POETICAL SELECTIONS.
A Life's Regret.
Turning the leaves in an idle way
Of a book, I was skimming the other day,
I found a line at the end of a song,
Which keeps on haunting me all my long
With its sweet and mournful melody,
"O love, my love, had you loved but me!"
Sadder a burden could never be
Than "love, my love, had you loved but me!"
"O love, my love, had you loved but me!"
The words are simple; but, O, how much
The singer has told in that little touch!
How hard a story, how chance a lot,
Of bright hopes blighted and true love crossed,
I heard in the whispered melody,
"O love, my love, had you loved but me!"
"O love, my love, had you loved but me!"
That "love, my love, had you loved but me!"
I don't believe in what poets have said,
Of hearts that are broken and lives that are dead.
Lives well ordered will stand to their course,
And hearts of true metal give little the worse,
But they vibrate still to that melody,
"O love, my love, had you loved but me!"
My life is well, but I feel a lot,
Sweet "love, my love, had you loved but me!"
The world rolls on, and the years roll by,
Day-dreams vanish and memories die;
But it surges with a restless pain,
That fond longings ever again,
"O love, my love, had you loved but me!"
It might have been, but it cannot be!
Yet, "love, my love, had you loved but me!"
The Web of Years.
From out of the loom of Time the years
Unroll a fabric all must wear:
The work of joy and woe of years
Are spun by moving hands and fears,
And pressed by weighty-rolling Care.
What measure into each is given?
A span may gauge the greatest part;
And yet the least from earth to heaven
Do reach, as in the quiet veer,
Short prayers sent up from children's hearts.
The web too quickly for us all
Is woven, while the loom flies fleet;
And when the threads have ceased to fall,
Death thins it over us as our pall,
Or round us as our winding sheet.
Worse than Love or Hate.
People have teased and vexed me,
I worried me early and late;
Some with the love they bore me,
Other some with their hate.
They drugged my glass with poison;
They poisoned the bread I ate;
Some with the love they bore me,
Other some with their hate.
But she who has teased and vexed me,
And worried me for the most—
She never hated me,
And her love I never could boast.

Our Washington Letter.
WASHINGTON, April 18, 1878.
EDITOR STATESMAN:—Representative Wood said yesterday that he believed his tariff bill will pass the house by a good majority, and that there will be no such falling off in revenue under it as is shown by the figures sent out from here by enemies of the bill. He is in favor, if his bill is so amended as to lead to a reduction of suspending payments of the sinking fund, a measure prepared by Senator Beck sometime since. This sinking fund is many millions of dollars larger now than the law requires, and a suspension of payments to it would not necessarily create any distrust abroad. However, Mr. Wood does not believe that this will be necessary.
In the report of Senator Conkling's late interviews, published this morning, the most notable things are these: He announces himself as the man who first suggested the electoral commission. He says: "No reasonable man can doubt that there was some kind of a bargain between Nicholls and that man Hayes, and that Stanley Matthews and Sherman were privy to it." He said that "never in the history of the country had there been during four years of an administration so much corruption, bartering, rewarding of favorites, traffic with leaders, and bargain and sale of the executive franchise as during the past year."
Every man of intelligence living here will confirm what the senator says of the degradation of the civil service by the administration. On other points mentioned the people are waiting for light, and this the senator promises them. The reported utterances of the senator seem to show considerable ill temper, and if he were not a man who usually weighs his words one would be sure to say that he had been misrepresented, or that he had given currency to mere rumors. The senate committee to consider the subject of the election of president and vice president have prepared a report the more important provisions of which are given below. It is very favorably received.
Sec. 4. Each state may by law provide for the judicial determination of any controversy concerning the appointment of electors, before the time fixed for the meeting of the electors. Every such judicial determination by its highest court made prior to the said time of the meeting of the electors, shall be conclusive evidence of the lawful title of the electors whom such court shall have so decided to have been appointed and shall govern in the counting of the electoral votes, so provided in the constitution and as hereafter regulated.
Sec. 5. In all cases of a disputed appointment of electors not so judicially passed upon as hereinbefore authorized, the certificate or judgment of the board or tribunal empowered by the legislature of any state to canvass the returns of votes for electors and certify or declare that the persons so certified or declared to have been appointed were lawfully appointed such electors, and shall govern in the counting of the electoral votes as provided in the constitution and as hereafter regulated.
If but one set of returns come from a state the adverse vote of both houses of congress acting separately shall be required to throw out such returns. If there are two or more sets of returns, that set received from the board or tribunal mentioned in section 4, above given, shall be accepted; but if returns are received from more than one board or tribunal in a state, the houses shall separately consider the matter and only those returns shall be counted which both houses agree upon. The committee said to be unanimous and has given great attention to the subject. The members of the committee are Edmunds, Conkling, Howe, McMillen, Teller, Davis, of Illinois, Bayard, Thurman and Morgan.
THE LATEST TRICK.—The Miller gives an account of a new trick where one would think it impossible to make a point. For instance, good honest wheat is good the world over. But it is not so good when it has gone through the hands of a manipulator who oils it. This practice now obtains to a considerable extent on the continent. It is stated that wheat, which in its natural condition would weigh 123 Dutch pounds, by the process of oiling will gain six pounds, or from ten to twelve per cent in weight more than there really is of wheat. The gain on the part of the dishonest seller is from 20s to 25s per ton. The apparent increase in the specific gravity is obtained by an outlay for rape oil of about four pence. Wheat thus treated can never be made into good flour. The practice is not confined to wheat alone, but it is applied to all grain sold by weight. Of course the adulteration can be easily detected. But wheat oiled in this way is really a handsome grain in appearance than when no such application has been made. It has been possible to adulterate flour and sugar. But who ever heard before of a process for adulterating wheat before milling? In this country, where wheat is so cheap, it is not likely that the cheat will obtain very extensively. But in times when the price is extremely high it there could be a gain of say $5 per ton as in Europe, there might be a great deal of oiled wheat. As a trick of trade this is the latest novelty.
SEATTLE.—A local paper thus speaks of the commercial emporium of the sound; the STATESMAN, as a matter of course, deifies her by the name of "the Rev. John A. Gray passed down the road last evening, accompanied by his wife. He was appointed pastor of the church at Austin by the Methodist Episcopal conference, and was considered one of the ablest and most eloquent members of that body. Two weeks ago he unceremoniously abandoned his flock and his family, and went to Battle Mountain, where he has been on a prolonged spree. He wrote to his wife from Battle Mountain, informing her that he was going to Washington territory. As she was left entirely destitute of means, her friends raised a purse of $150, to enable her to go to Kansas, where her relatives reside. She left Austin a few days ago, with the intention, it is said, of going east. At Battle Mountain she met her husband, who prevailed on her to change her destination, and accompany him west. With the money raised for her at Austin she paid her husband's fare, and both went west on the express train. Gray is represented as being an able and forcible speaker, but his love for intoxicating drink is beyond his control, and the eloquent preacher of a few months ago is a besotted drunkard.
The river and harbor bill, as passed the house, contains an appropriation of $20,000 for the improvement of the upper Columbia and Snake rivers; also $75,000 for the locks at the Cascades.

