The Sabbath.

The week of toil is gone—
Once more broad streaming through the depths of night,
Another day, the welcome Sabbath morn,
Is risen on my sight.

This day my feet shall cease
The wearing, fretting rounds of life to run;
But they shall be led forth with joy and peace
Toward my Father's throne.

My hands shall rest awhile
From hard and grasping toil for daily need.
From warping care and passions that defile,
Oh, heart, a while be freed!

My soul shall fold her wing
In the calm shadow of Almighty God,
My ear shall hark to each the faintest ring
Of harmonies above.

My eyes in trust shall turn
Toward the green pastures of eternal rest,
The far and shining portals half-discern
Of mansions of the blest.

I await, O Lord, the morn,
When, from the mystic depths of death, shall rise,
The Heavenly Sabbath, in full brightness born,
Upon my longing eyes.

When no dark week of toil
Is day of calm shall follow precedent;
When from all pain, unrest and wild turmoil
Shall heart and hands be freed;

And when my ear, that now
Deafened by earth's discordant noises,
Hears but faint and far, while listening low,
The deep, eternal voices;

Shall open to the song,
The fullest of refining melody,
When holy hymns, that breathe from seraph tongue,
Shall find a place on mine.

When to those fields of rest
Where death shall cease, and life and love begin—
When passing thro' the mansions blest,
My feet shall enter in.

FRENCH WOMEN.

What They Marry For, and How They Act
[Paris Correspondence Phila. Home Weekly.]
What wretched wives French women make. They are hardly less suited for matrimony than any women the sun shines on. Fond of excitement, devoted to pleasure, loving dress, delighting in company, home and its duties are confided in and irksome drudgery to them. The best of them wear the breeches, haggles—as only women can haggles—about cottages and so on, reduce their husbands to hardship, drive off his friends, reduce his expenditures, diminish his pleasures, place money over and above everything else, make their will, their whims, their caprices, the law of the household, and think they ought to be adored as angels because they keep buttons and shirts from parting company.

These are the jewels of married life in France. But even these think lightly of fidelity to married vows. In this nation of social life, where society is everything and all else nothing, nobody thinks of refusing anything which may add to the entertainment of the company. As husbands are zeros in the best houses, any complaint they disregard, or, if insisted upon, is answered by suit for divorce. Those "animals" have no rights except so far as the union of buttons and shirts are concerned.

There are no women in the world more agreeable to strangers in a drawing room than French women. Falsehood and truth are indifferent to them, consequently such a thing as principle never checks their desire to be agreeable. Their natural maliciousness and their natural spitefulness, whose quickness and sharpness have been increased by the continual agitation of company, make their conversation entertaining. Their satisfaction in finding themselves in what they may not justly consider their proper sphere, dimples their cheeks with smiles, and kindles light in their eyes. Their vanity, which continually goads them to struggle for applause, stimulates them to exert all their powers of pleasing. They consequently are the most agreeable drawing-room companions in the world.

It is almost impossible to avoid falling in love with them. Fancy pursues them beyond the drawing-room, and uses her warmest colors to draw pictures of the loveliness of the man who constantly possesses such bright, vivacious, amiable, and fascinating creatures. Fancy that will-o'-the-wisp of life—deceives us here as it here went, and were we to follow her glittering, try hard, would certainly lead us into a most painful morass.

The rocket that lies in the artificer's laboratory, black, sullen, unattractive in its vulgar paste-board case, resting on an unadorned, unpolished, rough stick, does not much differ from the fiery bolt which makes mobs stare as it seems to scorch the air, and burst into flames. So it is with the French woman. Her husband's confidence in her husband's or her family's company. The restraints of domestic life oppress them to an insupportable degree. The ideal happiness of all of them is to enjoy a motherless widow's freedom. They have no account to give of their name or their purse, or of their body. To have no conscience save only to keep unknown deeds repressed by public opinion. Too cold to be licentious, they are never immoral, except to gratify an agreeable companion; and were Jews to listen to their prayer, men's desires would be of the same temperature all through life as they are at three-score-and-ten.

It is neither wonderful that men and women marry, nor wonderful they separate. Marriages are contracted solely for money, or for social position, or for both. Women marry for these advantages and to be free.

