "My young friend, learn to write plain, and make no tails to your letters."

The recent rise in the rates of freight per pound on the Pacific Railroad is directly caused by the greed of the Union Pacific Company. The managers of that section of the line have deliberately broken the law, promising a few shillings, and are apparently bent upon forcing all business off the road. That the increase in the rate for the freight of fruit will virtually put a stop to this competition of fruit is certain. The fruit season, moreover, is short, and probably by the time the Union Pacific have recovered their senses, it will be over. Thus the public are seriously injured, a lucrative trade annihilated, and the Pacific Railroad is retarded by the short-sighted greed of a few men.—S. F. Times August, 17th.

SPIRITUALISM.

Dr. Benj. Todd lectured on spiritualism to a small audience at Brant's Hall in this city on Monday evening last. As that gentleman has been lately favoring the people of Oregon City in a like manner, we are spared the trouble of criticizing him by reproducing a communication to the P. C. Advocate from a well known gentleman of that place:

"Benjamin Todd, somewhat notorious in this and the adjoining State of California, is now here engaged in a series of evening exercises which his admirers flatteringly term lectures. Having heard persons frequently speak of the great learning and forcible reasoning exhibited in his speeches, from curiosity merely, I went last night to hear him.

"The Miracles of the Bible," was the subject which he attempted to handle. Whatever his speeches may have been at other places and on other occasions, I do not hesitate to say that on this one, it was nothing better than a conglomerated jumble of nonsensical gibberish, of such a character that were it delivered only to the ears of sensible people, both the speaker and his speeches would speedily consign to utter contempt. But when uttered in the presence of a promiscuous assemblage comprising uninformed men and women, and thoughtless youths, they may have a contaminating and debasing influence, similar to what might result from permitting a man to parade through the public streets of a town with a loud utterance of unusual profanity and vulgarity. It is only in such a relation of society that this man Todd or his words are entitled to any attention from decent people. I can readily understand now what basis Todd's adherents have for claiming for him a victory over Mr. Driver in debate. As a matter of course, such a man as Mr. Driver is utterly incompetent to contend with a professional blackguard in his own chosen sphere.

The only idea advanced by Todd embracing the substance of an argument, was that the accounts recorded in the Bible of miracles performed, were of occurrences at variance with the ordinary course of nature, so far as observed and comprehended by our faculties; inferring therefrom that such performances were unprofitable, and consequently the Bible itself a falsity. If this inference or argument had any force it would operate against, rather than for the position which he occupied. But inasmuch as this man Todd refuses to accept any truth the source of which is not susceptible of full explanation to the comprehension of our limited faculties, I would ask him, or any of his adherents or admirers, why is it that two seeds precisely similar in size and external appearance to the eye of the casual observer, planted side by side, nurtured by the same soil, warmed by the same sunlight, and watered by the same dews and rain-falls; the one invariably produces a mustard-stalk, and the other a turnip. This fact gives as direct and indubitable evidence of God's omnipotence and omniscience as any recorded in the Bible; yet the wisest men, sided by all the scientific knowledge of the present day, can give no better explanation of it, than they could of the sun having stood still in the heaven at the command of Joshua."

JUSTIN CHERNOWITZ,
Oregon City, Aug. 5, 1869.

Proverbs of all Nations.

God curses and the doctor takes the fee.
Go into the country to hear what news there is in town.

To be bed with the lamb and rise with the lark.
Give neither counsel nor salt till you are asked for it.

God help the poor, for the rich can help themselves.
Grieving for misfortunes is like adding gall to wormwood.

Give a clean your finger and he'll take your whole hand.
Give a child his will and a whelp his fill and neither will thrive.

Do not for every grief to the physician, nor for every quarrel to the lawyer, nor for every thirst to the bowl.
Health is better than wealth.

Health and mirth create beauty.
He that serves the public obliges nobody.

He that gives to the public gives to no one.
He who marries for wealth sells his liberty.

He that wants health wants everything.
Humility gains oftener more than pride.

He that has no shame has no conscience.
He that hath an ill name is half hanged.

He is poor indeed that can promise nothing.
He that will steal a pin will steal a bigger thing.

He who avoids the temptation avoids the sin.
He who wants content can't find an easy chair.

He that knoweth himself best esteems himself least.