Long Distance Trotting.
There was a fair attendance on the Bay District track yesterday afternoon to witness the race in which Controller was to attempt the difficult feat of making twenty miles within the hour, one of the conditions being that he should haul a wagon. The weather was rather raw, though the track was in fine condition for fast time, and what little betting there was showed the horse the favorite. Notwithstanding the task is an arduous one, never having been accomplished but once, the speed and endurance exhibited by Controller a short time ago, when he made ten miles in 27-2/3, a long way the best on record, "billed" his side of the question, until there were few to risk much against him. The action of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, which foreshadowed interference with the race, prevented many from attending; but the official detailed became satisfied that it was not cruelty, so far as this horse was concerned, and the match went on.
The horse raced along at about a three-minute gait, making every quarter of the mile in nearly that ratio until the man who was selected to keep the driver posted made a blunder by telling him he was going faster than was the case, and the pace was slowed for two of the miles, so that at the finish of the ten miles—39-1/2—he was outside of his time ten seconds. This appeared to throw White out of his balance, and he drove one mile in 2:43; but, after he obtained the proper cue he went along steadily, regaining what he had lost; and the question from that on was never in doubt. Controller goes with a remarkable even stride, and expends as little force as is necessary. This is the secret of his wonderful endurance, and when in the condition in which White brings him to the post, twenty miles at a three-minute pace is not more severe than two miles at a thirty gait is to a majority of horses. In the paternal line he traces to imported Trustee, who was the sire of the Bridges' Trustee, the first horse that trotted 20 miles within one hour. Trustee was also the sire of the great race mare Fashion, the best four-mile of her day, and he was a brother to Munding, a winner of the Derby. Trustee was by Catton, his dam Emma by Whisker, the "stoutest" blood in England; so that there is a genuine inheritance of "hard bottom." The sire of Controller was Mayby by John N. Son, a son of Taustrut, his dam by Abdallah. John Taustrut trotted 20 miles to wagon in 59:25—25 seconds slower than the time of Controller.
California has now the credit of the fastest 20 miles to wagon, the fastest 30 miles, 27:27 1/2; the fastest 5 miles, 13:50, and the fastest mile, 2:14 1/2, ever trotted in a race. The fastest two miles either trotting or pacing was paced in Sacramento by Defiance, in 4:47. And 5 miles has also been made at this peculiar gait a few seconds within 13 minutes. This tells favorably for California tracks and climate, as well as the high quality of the horses. Henry White, who has trained and driven Controller in these races, offers to wager $2500 against $3000 that he can trot 21 miles in an hour. Inasmuch as this has never been done, it is justifiable in him to ask the odds of two to one.
When the race was over, the attention of officer Burns was called to the condition of the horse, and he was satisfied that the humane tenets of the society had not been violated. The only time he was tapped with the whip was when his driver desired him to break to relieve the tension on one set of muscles.—Call April 21st.

Here and There.
If some congressmen can carry out their ideas every citizen will in future be adorned with a revenue stamp. Why not get a cigar punch?
The New York Herald thinks the ten year extension ought to be simply sufficient for the Northern Pacific railroad to complete its line.
In California they want a non-partisan constitutional convention. In this territory, the intelligent voters object to any convention, partisan or otherwise.
The New York Herald says: The intelligence that Oregon has put a greenback ticket in the field will cause the hard money centers of the world to tremble.
In New York they make gas from water. In Walla Walla most of the "gas" has its origin in a stomach over-loaded with a poor quality of cheap whiskey.
James O'Meara, formerly of the Portland Bulletin, at one time a leading republican paper in Oregon, has now editorial control of the San Francisco Examiner, leading democratic paper of California.
Look out for another raise in mining stocks. The telegraph mysteriously hints at a rich strike in the Savage. The us are evidently arranging a nice little scheme to catch the oats.
A fellow named McLin, one of Florida's notorious and infamous returning board, has confessed what everyone was aware of, and that is, that Tilden carried the state, and that Hayes' electors were wrongfully returned. This may be regarded as old news in new clothing. When thieves fall out, etc.
The Oregon steamship company's new steamer Oregon made its voyage from New York to Portland in 65 days, 4 hours and 30 minutes. Her exact running time was 57 days and 2 hours from port to port. The Oregon is the most elegantly finished and appointed steamer that has ever visited this coast.
J. M. Shepherd, of the Bellevue Democrat, who was an unsuccessful candidate for the nomination of state printer before the Oregon democratic convention, intimates that a portion of the ticket, (probably the nominee for printer) does not meet his approval; and that hereafter his paper will be highly independent.
Our California exchanges come loaded with the sayings and threats of that unmitigated nuisance known as Kearney. If the people of that state are sensible they will leave him alone, and our word for it, Mr. Kearney will eventually break his own neck, or have it broken by some of his crazy followers.
The Idahoan, leading democratic paper in Idaho, suggests that, in the future, it would be just as well for demagogues to take a look at the management of the party of that territory. The same paper, referring to the proposition to divide the territory, says that question is a deal issue and cannot be revived.
According to registrar Kaplan, the market price for votes in San Francisco is but $2.50; and Kaplan asserts that the republican majority in that city, at the late presidential election, was secured through the agency of two-and-a-half percent. In Oregon, a few years ago a drunk of very inferior whiskey was considered a high price for votes. But then, the voters have improved intellectually since that time.
Hayes, of Ohio, present incumbent of the white house, in a recent conversation with Alex. McClure, of the Philadelphia Times, expressed himself as being proud of the fact that he had trifled with congressmen. Conkling is right in holding no relations whatever with the white house. If McClure's story is true, no self-respecting representative can approach a man who boasts that he listens only to betray—without denouncing himself.
Sargent's timber land bill, as passed by the senate, provides that any surveyed lands of California, Oregon and Washington territory, not reserved and valuable chiefly for timber, but unfit for cultivation, and which have not been offered for sale, may be sold in quantities not exceeding 160 acres to any one person or association, at a maximum price of $2.50 per acre, and that lands chiefly valuable for stone may be sold on the same terms.
Congress has passed a bill, the provisions of which compel the Central and Union Pacific railroads to pay annually into the treasury about a half a million. This will go to the credit of the companies as a part payment of the debt owed by them to the United States, and which they have steadily refused to pay. Senator Thurman, of Ohio, and prospective candidate for President on the democratic ticket, is the author of the measure.
William Orton, late president of the Western Union Telegraph company, and whose sudden death, a few days ago, created such profound regret, like most of our great men commenced life a printer. It is not generally known that Bayard Taylor, a present United States minister to Germany, worked for years as a compositor in one of the New York offices. Simon Cameron, Hamlin, of Maine, ex-vice-president and senator, Plumb, of Kansas, and his colleague, senator Ingalls, Maine, and many other distinguished men belong to the newspaper profession.
The Palouse Country.
Almota is to have a magnificent hotel, said to be the finest north of Walla Walla.
Hon. T. W. Davenport has been engaged to survey the Colfax town site.
The steamer Annie Faxon, last week, delivered three hundred and thirty tons of freight at Almota.
The Gazette learns that double the quantity of wheat has been sown this year in Whitman county than last, and that the prospects for an enormous yield are favorable.
A correspondent, writing from Almota, under recent date says: "Messrs. Adams & Co's general merchandise store is doing a rubbing business, with a mammoth stock of goods of every description, which they sell at very low prices."
From the Gazette.—Mr. James Warmouth, of Colfax, has been for several days assisting Messrs. Lang & Ryan to gather their enormous herd of cattle, lately purchased north of Snake river. Fifteen hundred and fifty head were collected at Mr. Warmouth's place, and twenty-five hundred head on Crab Creek. These cattle were bought at an average price of ten dollars per head, making more than forty thousand dollars to Baker & Boyer of Walla Walla, but the money comes from the First National Bank of Kansas City, Mo. These cattle are to be driven to Cheyenne, on the U. P. R. R., where those fit to butcher will be shipped by rail to the Eastern markets, and the stock cattle will be turned on the range on the North Platte river.
Bad Showing.—A correspondent, writing from Summerville, Union county, Oregon, uses this language in describing that place: "Summerville is enjoying the second coming, not of Christ, but of the devil. Politicians numerous, whisky on the rampage."