A woman is a ward, an infant, until she marries. She must not be seen at plays, where the dialogue is as thimble and sparsely draped as the actresses who keep its shuttlecock of conversation flying. She must not go on the street or into public gardens alone. She must not dip her nose into books which are only fit for the shelves of married coventry. She has the world at the table, church, theatre, and in carriage. She must be silent, modest, and respectful.

All changes when she marries. She was a girl—she is a woman. She may go where she pleases when she pleases, and as she pleases. The slave is tyrant in turn; the husband (so free while unmarried) wears the discarded manacles; the ball and chain are for his ankles. She reads what she pleases; he has any play; sees any sight. Her father may have had no matter what title, she was nobody. The opera box, the carriage, the town and country house are hers. She engages and dismisses the servants. The table is laid to suit her taste. She has all the keys. Therefore, woman, marry.

If matrimony does not suit them, despite husband, father and mother, she sues a divorce. Her husband is obliged to give her an income in keeping with her rank in society. She is free as air.

After digging a certain depth into the bowels of the earth the temperature becomes warm, and it grows warmer as you warm to your work, that at the depth of thirty miles, (as we are informed by a gentleman who dug that distance one July morning,) everything is like molten iron at a white heat. There is good reason for believing that people who cheat the printer, and try to get into shows without paying for it, are sent thirty miles into the bowels of the earth when they die.

A Sermon on Newspapers

Newspapers often sermonize the great questions of the day, and discourse most ethically on the obligations of international law and the duties to each other of government and people, but they are seldom themselves the subject of a sermon. We have to record an instance of this nature in a discourse by the Rev. Brooke Herford, of Manchester, England. It is short, and would merit a transfer entire to our columns, but as this cannot be, we shall make for the benefit of our readers, some things said by the reverend gentleman. They are a pleasant contrast to the ravings of Dana Alvord on newspapers. "I cannot get (Mr. Herford begins) with that celebrated saying of Richard Cobden, that there is more to be learned from a sheet of the Times than from all the histories of Thucydides. Yet, for all that, I hold their reading—their earnest and intelligent reading—as one of the essentials of life. Newspapers deal primarily with the realms of humanity, and they tell us what is going on in that realm at the present time. In this they are the primary requisite for a well-instructed life. Surely, it concerns us more closely to know about the world of man than the world of matter; and to learn what is doing in human history now than what has been done in former times. Of course there must be a great deal of trivially mixed with the story of human life to-day. This is simply inevitable. Time sifts out the petty details and leaves the larger features more conspicuous; yet he is not a wise man who is impatient of all these details, and seers at newspapers because of them. It does not seem to me the worst of it, that this contempt for a man's thoughts to abstract science and recidive learning, and leaves him ignorant of the great conflicts passing in the world around him, and impatient of the things which concern the practical welfare of the society in which he lives. The worst of it is, that this contempt for newspapers is too often a symptom of a deeper defect—a carelessness of the world and of man. There is nothing necessarily incompatible between deep study in one special direction and a warm interest in what is going on in the living world. From the time that a man stretches out your thought and interest as far as you like, back to the childhood of our race, back into old geologic periods if you will, or a way to the tiniest star that the telescope reveals, still glittering on the farthest verge of space. But, and underlying all, are man and the world around you and—the newspaper.

And let me especially urge the reading of a newspaper as a distinct means of self-culture upon women. It may sound strange at first, but I think it almost more important to women than to men, and for this reason: Men going to the degree to which is connected with deeper defect—a carelessness of the world and of man. It may sound strange at first, but I think it almost more important to women than to men, and for this reason: Men going to the degree to which is connected with deeper defect—a carelessness of the world and of man. There is nothing necessarily incompatible between deep study in one special direction and a warm interest in what is going on in the living world. From the time that a man stretches out your thought and interest as far as you like, back to the childhood of our race, back into old geologic periods if you will, or a way to the tiniest star that the telescope reveals, still glittering on the farthest verge of space. But, and underlying all, are man and the world around you and—the newspaper.

GREAT FRESHET.

