Grant as President.

It is not a little remarkable that the party which claims to have elected General Jackson to the Presidency should now be so very fearful of the elevation to that position of a military chieftain. In Old Hickory's time, the point was pressed with vigor by his enemies that, being a military man, he lacked, of necessity, the qualities requisite for civil administration. John Quincy Adams and Henry Clay urged the objection with all the powers of eloquence and argument they possessed. The supporters of Jackson repelled every such assault, successfully, but the people became so embittered in those contests that, to this day, there is a disinclination with quite a class of men to see persons of military antecedents elevated to the Presidency. This class take the assumption that men employed solely in civil duties, and who have acquired much experience therein, will make the only serviceable chief magistrates. The opponents of General Grant, who profess to be Jacksonian Democrats, appeal to this sentiment, and make special application of the principles of their ancient enemies to the present juncture.

We admit that it was the duty of the Republican party to put forward for the Presidency a man qualified for leadership by consummate ability and ripe experience. There is much force in the reasoning that the candidate should have shown eminent fitness for civil duties. We claim all these qualifications for General Grant, though we think that in the distribution of the powers of government very little is given the President in the way of originating measures, or of forming the policy of the Government.

Congress makes the laws, and the Executive is to see that they are enforced. A President needs moderation of character, discretion in action, a true perception of character so as to select competent subordinates, firmness to protect and defend the Constitution, and courage and robust common sense for the details and perplexities of practical administration. Experience has often bred conceit in one's wisdom. The Presidency is really less a question of experience than personal character. Civilians of large experience have furnished us with the most notable examples of Presidential failure. John Adams failed utterly. John Tyler was not very successful. Frank Pierce did no better than Washington. Buchanan's career was not crowned with great success. Andrew Johnson has not been all too successful. The advocates of civil experience will not gain much by an appeal to actual facts in history. From pure reasoning, they get the best of it; but the facts upset their reasoning.

Certain qualities are necessary to success in the Presidency. We have mentioned the chief of them. He who has them is more sure to achieve triumph than the man of great experience without them. The question is one, paramountly, of personal character. Cromwell left his farm, took the leadership in the great revolution in England, and founded the Commonwealth. Napoleon went from a military school, reduced to law and order the anarchy and confusion of the French Revolution, and proved himself a great ruler. Lincoln left a narrow professional field to attempt as great a task as fell to either of these, and history places him beside them in administrative ability, and their superior in the beneficence of his sagacious statesmanship. We believe that in General Grant the people have a man who, without political experience as great as many, possesses the high qualities to lead us to an enduring peace, and perpetual liberty and safety. By his moderation, patriotism, and fidelity to the principles which underlie our government. The fact that he has triumphed over the greatest rebellion known to civilization ought not surely to be much against his capacity, or fitness to rule the people he has delivered.—Ez.

The Thunder from Maine.

To appreciate the force and significance of the Maine election it is only necessary to compare the result with that of former elections in that state, when the Republican party swept the country by their most triumphant majorities. At the election in September, 1864, (just prior to the last Presidential election), the Republican majority in Maine was 15,913. Lincoln obtained in the State, in 1864 17,392 majority. Last year the Republican majority was 11,614. It is stated that the majority in the present election is above 20,000—a majority exceeding that achieved by the Republicans at any time, during the war, and never exceeded except in 1860, when that majority called "my policy" was rebuked by the whole nation. The Maine election is presaging of the general result in November. Grant and Coffey are irresistible. A gain of 10,000 in each of the States of Vermont and Maine, over the majorities of last year, show the drift of the popular current. Can any man doubt that Grant and Coffey will be elected by an overwhelming popular vote? (O.

Is Grant a Great Man.

The disposition and desire of men to dwarf and belittle the heroes of their own times are manifest on every page of the world's history. Neither the miracles of the Savior nor his lofty and sublime teachings, could avail to render him an object of veneration with the majority of living men with whom he dwelt. Columbus discovered a fair new world in the faded West, but the Spaniards loaded him with chains, and believed any other man as capable as he of the grand discovery.