Lewiston Items.
The steamer Northwest consumes twenty-three hours in making a trip from Walla to Lewiston.
Gov. Brayman, of Idaho, has commissioned L. P. Brown a Lt. Col. in the volunteer army of that territory.
All of Lewiston, and most of the settlers in that vicinity, formed an excursion party to Almota, on Saturday last.
The Teller states that considerable plowing is being done on the plains recently taken up south and east of Lewiston.
Owing to a lack of funds, the public schools of Lewiston will be closed until some time in September.
A government agent, whose particular duty is to see that the timber land is not depleted upon, has reached Lewiston.
Parties have applied for a license to run another ferry on Snake river, above the present one, and near the mouth of the Assomine creek.
It affords the STATESMAN pleasure to state that the Teller has been considerably enlarged, and is now one of the most entertaining sheets that reaches this office. It has our best wishes for a long life and increased prospects.
Says the Teller: "The lumber of Clearwater river is low and both lumber from the Chapman mill and logs from the Lewiston mill are exhausted. The town and cannot be brought down till a rise, unless they are re-laid."
The Teller chronicles the arrival of Capt. John, an Indian who formerly lived at the mouth of the Assomine creek, and who went with Howard as a scout, from Fort Leavenworth where Joseph and his companions were held as prisoners. While east of the mountains he was taken prisoner by the Sioux under Sitting Bull and detained 15 days at Sitting Bull's camp. He says that Sitting Bull has his Indians.
Gov. Brayman, of Idaho, speaking of Indian troubles, says: "I hope we will have no Indian troubles this Spring. The best way to avoid attack from them is to be ready. They are very sagacious, and in prospect of our settlements, quickly find out whether we are armed. General Sherman and McDowell write that probably no more troops will be sent to us from the east this season, and contenting ourselves with what we have, we must rely upon ourselves. When Mr. Fenn succeeds in procuring from congress, that other 500 guns, I will ask again for carbines and that one half go to Northern Idaho."
In the course of an editorial on the Indian question, the Teller, in speaking of the probabilities of another war, says: "Moses has been watched up with anxious solicitude, and since the departure of Joseph hundreds have looked to him to lead off in a hostile demonstration. The cases which Moses has said from the first would induce him to go to open war, to wit: the attempt to force him and his people on to the reservation, have not yet taken place, and hence he is comparatively quiet and expresses his friendship for the whites so long as they let him and his people do as they please."
Dayton Items.
Dayton holds an election on the 6th day of May to choose fire trustees.
Crops in the vicinity of Dayton are said to be looking well, and the prospects for a rich harvest are flattering.
The Universalist convention for Oregon, Washington and Idaho will meet in Dayton on the 7th of June.
A Dayton man wants to borrow money, and is willing to pay eighteen per cent. Here is a chance for some of our unemployed cent-per-cent sharps.
The Daytonites are delighted over the presence of a large number of settlers. The population of that locality is increasing daily by hundreds.
The Dayton jail is to have a substantial fence. This institution has been a long while without a tenant, which speaks well for the morality of our neighbors.
The fifty-ninth anniversary of the introduction of the order in the United States, was appropriately celebrated by the Old Fellows of Dayton, on Friday last.
Wm. A. Moody, has laid the foundation and commenced work on his new building, which will be 49x70 feet, and 20 feet high. The basement story will be occupied with offices and rooms for rent, while the room above will be one immense hall.
Frank Hains, who has purchased an interest in the steam saw mill on the Palaka, proposes this summer, to ship lumber to this city. In order to reach this place, it will first go to Snake river, then to Walla, and from there by rail to Walla Walla. He proposes, to ship none but choice lumber.
Can this be true? The Chronicle, speaking of the telegraph line now in operation between this city and Dayton, says: "If you wish to send an important message to Walla Walla you had better carry it on the deck of a canoe." For the Walla Walla operators don't notice the calls from this office unless they want to. We could cite numerous instances of dereliction.
Says the Chronicle: "The Dayton wooden mills finished up the first lot of blankets manufactured this season, during the week, and an excellent article. These mills will soon commence manufacturing an excellent article of 'hoosery jeans,' then people can get clothing made that will be of considerable service. Let the good old days of 'Kentucky jeans,' and 'hickory shirts' return, and farmers and laborers adopt it more, and 'soft clothes' less, and many a shilling could be saved, and as Poor Richard used to say, 'a penny saved is two pence made.'"
NOT EXACTLY.—The young man who investigated his $1.50 in a cheap Chicago paper—"a family paper"—and who read therein that the "Great Western Gift Enterprise company" would forward to any address a valuable gold watch for twenty-five cents; and who now writes to the editor of the STATESMAN that "it is the duty of the press to expose swindlers and protect honest men" is respectfully informed that said duty is a part of the functions of the officers of the law, and not of editors. It is our business to publish the news, and if we were to engage in exposing all the swindlers who advance in cheap eastern papers, we would have very little room for news. We could "protect honest men" with a very few words, if they would only heed them. Keep your money in your pocket, or exchange it only for what you know you are going to get. Suspect every proposition to give something for nothing; give yourself the benefit every doubt, and you will not need the protection of newspapers or of officers of the law.