On Sunday, the 27th, our Valley was visited by a warm rain, which rapidly melted the snow on the mountains and caused the streams that drain the Valley to raise far beyond their usual magnitude. The rain continued to descend all day on Monday and through the night, until Tuesday morning, when Mill Creek was found to have assumed the proportions of a river. Up to this time, but little damage had been done by the washing away of wood piles and an occasional out-house. The rain continued to descend on Tuesday, and as a consequence the streams became more swollen. Mill Creek, about a mile from town, overflowed its highest banks, and the stream thus divided poured a flood of water down along the line of Alder street, causing considerable destruction of property far removed from ordinary high-water. At the corner of Third and Alder streets, so force was the torrent for a time that it threatened to carry away Mr. Linkton's warehouse, and with it a large quantity of grain. By great exertion the torrent was turned into the bed of Alder street, and the water escaped with little damage other than the washing away of the foundations and the consequent sinking of the structure. The only other damage of special note along the line of Alder street was the filling of Mr. Wm. Phillips' fire-proof cellar, in which was stored a stock of stores and hardware, all of which is damaged. All day on Tuesday and the greater part of Wednesday this portion of the town presented the appearance of a lake, and persons living beyond Alder street could only reach their homes by fording a stream waist-deep. A temporary bridge was finally erected over Alder street, between Third and Fourth streets, which for the time being proved a great convenience.

Going back to the main channel of Mill Creek, at an early hour on Tuesday morning, a couple of small frame buildings, immediately in the rear of the Court House, were surrounded with water, and it was with some difficulty that the inmates of the houses were removed. Subsequently both the buildings were carried away, leaving the rear of Court House exposed to the full force of the raging torrent. This was the condition of affairs up to noon on Tuesday. As already stated, the rain continued to descend, and as a consequence the vast volume of water was steadily gaining force. All along the line of Mill Creek out buildings were being carried away, and the piles, which were put down, at great cost, for the purpose of confining the creek to its channel, were being forced up and drifted away. Indeed the whole project of piling was a useless expenditure of money, the piles having proved worthless as a protection. Whenever bulkheads had been resorted to, as at the upper end of Main street, they were found to answer the purpose, and withstood the fury of the torrent. The piling which ex-Mayor Thomas had put down for the purpose of protecting the rear of his lot, soon gave way, and for a time the rear of his residence was in great danger. By extraordinary exertion, and putting in a bulkhead composed of gunny bags filled with gravel, the force of the current was checked, and the main building saved. As it was, Mr. Thomas is a heavy loser. Tuesday passed off without any other material damage to note, although the water was constantly gathering force. Throughout Tuesday night, the greater part of our citizens remained on guard, expecting every moment the bridge at the upper end of Main street to be swept away, and with it the deluging of the business houses on Main street. Fortunately the bridge rode out of the storm in safety, and from this fact the town, in a great measure, owed its safety. Early on Tuesday night, the rear part of the lot on which the Court House stands was washed away, and it was feared that the entire building would be swept into the river. At about one o'clock, on Wednesday morning, the back of the building gave way, and the water tore through the timbers, but fortunately the front held on, and thus we were spared a great calamity.

During Tuesday night the bridge across Mill Creek, at the intersection of Second street, was swept away, but fortunately without other damage. In the course of the night the rear part of Money's bowling alley, which extended back to Mill Creek, was carried away, and with it two young men who were sleeping in the back part of the alley. The first they knew of their danger they were floating down the stream. As luck would have it the wreck struck against a sand-bank, after having gone but a short distance, and the terrified sleepers escaped without much difficulty. Early in the storm, the fire-proof cellar of Mr. Stevens, at the upper end of Main street, was flooded, and the merchandise stored therein considerably damaged. Nearly all the fire-proofs abutting on the Creek sustained more or less damage from being flooded, as will appear from the general statement of losses. Outside of town, we learn that all the bridges on Mill Creek, as far up as Perkins' Mill, were swept away. The bridges over all the streams that put into the Walla Walla are reported to be carried away, although possibly the report may be exaggerated. On Wednesday morning, at an early hour, the water in the Walla Walla, even miles below town, marked nine inches above the high mark of 1862, and consequently is the highest that has been known since the settlement of the Valley. As one of the results of the fearful freshet, our mail communication was cut off from Monday to Thursday. On Tuesday morning, the indefatigable stage driver, Joe Sanders, started out with the horse mail, but was compelled to return, having gone less than three miles from town. On Wednesday he attempted to take the mail through on horseback, but was again compelled to return. On Tuesday, that knight of the whip, Ward, succeeded in driving his stage through to Walla Walla and back, since which time an attempt has been made to go below. From all quarters of the Valley we hear of fields overflowed and fences carried away, and certainly more wide-spread destruction could scarcely be imagined.

