KELLOGG & McAULIFF'S
FERRY,
AT THE MOUTH OF TULALUM, three miles from the old Ferry on Colville Road. This Ferry possesses superior advantages to the traveling public, situated as it is on Snake at the most accessible point for travel to Colville, Anahoe Plante's, Bitter Root, and the Kootenai Country, and, in fact, is on the route to all that portion of country lying to the north and north-east of Snake river.

The road leading from Walla Walla to the Ferry is far superior to the old Colville Road, and the country is better supplied with grass and water. The public will find it to their advantage to travel this road.
KELLOGG & McAULIFF, Proprietors.
Our rates of ferrage will not exceed those charged by the Pullouse Ferry.

The Bridal Veil.

BY ANON GABBY.
We're married, they say, and you think you have won—Well, take this white veil from my head and look on me!

Here's another for you, and matter to please you.
Here's doubt to distrust you and faith to believe you.
I'm all as you see, common earth, common dew!
Be wary, and mould me to roses, not rue!

Ah, shake out the filmy thing, fold after fold,
And see if you have me, to keep and to hold.
Look once on my heart and see the worst of its sinning.
It is not your to-day for the yesterday's wining;
I shall know it and keep in body with you,
You must grow to new heights if love you to-morrow presses.

We're married! I pledged to hold up your marrow As long as your feet does its handfull of daisies;
That way lies my honor, my pathway of pride.
But, mark you, if greener grass grows either side
I shall know it and keep in body with you, Shall walk in my spirit with feet on the dew!

We're married! Oh, pray that our love do not fall!
I have wings flattened down and hid under my veil, They are subtle and light—you can never undo them,
And swift in their flight—you can never push them,
And spite of all clasping, and spite of all hands, I can slip like a shadow, a dream, from your hands.

Nay call me not cruel, and fear not to take me, I am yours for my lifetime, to be what you would make me—
To wear my white veil for a sign of a cover,
And you shall be proven, my lord or my lover, A cover for peace that is dead, or a token Of bliss that can never be written or spoken.

Lewiston Correspondence.

LEWISTON, Feb. 9, 1864.
EDS. STATESMAN.—The express from your "burg" has just arrived, freighted with another Acting Governor, in the person of Acting Secretary Silas D. Cochran. The mutability of our Territorial government bids fair to pass into a proverb with future generations, if nothing more. Two Governors and two Acting Governors within two years' time, and scarcely another Federal official represented certainly exhibits a singular series of affairs, to say the least. While writing this letter, the "Acting" has made his last and "assayed his maiden speech" in his new capacity. He tells the people that his administration will be conducted to please himself, and that so far as he or the office are concerned, nothing will satisfy him but the "strict administration and execution of the law to the letter," that he will "follow with scrupulous exactness authoritative instructions from Washington, striving so to conduct the business of that office that justice may once more wield her golden scale over our much misrepresented and much abused Territory. The general clamor for justice giving him a chance; so, doubtless, his acts, in the absence of higher authority, will be recognized, both here and at Washington. Now if the worthy "Acting" could draw for what money was due from Government to the Territory, your correspondent is ready to believe that he could get the largest petition ever got up in this Territory for his permanent appointment to that office, and a small pension besides.

That mysterious individual, "Smith," who was appointed, near a year ago, as Secretary, seems, from that moment, to have shunned the light of day and betook himself back to his "old-Virginia home," or some other portion of God's foot-stool, where his anxious Idaho friends will never find him. He was said to be a repentant rebel, and came through our lines to Washington, where he excited the sympathy of Attorney General Bates, who got him a lucrative position in the Department of the Interior. It is just possible that the Hon. Mr. Bates may have been imposed upon in this matter, and Smith may have been an emissary from Jeff's dominions, for all we know to the contrary.— This hypothesis is somewhat strengthened when we reflect that the utmost silence has been maintained with regard to him, since the simple announcement of his appointment. "Do Witt Clinton Smith," where art thou? In this connection I will merely add that it is not positively decided yet whether the signature of our new Acting Governor shall be "Silas D. Cochran of Cochranville," or plain "Silas D. Cochran, State of Maine." I shall probably be enabled to inform you in my next.