OF THE BOAT RACE. The time was bad and the interest small. So much for "pulls" on pure water.

HANGING.—San Francisco has lost a hoodlum. John Rank, a young man who started in life with a determination to exterminate the Chinese, and wound up by killing a policeman, was hanged in San Francisco, one day last week.

A POOR CHANCE.—We find this paragraph in the Independent, published at Helena, Montana: "Prof. T. F. Campbell, who formerly applied the rod to the shoulders of the rising generation of Helena, has been nominated for congress by the greenbackers of Oregon. His chances of an election and being struck by lightning are about equal."

AS USUAL.—An Olympia paper, speaking of the manner in which the public printing for this territory is executed, says that the laws of the last session of the legislature have been hatched in printing to an extent that is disgraceful. Typographically the laws will be an eyecore to every printer who sees them.

WHY NOT INCLUDE THIS TERRITORY?—A friend at Omaha sends the STATESMAN a copy of a circular recently issued by the Union Pacific railroad, which the company needs the public that it has made arrangements to carry passengers from Omaha to Montana at the following rates: First class, $105; second class, $90; immigrants, $45. First and second class go by stage from Franklin, or end of Utah Northern track, and immigrants by wagon. First and second class passengers are allowed 100 pounds of baggage free by rail, and 40 pounds by stage; extra weight from 15 to 20 cents per pound. Immigrants, 100 pounds by rail and wagon, and extra weight 5 cents per pound. Immigrants will be furnished meals at 50 cents per day after leaving the railroad.

THE VOTE.—The official vote of seven counties gives Elliptide, 1839, and Garish 1625. It is not likely this majority will be reduced by the other seven counties. In making returns to the secretary of the territory, the auditors did not give the total vote in the county, so that the actual vote can only be approximated. By counties it is as follows: Jefferson, 320; King, 809; Mason, 70; Walla Walla, 105; Challand, 100; Chahals, 45; Thurston, 475; Klickitat, 70; Pierce, 430; Kitsap, 230; San Juan, 110; Lewis, 150; Couville, 100; Pacific, 130; Snohomish, 65; Clarke, 175; Whatcom, 300; total, 3735. The vote in the territory will not exceed 4500.—Courier.

A NEWSPAPER.—In Idaho, in a comparatively small town—a town on the decline—there is published one of the most readable and best conducted papers on the coast. The editor, a man of more than average ability, displays an amount of energy and enterprise that would do credit to the columns of some of the more pretentious journals—papers, doubtless, having a larger circulation in the immediate neighborhood from which our friend draws his support, but the modest paper over which he presides. We have no acquaintance with this brother, and therefore, what we write is not intended to promote the interest of one bound to us by the ties of friendship. Merit, wherever found, always commands our respect, and in this speaking of the Idaho Ardache, we are only bestowing praise where it is deserved.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATIONS.—A bill having reference to municipal corporations in territories, was favorably considered, one day last week, by the senate. It provides among other things, that section 1889 of the revised statutes of the United States shall not be construed as prohibiting the legislative assemblies of the several territories from creating towns, cities or other municipal corporations, and providing for the government of the same, and conferring upon them the corporate powers and privileges necessary to their local administration, by either general or special acts. And it also satiates and confirms all general and special acts providing for the government of towns, cities or other municipal corporations.

IMPORTANT TO SETTLERS.—The bill extending the time for completion of the Northern Pacific, as passed by the senate, contains the following important provision: "That where pre-emption and homestead claims were initiated, or private entries and locations were allowed, upon lands embraced in the grant to said company, prior to the receipt of the orders of withdrawal at the respective district land-offices, the lands embraced in such entry shall not be held as within the grant to said company, and shall be patented to the parties lawfully entering the same, and in case of abandonment by them, shall be open to pre-emption and homestead entry only of actual settlers. Entries remaining unadjusted and suspended in the general land office on the account of an increase of price of the even sections within the limits of the grant, where the same were made, or based upon settlement made prior to the receipt of the orders of withdrawal at the respective district land-offices, shall be relieved from such suspension and carried into patent."

CHAS. HALPINE.—A friend—Capt. Putman—has laid upon our table a volume of poems, the sight of which recalls to mind the scenes of former days, when the writer of this was oft times lifted from the depths of despondency by the clear- ringing and sympathetic voice of him whose name heads this paragraph. Ah! those were happy days even though money was scarce and friends few; they were days of hard work too; for it was among the jostle and confusion of a large city, where a man employed on a newspaper, no matter how humble his position, was allowed but little time for rest, and scarcely none for recreation. Yet, with a few genial companions, some of whom are famous, and others, like Halpine, sleep beneath the sod, the hours snatched from the cares and anxieties of our almost ceaseless labor were like the flashings of a diamond, as compared with the poorly ventilated and gloomy apartments in which most of us were compelled to labor; for in those days, the editorial rooms of a metropolitan journal were in no sense a paradise.

DR. J. M. BOYD, physician and surgeon, office in the old library rooms, opposite STATESMAN office. The doctor has had twelve years experience in the treatment of diseases prevalent in the valleys east of the Cascade mountains. Makes no specialties, but requests that inquiry be made as to his success in all branches of the profession, especially in the treatment of diseases of women and children, including obstetrics and surgery. Relies upon merit for patronage and upon patients for references.

Our Overland Mail.