In the proper place, we omitted to state that a portion of the Court House toppling over, all the papers and public documents were removed to a place of safety. The Auditor's safe, containing the records and title deeds was removed and now stands in front of the wrecked building. As usual in cases of great calamity, instances of selfishness were exhibited disgracesful to human nature. Men who stood idly by and refused to lead a helping hand toward saving property, were among the most active in playing the part of wreckers, and appropriating whatever they could lay hands on. These, however, with few exceptions, the great majority having worked nobly and faithfully to save the property of their neighbors from destruction.

THE TOUCHET. A gentleman just in from the Touchet, informs us that on Wednesday morning the water was 18 inches deep on the floor of the Milton Mill. A considerable quantity of flour and grain was stored in the Mill, and was necessarily damaged. The flume leading to the Mill was slightly damaged. At Watsburg, we learn that no damage had been sustained. The water was on the floor of the new hotel, but beyond that all the other buildings, including Wait's Mill, had escaped injury. Further reports from the Valley are looked for with interest, and we fear that the catalogue of damages will be greatly extended.

THE FRESHET OVER. On Wednesday morning, about 10 o'clock, there was a change in the temperature, indicating cool weather, and with this change the water commenced to fall and has been steadily falling from that until this (Friday) morning. At this writing, Mill Creek has resumed its wonted volume, and parties who were flooded out have a chance to repair damages and compare losses. Although quite a number of houses were surrounded by water, we believe that not more than half a dozen families were compelled to remove. The residence of Mr. Gulchard, on Rose street, below Fifth, was surrounded by a perfect sea of water, but he manfully stood his ground and rode the storm out in safety. Of the dwellings which for a time were considered in great danger, we may mention that of Dr. Taibodo, which for a time was sorely buffeted, but escaped serious damage, other than a thorough washing out. The first building swept away was the old log structure, which fronted on Main street, immediately in front of the new water works. The building was owned by Mr. A. Kyger, and must soon have given way to a less temporary structure. This building had a history, as being used in early days for the purposes of a city and county jail. It had survived its usefulness, and for many months had been unoccupied. The freshet washed away a good portion of the lot occupied by the city star-worke, and makes it necessary that all that part of the lot fronting on the creek be cribbed and filled in. The experience of the last few days shows that "cribbing" can be relied upon, whilst "piling" is no protection whatever.

SAFE. We are informed that the bridge over Mill Creek, four miles below town, rode out the "freshet" in safety. This is attributed to the fact that the creek has changed its bed, leaving the bridge high and dry. The bridges on the Lower Touchet are supposed to have been carried away, but of this nothing is known with certainty. The bridge over the Touchet, at Wait's Mill was not down at last accounts.

STATEMENT OF DAMAGES. Of the damages sustained within the city limits, we have prepared a careful estimate. The list may not be altogether full, but we think that it will be found in the main correct:

Ayer's Agree Cure. For the Speedy and Certain Cure of Intermittent Fever, or Chills and Fever, Remittent Fever, Chills Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical Headache, and Billious Fevers; indeed, for the whole class of diseases originating in bilious derangement, caused by the malarial miasmatic countries. FEVER AND AGUE IS NOT THE ONLY CONSEQUENCE of the miasmatic poison. A great variety of others arise from its operation, in malarial districts, among which are Nouralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Headache, Blindness, Toothache, Earache, "St. Mary's," Asthma, Painful Affection of the Spleen, Hysteria, Pain in the Bowels, Colic, Paralysis, and Derangement of the Stomach, all of which, when originating in this cause put on the intermittent type, or become periodical. This "Cure" expels the poison from the blood, and thus cures the ailment. It is not only the most effectual remedy ever discovered for this class of complaints, but it is the cheapest, and most perfect, is perfectly safe. No harm can arise from its use, and the patient, when cured, is left as healthy as if he had never had the disease. Can this be said of any other cure for Chills and Fever? It is true of this, and its importance to those afflicted with the complaint cannot be over-estimated. So sure is it to cure the Fever and Ague, that it may be truthfully said to be a certain remedy. Our Dealer complains that it is not a good medicine to sell, because one bottle cures a whole neighborhood.