DE FERRARI FOR THE STONE.—The following articles from the Chicago Tribune: Money is cheap and abundant. A paper dollar is depreciated to forty-four cents, gold value. Currency is plenty and growing plenteous.
Come easy, go easy, is the prevailing feeling.— But sooner or later the present abnormal condition of things will terminate—perhaps gradually, perhaps suddenly. The values of all commodities, including money, are fearfully watered. But when the crash comes the water will be let out, leaving only what is represented by the gold standard. Men are walking on high stilts, and are making long but insecure strides. But all must dismount one of these days, and come down until their feet touch the earth. Many will be precipitated head long, who now tower aloft on their stilts.
Wise and prudent men will be prepared in time, for the inevitable change. The class to suffer by the termination of the war are those in debt.
A merchant with a stock worth $50,000, and half paid for, will not realize therefrom enough to pay what he owes. When the goods are all sold he will find himself still in debt from five to ten thousand dollars, and this debt he must liquidate, principal and interest, with gold or its equivalent, or go into bankruptcy.

The consequence of the end of the war with the debtor class will be to increase every man's debt about 125 per cent. An obligation of $4,000 will become in practical effect one of $10,000. That is, it will require property or labor now worth in currency $10,000 to pay it.
A note outstanding drawing ten per cent. interest will then draw what would now be equivalent to twenty-five per cent., or thereabouts, to say nothing of the principal of the note, the certainty of whose payment will swell in a corresponding ratio.

We are glad to put on record the declaration of the New York Times, (Rep.) that "An opposition is almost as necessary in a constitutional State as an administration, and that liberty cannot be preserved, nor economy and efficiency secured, without the exercise of a somewhat suspicious vigilance on the part of some portion of the public."

The war has destroyed 80,000 negroes in Louisiana in three years. They disappear with rapidity unequalled.

Fortune's Freaks.

We copy the following from a private letter just received from San Francisco:
"Mrs. M. is going East. You have met her.
Did you ever hear her strange history? Her life has been marked by many strange vicissitudes.— It has been her lot to experience alternately more of joy and sorrow, wealth and poverty than is generally allotted to mortals. When quite young she was one of the passengers on the ill-fated steamer Arctic. Her father and mother were both lost, and she saved by being washed to a fragment of the wreck. When she arrived in New York she was adopted by a wealthy uncle, who at his death bequeathed her a large fortune. For a number of years she moved in the best society of the great metropolis, courted and flattered by all who met her. The absence of her father reduced her poverty. Dig-daining to accept charity, she connected herself with the public schools in the capacity of teacher.
While engaged in this vocation she became acquainted and married one of the merchant princes of New York. In company with her husband she made the tour of Europe, visited the Holy Land, and traversed the river Nile almost to its source. While returning, her husband was captured by a band of savages, and after the battle of Malvera Hills, while attending the wounded, discovered her husband, whom she had given up as lost or dead, among the wounded. He had escaped from captivity, and returned just in time to participate in the battle.
She continued with him until he was slain, and then retired from the service. Two years ago they crossed the plains, and he arrived at Reese River when the excitement in regard to the mines first broke out there. After accumulating a snug fortune, he started for California, but died on the road. Determining to secure her wealth by sure investment, she bought real estate. The title proved defective, and after long litigation she was again reduced to poverty. For some months past she has been studying for the stage—a calling for which she is exceedingly qualified. By the last steamer from the East she was notified that she is again the possessor of an immense fortune left her by the brother of her husband, who was recently killed before Pease Bay. She leaves for Los Angeles on the next steamer. Here is material for a romance."—Reese River Revue.

At the inauguration of the Lord Mayor of London, Nov. 17th, at the Guildhall, Lord Pemerston, in an eloquent speech, spoke cheerily of European politics. In regard to America he said:
"There is one dark spot in the picture which the affairs of the world present. That dark spot lies on the other side of the Atlantic. We grieve, and every man of sound mind must grieve that that bloody and disastrous war which broke out more than three years ago among the Kinder nations of northern America, still rages.
Still lays waste the fertile plains of that continent—still bedews with the blood of its people those forests and tracts of territory which ought to be cultivated and become sources of wealth, pleasure and happiness to mankind. We may carelessly trust that human nature will longer permit that deadly and disastrous strife to continue; that the contending parties, in a period not remote, will find it much better to be reconciled than to fight; and those disputes, which were bedewed that continent with blood, will be settled by an amicable arrangement between themselves. (Loud cheers.) The beginning of this strife was expected to be attended in this country with most disastrous results to our western States. At all events, out of evil may come some good, and I trust in future our sources of supply will be spread over a greater portion of the globe, and that we shall no longer be dependent on any one country for materials so essential to the industry and prosperity of our own country."

