Our Cabin on the Bar. From stranger dwellings distant wide, Midst sturdy, towering pines, Where thick stand cabins, side by side, The landing stars go down; Scarce two moons since, in my retreat, Far from the crowd and jar, We rested, in wood retirement sweet, Our cabin on the bar.

And from our six-paned window here, O'erlooking vale and town, We watch in moonlight, calm and clear, The landing stars go down; All ceased o'er with silver dew, All heavenward shining far, Proud mountain tops look down to view Our cabin on the bar.

Far, far removed from elder friends, From public haunts and noise, Ride strangers here unchallenged lands, The rugged mountain peaks no more, Though long loved ones here never rove, To cheer us from afar, And strange it seems, indeed we love Our cabin on the bar.

Our genial fire-place blazing bright, Lighted with vine-flower sheet, Our smoking pipes, and bright, Our saddened gaze to meet— All tending with unwearyed hand, To cheer our lonely hearts, Malignant papers rarely haunt Our cabin on the bar.

Fresh, steaming dainties never come, Crowned with conflicting fies, To cheer us in our mountain home, 'Neath the blue sky, and the sun, Of bar'ous men, bedivined in sin, Who hated bloody war, Ere we were treason we read, in Our cabin on the bar.

When new made friends do gather near, Our footstep's gladness we cheer, With orient tales of home land cheer, At quiet times, and in our quiet cheer, He turns his eyes to spin, Like some sea-faring tar, Loud rings the merry laughter in Our cabin on the bar.

With all arranged for batch for case— Lighted with vine-flower sheet, Where starch conventionalities, Their elements ne'er find— "Housework done up" a slighting strike, To quiet anxious friends concern, We wonder, would our sweethearts like Our cabin on the bar?

When we our wayward footsteps turn Homeward in future years, To quiet anxious friends concern, 'Mid joyful smiles and tears, Our lingering thoughts will often dwell Ere we were treason we read, in Our cabin on the bar. A. J. Duena Vista Bar, I. T.

Dog Fight in Frogtown. There is an excellent moral to the following story, which is told with great skill. It shows us how a whole village is sometimes torn to pieces by the quarrels of a dog. The most remarkable dog fight on record came off at Frogtown, on the frontier of Maine, some years ago. It engaged the entire community in one indiscriminate melee—interminable howling and snarling—distraction of the town, its downfall or ruin.

A fanciful genius, named Joe Tucker, a man about town, a lounger, never visible means of support—do-nothing, loafing, cigar-smoking, good natured fellow—was taking the dog, standing alongside a wood wagon, bounded on to Joe Tucker's dog—knocked him heels over head, and so frightened Bob Carter's wife, who was passing towards her husband's blacksmith shop with his dinner, that she stumbled backwards, and her old sun-bonnet blowing off, scared the horse attached to the wagon. He started, bit Luther's barber pole, upset a load of wood, all of which falling down Gumbo's retirement cellar, struck on the roof, and came down on the head of the short-time stone dead, and so alarmed Mrs. Gumbo that she dropped a stevedon of boiling hot oysters into the lap, instead of the dish of the customer who sat waiting for the savory repast by taking the dog, cornered, Gumbo rushed for the child; the customer for the door. Mrs. Gumbo screamed, the child screamed, and the customer yelled!

"Oh, oh! oh-oh-oh, my poor child!" cried Mrs. Gumbo. "Hee-ee-ee," screamed the poor child. "Oh, murderer-er! Oh, my everlasting eye, I'm scalded to the eternities! Murder, Murder!" roared the poor customer.

The horse, a part of the wagon, and some wood went to the mad career. The owner of the strange dog came out of the store just in time to see Joe Tucker seize a rock to demolish the savage dog; and not waiting to see Joe let drive, gave him such a bang on the back of the head, that poor Joe fell forty rods up street, and striking a long ladder upon which Jim Ederby was perched, pain-pelt in hand, some thirty feet from terra firma, brought ladder, Jim and paint-pot sprawling to the earth, crippling poor Jim for life, and sprinkling paint over the broad-clothes, sattinet and calicos of Abraham Miller, a formal and even-tempered Quaker, who ran out to the door just as the dogs had got fairly at it, hip and thigh, nip and catch. A glance at Mrs. Carter, the smith, coming up in time to hear the stranger's defiance to the town, and bent on a fight with somebody for the insult and damage done to his wife, clamped the collar of the stranger, and by a series of ten-pound upon the face, back and sides of his bully antagonist, which they warrant to be equal in quality to any manufactured on the coast. They also keep constantly on hand a stock of Wines and Liquors of the best brands, which they invite everybody to try and partake of at 12 1/2 cents a drink.