Every now and then some congressman, hailing from the lumber regions of Maine, nor from the dismal swamp districts of the South, whose constituents can neither read or write, and whose ideas of economy are bounded by the purchasing capacity of a silver quarter, rises in his seat, and with an air of pomposity, (an article often mistaken for dignity,) suggests that, in view of the embarrassed condition of the public treasury, the appropriations for carrying mails in the West, and particularly on the Pacific coast, should be reduced. This is usually followed up by reference to the route between Kelton and the Columbia river. The amount of eloquence, and the wonderful knowledge of the country supplied with mail matter by this much-abused route, as displayed in some of these efforts, is not only astonishing but amusing. Fretted as almost savages, with no regard for law, either human or divine, and whose occupation consists in murdering the innocent Indian, the people of this country are held up as unworthy of even the poor boon of an occasional letter from their more refined brethren of the east. Astonishing as it may be, yet in this style of oratory, he, not oratory, but banishment—is largely indulged in by the representatives of the people; men supposed to have been selected for their high standard of intelligence. If it must be known, the average American politician is a demagogue. The people demand economy, and the representative, afraid to commence at home, invades the precincts of a neighbor's territory, and there attempts to inaugurate his theories concerning what he is pleased to term economy. Bah! The writer has in his mind's eye a congressman, who, a few years ago, on the score of economy, almost succeeded in having the Kelton route discontinued, and who, at the very next session of congress, secured an appropriation of $300,000 for removing obstructions from a stream in his state that would not, under the most favorable circumstances, boat a canoe. Yet that man, simply because he attempted to destroy our mail facilities, acquired considerable notoriety as a economical and safe member. In this world there are many humbugs, and congress has more than its quota.

War Almost Certain.

England is "closing up her lines," and before the STATESMAN reaches most of its readers, the bloody struggle for supremacy of power will have been inaugurated. Under the guise of diplomacy, Disraeli has been quietly, but none the less surely, preparing for a conflict that will shake Europe to its centre. Austria, judging from the tenor of recent dispatches, has already given sufficient evidence that she will support England. Bismarck is master of the situation, and should Germany by any chance be involved, (and of which, at the present writing, there is scarcely any likelihood) the power receiving countenance from that great empire will prove the victor. The advantages, to our mind, are all with England. She is in a position to choose the battle-ground, and with her powerful navy, and the immense resources at her command, will be able to inflict terrible punishment upon just such portions of her adversary's territory as she may determine; while, on the other hand, her territory is well protected, save, perhaps, in Russia, which, however, from indications, will be in a position to take care of itself, and, if need be, lend a helping hand in strengthening the forces engaged directly with those of Russia. Another element of strength which England will have in this contest will be the adhesion of the Irish, instead of, as she has sometimes reason to fear, their recalcitrance and insurrection. In combating the advance of the Russo-Greek church, the sympathies and energies of all Roman Catholics will be warmly enlisted. Powerful as Russia is, still the elements of weakness are inherent in a people whose government is but the representative of "a vain majesty." A man, strongly attached to his government, as all Englishmen are, and with a firm belief that its manifest destiny is to carry to the uttermost parts of the globe the civilization by which he is himself surrounded, is worth a whole battalion of soldiers whose minds are darkened by the ignorance of centuries. When the struggle comes may the Lord of Hosts strengthen the columns of the adversary whose success means the success of man.

News of the Week.

O'Leary has accomplished a walk at Dublin of 220 miles in 60 hours. This territory receives $20,000 for support of Indians during the coming year. Idaho will be reimbursed for expenses incurred in the Nez Perce war. Reports from all portions of Oregon indicate unusually large crops. Disturbances are threatened in the north of Russia, and troops are being sent there to prevent outbreaks. Nearly all the peaches in Siskiyou county, California, were killed by the recent frosts and cold weather. A livery stable keeper of Chicago, claims to have a contract to furnish the British Government with 40,000 horses. It has reached Canada, and hundreds of Canadians are getting ready to emigrate to this land of "milk and honey." Judge Sawyer, of California, has decided that Chinamen and not "white," and, therefore, cannot be naturalized. The London Times says that while Europe is negotiating for peace the Christians and Mussulmans in Bulgaria are lying at each other's throats. The other day, halibuts fell at Fort Concho, Texas, an inch and a half in diameter, and covered the ground to the depth of a foot. Citizens of Chicago are uneasy at the outgrowth at Kearneyville in that city. There are 8000 of the communists, who are armed and drill weekly. The cashier of the National Exchange bank, of Tiffin, Ohio, and a Sunday school superintendent, has absconded, taking with him $45,500 of the bank's funds. The democrats and republicans of San Francisco are about to unite upon a ticket for delegates to the constitutional convention. This combination has for its main object the defeat of the hoodlums led by Kearney. England, if she goes to war, is certain of success. Richelieu thought that the pen was mightier than the sword. Money controls both, and England is wealthier than the entire continent of Europe. Mr. Hayes has just completed a tour of Pennsylvania. The republicans of that state will soon hold a convention to nominate candidates for state offices; and the ex-governor thought it no doubt, a good time to exhibit himself. The cotton strike in England is one of almost unprecedented proportions. Hundreds of thousands of people will go hungry this summer, taking no wages at all rather than accept a reduction. And in the wake of the strike will follow all manner of violence and crime. The New York Tribune's Washington correspondent has a careful canvass of the house on the Wood tariff bill has been prepared. It turns out as follows: Total for the bill, 135; total against the bill, 156. The majority against the bill is therefore 21, and unless Wool concludes that discretion is the better part of valor and postpones action on the measure until next session, the enacting clause will probably be stricken out. At Naples a French ship fired a salute in honor of Grant, and the Japanese envoy on another ship bowed in acknowledgment, thinking it was meant for him. So much for allowing an American man-of-war to parade an ex-president. "Who pays for the coals?"

THE NEW RECTOR. WALLA WALLA, May 21, 1878. EDITOR STATESMAN: St. Paul's church, which has been for some time without a rector, and obliged to open its doors for domestic services, on Sunday morning last, rang out the joyful sound inviting worshippers to assemble once more within its sacred walls to worship God, not as they have been wont to do, but as they ought to do, for a month, but on every Sunday. The new rector, Rev. J. D. McCone, has assumed charge of this flourishing parish, and on last Sunday preached a powerful sermon. This gentleman, who graduated at St. Stephen's college, Amherst, New York, gives evidence of possessing a high order of scholarship, and his sermons are characterized by a man of breadth and depth of mind. Having been a teacher for some years, Mr. McCone started from his home with the intention of organizing a boys' school in Kelton, the youth of this locality could be prepared for college. On arriving here, however, he found that the duties immediately connected with the church would be so completely and so far from reason that he abandoned that grand undertaking.

PROBATE COURT.—The following were the proceedings in the Probate Court during the past week: In the matter of the estate of John Murphy, deceased; administrator authorized to sell the real estate belonging to said estate, at public auction, for cash. In the matter of the estate of Wm. C. Gallaher, senior, deceased; annual account examined and allowed. In the matter of the estate of Chas. Evans, deceased; the same proceedings. In the matter of the estate of Wm. Fish, deceased; administrator discharged and bond exonerated. In the matter of Thomas Bollock; ordered that his discharge be entered of record.