CAST A LINE FOR YOURSELF.—A young man bridged listlessly watching some anglers on a bridge. He was poor and dejected. At length, approaching a banker who had long been looking fish, he sighed, "If now, I had three fish and would be happy, I could sell them at a fair price and buy me food and lodging!"
"I will give you just as many and just as good fish as the owner, who has sold them, can bear his words, if you will do me a trifling favor."
"And what is that?" asked the other eagerly.
"Only to tend this line till I come back. I wish to go on a short errand." The proposal was gladly accepted. The old fisherman was gone so long that the young man began to be impatient. Meanwhile, however, the hungry fish snapped greedily at the baited hook, and the young man lost his depression in the excitement of pulling them in, and when the owner of the line returned he had caught a large number. Counting out from them as many as were in the basket, and presenting them to the young man, the old fisherman said, "I fulfil my promise from the fish that you caught, to teach you when you see others suffering what you need, to waste no time in fruitless wishing, but to cast a line for yourself."—Home Journal.

FEET.—The French foot is meagre, narrow and bony; the Spanish small and elegantly formed—thanks to its Moorish blood, corresponding with the Castilian proverb—"high in the instep." The Arab is proverbial for its high arch; "A stream can run under the hollow of it." The foot of the Scotch is large and thick; that of the Irish flat and square; the English short and fleshy.
The American foot is apt to be disproportionately small. A foot, for both beauty and speed, should be arched, fairly rounded, and its length proportioned to the height of the person. The ankle, especially of woman, should be round and firm, and not too small.

Nothing can be more touching than to behold a soft and tender woman, who had been to wealth and dependence, while treading the prosperous path of life, suddenly rising in mental force to be the comfort and supporter under misfortune. At the time which has long twined its graceful foliage about the oak, and been lifted by it into sunshine, when the hardy oak is stricken by the thunderbolt, clinging around it with its caressing tendrils, and binding up its shattered boughs, so woman who is the dependent and ornament of man in his happier hours, should be his stay and solace when smitten with sudden and irretrievable calamity.

her sex known to her General and was PROTEST.—We most earnestly protest against any one entering our office during our absence and appropriating unto themselves our exchanges; for we have used for them, and find it unpleasant, when local items are scarce, to be compelled to get up a paper without exchanges; moreover, those who borrow exchanges without asking for them and forget to return them forget, also, the Divine commandment, and shall be in danger of being as muchly cursed by the printer as we feel like saying confound somebody, now!

We furthermore protest against any one looking over our shoulders to read our copy, when we are setting type; for it makes us feel like telling them that, by so doing, they exhibit an inexcusable curiosity; and furthermore, such conduct is likely to create in the minds of the printers the very uncomplimentary impression that the immediate ancestors of the individual who is guilty of it did not exercise a proper care in the early education of their offspring in the "science of good manners."

We furthermore earnestly protest against any one trying the philanthropic dodge upon our other visitors, by seeking to proselyte them to any of the new political doctrines and items of the day through indulgence in long and meaningless harangues, when we are busy at the "case;" for on such occasions the printers always feel like telling the speaker to "dry up;" moreover, we believe these political sea waves and tea waves are whirlpools—we know they are unconscionable bores, and we believe that men form their opinions from thinking and reading, that they are rarely ever edified, never benefited, and almost invariably insulted by these hysterical outbursts of imaginary eloquence and erudition. And still moreover, the printers have read the wise saying that "they who think they know the most always know the least," and are not slow to verify these tedious orators are the very ones that have been thus faintly described by the sage.

DEMOCRATIC TERRITORIAL CONVENTION.—The members of the Democratic Central Territorial Committee, have issued a call to the Democracy of Washington Territory, for a Convention to be held at Olympia, on Wednesday the 12th day of April, 1865, to select a Delegate to represent the Territory in Congress.

The representation of each County will be two Delegates to each Representative in the Territorial Legislature. The Committee recommends that the different counties hold their primary meetings, to choose Delegates to the Convention, at an early day. According to the representation allowed, the Democracy of this county will be entitled to eleven Delegates in the Territorial Convention.