A host of men, with Cassius at their head, could see no greatness in Caesar. Galileo was despised and imprisoned by the blind bats of the mediæval ages. The histories written in Napoleon's time are filled with the assertion that Napoleon was not a man of great abilities, but that his astounding victories were attributed to sheer luck, or the superior abilities of his chief of staff. And thus it ever has been and probably ever will be. It matters not how much the race has been benefited by the achievements of the individual, his own countrymen are generally slow to show him deserved gratitude.

Though the Christian religion stands the test of centuries of obloquy and fierce opposition; though America is the living reply to the enemies of Columbus; though the grandeur of the Roman Empire sealed the lips of the enemies of Caesar, and buried the name of Brutus down the eternal centuries of time as a murderer and the most brutal of assassins; though Astronomy, one of the exact sciences, is Galileo's vindication; though Austerlitz, Borodino and the French Empire furnish a complete refutation to the belittling insinuations of Napoleon's contemporaries; mankind learn nothing from the examples of history, but follow the old, well-worn ruts of past ages.

A large number of the men of this day deny that General Grant has great abilities.—His military achievements and his crowning act of completely suppressing the rebellion, are attributed to everything save military skill on his part. One says it was all owing to the superior abilities displayed by his staff officers, while credit is not even given him for ability to judge of the character of subordinates. Another says it is "all luck, and no brains." The latter virtue may win one battle, but it cannot achieve an uninterrupted series of victories. The secret of one success might be what the world stumbles luck; but there must be some other foundation for the brilliant movements of General Grant from Belmont to Vicksburg, from Vicksburg to the Appomattox. None but a fool or a mad man will seriously attribute all those winnings to luck.

The truth is—with General Grant the same as with all other men who have accomplished such great victories and strong positions are only won by the possession of winning qualities—those who climb to the top, are, in the end, always found to possess climbing qualities.—Ez.

Brick Pomeroy fired upon the Blairs a little to soon, and it will be interesting to note his change of front. In his paper of the 30th ultimo he pays his compliments to the Blair family, as follows:

"Has the Democratic party fallen so low as to be used by such creatures? Is it so craven as to allow such fellows to say what it shall do and what it shall not do? One of these Blairs has the impudence to say that the party cannot be united on any one of the candidates already named—some new man must be taken up! Think of it! Look it over! O, the sublimity of this fellow's conceit! Where's Train! Send for Train! He only can match him! The Democratic party cannot be united on any candidate already named! God! Where did you learn all that Mont gomery? By going to Silver Springs and consulting the old man, or sending out to St. Louis and asking brother Frank? Then the Blair family stands out against the nomination of any candidate already named! Of course the Democratic party cannot be united then of any of these candidates! The Blair family 'goes back' on these candidates! So the party cannot unite on any of them! The party is not united without the Blairs! In fact it is no party without the Blairs! Whew! What a big family! To use the elegant expression of their late lamented master, 'What a long tail or cat has got!' But all this difficulty could be got over if the convention would unite the party by nominating General Frank. Then the party would be united of course, for the Blair family would be satisfied. When they are satisfied the party is united. How simple! Why has this not been thought of before? Now, gentlemen, enough of this! The Democratic party is united—united as never before, upon principles and a man you know this full well, and all your efforts will avail nothing to defeat the peoples' will. In this great crisis you are of no account; you have no weight; you must stand aside, and give place to the millions who are going to do the voting and elect the ticket, and will have it tho' suit them, or know the reason why."

New Territory.—The first acquisition of territory our government ever made by right of discovery, is that recently discovered by the U. S. Pacific squadron, and consists of a group of small islands situated midway between the Sandwich Islands and Japan. The commander of the squadron named them Midway Islands, by reason of their location. The landing is called Welle's Harbor, in honor of the old barracks of the navy. The islands are not inhabited. They will make excellent coal stations for our government.

POLITICAL QUISS.

The Manchester Union tells a good story. In the north-west of Manchester county a crowd of the satisfied were sitting in a piazza the other day, when an old man, ragged, dirty, rusty, unshaven and unshorn, and evidently half-starved, strode up to the piazza and stood quietly at the crowd, which began to ply him with questions. Finally he came to the man who was the Mayor, and said: "You're a Democrat, aren't you, old fellow?" "Straight-up," replied the old chap answered, "I'm a Democrat, but I ain't! I learnt my politics before I took to drink."