WALK WHEN YOU BEGIN.—When Chief Justice Oliver Ellsworth commenced the practice of law, he lived in Bloomfield; and as his pecuniary means were not large, he was accustomed to come from his house to his office on foot. There was at the time a dashing merchant in the city—Mr. H. who rode in a showy vehicle drawn by a pair of showy horses; and as he often rode to Bloomfield he often met Mr. E. Meeting him one morning he raised up his team, and saluted him with "Good morning, Mr. Ellsworth, what are you walking for? why don't you ride?" "Because," was the reply, "I have found that persons must walk at some period of their lives, and I chose to walk when I begin."

It would be well if all who are setting out in life were of this opinion; but they are not. Hence such numbers, determined to ride when they are young, are forced to walk when they are old.

A few years having elapsed, Mr. H. failed in business and was obliged to go afoot; while Mr. E., ascending from small beginnings, became Minister Plenipotentiary to France, and rode in his coach. Walk when you begin.

Mines.—We saw Lieut. Echenburg the other day. He visited the mines back of Vancouver, He thought Texas and his colleagues were men who wished to get up no excitement. That they really believed there was gold there and meant to prospect the country thoroughly.

A NET FOR MCKINNEY TO CRACK.—We would inquire if Calhoun's goat (?) is any better since he has quit traveling up the bluff at Oregon City gathering items from the camp of the aborigines, and having a social talk with the copper-colored ladies?

Stock Raising (Marysville Appeal Aug 14) It is strange that so little attention is paid to stock raising on a small scale.

Major Owen and the N. P. R. Co.—Major Owen received a letter from R. O. Coon, on the 20th, from W. E. Johnson, Chief Engineer of the Northern Pacific Railroad, dated at St. Helena, which requested the Major to meet the preliminary exploring party at Pen D'Oreille Lake.

But is the thing practicable here? Of course it is; so early anyone can tell to how great an extent, but one thing is certain, that no one who has once turned his attention to stock raising has gone back to the cultivation of cereals.

At no place on these plains is good water expensive. One hundred and fifty dollars, on an average, would buy a well, put in a pump and erect over it a windmill.

As an illustration showing whether it will pay to take the case of a farmer only six or eight miles from the town, who four years ago this coming September invested two thousand dollars in cattle, he has from time to time sold enough to meet the necessary expenses, such as taxes and the like, thus making them insignificant.

The Election in Tennessee.

The election in Tennessee has resulted in a victory for the Conservative party, the latter having defeated throughout the State, with the exception of East Tennessee. The issue of this contest demagogued the existence in Tennessee of a sentiment analogous to that which governed the late elections in Virginia.

RETRIEVED.—We understand that Col. Tripp a recently returned to the territory from Alaska, with the intention of taking his seat as congressman in the next legislature. Fears were entertained that he would not return, and at the June election E. S. Joule was elected to fill his place, although there was no knowledge of a vacancy. We presume Col. Tripp will hold his seat.

As a HOLIDAY Present, Nothing will be more appreciated than ONE of these MACHINES.
 America, England and France, now make in his grand Proclamation:
 Good news! good news the cable brings,
 Over all the wires it flies,
 Wheeler & Wilson's sewing machine,
 Brings back the golden prize.
 Our "Double Sew" first struck the note,
 "John Bull" then caught the sound!
 Now comes from France the echo back,
 Wheeler & Wilson's crown!
 And now, no more the people doubt,
 So long it stood the test—
 The thing is fairly named about,
 And they will buy the best.

As we can now supply those who wish to purchase
 "STURDIE'S PATENT" SEWING MACHINES, one of the most useful attachments to the Machine yet invented, which, while sewing on tack, makes the line of marks for the best.

 chine. The Gold Medals were awarded to the original inventor of Sewing Machines.

The Committees on Family Sewing Ma- chines
 At the numerous Fairs held on the Pacific coast in the last four years, have unanimously decided in favor of the Florence, this machine having taken every First Premium since the Agency has been established in California.
 Among the gentlemen who served as judges were: William Meyer, Thomas Hays, George Schneider, James Hays, J. S. Andrew, Thomas McRae, A. F. Hitchcock, and S. O. Brigham—men well known as being among the first and best mechanics in the State—establishing beyond question the superiority of the Florence as a Family Sewing Machine.
 If there is a Florence Sewing Machine within one thousand miles of San Francisco that is not giving entire satisfaction, if it is an inferior one, it will be attended to without delay, and the owner of any kind to the owner.