Joe Tucker's dog, reinforced by Abraham Miller's dog, took a fresh start, and between the two the strange dog was brought cruelly to his traps. Deacon Pugh, one of the most pious and substantial men in Frogtown, came up, and indeed, the whole town was assembling; and Deacon Pugh, armed with a heavy walking-stick, and shocked at the spectacle before him, marched up to the dogs, exclaiming as he did so:

"Fie, fie, for shame! disgraceful—you mean citizens of Frogtown, will you stand by and—"

"Don't you see, don't these strike my dog, Deacon Pugh?" cried Abraham Miller, advancing to Deacon, who was about to cut right and left with his cane.

"Your dogs?" shouted the Deacon with evident fervor.

"Not my dogs Deacon Pugh," said the Quaker. "If he did you say so for then?" shouted the Deacon.

"I never said dogs, Deacon Pugh."

"You did!" said Deacon Pugh with excitement.

"Deacon Pugh, this speaks grossly," said the Quaker.

"You tell a falsehood, Abraham Miller!"

"The Quaker utters a mendacious assertion," reiterated Abraham.

"You say you tell a lie!" bawled the Deacon.

"This has provoked my evil passion, Deacon Pugh," shouted the stalwart Quaker, and I will chastise thee."

"The Deacon's words went to the Quaker. The Deacon, nothing loth, entered into the ring, and we leave them thus "nip and tuck," to look at the stranger and Bob Carter, who fought and bit, and fit and fought, until Squire Catchem and Combs came up, and in a moment the Quaker preserved the peace and arrested the offenders, the Quaker was thrust into the window of a neighboring watchmaker, doing a heap of damage, while lawyer Hooker, in attempting to aid the constable, was hit in mistake by the furious blacksmith in the short ribs, and went reeling down Gumbo's cellar with frightful velocity. The friends and fellow churchmen of Deacon Pugh took sides against the Quaker antagonist, and the shop boys of Abraham, seeing their employer thus beset, came to the rescue, while two Irishmen, full of fun and frolic, believing it to be a free fight, tried their hands and sticks upon the combatants indiscriminately, so that in less than half an hour the happy village of Frogtown was shaken from its property by one good, sublimely ridiculous and most terrific battle. Heads-and-windows were smashed, children and women screamed, dogs barked, dust flew, labor ceased, and so furious, mad and excited became the whole community, that a quiet look-oner, if there had been any, would have sworn the evil ones were all in Frogtown.

A heavy thunder storm finally put an end to the row; the dogs were all more or less killed, a child severely wounded, a man scalded, a wagon broke, the horse ran himself to death, his owner beaten by Bob Carter, whose wife and the wives of many others were dangerously scared; the painter was crippled; dogs ruined; a Quaker and a Deacon, two Irishmen, Joe Tucker, town constable, lawyer Hooker, Squire Catchem, and some fifty others most shamefully whipped. Lawsuits ensued, feuds followed, and the entire peace and good repute of Frogtown annihilated—all by a remarkable dog fight.

Superstitions, Signs, Wonders and Tokens.

We have taken some pains, says the New York Phrenological Journal, to collect a few of the popular superstitions with which some otherwise very sensible people are afflicted, even in our country. Some of these are the veriest fancies of a wild imagination, without sense or sentiment, and none are founded on scientific principles. Such as they are, we present them to the reader, in the hope that well-balanced minds having higher standards by which to regulate and govern their actions, than anything herein laid down. Our comments are inclosed in brackets.

SNEEZE—If you sneeze on Monday, it indicates danger. Sneeze on Tuesday, you will meet a stranger; Sneeze on Wednesday, you will receive a letter; Sneeze on Thursday, you will get something better than sugar.

SNEEZE ON FRIDAY indicates sorrow; Sneeze on Saturday, you will have a bean tomorrow; Sneeze before you eat, you will have company before you sleep.

IF YOU SNEEZE before you are dressed, you will find your head before you go to rest. [Remember that, girls! We may add, physiologically, that sneezing is the premonition of a cold, which the wonder-loving have probably not discovered.]