Gen. Alfred Townsend, in a letter from Utica to the Hartford Post, says: "The estimate I got of Mr. Seymour in Utica are unflattering ones. The qualities he is proud for are his manners and his connections. He is of a Connecticut family, married in a Dutch family, well-to-do, childless, unshaven, not studious, in bad health, subject to chills, by propositions as to be made, wherein he has given precedents, both his father and his mother having been insane."

The Philadelphia Ledger says: "The Blair family has surrounded, body and soul, to the 'Blair and demagogue' Seymour, and 'that political Blair family.' He is now really engaged in reviving his old words, which is the most foolish thing ever done in this life. ALASKA.

We have been kindly permitted to make the following extracts from a private letter, dated Fort Kodiak, Alaska, August 22:

"The country is not so bad as represented. Grass grows here to the height of six or seven feet, looks like timothy and is very sweet. Of wild fruit the Salmou berry is the most plentiful and largest, I have seen specimens measuring from 1 1/2 to 2 inches in diameter. In flavor they bear a close resemblance to the ordinary raspberry, but differ materially in size, form and color. It is summer time now but at this place it is quite wet and foggy. Potatoes and other vegetables don't grow to any size—I have seen a hundred of the largest sized potatoes raised in this region stowed away quite easily in a quart cup. The Indians around here seem to be a very peaceable people, being mostly ex-emplary members of the Greek Church. Though possessed of a smattering of religion, many of their customs are extremely primitive, not to say barbarous. In stature the men will not average over five feet. In the line of industry they form no exception to the traditional Indian character. Doing so much and no more than is necessary for prolonging the union between body and soul. Their staple and almost exclusive article of food, is fish, with which nature has provided them an abundant variety. The post to be called Fort Kenay is anything but a desirable habitat. Nature evidently designed it as the abode of the macaques and wild animals which at present enjoy possession. In winter snow falls to the depth of six or seven feet, and the prospects for a winter's stay is suggestive of anything but pleasing anticipations. From an exploring party which I met in Kenay Harbor, I learnt that important discoveries of gold had been lately made in the Kenay river, and that the party were prosecuting their researches with the hope of developing something still better. You have doubtless heard the full particulars of the catastrophe by which all come near losing our lives, first by drowning and then by starvation. We arrived in Kenay Harbor July 8th, but on account of the wet, swampy character of the ground, no landing was made, and we turned back with the intention of making camp at Graham's or English bay, but in attempting to enter the first named ran on a rock and lost everything we had except our lives. The half-patrolled carcasses of drowned sheep, driven from the wreck by the waves, were eagerly sought and devoured. An occasional sack of flour, looted from its confinement, would find its way to shore, and though often-picked up by the Indians, they, in full sympathy with our pitiable condition, and totally at variance with my preconceived ideas of them, would hasten to bring it to us, and would smile archly at any attempt to express our gratitude for such unexpected kindness. Since our arrival at Kodiak a most serious accident has happened, and which is most heartily regretted by everyone. Reeling in the well known and generally esteemed Ordey-Sergeant of Battery "F," 2d Artillery, and a young fellow named Cooper, were trying to get some dry powder out of a bombshell and to that end were hammering away on it with a piece of steel which struck fire and exploded the shell and came near killing both of them. Burling was struck in the face by a piece of the shell which tore both cheeks from the mouth to the ear, leaving two pieces in the jaw, and slightly injuring his hand. Cooper had his hand torn horribly, the thumb being blown entirely off, adhering simply by a strip of flesh torn from the arm and by which the thumb hung, suspended over his shoulder. Both sufferers are around again, but the frightful marks of their misfortune will be concealed but by the grave."

