The Naval Battle of the Future. The question of how a naval battle would now be fought is often raised, but is exceedingly difficult to answer. One thing is certain—the hostile squadrons will be kept in rapid motion for the purpose of eluding, as well as evading an attack by ram, which will be the first object sought after.

Death of Wm. H. Tweed. Last Hours of the "Boss." "Tilden and Fairchild have killed me." New York, April 12.—A telegram received at the sheriff's office stating Wm. H. Tweed died in his room in Ludlow street jail, at noon to-day.

Mrs. Gaines' Fortune. The Wonderful Struggles of a Wonderful Woman. Mrs. Myra Clark Gaines is being begged to death. She gets letters asking for charity, and thousands of needy and disappointed office-seekers hang around Mrs. Gaines' hotel, and follow after her along the streets, hoping to pick up the gold coin she is supposed to have, and which her proverbial generosity would induce her to strew broadcast, did she possess them.

Old Faithful. Argus was an old watch-dog, and belonged to a farmer's family in Albany, N. H. Having long out-lived his usefulness (as it was presumed,) his owner had determined to put him out of the way, and had several times disposed of him, they thought, but he had always returned to them alive and well.

Wax is generated in the bodies of bees at will, oozing out between the scales of their abdomen in little plates no larger than the tip of a pin's head. When bees are engaged building rapidly, the floor-board is often thickly sprinkled with wax scales which have fallen from the workmen's mouths.

WILD MEN.—In the Island of Rio there are wild men who live in trees, and have no language but cries; and in Sumatra, the residents of Palembang said there were men who lived in the forests, with whom not only the Europeans but the Malays could have no intercourse. He himself had never seen one.

THE TRUE GENTLEMAN.—"He is above a low act. He cannot stoop to commit a fraud. He invades no secret in the keeping of another. He takes self-advantage of no man's mistakes. He is ashamed of innumerable. He uses no ignoble weapons in controversy. He never stabs in the dark. He is not one thing to a man's face and another to his back. If by accident he comes into possession of his neighbor's counsel, he passes them into instant oblivion. He bears sealed packages without tampering with the wax. Papers not meant for his eye, whether they flutter in at his window, or lie open before him in unguarded exposure, are secret to him. He professes no privacy of another's home, and enters the sentry sleeps. Bolts and bars, locks and keys, bonds and securities, notices to trespassers, are not for him. He may be trusted out of sight—near the thickest partition—anywhere. He buys no office, he sells none, intrigues for none. He would rather fail of his rights than win them through dishonor. He will eat honest bread. He tramples on no sensitive feelings. He insults no man. If he has a rebuke for another he is straightforward, open, and manly. He cannot descend to sordidness. He is not to be bought. He is scrupulous. He is not to be bought. He is scrupulous. He is not to be bought. He is scrupulous.

Blundered at Every Step.—Hayes at the time we speak of, had ears of corn on one of his shelves, some of which hung down against the side of the room. The owner of the house saw one day, one of his cats, which we will call number one, standing upon the steps of a ladder near the suspended ears, watching them sharply. After a while the cat came down the ladder, went out of the room and returned, a while after, with the other cat, which we will call number two, and which took its position under the suspended ears. Number one then went up the ladder; stopped again opposite the suspended ears, and after a little careful observation sprang from the ladder upon them, when a rat dropped from the ears to the floor, to be caught by number two, there waiting for it.

Several holes were charged in a drift in a gold hill mine. One blast failed to go off. One of the miners was ordered to go off and see what the matter was. "No, sir," he said firmly; "I was blown up in California wance that way, an' I'd rather lave me work than be kilt agin."

A MESSIAH rebuked a South Sea Islander for polygamy, whereas the heathen was very much grieved. In a day or two he came back to the missionary, with a face radiant with joy. "Me very good christian now," said he; "one wife." "What did you do with the other?" asked the missionary, "Me eat her up."