Prepared by J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass., and sold at Wholesale by SMITH & DAVIS, Portland, and by all dealers. 6-2m. Agency Notice. H. M. CHASE IS MY AUTHORIZED AGENT during my absence. All persons indebted to me are requested to make immediate payment. December 15, 1866. S. LINKTON.

A GREAT many hits are being made at the Plantation Bitters, by a score or two of disinterested friends who have endeavored to imitate or counterfeit them. It is all of no use. The people want to be imposed upon long. The Plantation Bitters are increasing in use and popularity every day, and it is the wish of the proprietor, that they should be sold in the same sized bottles, and made just as they were at first, and will continue to be, or we shall stop making them. The Plantation Bitters purify, strengthen and invigorate. They create a healthy appetite. They are an antidote to change of water and diet. They overcome effects of dyspepsia and late hours. They strengthen the system and enliven the mind. They prevent malarial, and intermittent fevers. They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach. They cure Constipation and Dyspepsia. They cure Dizziness, Cholera, Cholera Morbus. They cure Liver complaint and Nervous Headache. They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant and are an excellent nature's great restorer. The recipe and full circular are around each bottle. Clergymen, merchants and other persons whose sedentary habits induce weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, liver complaint, constipation, &c., will find immediate and permanent relief in these Bitters. But above all they are recommended to weak and delicate females, and mothers. They are sold by all respectable merchants. See that each bottle has our private United States stamp over the cork and steel-plate side label. Beware of imitations. See that the stamp has not been tampered with. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon is a swindler and impostor, should be immediately reported to us. P. H. DRAKE & CO., 21 Park Row, New York. Smith & Davis, Portland, Gen'l Ag'ts for Oregon.

BARNES MAGNOLIA WATER. A toilet delight! The ladies' treasure and the gentleman's boast. The "sweekest thing" and largest quantity. Manufactured from the rich Southern Magnolia. Used for bathing the face and person, to render the skin soft and fresh, to prevent eruptions and pimples, to remove the unpleasant odor of perspiration. It removes tan, redness, blotches, &c. It cools, softens and adds delicacy to the skin. It yields a subdued and lasting perfume. It cures mosquito bites and stings of insects. It contains no material injurious to the skin. It is what every lady should have. Sold everywhere. Try the Magnolia Water once, and you will use no other Cologne, Perfumery, or Toilet Water afterwards.

DEMAS BARNES & CO., Props. Exclusive Agents, N. Y. Sold by druggists and dealers on the Pacific Coast.

Mustang Liniment. Have you a hurt child or a lame horse? Use the Mexican Mustang Liniment. For cuts, sprals, burns, swellings and caked breasts, the Mexican Mustang Liniment is a certain cure. For Rheumatism, neuralgia, stiff joints, stings and bites, there is nothing like the Mexican Mustang Liniment. For sprained horses, the poll evil, ring bone, and swellings, the Mexican Mustang Liniment never fails. For wind galts, scratches, big head and splint, the Mexican Mustang Liniment is worth its weight in gold.

Cuts, bruises, sprains and swellings, are so common and certain to occur in every family, that a bottle of this Liniment is the best investment that can be made. It is more certain than the doctor—it saves time in sending for the doctor—it is cheaper than the doctor, and about as sure to be dispensed with. "In hitting the kettle from fire," it tipped over and scalded my hands terribly. The Mustang Liniment extracted the pain, and caused the sore to heal rapidly, and left a very little scar. CHAS. FOSTER, 439 Broad street, Phila.