The Victoria Colonist, in alluding to the recent ascent of Mount Baker, by Mr. Coleman and party says that that gentleman "has put himself in communication with the American Government to secure for himself and a company organizing, certain rights and privileges for the working of an extensive coal field, discovered in his recent ascent of Mount Baker, and of which carboniferous deposits denote a rich reward. Another comment is also being initiated for the purpose of supplying the colony and other markets with ice from the inexhaustible supplies of the mountain. Water navigation extends up between the spires of the mountain, at the head of the water navigation, there is a large glacier from which solid blocks of ice may be had all the year around."

Newell, of the Walla Walla Statesman, goes after the writer of the article entitled "Congress and the Legislature," (which we copied from the Register) and published a few weeks since) in a manner which most intimidates him from any future attempt to call the cops, to account for their misdoings: "Watson says the bill was 'a pet scheme of infamy with the cops, to kill off the Chief Justice politically, the only loyal and competent Judge at that time on the bench.' Why, Watson, if the brass was scraped off your face and sold at market rates, and a junking fund created out of the proceeds and put out at interest, the sum realized would be quite sufficient to pay off the national debt. The imagination only of a poet could have conceived of a political existence of the Chief Justice, and we venture that Watson has some day or other perpetrated doggerel. 'The only loyal and competent Judge,' says Solomon Watson, 'As loyalty now consists in throwing up your hat with one hand for the country, and running the other hand into the treasury to plunder it, we have nothing to say that the Judge and the loyal editor. As to the competency of the Chief Justice, if it be as Watson says, then every body is a liar, as we never heard so universal complaint against the competency of an officer. The complaint rolled up to the Legislature in one unbroken wall from suitors and attorneys, from jurors and witnesses, and tax-payers, and the people. It was publicly stated everywhere, and never contradicted, that the Judge had again and again adjourned court to get the opinion of some attorney on some law point raised, and that his opinions were written for him—Evans at one time writing them, and latterly Garfield was filling that part. Struve and Tripp, of the Council, and Cochran, Henry and Jones, of the House, from Clark county, all strong Union men, said the feeling against the Judge was universal; that the Judge was drunk half his time; that the lawyers to take the bench and try half his case; that he was generally absent during his term; that he was bankrupt and the county, and in a word, if they returned home with the Judge still fastened on their people, the county would be too hot to hold them."

Fall salmon in great abundance have ascended Salmon Creek during the past week. The settlers along that stream have had fine opportunities for laying in a winter's supply of fish without the trouble of angling. Coming down.—Dr. X. paid a visit one day to a patient whom he had neglected to see for a couple of days. The sick man, who probably liked to attend to his business himself, had died in the mean time, and was on the point of being carried to the cemetery. "It isn't worth while for you to go up, he is just coming down," was the answer.

FRANKS OF AN INSANE MAN.—On last Wednesday a man named John Kavanagh made his appearance on the streets of this place in a state of nudity, and ran from the new bridge up Yued street to near the bridge at the east side of the place, where he was captured. He was seen by parties at work near the bridge, to attempt to walk the string pieces but soon losing his balance was precipitated into the water, and swam the rest of the way to shore, where passing a moment, to take breath started up street as stated. He had been a laborer in the logging camp of Elias & Foster, on Mud Bay. Soon after starting on his insane journey, he divested himself of all his clothing and cast them by the way-side. They were subsequently found in a small lake this side of Mud Bay. He had been apprehensive of late that some evil was going to befall him, and to avert it, read a prayer-book faithfully, and frequently expressed a desire to join a Masonic lodge. But what was the real cause of reason's desertion is not yet satisfactorily known. Every attention was shown him that could be by our citizens. He was taken to Seattle by the Wright, where he has relatives residing who, it is hoped will succeed in bringing him back to his proper self.—Republican.

It is rumored that Victoria is to have heretofore three steamers a month from San Francisco, carrying passengers at low rates, the steamship company having been tendered a liberal subsidy by our colonial neighbors. This will be good news for our people as well as them. The new schedule, we believe, is to go into effect immediately.—Standard.

The Indians on Queen Charlotte's Island have been committing more depredations. The schooner Black Diamond, while on the way to Sitka was boarded by the savages and ransacked from stem to stern carrying off everything of value.—Id.

FOR RENT.—Squire Head, we regret to learn, contemplates leaving the Territory for a time. His house in Swanova, and farm and buildings, near town, are, therefore, for let.—Id.

