ANOTHER ESCAPE.—Emil Bordenau—who has been confined in the county jail since last fall, awaiting trial for the murder of John Selbie—escaped on Sunday night. He cut a hole through the floor of his cell, and made his way under the floor and passed out through the hole in the west wall, made by Crow in his escape a year ago.

Olympia Correspondence.

OLYMPIA, Dec. 25, 1864.

EDS. STATESMAN:—You have doubtless become acquainted with the particulars of the organization of the Legislature through your exchanges. Dr. Henry was so disgusted with it that he left, to seek refuge in "Abraham's bosom," but on reaching Victoria, he was, it is said, arrested for debt.

THE SPECIFIC CONTRACT LAW was introduced in the House and passed on Friday—Mr. Sexton voting for it, as did also every Democratic member. The Ayes and Noes were not called for; in consequence of which, I subsequently made a motion to reconsider—

THE REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE met here the 10th and selected Governor Pickering as their candidate for next Delegate to Congress. The Territorial delegates are to meet the 4th of April to ratify the selection; but as they are a house divided amongst themselves I think they will fail.

THE AUDITOR'S REPORT is just published, also Reports of the Territorial officers. You will see by them that the Finances are in a bad condition. I think the Committee of Ways and Means will report a revenue bill increasing taxes to meet expenses, at least.

OUT OF DEBT.—We are told by those who know that the city will be out, or nearly out, of debt by the end of the present "municipal year." This being the case, we may expect to see sundry much needed improvements made next year—amongst others, the grading and graveling of Main street.

THE CITY WATCHMAN have recently been kept constantly on the qui vive for thieves. The town and vicinity is said to be infested by this class of gentry. Several attempts have been made by them within the past two months to break open houses, but thus far they have been foiled, and have failed to get hold of anything except a few articles that have been left out of doors.

KILLED.—A man, whose name we could not learn, was killed at Idaho City week before last by one of the sleds of the Idaho Sliding Club. He was standing in the street, engaged in conversation, with his back toward the hill, when on of the sleds, coming down with great speed, took a sheer from the track and ran against his legs, tripping him up and threw him backwards against the ground with such force as to split his head open.

SOCIAL PARTY.—The event of the week to party-goers, was a social party given by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Phillips, at their residence, on Tuesday evening. Some thirty-odd couples of ladies and gentlemen were in attendance and passed the night merrily dancing in the ball-room and discussing an excellent supper in the dining-room.

NEWS-PAPERIAL.—Jas. O'Meara has retired from the editorial control of the Eugene Review, and is succeeded by Mr. A. Noltner, the proprietor of the paper.

T. J. T'VALT succeeded in the Jacksonville Intelligencer by P. J. Malone, formerly of the Corvallis Union.

REWARD.—We are told by Deputy Sheriff Scott that a reward of $300 in coin has been offered for the capture of Geo. H. Porter ever since his escape. The officers in the various directions in which it was supposed he would go were immediately apprized of it, and it was thought the surest way to catch him would be to not publish the reward too extensively, thus giving him a notice that would induce him to travel more secretly.

LECTURE AND EXHIBITION.—Prof. L. Carey will give lectures on astronomy and exhibitions with a Phantasmagoria Reflector, at the Masonic Hall, on Monday and Tuesday evenings next.

SKATING.—Skaters have been enjoying the sport of sliding on the ice upon Mr. Fox's skating-pond during the week. The pond is in Mr. Roberts' field, just above the residence of Mr. L. J. Reedy. Price of admission, four-bits a skate. The water is turned upon the pond and a new surface formed upon the ice every night.

CARLYLEISM.—As a specimen of Carlyle, we quote this passage in Frederick the Great, which occurs after an enumeration of the lectures of one Lisenbarth: "There, your Majesty! what a glimpse as into infinite extinct continents, filled with ponderous, thorny inaniates, invisible nasal drawing of diatino Titans, and the awful attempt to spin, on all manner of wheels, road harness out of split cobbles."

Soldier's Letters.

The mail! the mail!
And unburned cheeks and eager eyes
Come crowding round the Capitol's tent;
Each outstretched hand receives the prize
For fond personal meat.
Unless disastrous news be told,
These letters naught of pain convey.
For friends at home will never scold
The lad that's far away.

The mail! the mail!
And toilet-stained hands are closing throes—
How rough! how coarsely moulded!
On dainty mistresses, fresh and fair,
By lily fingers folded.
For kindly thoughts pursue the youth
Who battles with his country's foe;
Nor soiled attire, nor guise unsmooth
Prevents their genial flow.