WEBFOOT CHIEF.
 WILL STAND FOR A LIMITED NUMber of acres the ensuing season, at the table of his owner, on the La Grange Plain in Clark County, W. T., at the following price: $25 to secure a more with food, to be paid as soon as the date known to be in that condition. Parting with the horse, however, before, also it is known to be with food for the insurance. Good pasture will be furnished, unless from a distance free of charge, and great care taken to avoid accident, but no liability will be assumed should any occur.
 N. B.—No Indian half-breed or Spanish mules will be taken. The fine, well bred young stallion is a beautiful bay, brown and a half black high, and for size, form, figure and action is not surpassed on this coast, and for disposition has no superior, being amiable and spirited, yet docile and tractable. He recommends himself well as a judge of horses, and to such and those who are unless to improve their stock, we say "come and see him and his progeny and amaze yourselves that 'Blood' will tell." It is deemed unnecessary to say anything about his pedigree further than he was sired by Hamblitt of Oregon out of Lane's Flea, or better known in her younger days, as "Lone Trip." A. J. PATRICK, 22-ly

Many years ago, the writer of these lines and an invalid physician, while visiting the Island of St. Cruz for their health, experienced and witnessed many surprising and beneficial effects of the Balm thus produced upon many of the invalids who were (like ourselves) seeking health; and, upon inquiry and investigation, obtained a full history of its medicinal virtues. He was delighted and surprised, and after his own recovery, which soon occurred, determined, if possible, to procure the sole right to manufacture and sell it in the United States.
 The result of his labors was a glorious success for himself and suffering humanity.
 For the celebrated PLANTATION BITTERS was thus made known to the world. PLANT-TION BITTERS being an article of real merit, founded upon new principles, and relying wholly upon the vegetable world for its medicinal effects, worked a rapid revolution in the history of medicine, and became as a household word all over the civilized world. The cabalistic S. T.—1850—X was a tallman of health, and the demand for the PLANTATION BITTERS soon far exceeded the abilities of the proprietors to supply.
 Notwithstanding the large importation of St. Cruz Balm, made expressly for the compounding of these Bitters, the quantity was inadequate. It therefore became necessary that arrangements upon an extensive scale abroad should at once be made, and an agent was dispatched to St. Thomas for that purpose. He was fortunate in securing and leasing several plantations on some of the largest and most productive estates on the island. Houses, stills and presses were erected as if by magic, which utterly "astandished the natives." The services of experienced men and natives of the island were procured, and very soon the proprietors of the PLANTATION BITTERS were in a position to supply their laboratory with all the perfectly pure St. Cruz Balm needed in manufacturing the GREAT DYSPEPTIC TONIC AND INVIGORANT. The above cut represents the natives crushing the sugar-cane and otherwise preparing it for the stills and presses.
 As an antidote to Fever and Ague, Intermittent and Malarious Fevers, Dyspepsia, and other kindred diseases, the use of the PLANTATION BITTERS is unchallenged in the history of the world. Over five million bottles are disposed of annually. They are adapted to old and young, male and female. They are agreeable in taste, and always

 GRAY SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH,
 Jan. 25th, 1898.
 Mr. H. T. Henshaw,
 Dear Sir:
 Your communication requesting our terms of advertising was duly received, but from a prejudice I had formed against advertising
 "balm for sores" diseases, it was left unanswered. During an accidental conversation at a friend's store the other evening, my mind was changed on the character of your Balm:
 it was then highly commended for other diseases by two physicians present. I enclosed please find our rates of advertising.
 Yours, &c.

 Semi-Weekly TELEGRAPH.
 N. B.—You, ISSUES,
 Corner of 4th Avenue & 5th St.
 (A House and Shop for the Sons of Deceased Soldiers.)
 Dr. H. T. Henshaw:
 Two bottles only of the package of your valuable Balm presented to the Institute have been used by the children, and with perfect success. In the case of our little Louisiana, A. J., his pride is no longer afflicted, and he is free from the daily anathemas of the chambermaid who has charge of his bedding. I feel that a knowledge of the result of our use of your Balm with the children under our charge may save many a Superintendent and Mother of Boarding Schools and Asylums a great amount of annoyance; and many a poor child suffering from a disease that from habit, may be spared punishment, that is not knowing it as a weakness, but a bad habit, most unjustly inflicted upon them. Thanking you on behalf of the children, and hoping others may be alike benefited,
 I am respectfully yours,