His Newspaper Contributions. He was a friend of mine and used frequently to drop in and give me advice as to how I ought to run my paper. He was a minister, and consequently thought I should devote it a little more to the cause of religion, and not quite so much to politics. He said it could be made a power for good in the western land, in which we had both cast our fortunes. He was a lover of original, too, and said he disliked to see reprint, and thought I might write more—take the time, in fact, to fill the paper right up with good, new stuff. It seemed such an easy thing for him that one day I ventured to say: "Brother, you had a glorious meeting at the school-house last night, I hear—suppose you write it up for me?" He didn't seem to act as though he wanted to. I urged. He flushed a little, and stood around, awkward like. He had never been honored with an invitation to write for the press before. I still urged. Then he took off his gloves, and his hat. Then I gave him a seat at the table with paper and pencil. He sat down to editorial work. He was always talking about how it should be done, and now he was at it. He started in. I went about my work, and having written a column or two of matter for the week's paper, left him still writing, while I went out to solicit some advertisements. I was gone an hour or two, and when I came back he was still at it. He was sweating awfully. The table and floor was white with copy paper, and the pencil in his hand was much diminished in length. I went to dinner. When I returned he was at it yet. The pencil was shorter and he was wetter. It was summer. The hours dragged along into the middle of the afternoon. Great coils stood out on the preacher's heated brow. His eyes were bent on the dazzling white paper before him, and his fingers moved nervously, and the pencil was a stub. I began to grow frightened. I knew I had only a small weekly paper, and that its fourteen columns of space (one side was a patent inward) would not hold the contents of the Bible, and supplemental messages from heaven besides. At last the man looked up, and timidly advancing with a piece of paper in one hand, suddenly went back to change a word. Then he came on again, and like one who had passed through a vision, held out the paper and feebly asked: "Will that do?" I looked. There was just seven lines of it, advertising measure. He was a large man weighed over 300 pounds then, but when I see him, three weeks later, he weighed less than 125. He had been sick. The seven-line-nine-hour effort was too much for him. But it was not all lost. He never advised an editor again. Never did he compose for a paper again. It was hard work for him to write, and he saw he was not cut out for an editor. LIFE is a good deal like a grab-bag, after all. Sometimes merit is taken by the hand and told to come in out of the cold, but not always. It's the exception, not the rule. The great benefactors of mankind have been but rarely appreciated or requited, while the Fourth-of-July fellows have carried off the honors and honorees. What a sad commentary it is upon civilization to admit that the man who gave soft soap to the world is still sleeping in an unmarked grave. A NEGRO MAN living near Bashi, Ala., was shot in a singular manner some time ago. He was acting as a wizard, and imagined that by certain evolutions, gestures, or articulations, he could surround his body with a magic armor that would be impregnable to shot or ball. Two young negro men and a white man fired a few shots at him without injury, when one of the negroes fired at him again and shot him down. He died in about a week. There was a negro marriage in Talladega, Ala., recently, and a few minutes after the ceremony had been performed a rejected suitor of the bride threw his arms around her neck and, in the progress of a number of persons, indicated upon her eight or nine stabs, from which she died almost instantly. He then mounted the court-house steps and proclaimed, "I doo it; hang me, or kill me just as you please, only bury me by Liza's side." A YOUNG MAN in Austin, Nevada barber shop was particular about having his mustache nicely performed. "Going to call on a young lady, I suppose?" the barber asked. The young man with much dignity, replied: "See here, my friend, do you suppose I put perfume on my mustache because I'm going to see a man, or a boy, or an old woman, or a lady in arms? Do men gather grapes of thorns or figs of thistles?" One of the discoveries made by the latest Arctic explorers is that the length of the polar night is 145 days. Nice of place, this, to walk home with a girl, on New Year's eve, and find that the old people have locked up the house and gone to watch-meeting, and won't be home till after midnight. Several holes were charged in a drift in a gold hill mine. One blast failed to go off. One of the miners was ordered to go off and see what the matter was. "No, sir," he said firmly; "I was blown up in California wance that way, an' I'd rather lave me work than be kilt agin."

When bees are engaged building rapidly, the floor-board is often thickly sprinkled with wax scales which have fallen from the workmen's mouths. Each bee generates two scales at a time, and is unable to do so on scanty diet, but must feed liberally on honey during the time. The consumption of honey is very great when wax production is going on. Liebig was of opinion that twenty pounds of honey were required to manufacture one pound of wax.

A CLOTHIER has excited public attention by having a large apple painted on his sign. When asked for an explanation he inquired: "If it hadn't been for an apple, where would be the ready-made clothing stores to-day?"