DR. J. M. BOYD has been summoned hastily to Baker city, Oregon, where his young son is lying at the point of death. Dr. Boyd regretted to leave his patients, and requested us to say that he will return at the earliest possible moment.

WHAT AIMS THE CLEVERMAN?—An expert was found guilty of murder in Pennsylvania a few days ago, and a reversed gentleman in New Jersey has just been indicted for an alleged attempt to poison his wife.

TROTTING STALLIONS.

San Francisco Patchen, and R. E. Lee. THE HORSEMEN OF WALLA WALLA valley now have the opportunity to breed from two of the finest Stallions on the Pacific coast. These horses have just been brought from California, and are widely known among leading horsemen as animals of superior quality in every respect. SAN FRANCISCO PATCHEN is a beautiful bay; stands sixteen hands high, and for bones and muscle we doubt whether he can be excelled by any horse in America. He was sired by Geo. M. Patchen, Jr.; he by the celebrated trotting stallion Geo. M. Patchen, sired by Pop Bellinger, a well known mare for speed and ability; g. d. by Messenger Eclipse; he by Messenger; g. g. dam by Old Eclipse. This horse comes of the best stock in the world, and is a worthy representative of his ancestry. His owner may be justly proud of so noble an animal. San Francisco Patchen is ten years old, and is therefore just in his prime. GEN. R. E. LEE is a chestnut color; four years old; stands fifteen hands two inches; and is a marvel of horse flesh. For style and action he cannot be excelled by any colt of his age. The owner refused to accept five hundred dollars for this colt when he was in his three-year form. Gen. Lee was sired by San Francisco Patchen; dam by the thoroughbred mare Fleeta; she by Belmont, dam by Lady Charm; she by Leviathan and Eclipse. No mare ranks higher in this country than Lady Charm. The need of thorough bred stock has been long felt in Walla Walla, and it is fortunate for those who desire to breed fine animals, that they now have the best blood in America to breed from. These horses are permanently located at the Walla Walla Driving Park, where they will both make the season. They can be seen every Saturday at Mr. Tom Tierney's livery stable, where horsemen are invited to call. For further particulars, apply to W. G. REYNOLDS, Agent and Groom.

Magic Pump!

WE SIMPLY WANT TO SAY THAT there are 210 RUBBER BUCKET PUMPS in use in the Willamett valley, and 105 in this vicinity. Of these Pumps 35 had not expanding but common Rubber Buckets, and have now been in wells 22 months. Out of the 315 Pumps sold we have heard of but one failure. Now this is wonderful. Not many farmers have bought any kind of machinery without some breakage even in a few days. Our Pumps improve the water in any well, and will not freeze in any climate. We warrant our Buckets 2 years, and wish to refer you respectfully to the following, from the Medical Practitioners of Salem, Oregon: TESTIMONIALS. SALEM, Oregon, May 25, 1877. We believe the MAGIC PUMP, manufactured by H. B. Middaugh, to be the BEST PUMP in the country, from the fact that it removes all poisonous gases from the well, purifies the water by agitation and by a circulation of pure air to the bottom of the well, making the water in every respect equal, if not superior to that drawn by the Old Oaken Bucket. H. CARPENTER, M. D., J. REYNOLDS, M. D., E. R. FISKE, M. D., S. R. JESSUP, M. D., J. A. DAVIS, M. D., C. H. HALL, M. D., JAS. A. RICHARDSON, M. D. We have used the Rubber Bucket Pump for one year, and find it superior to any pump we have seen. It purifies the water and improves any well where it is used. If you want good health, use pure water, such as is furnished by the Magic Pump. A. M. BELT, M. D., JAS. WALTON, U. S. Com'r. Have lived in Oregon about 22 years; have tried nearly all the different pumps in use; had rather have the Magic Pump than all the rest combined. It works easy, and always gives a supply of good, pure water. Believe they are more durable than any pump used. A. H. FRIER. Foul and Poisonous Gases are quickly removed by this MAGIC PUMP. It is known the use of impure water causes more sickness and death than all other causes combined. We challenge the world to produce a pump that is equal to our EXPANDING RUBBER BUCKET PUMP. And, also, to one from gentlemen living in Walla Walla and the surrounding country, who have our MAGIC PUMPS. THE EXPANDING RUBBER BUCKET PUMP in use at the present time. WALLA WALLA, April 4, 1878. We, the undersigned citizens of Walla Walla and Dayton, have used the Rubber Bucket Magic Pump, and find it to be superior to any pump we have used or seen: P. R. BUSINESS is quite active, and leading merchants report larger sales than at a corresponding period last year.

CHURCH CONTRACT.—Messrs. Schwabacher have been awarded the contract for furnishing the inmates of the territorial insane asylum with clothing.

NEW BEEF.—The editor of the Astorian, who in this city the other day, saw a steer that weighed 800 pounds. Its gross weight was 1817 lbs. Not stall feed.

HOUSE THIEVES.—A rumor is current on the coast that the party of house thieves, who left this valley some time ago, were arrested at Missoula, and subsequently hanged. We cannot trace the report to any reliable source.

MARRIAGES.—We hear of several marriages that are to come off before the close of the current month. In advance we tender our congratulations.

OUR FRIEND, GEO. CURRY, of Portland, is reported to have been dangerously ill. We trust that the sickness may be restored to health, as Oregon has never lost a man of his worth.

POWER REPRESENTED.—There are only six or seven lawyers in attendance upon the term of the District Court, now in session at Pendleton. Had and saloon keepers complain, in view of the smallness of the number of attorneys present, that business is unusually dull.

NEW LOCOMOTIVE.—The new locomotive for the Baker railroad has arrived, and will soon be in running order. It is the same size as the one now in use. The passenger car, ordered one time ago, has been shipped, and will be here in a few days to accommodate the fall travel, which is anticipated will be quite large this year.

PROPERTY.—The Taylor brothers, who, finding the Willamette valley entirely too slow, visited Vanilla county last fall, and upon a very small capital (a horse), acquired, in a very short time, a valuable herd of horses, have been arrested for horse-stealing. Enterprise never did thrive in Vanilla county.

STREET-CORPSES.—In laying out a town more attention should be given to street-corpuses. Where two principal streets cross each other there should be not less than ten or twelve, instead of only four, as at present. For owners will not accommodate all the bodies in town on a Saturday afternoon without a great deal of crowding.