Mrs. S. Litch, of Hyde Park, Vt., writes: "My horse was considered worthless, (spavin) but since the use of the Mustang Liniment, I have sold him for $100. Your Liniment is a wonderful cure. All genuine is wrapped in steel plate envelopes, signed G. W. Westbrook, Chemist, and also has the private U. S. stamp of D. H. Ferguson & Co., over the top. Look out, every. Sold by druggists, 25-50 cts., and $1 00.

Lyon's Extract Ginger. LYON'S EXTRACT OF GINGER. For Indigestion, Heartburn, Sick Head, Colic, Cholera Morbus, Flatulency, where a warming stimulant is required. Its careful preparation and d'entire purity make it a cheap and reliable article for culinary purposes. Sold everywhere at 50cts. per bottle. Ask for "LYON'S" Extract Ginger. Take up your bottle. CAUTION—See that the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co. is over the cork of each bottle. None other genuine. 48-1y.

LYON'S FLEA POWDER. DEATH TO FLEAS.—It is well known that Lyon's genuine Magnolia Powder will perfectly destroy everything in the shape of flies, ticks, bed-bugs, roaches, &c.; that it is a perfect poison to the insect tribe, but only by rubbing it on the body of the animal. The genuine has the structure of a Lyon and the private stamp of Demas Barnes & Co. Any thing else of this kind is an imitation or counterfeit. Any dealer who will not show the genuine, if you insist you will find no other.

Lyon's Kathairon. It is a most delightful Hair Dressing. It eradicates scurf and dandruff. It keeps the hair cool and clean. It makes the hair rich, soft and glossy. It prevents hair turning gray and falling off. It restores hair upon prematurely bald heads. This is just what Lyon's Kathairon will do. It is pretty—it is cheap—durable. It is literally sold by the car load, and yet its almost incredible demand is daily increasing, and there is hardly a country store that does not keep it, or a family that does not use it. E. T. LYON, Chemist, N. Y.

NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary, 616 KEARNEY STREET, SAN FRANCISCO.

DOCTOR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctor Acton, of London, Parker of Birmingham, England, and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Diseases.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their new mode of treatment, which cannot be surpassed. DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in securing out new remedies and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases. How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are afflicted with the venereal disease, or from virus absorbed into the system.

MEDICAL INSTITUTES

QUICK CURES AND MODERATE CHARGES

DR. L. C. KINNEY'S Private Medical and Surgical Institute, Walla Walla, W. T.

Established expressly to afford the afflicted cases of all Private and Chronic Diseases, Syphilis, and cases of Secrecy, and all Sexual Disorders.

TO THE AFFLICTED. DR. KINNEY returns his thanks to his numerous patients for their patronage since locating in Walla Walla, and takes this method of notifying the public that he has leased the large and commodious building of Mr. Joseph Holmuth, on Main Street, and has had the same fitted up for the purpose of a location of those who require Medical or Surgical assistance.

Special attention will be paid to affections of the Lungs, Liver, Digestive Organs, Kidneys, and of the Genito Urinary Organs. Diseases of the Bladder, and of the Female Organs, are also managed successfully. Diseases peculiar to women, also, affections of the eye and ear, and in short, all maladies to which human flesh is heir will claim his attention.

Letters from persons unable personally to communicate with the Dr. accompanied by the usual fee will receive prompt attention. The Dr. will be in Walla Walla, W. T., on the 1st of the month of February, 1867.

The Doctor would state that he has had an experience of more than thirty years in treating cases of disease occurring in Northern and Southern climates, besides having enjoyed a large and successful practice both in civil life, and with our army and the Mexican War, where he was surgeon in the army.

It too often occurs that persons requiring Medical aid, arriving here from the various interior towns in the upper country, at the instance of their friends, are induced to go to San Francisco, thinking that they will receive prompt attention. The Dr. would state that he has had an experience of more than thirty years in treating cases of disease occurring in Northern and Southern climates, besides having enjoyed a large and successful practice both in civil life, and with our army and the Mexican War, where he was surgeon in the army.

There is a number of persons to whom Dr. K. is authorized to refer to the various interior towns in the upper country, at the instance of their friends, are induced to go to San Francisco, thinking that they will receive prompt attention.