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION. The returns of the election of delegates to the constitutional convention, as they slowly come in, show that less than one-fifth the actual voters in the territory took part in the election.

RAILROADS.—For years this has been a fruitful subject for agitation; oceans of ink have been expended in the construction of railroads, and still they have an existence only on paper.

INTERNAL REVENUE TAXES for the ensuing year will be due on the first day of May, next. The law is very strict in its provisions that they shall be paid before engaging in any business requiring payment of such tax.

BECHER AND TILTON.—This sickening scandal, which, to a great extent, had died out, has been revived. Mrs. Tilton, in order to ease her conscience, as she puts it, having made a supplemental confession, in which she admits that her relations with Becher were of a criminal character.

A PREGNANT DECISION.—The supreme court of Louisiana ordered the release of Anderson on the ground that he could not be punished for forging the consolidated return of Vernon county, of which offense he was convicted, since no consolidated return was provided for by law.

COMING EVENTS.—There is a constant undercurrent of talk in well-informed circles in Washington, that if the democrats control the next House and Senate, they will oust Hayes from office.

THE STATE CONSTITUTION.

Table with columns: Name, District, Votes. Lists names like S. W. Walla, N. W. Walla, etc.

In addition to the above, some 6 or 8 scattering votes were cast.

THE LENTEN SEASON.—The New York Herald calls attention to the modifications of the olden time limitation regarding the Lenten programme of bill of fare.

SECRETARY EVANIS seems to maintain a cheerful frame of mind. At Omaha, recently, when interviewed by a press reporter, he said that "the greatness of the people were in sympathy with the administration, but that their sentiments were not represented through leading politicians in congress, or through a majority of the press."

PUBLIC SURVEYORS.—Mr. A. M. Thompson, U. S. Surveyor, starts his assistants and camp equipage to-day for the section of country watered by the Cassia creek and Red, where he has a contract for surveying several townships.

A CONFESION.—Mrs. Theodore Tilton has at last confessed her sin, and fully implicates Henry Ward Becher in all that was charged against him.

PRESIDENT'S STOCK.—We have just received from San Francisco full stocks of Paper and Card Boards, such as will meet the wants of country printers.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, April 4, 1878. EDITOR STATESMAN.—The river and harbor appropriation bill, now in the hands of the House committee on commerce, will be made to cover a less amount than usual.

Hon. Montgomery Blair's resolution, which was passed by the Maryland legislature, is a topic of general discussion. The attorney general of the state is by it directed to show to the supreme court of the United States the fact that Maryland was, by reason of frauds in other states, deprived of her just and constitutional influence in the electoral college in 1876.

I have never doubted that Mr. Tilden was elected, and was swindled out of his seat, and that whenever the case could be properly brought before the supreme court, he would get his rights, and have not hesitated, as your files will show, to suggest methods of action.

Senator Eaton, who was chairman of a committee investigating the freedmen's hospital in this district, has presented a report, showing that all the serious charges made against the management, were unfounded. There is something singular in the persistence with which secretary Schurz has sought to remove the officers of this institution.

MR. CHARLES NEWELL, son of Wm. H. Newell, of the Walla Walla Statesman, arrived here on Saturday from Washington City, D. C., where he has been engaged for the past four years in duties connected with the government printing office.

THE ELECTION appears to have passed off very quietly. Returns have come in very slowly, and nothing can be told as to the result. Even in the council district of Thurston and Lewis, the vote has not been ascertained so that it is difficult to know whether Mr. Allen or Mr. Henry is the successful candidate.

IN MEMORIAM. To Mrs. Wm. L. Holbrook and Members of the Family.—The Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren of Walla Walla Lodge, No. 7, F. & A. M., in business and sympathy in your sad bereavement in your loss of a kind husband and to us a true brother, desire (through our committee) in feebleness to express the feeling of this Lodge in the death of Brother William L. Holbrook.

WHEELS, It has pleased the Supreme Architect of the Universe to remove from our midst, by the hand of death, Brother WILLIAM L. HOLBROOK.

Resolved, That our Lodge has lost a faithful member, his church a consistent follower of the religion he professed, his wife a kind, kind and indulgent father, and the country a worthy and exemplary citizen.