A Washington letter-writer says that Flanders has expressed himself in favor of annexing a large portion of Idaho to this Territory.—Id.

EASTERN NEWS.

(From dispatches to the Daily Oregonian.)

South America—Terrible Earthquake.

New York, Sept. 12.—The steamer Guild (flag Star) has arrived from Aspinwall, and brings the following news: On the 13th ult. a terrible earthquake visited the cities along the coast of Peru and Ecuador, whereby 23,000 lives were lost and property valued at $300,000,000, was destroyed. A rushing sound preceded the earthquake. The sea was terribly agitated and flooded the land for a great distance. Arica, a city of 35,000 inhabitants, has passed away. Scarcely a vestige of it is left. Only 400 lives were lost there. A town of 25,000 inhabitants, was also destroyed, leaving not a house standing, and 500 perished here. A tidal wave forty feet high rolled over with a terrific roar on the shore carrying ships further on land than ever before known. The Eastern States ship Frederick captured and all on board were lost. The Frederick had a million dollars worth of specie on board. The vessel was rolled over and smashed to atoms. The United States steamer Watson, carrying half a mile island and high and dry. Only one sailor was drowned. Owing to the great distance, she can never be got afloat. The Peruvian corvette America was also carried ashore and thirty-three men drowned from her. An American merchantman, the Rose River, the English ship Challenger and French bark Edwards were also lost. The towns of Iquique, Moquegua, Lerma and Pisco were all utterly destroyed. Over six hundred perished at Iquique. The American merchantman, the Lewis, was all ruined. The towns of Ygorra, San Pablo and Imanari are in ruins. What Cotacachi formerly stood is now a lake. The populations of the above named towns were almost entirely destroyed. The dead were so numerous that the surviving inhabitants have been forced to fly from the stench of the putrefying bodies.

In Guayaquil the earthquake was felt but no damage was done. Letters from Quito dated Aug. 19th, announce that the earthquake continued at intervals of a few hours. The President has issued a proclamation to the people to come forward and help the sufferers.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The Tennessee Legislative Committee had over an hour's interview with the President. No reporters were permitted to be present. The Chairman of the Committee read an address prepared since their arrival in Washington, setting forth a series of grievances, outrages, etc., based on the report made to the Tennessee Legislature. They declare all these statements susceptible of proof, and urge the President to send at the earliest possible moment a sufficient Federal force to aid the civil authorities, and not with them in suppressing these wrongs, by bringing to trial the guilty parties, and giving assurance to all that the laws will be enforced, unpunished and protection extended to such officers and citizens as may attempt to execute the laws or prosecute for their violation. The President gave his views, when the parties entered into conversation, fully canvassing the political affairs of Tennessee. The committee will have another interview.

Washington, Sept. 12.—Official dispatches from Montana say the Indians are all possible and no disturbances occurred during August. The President has directed the appointment of a Court of Inquiry to examine the transactions of General Dyer, chief of ordinance. The Tennessee Committee had a parting interview with the President to-day, lasting only about ten minutes. They left apparently well satisfied with the result.

New York, Sept. 12.—A Washington dispatch says it is now generally conceded that there will be a September session of Congress. The Secretary of the Treasury to-day issued $1,250,000 in bonds to the Central Pacific Railroad. The Tennessee legislative committee telegraphed to Governor Brewster this evening that the President will sustain the civil authorities. Orders have been issued by the Department commanders to sustain and aid the civil authorities. Sufficient force will be furnished to accomplish such purpose. The committee received from the Secretary of War a copy of the orders sent to General Thomas.

General Sherman called on the Secretary of War to furnish an additional regiment of cavalry for service against the Indians. It is understood that the Fifth cavalry, commanded by General Emery, have been ordered to report to General Sherman for that purpose. Surritt was here yesterday consulting with counsel relative to his trial which occurs on the 21st. He will probably only be tried on the indictment for conspiracy.