The mail! the mail!
A father's word of pride and cheer;
A mother's trembling admonition;
A sister's blessing—oh, how dear!
A brother's generous wishing,
And many a misadventure, crack and laugh,
From early friend and neighbor boy;
Each page a volume of delight—
A brimming cup of joy.

The mail! the mail!
And stillness rules the battlefield throng.
And "silence half an hour" prevails.
The heaven of those who wait so long
The coming of the mail, the long
Each reads his own, and these alone;
No soldier seeks to play the spy,
And letters whatsoever thrown,
Are safe from every eye.

A Primeval Forest.

The little town of Ega, on the Upper Amazon, in the heart of South America, originally a mission village of the Jesuits, but now a thriving Brazilian settlement, lies pretty nearly in the center of the most extensive, unbroken forest on the surface of our globe. It requires little effort of imagination, even to those who have not traveled beyond the limits of Europe, to form some general idea of what such a realm of arboreal vegetation must be, lying within a few degrees of the equator, bathed all the year through in an atmosphere like that of a forcing house for plants, drenched by tropical rains and heated by a vertical sun. The total length of this vast forest, from west to east, is 1,200 miles; its breadth varying from 600 to 800 miles. Towards the east, indeed, it contains 700 miles further, terminating only on the shores of the Atlantic. This easterly portion, however, or that which clothes the valley of the Lower Amazons, I exclude from the present description, since it is, in one part, much broken and contracted in breadth by large tracts of open grassy land. The forest of the great plain of the Upper Amazons has sufficient compactness and peculiarity to be treated of as a separate area. But as there is no complete break of continuity, the statement of Humboldt (who had a glimpse of the immeasurable wilderness only from its western commencement, in Peru), still holds good, to the effect that a flock of monkeys might travel among the tree tops, were it not for the rivers, for 2000 miles in a straight line without once touching ground, viz: from the slopes of the Andes to the shores of the Atlantic. At the top of the grassy slope on which the town is built, rises a compact wall of foliage with a small, narrow gap in its midst; the leafy barrier is the frontier line of the forest, kept from encroaching on the few acres of cleared space only by the inhabitants doing constant battle with the powers of vegetation, and the gap is the entrance to the only road by land that the townspeople possess. A few minutes' walk under the shady arcade, and the traveler finds himself in the heart of the solitude. The crowns of the tall trees on both sides meet overhead, and admit the rays of the sun only at intervals, where some forest monarch has been uprooted by the storm. The path leads to a few small plantations belonging to the poorer inhabitants, and at the distance of about a mile dwindles into a mere hunter's track, which none but a native can follow. Beyond this point all traces of the presence of man cease, the land untrudged and unworked, and so it continues for hundreds of miles.—Good Words.

A Sinking State.

The most dangerous enemies of the soil of Florida are what its inhabitants call "Sinks." These absorptions of the earth, though on a small scale, are, in fact, so numerous, that any one may almost say, in Florida slipping between the fingers of both Federal and Confederate, and will she ultimately—like those high mountains of the Andes during the earthquake of Chile in 1846—vanish entirely from the earth? All over the country I found, when in that sinking State, sinks of all sizes, forms and ages. Some are slight saucer-like depressions; others still deeper, like basins, of from 20 to 80 yards across; or only uneven slopes and hollows, which would pass unnoticed were one not informed that the land just there had been sinking since such a time; or that an old inhabitant remembered a dead level where now there are various dells, crowded with vegetation. Sometimes—and these are the most remarkable—the sinks are round and even, like wells, which, indeed, one might suppose them to be, so regular and perpendicular are their walls. Some are formed suddenly, during or after heavy rains, and are the result of one storm. They are sunk perhaps in an hour, in a night, without sign or warning; in the middle of a road, of a garden, or it may be a cattle-pen. On one plantation I know of several such sinks. One is about thirty feet deep and eight or nine feet across; another is twenty feet deep, and about four feet across the mouth. Sometimes it is not possible to distinguish the real bottom of the sink, for after the soil has been washed down to a certain distance, leaving a smooth regular hole, jagged rocks are laid bare, and the opening to a subterranean passage, it may be of vast length and depth, is exposed.—All the Year Round.

"DONALD," said a Scotch dame, looking up from the catechism to her son, "what's a slander?"
"A slander, mither," quoth young Donald, twisting the corner of his plaid, "awee! I hardly ken, unless it be, mayhap, an over true tale which one good woman tells o' another."

HORRIBLE.—If a man during fifty years chews every day two inches of solid plug tobacco (and millions do it) it will amount at the end of that time to nine thousand three hundred and sixty-six feet, or a mile and a quarter of tobacco, half an inch thick and two inches broad, and will cost one thousand five hundred dollars.