ATTENTION! THE BEST PUMP MANUFACTURED on the Pacific Coast by A. Prescott, Salem, Oregon, I saw in this vicinity putting in that celebrated Pump which has been in constant use from the coast in the Willamette valley, and is acknowledged to be the best in use.

The Best Farmer's Pump. Having made a thorough trial of two different pumps, that have been prominently before the public of Oregon, for some time past, I give my experience as follows: Mr. A. Prescott put in one of his wood pumps, in a well 46 feet deep, on the hillside near Salem, which has not been in operation one year and a half, and has operated perfectly all that time, never getting out of order in Summer or Winter, and working with ease at all times, not requiring more than two strokes to bring water after being tramped for weeks at a time.

We are constantly receiving verbal orders and cards like the following, which we can produce if necessary. Read it with care: SILVERTON, April 11th, 1878.

Mr. A. Prescott—I would like another of your pumps, as I have two of them now and they fill the bill. I have one of the Magic Pump in its place, for the Magic Pump is not so good as yours, and I have had it thoroughly acquainted with the public men of the nation, and particularly with the representatives and representative men of the Pacific coast.

WOMERS, Oregon, April 2d, 1878. Dear Sir—I have one of Middelburg's Magic Pumps in my well for house use, and I don't like it. I write you to know what you would charge me cash in hand to put one of your pumps in for me. The well is 25 feet and 3 inches from the under side of the ground.

D. HIGGINS, Esq., editor of the Seattle Intelligencer, is visiting Walla Walla valley for the first time. Mr. Higgins is accompanied by his wife and child. We trust that our citizens will do every thing they can to make their visit pleasant.

DR. H. G. MANZIEY will remove his office to the building on Third street, lately occupied as a photograph gallery, and nearly opposite the STATESMAN office. Dr. Manzey is fast stepping into his old business, and is regarded as one of the most skillful physicians in the country.

HON. FRANK HENRY, a gentleman well known to many of our citizens, has been elected to represent Thurston county in the constitutional convention. He was elected over J. L. Allen, U. S. Attorney for Washington territory, and regarded as one of the most popular men in his party.

UNITARIAN CHURCH.—The Sunday school of Unity Church will hold an Easter floral festival, to consist of recitations and hymns, next Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock. Subject of exercises, "Immortality." All are cordially invited. A collection for the Sunday school will be taken up.

DR. STERNBERG will lecture on Tuesday evening next, on "The Fossil Horse of Washington territory; its origin and its contemporaries," illustrated by the skeleton and fossils collected during Dr. Sternberg's recent expedition. Admission, 25 cents, for the benefit of the Science Association. Lecture commences at 8 o'clock.

D. C. IRELAND, Esq., editor of the Astorian, is making a general tour of the Eastern country, and is now at Walla Walla, where he seems to be enjoying himself in the company of congenial spirits. Mr. Ireland, in the course of his travels, has gained a vast deal of information that will be useful to him in writing for his paper.

COL. WILSON, engineer in charge of the surveys for the canal at the Cascades, lectured before the Scientific Association, Tuesday evening, on an attentive and appreciative audience. His subject was "Canals in general, and the Cascades canal in particular." The lecture was polite with interest, and embraced much information new to his auditors.

MEETING SCHEDULE.—Prof. E. P. Connor will continue a class in penmanship, this afternoon, at 4 o'clock, at the school house in district No. 1. Also a class at 7 o'clock this evening. The Professor comes highly recommended by L. L. Ireland, superintendent public instruction in this important branch, which need not fall to the ground.

GROVER BROS. have been very successful in selling pianos and organs, since they commenced operating in this territory, having sold about 150 in all. J. W. Gardner, the senior partner, after spending several weeks with us, has returned to Salem, to attend to their business in Oregon. Both the ladies have made a highly favorable impression upon our citizens, and are held in high esteem.

THE PLUMMER FRUIT DRYER. We understand that the right to manufacture the Plummer fruit dryer has been bought by an association of gentlemen. The parties interested are Messrs. Curtis & Page, dealers in agricultural implements; Messrs. Cates & Troup, iron founders, and Mr. Wm. O'Donnell, dealer in stores and hardware. These gentlemen have ample capital, and will put the fruit dryers upon the market at figures that will place them within the means of fruit growers generally.