DIVORCES.—By reference to the list of cases for trial at the May term of the District Court, it will be seen, as usual, that the greater part of the time of the Court will be taken up disposing of the divorce suits. It strikes us that this peculiar kind of litigation is becoming like Mark Twain's snail, a "little motion."

SENATOR MORTON.—Hearst had, Mr. J. R. Bunker, and J. L. Hamilton, before him on the morning of the 2nd inst. from town, and was in the habit of a young horse. The snail finally became restless and kicked Mr. Bunker on the leg, fracturing it very badly near the ankle. It is said that the horse extends into the stable, it may be very serious in its result. It is said that the young man, who was called to attend the young man, is in his care he is doing well.

PERSONAL.—Hon. John Whitaker, ex-Governor of Oregon, on the democratic ticket, addressed the people of Pendleton yesterday. This afternoon he speaks at Weston, commencing at one o'clock. As Mr. Whitaker will probably represent Oregon in congress, after the 4th of March, '79, and as the interests of that state are incidental with our own, it is hoped that many of our citizens who could be present at Weston.

WRITING SCHOOL.—The first term of Prof. E. P. Conner's writing school will close on Saturday evening. All persons interested in the improvement of penmanship are invited to be present. Our seventy pupils are enrolled in the present class. A second term will begin on Monday, May 14th, at the public school house in 713 N. 1st St. P. M., also, in the evening at 7 1/2 o'clock. All persons interested will take due notice and govern themselves accordingly.

TRAINING STOCK.—All lovers of the horse will be pleased to learn that the celebrated training stables, Gen. R. E. Lee and San Francisco Patches, have been brought to this valley, and are at present at Collins' Driving Park, where they will remain during part of the season. These animals are recognized as the finest bred training horses now on the coast. They can be seen this afternoon at Mr. Conner's livery stable. For further particulars, see advertisement in another column.

CONVICTION.—John Bowman, who, some time back, assaulted a son of Mr. Bull, late editor of the East Oregonian, published at Pendleton, and subsequently indicted for an assault with a deadly weapon, was brought for trial one day this week, before Judge McArthur, and was found guilty as indicted. Hereafter, letters addressed to the care of the superintendent of the penitentiary, at Salem, will reach Mr. Bowman.

PUNISHABLE.—A few months since the trustees of one of our school districts were pained to learn of reprehensible conduct on the part of the young ladies attending the school. Measures were at once taken to check the evil, and it is believed with excellent results. We now hear of similar conduct at one of our private schools, where young ladies have been detected in writing notes to boys and otherwise misbehaving themselves. Such conduct is deplorable, and is a bad augury for the future of the children.

ONE DOLLAR A DAY.—A few months ago the Central Pacific railroad company at San Francisco offered employment to laborers who were willing to work for one dollar a day. This figure was deemed ridiculously low, but at this meagre compensation three men offered where one was employed. We now hear of a case in this valley where an operator had occasion to hire a number of laboring men; he put the price down to one dollar a day, and had more applicants—white men—than he could employ. Facts of this character go to show the shifts to which poor men resort to earn a living.

A NERVOUS ESCAPE.—Mr. Sam Sackowitz, proprietor of the San Francisco cigar store, started out Sunday afternoon, mounted upon a splendid horse, for the purpose of taking a ride. While turning the corner at Mr. Eagan's church, the horse started at a rapid clip, when Sam became frightened, and threw himself to the ground. In the fall he sustained a partial fracture of the external table of the skull, and also a very severe scalp wound. He was taken up insensible, and remained so for over an hour. Dr. Maury was immediately summoned to attend to his relief, and by the administration of stimulants restored him to consciousness, after which he has rapidly improved, and is now able to be about his room. Sam is an industrious young man, always attentive to his business, and has many friends who will sympathize with him in his misfortune.

Senator Morton's Visit to Walla Walla.

WALLA WALLA, May 1st, 1878.

EDITOR STATESMAN.—A short time previous to my departure from Washington, I had the good fortune to meet with a gentleman, who, during the sickness of Mr. Morton, was a constant attendant at the bedside of Indiana's great senator. From this gentleman I learned that Mr. Morton was enthusiastic in his praises of this country, and frequently expressed himself as well pleased with the kindness and attention extended toward him during his brief visit to Walla Walla. The valley and the surrounding country he regarded as the most beautiful he had ever visited. The immense grain fields, producing on an average of from forty to sixty bushels of wheat to the acre; the comfortable and "good land" style of conducting business; the evidences of prosperity and refinement; and, above all, the love and veneration for law and order; made a deep and favorable impression upon his mind; and he took apparent delight in speaking of these things, emphasizing his strong belief that here was the seat of future empire. The Columbia river he regarded as the great highway for this country, and it was his intention, had he been spared to again resume his seat in the senate, to have made a speech, in which he would have urged upon congress the necessity for a large appropriation to complete the locks for the Dalles and Cascade rapids, respectively at the Dalles and Cascade rapids, respectively. In speaking of this valley, he said that when the navigation of the Columbia was free and unobstructed, and our farmers, following the practice formerly in vogue among those residing on the banks of the great western rivers, could float their produce to the sea, wealth would pour in so rapidly that, without the assistance of foreign aid, the people, within themselves, would possess capital sufficient to thread the great Northwest with a network of railroads. In the death of Senator Morton your people lost a valuable friend, one whose voice would have been powerful in the promoting of their interests.

AN OPERATOR.—In Chicago, a few years ago, soon after the great fire, the city was overrun by a number of sharpers, who, advertising largely, and by the generous use of printer's ink, called the attention of the public to the fact that they were in a position, being provided with an abundance of funds, to handle the crops of the Mississippi valley, and consignments to their care would be promptly placed upon the market, and the proceeds remitted at an early day. For a time some of these fellows did a flourishing business; but the farmers waited long, and in most cases waited in vain for the promised remittance. It subsequently turned out that these enterprising chaps were in the habit of sending articles consigned to them to the nearest auction house, where they were sold for a song, the so-called merchants retaining for their personal use the funds thus realized. The farmers grew impatient, and finally the matter was brought to the attention of the authorities, who succeeded in breaking up the gang; some of whom were sent to the penitentiary, and the others will be not all dead, and may be in the business somewhere else. Walla Walla is not a Chicago, but that is no reason why our farmers and business men should not be on their guard.