INDICATIONS OF SPRING.—All the signs which have heretofore been brought forward as indications that the back-bone of winter was broken in this locality having failed, the "Judge"—taking courage, no doubt, on account of the mildness of the atmosphere for the past few days—offers the following, as a "sure sign":

The best and only infallible sign of the approach of spring in this locality is when the packers are to be seen in town, leading mules laden with new apparatus and sides of leather, preparing for the spring business. Our city for the past few days has been the theater of innumerable "signs" of the above character.

FAIGHTING.—There is promise of a very large amount of business for the packers and teamsters of the upper country the coming season. The Columbia and Kootenai mines will most likely draw off the majority of the pack trains from the Boise road, so that the teamsters will not lack for plenty to do on that road.

CHINESE MINERS.—According to the testimony of the "Chinese Agents," a very large immigration of Chinese miners may be expected in the upper country the coming season. They variously estimate the number from two to five thousand.

AUCTION.—Quartermaster Johnson will sell, at auction, in front of the Bank Exchange Saloon, in this city, to-morrow at 11 o'clock, a lot of pack-saddles, one horse-powder grist mill and a lot of saw-mill iron.

DR. LEW. BENGE has commenced the practice of his profession—Physician and Acoucheur—at his residence, on Cottonwood, near the foot of the mountains, about seven miles east of this city.

Messrs. Ben Hayward and Lew Day have been engaged this week in staking out the new road from Wallula to Riekey's Station, on Wild Horse Creek.

The Special School tax in this district will amount to about $1500 in legal tenders. It will be necessary to levy another tax before a school house can be built.

PERSONS from Wallula say the river is rapidly clearing from ice at that point.

THE POPULAR VOTE OF THE UNITED STATES.—The following, says the St. Louis Republican, of November 18th, is probably, from the returns, a pretty close approximation to the popular vote cast at the Presidential election throughout the United States:

Lincoln & Johnson, 1,950,000 McClellan & Pendleton, 1,700,000

Majority for Lincoln, 250,000
The President has hardly five per cent Majority on the total vote. For every hundred votes for Lincoln in the loyal States, there have been cast ninety-five for his Democratic competitor, and a large part of this excess was given in New England. In the Central, Western and border States, McClellan has some ninety-eight votes to Lincoln's one hundred, despite all the great advantages possessed by the latter, and which were powerfully and unscrupulously used.

ANOTHER JOKE.—Abraham can still get off a joke. He says in a message: you, why you are most oppressed with a debt which they owe themselves.

In other words, if you own a homestead worth one thousand dollars, and possess one thousand dollars in cash; and if you lend the thousand dollars to Abraham with which to operate against slavery, and Abraham gives you his note, as your agent, promising to pay you when he receives that amount in taxes from you, with a lien on your thousand dollar homestead, as ultimate security, then you can't be much oppressed, because you owe yourself the thousand dollars cash, and if Abraham can't get taxed enough out of you to pay your par homestead it is always full security for the amount. Of course, "men readily perceive" this, and feel perfect assurance that they can't be "much oppressed" by it, for, don't you see, whenever they begin to feel the pressure they can forgive themselves the debt, and—præsto, the lien is canceled.—Harrisburg Patriot.

LIARS.—The New York Tribune says: "That our currency has fallen into disrepute is not the most discouraging fact; we are most distressed by the leaden apathy wherewith this is accepted and submitted to, when it should be treated by the Executive, Congress and people precisely as a house on fire. The greenback that calls itself $5 is unconsciously a liar; it is really but a little over $2. And this, like all other lies, though it seems for the moment advantageous, it is a general mischief and detriment. The scheming, gaming may make by it, but the industrious many must lose." Quite a frank admission for the Tribune.

AN amusing fact occurred in New York on the late visit of Gen. Grant to that city. He took a hack to conduct him to his hotel. The driver, after depositing the General, gave his friends the following toast: "Here's to meef, Dennis Connelly, the biggest man in Ameriky but one. I've driven the Lieut. General of the United States, and its more than Bobby Lee ever did."

When we consider the number of human beings that die with Consumption every year, the importance of a medicine that will cure all pulmonary affections that tend to this complaint, and even to arrest the destroyer after he has indicated its presence in the system, must be admitted to be beyond all estimate. This wonderful power is claimed to be possessed by Allen's Lung Balm.