THE IRON FOUNDRY. We are pleased to learn that Messrs. Cates & Troup, proprietors of the iron foundry, are kept constantly employed and that the business is more than up to their expectations. The proprietors have bought the right to manufacture Plummer's fruit dryers, and notwithstanding crops will be a partial failure this season, we are satisfied that the manufacture of these machines will eventually become an important feature of their trade.

BOX CHAIRS. H. MONTGOMERY is just in from Colville. He reports everything in that neighborhood quiet. The ware of immigration has not yet reached that valley, but is fast approaching the vicinity. The Four Lake country is not now attracting the attention of immigrants, and when the best land is taken up, the current will naturally drift toward Colville valley. Mr. Montgomery reports the Colville merchants as doing a fair trade and the general outlook encouraging.

DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.—The democrats of Oregon go into the canvass with the following ticket: For congress, John Whitaker; governor, W. W. Thayer; secretary of state, Mr. Reavis; treasurer, A. H. Brown; state printer, A. N. Nolter; superintendent of public instruction, Mr. Emery. The nomination of John Whitaker for congress, is the best that could have been made, and will give great strength to the ticket. Judge Thayer, for governor, is an excellent selection, and altogether it is a strong ticket.

HEAVY FROSTS.—Sunday and Monday nights of this week Walla Walla valley was visited by heavy frosts that almost destroyed the fruit crops on the low grounds. The orchards of Philip Ritz, Frank Orsell, and others of less importance in the immediate neighborhood of town were literally blasted as though swept by fire, and as far as this year's product is concerned will be barren. All the orchards in the lower grounds are more or less injured, and the damage to the valley is estimated at many thousands of dollars. Back toward the mountains the injury is slight, and most likely the orchards along the foot hills will furnish an abundance of fruit for home consumption. Mr. W. S. Gilliam reports his fruit trees on the hill-sides escaped injury. Down along Dry Creek the trees are more or less injured. Mr. W. M. Shelton, living near the foot of the mountains, reports his trees as almost free from damage. In the town and neighborhood the lowest trees suffered greatly and the young foliage has the appearance of having passed through fire. At first it was supposed that the damage was universal, but after time for investigation, it is found to be only partial. The experience of this year, as of previous years, goes to show that the cultivation of fruit in the lower part of the valley will always be uncertain. Fruit men in localities of this character will hereafter turn their attention to other branches of industry.

NORTHWESTERN STAGE CO.—After a service of nearly eight years, during which time not a single trip has been missed, nor the mails in a single instance delayed, the great overland mail contract is about to pass into other hands. While the new contractors are men of great energy, and are blessed with abundant means, and are thus in a position to successfully carry out the terms of their contract, still the people of this locality regret the necessity that compels them to part with the present contractors. It is exceedingly rare to find an organization, and more particularly what might be termed a monopoly, where the employees, as a rule, are so universally respected as those of the Northwestern Stage Co. Always courteous, ever attentive to the wants of the travelling public, and, above all, thoroughly familiar with their business, these gentlemen have to a great extent robbed stage travel of many of its disagreeable features. Liberal in the use of money where the public interest demanded it, the company has expended many thousands of dollars in maintaining in good order old roads and in the opening of new ones; an investment that has proved of great benefit to the country at large. In the formation of the new company we trust that Messrs. Gilmer & Saultsbury will see the necessity of retaining in their present positions the employees of the Northwestern Stage Co. In this speaking we are but giving voice to the almost universal sentiment of the people of this locality; and we believe this wish is shared by all the communities touched by the present stage line.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—We have favorable reports from both the upper and lower district schools. The teachers now employed are faithful and attentive to their duties, and give general satisfaction. At present, we deem it the duty of the friends of education to aid the district schools in all proper ways, and if possible give them a higher character. A grammar or high school is desirable, but with the school law as it was bungled by the last legislature, and the limited revenue for school purposes, it seems impossible to secure a school of the character desired. The district schools can, however, be improved, and to this end the friends of popular education should devote their energies. If means can be obtained to enlarge the lower district school room, the directors will employ an additional teacher, and have the scholars classified. In this way, the advantages of a graded school can be obtained at a trifling outlay, and the children of the district will enjoy advantages heretofore denied them. In matters of this kind, it is always best to keep the attainable in view, and whilst wishing for better things, do the best we can. This is the wise rule in private affairs, and it will work equally well in all that relates to the public schools.