WASH YOUR FACE—If a cat washes her face, you will have company before night. If you dream you catch fish, it is a sign you will make a good bargain, according to the size of the fish.

THE BROOM—If the broom is removed with the remainder of the household furniture, you will not be successful; but the broom must be burned while standing in the corner, being washed, to prevent the house taking fire.

IF YOU DROPPED a fork, if you connect one foot before the other, it is a sign that you will be disappointed.

DEATH IN THE FAMILY—The breaking of a mirror by any member signifies death in the family, but if while cutting you think of a winged cat, it will break the looking-glass.

IF YOU DROPPED a fork, if you connect one foot before the other, it is a sign that you will be disappointed.

account—it would bring you bad luck.

Let some one hand you the missing article through the window, or bring it at another door.

THE CAT—If you are moving from one house to another, never take a cat with you, or she will surely bring bad luck to your new home, whereas she will add luck to the old house, and those who move into it. [This supposes that you know all the rat and mice holes in the old house, but not in the new. Besides, you will probably find a cat already on the premises.]

SHOES AND DISH-WATER—Save the old shoes to throw after the carriage, when any of the family start on a journey; it will insure a safe return. [We should say our old shoes, these hard times, and put them to other use. Leather is leather; these days.] Never let your dish-water come to a boil, as every bubble brings bad luck to the family.

THE LAST LOOK—Never look after a friend who is leaving you until he is quite out of sight, or you may never see him or her again; but turn your eyes away while he is still visible, in order that you may see the safe return. [We should say our old shoes, these hard times, and put them to other use. Leather is leather; these days.] Never let your dish-water come to a boil, as every bubble brings bad luck to the family.

CHANGING HOUSERS—It is a bad sign if a sick person is removed from one room to another; they are sure to die sometime, if they are allowed to do so. [Think of the Libby prisoners. Would it endanger their lives, think you?]

DEATH—The "death-ticking" in the wall or bedstead is a solemn warning of death. [To the bugs, and dreaded by many; and yet the insect so called has a great fancy for old walls and old bedsteads (and tender young folks). The only remedy we can name for this, is to keep your beds and bedsteads clean.]

PLANTING IN THE MOON—Potatoes planted in the new moon will go chiefly to tops; but if planted in the old moon, they will bring large potatoes. Peas and cucumbers may be planted in the new moon, for their products are above ground. [Sensible people, however, plant their crops in the ground, rather than in the moon.]

POOK—It is said if hogs

DISCOURAGING FROM THE UPPER COLUMBIA.—A party (have not learned their names) arrived in town from the Kootenai mines this week.

MORE WINTER.—The snow has lain continuously on the ground since our last issue, and fresh falls have increased its depth to five or six inches—nearly, if not quite, as deep as it was at any time during the winter.

HON. C. D. SMITH took the oath and entered upon the duties of his office as Secretary and Acting Governor of Idaho, at Lewiston, on the 4th instant.

FROZEN.—A man, whose name we could not learn, started, last week, to go on foot from Uniontown to the Eagle Creek mines, become exhausted, laid down in the snow and was so badly frozen that he had to have a leg and arm amputated.

HIGH WATER.—High waters may be expected throughout the upper country this Spring. Those who probably know say that there is a greater depth of snow in the mountains now than there was in the winter of '61-2.

ACCORDING to the Oregon papers, the month of March was ushered in, in that State, by weather nearly as cold as it was here. Snow fell throughout the Willamette valley on the 1st. The storm extended from Puget Sound to California.

MESSRS. F. P. DUGAN and W. G. Langford arrived from below this week. From the making of laws they have now turned their attention to their execution.

NEW FERRY.—Mr. Michael Tormy has established a new Ferry on Snake river, on the route to Kootenai and Colville—five miles above Kellogg & McAniff's ferry.

NEW QUARTZ MILL.—The 12-stamp mill of the "Idaho Company" located at Rocky Bar, South Boise, was finished and went into operation early in January.

COLD.—At Burnt river, on Friday last, the mercury stood at 84 deg. below zero. In Grand Ronde Valley, same day, it stood at 32 deg. below zero.

At Eastern correspondent writes: I was in the room when Mr. Lincoln was told that McClellan had been nominated by the Chicago Convention. He tied his legs up in a knot, twisted his arms two or three times around the back of his chair, and said: "He is nominated, is he? McClellan always reminds me of a young man I knew in Athens, Illinois, who had a rooster he was very proud of."