New Orleans, Sept. 12.—There is intense excitement here over the proposed bill for the prosecution to-night. The Governor will apply to General Buchanan for such a disposition of troops as may be necessary to preserve order. General Hatch, of the Freedmen's Bureau, yesterday requested General Buchanan, in view of the excitement existing, to dispose his troops so as to prevent an assault which might result in great destruction of life and property. There will be a large turnout of colored men, who are arriving in crowds from the interior. In case of any outrage it is feared they will inflict terrible retribution.

The Republican demonstration progressed to night without any disturbance. Three companies of infantry were stationed at the Custom House and other troops disposed of in different quarters of the city. There were only three white clubs in the procession, numbering three hundred all told. A prominent feature was a wagon containing a negro woman dressed in white, decorated with flowers, representing the States. The whites generally, remained in their houses. There were comparatively few on the streets.

Salem Sept. 14—12 M.—The Democratic members of the Senate met this morning at a quarter past nine. Miller, of Jackson took the chair, called the Senate to order and nominated Vis Trevis, of Wasco, President pro tem. Trevis being elected took the chair. Mr. Rayley, of Benton, asked by what authority Mr. Miller called the Senate to order but he was unheeded. S. G. Simpson, of Salem, was elected secretary pro tem. D. B. Hans, Sergeant-at-arms pro tem. Messrs. Burck, Cochran and Ford were appointed Committee on Credentials.

Salem, Sept. 15.—The Senate organized permanently by the election of the following officers: E. F. Burck, President; S. C. Simpson, Clerk; J. M. Tompson, Assistant Clerk; J. F. Ford, Enrolling Clerk; Egrossing Clerk, Thos. Lauer; Sergeant-at-Arms, Dolph Hanna; Doorkeeper, John Dalquist.

The House elected the following officers: John Whitaker, Speaker; W. L. White, Clerk; Wm. Nordland, Assistant, Ed. Turk, Enrolling Clerk; M. H. Abbot, Enrolling Clerk; A. M. Snyder, Sergeant-at-Arms; O. H. Smith, Doorkeeper. Proceedings quiet.

Local Matters.

A citizen of this city requiring the assistance of a domestic in his family, sent for and obtained a woman from Portland...

Samuel Marsh, Esq., one of our oldest and most esteemed business men, departs for the Grande Ronde Valley in the early part of next week.

The fires that have been raging in this county during the past week have done much mischief in the way of burning cord-wood, fence rails, etc.

Company "F," 23d Infantry, commanded by Capt. Kistler, will leave here for San Juan Island, by the steamer Active, on Monday or Tuesday.

A Good Sign.—We hear that the ladies have taken the matter of the approaching Fair seriously in hand, and that they design the display of female handiwork shall not be creditable to the skill, taste or industry of the ladies of Clarke County.

The Vancouver Aqueduct is completed to the eastern line of the "Nye Claim," and to within a mile and a half of the reservoir.

Colonel Hodges, Major Trimble and Capt. Rabbitt are attending a general court-martial convened at Fort Boise for the trial of an officer.

The Paris Exposition Circos performed here on Wednesday afternoon and evening to our good success as its merits deserved.

Miss Dargan and Samuel Shaffer have rented the blacksmith shop lately controlled by Samuel Marsh, and will endeavor to give the same satisfaction.

Sold Out to Hon. Holliday.

The Portland Evening Commercial has the following remarks upon the late extraordinary transaction of this renowned speculator:

"The great topic of conversation now, is the sale of the East-Side Railroad to the Hon. Wm. Holliday. That Mr. Holliday has now got control of that enterprise, there can be but little doubt. The policy of this gentleman is well known. He never invests unless he gets all that worth having, and so we think we are safe in assuming that Mr. Holliday has taken A. J. Cook & Co's extraordinary contract in order to take in the whole concern."

We have heard said that Mr. Holliday intends to push the road through to a connection with the Union Pacific, somewhere in the south-east, and also to extend the road to the Columbia river, and then to connect it with the steamships. This would practically give Mr. Holliday a monopoly of all the Oregon trade and travel within the influence of his line as far as the coast is concerned.

We call particular attention to the advertisement of Mr. John Wilson, which appears in this issue.

Hurford & Hibbard's advertisement will also be found to contain matter of interest to the public. Read them both carefully.