A CHANGE.—Changes are not always improvements, but the change that has come over Walla Walla within the past three years is certainly an improvement. A few years since it was common subject of remark that the town was cursed by the presence of a class of people whose whole object in life seemed to be to disseminate scandal. The purer the life of a man or woman, the more surely were they made the victims of scandal mongers. These busy bodies had their day, and to the extent of their mean abilities they improved it. At last the town has outgrown this condition of affairs, and to a great extent these backbiters and defamers of private character have sought other fields of operation. Our citizens now have something else to do besides listening to assaults upon character, and lacking encouragement the parties who formerly fattened upon slime and filth now keep out of sight. Old settlers who return after an absence of several years notice this change, and even those who have remained here constantly feel as they walk abroad that the air is purer than formerly, and that a moral influence is abroad that checks the slanderer in his work of defamation.

THOMAS BULLOCK, an inmate of the Steilacoom asylum from this county, returned a few days ago, entirely restored to health. He reports that under the management of Dr. Rufus Willard, the medical superintendent, the patients receive much better treatment and attention than formerly, and that the asylum may now be considered a credit to the territory. He, however, complains that the subordinates are at times tyrannical and cruel. The superintendent in all suitable ways endeavors to check this petty tyranny, and altogether faithfully cares for the unfortunate committed to his keeping.

ATTACHED.—We regret to learn that the family of our friend, Hon. Thos. P. Page, are sorely afflicted. For over a week Mr. Page has been suffering from a severe attack of pneumonia, the greater portion of the time being confined to his bed. Mrs. Page is also seriously ill, and so both the heads of the family are down at the same time. The whole community will sympathize with our friends in their sickness, and we trust that they will soon be restored to the enjoyment of health.

CRICKETS.—Reports reach us that the Boise valley will this year produce an abundant crop of these highly destructive insects, the country being in many portions literally covered with them. What with heavy frost and crickets our mountain friends will find it difficult to make much headway this year in an agricultural point of view. But they need not suffer, as we can produce enough to supply their wants, and the balance of mankind for that matter.

A NUISANCE.—Property holders in the neighborhood of Fourth and Poplar streets complain of the cows that roam about that locality, and break into the gardens and destroy shrubbery. The writer has been greatly annoyed in this way, and unless a check is put upon the nuisance, may be induced to lend his aid in enforcing the "pound law." It is all well enough to keep cows, but it is scarcely the thing to graze them in other peoples' yards.

ADAMS BROS. remodel their card this week and call attention to their immense stock of spring and summer goods. Mr. W. P. Adams is now in San Francisco, and is constantly buying and forwarding all the latest styles and most fashionable varieties of goods ever brought to their stock one of the finest ever brought to this valley. Strangers as well as citizens will find it to their interest to call and examine the new spring and summer stock, all to be sold at the lowest prices.

T. HANAFORD, Esq., is now publisher of the Seattle Intelligencer, having succeeded Mr. Higgins in control of the paper. Mr. Hanaford is a good writer, but has never been a "blower" for the local railroad.

J. T. MILLER.—Most of the early settlers of this valley will remember the gentleman whose name heads this paragraph as the man who, by his energy and indomitable will, made the overland mail service between Salt Lake and the Dalles not only possible but successful. In 1864, at a time when the savages were waging a bloody war along the entire length of the route, Ben Holladay, who, at that day, was the contractor, having almost despaired of being able to perform the service, out of his army of employees, selected Mr. Miller as the best qualified to take charge of and free the route from all obstacles. Mr. Holladay was not mistaken in his man. The mails were carried, and from that day to this there has been maintained an uninterrupted mail communication with the Eastern and Western States. An achievement fraught with so much good is worthy of recognition, and as Mr. Miller, having secured the mail contract between this place and Colfax and Colville, contemplates making his home with us, we trust our citizens will honor themselves by extending "Uncle Jake" a generous welcome.