Allen's Lung Balm. Many cases of Consumption have been restored to health by this remedy, after all other medicines had failed.

Well Worth the Reading. Homekeepers, if you wish to get Carpets, Floor Oil Cloths, Mattings, Window Shades, Paper Hangings, Table Covers, and all articles in the Carpet line at Eastern Prices, call where you can find the largest and best stock in the country.

WALLA WALLA LODGE, No. 7, A. F. and A. M. holds its regular meetings on the second and fourth Saturdays of each month.

Notice. THE UNDERSIGNED having lost a certain promissory note, dated March 1864, calling for the sum of one hundred and seventy-five dollars ($175.00) given to me by one F. Roeborn, whose signature is attached to the same, all persons are hereby warned against purchasing said note, as payment has been stopped.

A Merry Heart.
The wall to have a merry heart,
However short we stay;
There's wisdom in a merry heart,
Whate'er the world may say.
Philosophy may lift its head
And find out many a flaw;
But give me the philosophy,
That's happy with a straw!

If life but brings us happiness,
It brings us, we are told,
What's hard to buy though rich one's try,
With all their heaps of gold!
Then laugh away; let others say
Whate'er they will of mirth,
Who laughs the most may truly boast
He's got the wealth of earth!

There's beauty in a merry laugh,
A moral beauty too,
It shows the heart's an honest heart,
That's paid each man his due,
And gave a share of what's to spare,
Drope of wisdom's fears;
And makes the cheekless sorrow speak,
The eye weep fewer tears.

The sun may shroud itself in cloud,
The tempest wrath begin;
It finds a mark to clear the dark,
Its sunlight is within!
Then laugh away—let others say
Whate'er they will of mirth,
Who laughs the most may truly boast
He's got the wealth of earth!

Cut Out—It is many years since I fell in love with Jane Jerusha, the handsomest country girl by far that ever went on legs. By meadow, creek, and wood and dell, so often did we walk, and the moonlight spilled on her meeting lips, and the night winds learned our talk. Jane Jerusha was all to me, for my heart was young and true, and I loved with a double and twisted love, and a love that was honest, too. I roamed all over the neighbor's farms, and I robbed the wildwood bowers, and tore my trousers and scratched my hands in search of choicest flowers. In my joyous love I brought all these to my Jerusha Jane; but I wouldn't be so foolish now if I were a boy again. A city chap then came along, all dressed up in store clothes, with a shiny hat and a shiny vest, and a moustache under his nose. He talked to her of singing schools, (for her father owned a farm), and she left me the country for ever, and took the new chap's arm. I could not eat next day; for I loved that girl with a fervent love, that night could drive away. I strove to win her back to me; but it was all in vain—the city
chap, with the hairy lip, married Jerusha Jane. And my poor heart was sick and sore until the thought struck me that just as good fish remained as ever were caught in the sea.
So I went to the Methodist Church one night, and saw a dark brown curl peeping from under a gipsy hat, and I married that very girl. And many years have passed and gone, and I think my loss may gain;
I often bliss that hairy chap that stole Jerusha Jane.

THE SECRET—"I noticed," says Dr.
Franklin, "a mechanic, among others, at work on a house erecting but a little way from my office, who had a kind word and cheerful smile for every one he met. Let the day be ever so cold and gloomy, a happy smile danced like a sunbeam on his cheerful countenance. One morning I asked him to tell me the secret of his happy flow of spirits. 'My secret, Doctor,' he replied, 'is that I have got one of the best of wives, and when I go to work she always has a kind word of encouragement for me, and when I go home she meets me with a smile and a kiss, and then tea is sure to be ready, and she has done so many little things throughout the day to please me, that I cannot find it in my heart to speak an unkind word to anybody.' What an influence, then, hath woman over the heart of man, to soften it and make it the fountain of cheerful and pure emotion! Speak gently, then; a happy smile and a kind word of greeting, after the toils of the day cost nothing and go far towards making a home happy and peaceful."

FOOT'S LAST—"The following is Senator
Foot's last speech in the rebel Senate:
"Sir, I have spoken out my views frankly and explicitly, and now I wish to say to this house that the course of events here and elsewhere has been such that I shall deem it a duty which I owe alike to my own character and to the principles which I have heretofore steadily maintained, to withdraw from this body altogether. I am a freeman, and the representative of freemen, and I know not how to legislate in chains. I will no longer be responsible for measures adopted in secret sessions of this body, which my whole soul abhors and my whole understanding condemns. This is, perhaps, the last time that I will address this body, or discuss the questions here under consideration. I shall withdraw to some sequestered spot, where I can enjoy some little repose and freedom from taxation. If disturbed in my retreat by the hand of oppression, I will see in foreign climes the freedom and happiness
which I consider is denied me here."

A RASHFUL youth was lamenting to his paternal progenitor the ordeal of popping
the question.
"Popp," said the patriarch, "how do you suppose I managed?"
"You'd better talk," responded the hopeful, "you married mother, and I've got to marry a strange gal."

"In Cork," said O'Connell, I remember a superannuated currier, who had been put in the place of an invalid, trying to disperse
the crowd by exclaiming, with stentorian voice, "All ye backguards that isn't lawyer, lawe the presence of the Court or I'll make yees by the powers."

THE NEW ARTISAN well at Chicago is said to discharge a greater quantity of water than any other well in the world, throwing out 576,000 gallons per day—the celebrated well at Grenelle, near Paris, discharging only 500,000 gallons per day.

HE MUST HAVE BEEN—It is well known that the Philosopher Thales believed water to be the first principle. Query: Was Thales a milkman?

"Give us the man who whistles and sings
at his work," says a hygienic philosopher.
"The devil take such a workman," says the printer.

LILLIE'S LOCK OPENED
"In One Minute."
New York, September 4, 1864.

F. TILMAN, Esq., 418 Battery street,
Bet. Commercial and Clay, San Francisco.

DEAR SIR: We notice an advertisement in your daily paper respecting the "security" of the "Lillie" lock, and we are aware that you will understand this lock, and of course, will not allow yourself to be annoyed by such representations. We have just sent for one of our men at the factory, and he,
in our presence, opened one of Lillie's best safe locks in about ONE MINUTE. We send you this lock that your friends may not be deceived by false representations, etc. Especially, etc. A. E. TILTON, LYCE
W. McFARLAND.

By one Blow of the Hammer
Against the knob on the outside, and thereby breaking the cast iron bolt inside.
The whole time occupied in opening the lock was about ONE MINUTE. We send you this lock that
your friends may not be deceived by false representations, etc. Especially, etc. A. E. TILTON, LYCE
W. McFARLAND.

NO PRACTICAL
Lock Picker or Thimble Rigger
Required to OPERATE THE SAID LILLIE LOCK.

Any parties desiring of seeing the above mentioned lock, its insecurity and easy mode of opening the same, can call at

GLOUCESTER, March 26, 1864.
Messrs. TILTON & McFARLAND,
Sole Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen, From representations made by Mr Lillie, I was induced to purchase one of his
"So Called "Fire-Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last, a fire occurred in our block which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the opening of the safe was taken from the ruin, and so it was found that Everything had been destroyed.

We send you the safe, with what is left of the paper, and you will see that not one of them is legible or strong enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we sent Messrs. McFarland & Henry just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make), and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition.
This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H. Cellar—such as lard, pork, etc., their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the clothing business and had but little in the cellar. There was another of Lillie's safes here subjected to the same fire, failing, however, no better than ours. Very respectfully, your obedient servants. [Signed:—] GEO. L. CHIESBRO & CO.

TILTON & McFARLAND'S
THE ONLY PROTECTION
Against Fire and Burglars.

For the last Fifteen Years
This Safe has been well known in California and the Eastern States. They have resisted all the fires on the Pacific Coast, and we can point with satisfaction to the record that No man ever lost a dollar out of one of our safes by means of burglars. Their fire and burglar proof qualities are so well known that they need no further recommendation.

A good assortment of Tilton & McFarland's Fire and Burglar Proof Safes to be had at 318 Battery street, San Francisco.

Drugs and Medicines.
We invite the particular attention of the trade to our present large and well-assorted stock in this line,
and to our extra facilities for supplying them at very low rates,—importing as we do, Direct from European Markets.
Extra pains will be taken to secure reliable medicines, and in no case will a worthless article be allowed to leave the store.

will be successfully treated at our Hospital,
On Reasonable Terms.

The climate of Walla Walla valley is the most healthy on this coast, and persons in declining health who have failed to secure benefit elsewhere are earnestly advised to visit this place, and if they require medical treatment, we will furnish them a place to remain during their stay, and will do all that skill
and science can do to restore them to health.