OUR ENTERPRISING MERCHANTS are making great preparations for a brisk spring and summer trade, by laying in an immense supply of new goods. In a single shipment Schwabacher Brothers have received fifty tons of freight, consisting only of dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes, and their mammoth establishment is hardly large enough to accommodate their fast increasing business. Their jobbing trade extends to all parts of Oregon, Washington and Idaho territories and British Columbia, supplying the different stores and trading posts, while their shelves and counters are filled with the choicest of goods bought in immense quantities direct from importers and manufacturers, thereby enabling them to sell them at astonishingly low figures, much to the astonishment of our new comers, who are expected to pay higher prices than Schwabacher Brothers ask for their goods. Give them an early call and inspect their immense new arrival of goods.

EXPLANATORY.—Several friends have objected to the controversy in relation to certain alleged cases of "small pox" that has been carried on through the columns of the STATESMAN. This matter is easily explained. At first the statements were published as matter of news, but when the controversy assumed a personal character, it was simply a matter of business, over which we assumed no control. The medical gentlemen concerned could have had their statements published in respectable newspapers any where, and under the circumstances we had no right to deny them the use of our columns. It is no unusual thing to find publications of the very same character in such papers as the N. Y. Herald, Times, etc., and where such journals lead it is no discredit for the country press to follow.

OREGON POLITICS.—Portland papers of the 17th, express the opinion that Dave Thompson is likely to be the republican candidate for governor. Thompson is an admirable fence-straddler, and is just the man to unite both factions of the party. To Mitchell he was indebted for his appointment as governor of Idaho, and in return for this favor he is a great admirer of the outgoing senator. Dave, too, is fortified in another quarter. He is understood to be a one-fifth owner in the Oregonian, and inasmuch as it is impossible to elect a republican without the influence of that great paper, this will count largely in his favor. These are the little scenes behind the curtain, and yet they serve to give the people an idea of the influences that control in the nomination of candidates.

SCHOOL LANDS.—The manner in which school lands have been leased out is scarcely creditable to the financial acumen of our county authorities. As an illustration of the way these things are managed we cite the case of a quarter section of land within half a mile of the city that is leased for an annual payment of eight dollars. This land is all seeded in wheat, and at a moderate estimate will yield 40 bushels to the acre. A little figuring will show the real value of this land. One hundred and sixty acres, at 40 bushels to the acre, shows 6400 bushels. This grain at 50 cents a bushel represents $3200. Cost of production 25 cents a bushel, leaving to the man who leases the land a clear profit of $1600. That is to say, land that yielded a clear yearly revenue of $1600 is leased out by the county for the paltry sum of eight dollars. This may be financial wisdom, but we fail to see it.

A MAMMOTH GRAIN FIELD.—Yesterday we enjoyed a drive in the country, and right on the outskirts of the town our attention was attracted to a field of grain embracing two thousand acres, all in the same enclosure. This magnificent field is owned by Dr. Baker, and it is estimated will yield at the rate of 30 bushels to the acre, a total of 60,000 bushels. The grain is at now stands in the field looks very fine, and if nothing unfortunate happens, much of it will yield 50 and 60 bushels to the acre. All this is "bench land," and a few years since was regarded as only useful for grazing purposes. Now it is known to be the best grain producing land in the valley.

FUN AHEAD.—Should that already bad smelling, mythical body, termed the constitutional convention, ever assemble, it is consoling to find one man who will rise above the average dead level of stupidity. We allude to Frank Henry, of Thurston county, who in his way is the wittiest man in Washington territory. Inasmuch as the convention is to meet at Walla Walla, this is consoling.

GEN. CAIN feels slighted. The idea that in his old home he should fail to receive a single vote for delegate, is in the last degree humiliating. Gen. Cain was a candidate at large, and our people feared that at this season of the year it was scarcely the thing to let him run at large. This is the apology for a seeming neglect, and we trust the old hero will receive it in a proper spirit.

JOHN WHITEAKER, democratic candidate for congress, was the first governor of Oregon under the state constitution, and all agree that he was the best as well as the most honest governor the state ever had. His election to congress is certain. The only question being his majority.

THE SALEM PUMP.—Read the card in relation to the Salem Pump, to be found in another column. The certificates show that these pumps are highly endorsed by those who have used them, and this certainly is a conclusive test.

CHEEKY.—To induce a printer to stop hurried work to fill a small order for printing, and then not have the money to pay for the job.

BOOK PAPER.—We have now on hand a full stock of fine book paper, 50 pounds to the ream, and are prepared to print pamphlets, constitutions, etc., in extra style.