WATER SUPPLY.—Growing out of the recent litigation, the water company has arranged to take the water required for the use of this city from a subterranean spring that takes its rise a short distance above town. The existence of this spring has been known for a long time, but it is never before been utilized. This arrangement dispenses of the water company, and ensures the city an abundant supply of pure water. In this connection, we again refer to the impurity of the wells within the city limits, and urge householders wherever possible to obtain their supply of water from the pipes of the water company. Much of the sickness for which this town is noted is due to the use of impure water, and the sooner the wells are abandoned the better it will be for the general health. The writer had on his premises what was considered one of the best wells in town, but for considerations of health and cleanliness closed it up. It is not certain that others who may follow his example will be equally well satisfied with the result.

SHAKE THE BIRDS.—A couple of years since Judge Wingard brought to this valley about a dozen "Bob Whites," an Eastern quail, and turned them loose on Mill creek, the object being to introduce this delightful game bird. Subsequently a law was passed for their protection. The statute provides a penalty of fifty dollars for shooting or trapping these birds. It is reported that settlers recently arrived, as in the habit of killing these birds. Of course they are in ignorance of the law, and we make this publication to the end that they may be on their guard. Since their introduction these birds have multiplied greatly, and, if left alone for a year or two longer, they will be in such numbers as to afford excellent sport.

SALE OF A FLOURING MILL.—The valuable property, known as the "Frontier Mill," has changed hands. Messrs. Schwabacher & Welch are the purchasers, and the price paid is understood to be $5750. The sale includes the mill and thirty acres of land. This property is on the Yellow Hawk, and being in the centre of a rich agricultural district, must soon become very valuable. The flour given under the late act is owing to the fact that under the late owners, the mill had been allowed to run down, and was generally out of repair. The new proprietors are gentlemen of great energy, and will at once have the mill repaired and placed in good running order, when it will attract a very large trade.

CITY WATER WORKS.—Col. Kraft, superintendent of the water works, has had fitted up in the rear of the engine house, a shop that is intended exclusively for the use of the water company. In this shop is stored all the valves, couplings, etc., required in making water-connections. Also the machines for cutting and fitting pipe, and in fact every article required in introducing water into the business places and residences of persons desiring the use of the same. The shop is neatly and conveniently arranged, and we are glad to show what we have long known. Col. Kraft is a careful and painstaking workman.

BAD BOYS.—Sunday last the "Agate Mill" was entered by a couple of small boys, and the desk opened and robbed of $15.50 in silver change and one or two other articles of trifling value. The following day these boys were seen to dig up a lot of coin that had been buried at the foot of a tree, and this led to their detection. The father of one of these boys is an industrious, respectable citizen, and out of regard to him we withhold his name.

CANED.—Wednesday, May 1st, J. Bauer, Esq., celebrated the 44th anniversary of his birthday, when he was agreeably surprised by the presentation of a gold-headed cane, by the gift of his estimable lady. The cane is of ebony; the head gold, highly finished, and bears the inscription—"J. Bauer." So far, so good. Mr. Bauer will ever treasure the gift as an expression of devoted affection.

CITY HALL SALOON.—Mr. Jack Spansall has had his saloon and brewery, on the first floor of the City Hall, refitted and furnished in very handsome style. The counters, and the shelving, etc., have been grained, and the whole establishment placed in excellent condition for the reception of guests, and much of his business is quiet this place, and much of his in business is a quiet place.

IMPROVEMENT.—Messrs. Baker & Boyer are having the front of their brick building covered with a coat of mastic. This will be a great improvement, and a completed they will have one of the handsomest buildings on Main street.

Personal.

At last accounts Bert's dramatic (?) troupe was at Idaho City.

The Astorian pays Col. Geo. Thomas, our efficient sheriff, a handsome and well deserved notice.

Among the recent arrivals at the Stone House, we notice the name of Capt. Stump, of the Northwest.

Parties contemplating settling in this locality, would do well to either call upon or write to visit to Walla Walla, and see for themselves.

"Uncle Jake" Miller, who has been visiting the upper country, in company with Mr. Feltis, the present mail contractor, returned to the city on Tuesday.

Mr. W. N. Wallace, of the firm of J. H. Day & Co., the well known and popular druggist, has purchased a handsome residence in the southern portion of the city.

Judge Mix, Col. Leaster, Mr. Isham, and other members of the Walla Walla bar, are at Pendleton, where they have important suits to be placed the district court, now in session at that place.

Chas. Hopkins, esp., editor, and one of the proprietors of the Palouse Gazette, paid the STATESMAN office a visit on Monday last. The Gazette is a good local paper, and we are pleased to hear that it is in a prosperous condition.

As intimated in the last issue of the STATESMAN, Col. Green has been ordered to the command of Fort Boise. Our Boise friends will find the colonel a first class gentleman, a soldier, and a man worthy of the greatest respect.

The STATESMAN regrets to learn of the continued illness of the wife of Hon. Dan Drumheller, of Unadilla county. Our friend has been sorely afflicted, and in his sorrows has the sympathy of a large circle of friends, all of whom trust that the dark cloud will soon pass away.

One day this week, there were registered at the Stone House the names of parties leaving from New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Leavenworth, Philadelphia, and other principal cities. This, while apparently a small matter, demonstrates that our city is attracting the attention of the outside world.

Mrs. Ingle, wife of Hon. E. Ingle, of Unadilla county, Oregon, has gone to visit her old home and friends in her native Vermont. She has been about a period of 25 years. Mrs. Ingle left home a young woman; she returns an elderly matron, the mother of a highly respected family. We wish her a pleasant trip and speedy return.

Miss Bettie Butterfield, a young lady who for several years has been employed as a companion in the Statesman office, leaves by today's stage on a visit to her mother, living near Heppner, Unadilla county, Oregon. She will be accompanied by her sister Maggie, wife of Capt. J. M. Gorman. We wish our friends a pleasant trip and speedy return.

After repeated failures to find the final resting place of the Arctic explorer, Sir John Franklin, another attempt, under the auspices of a prominent scientific association of New York, is to be made. Lieut. Schwatka, an Oregon boy, and well known to many of our readers, is to have command of this expedition, the success of which having granted him indefinite leave of absence.

It is not the length or manner of a speech but the matter it contains that takes with the people of Nevada. The Detroit Free Press furnishes a verbatim report of the effort of one of Nevada's statesmen at the last election, as follows: "Fellow countrymen, follow me to your election, and it is unnecessary for me to state that the spirit of the remarks aroused the enthusiasm of the multitude, and elected the candidate by a large majority."

In Portland they are not only delighted but surprised at the workings of the telephone; its capabilities for transmitting sound being regarded as something amazing. Nothing, also, is more striking when compared to the facilities enjoyed by several old mans of an adjoining town. As disseminators of small-talk and gossip they manage the telephone several points, and then win the game "by a large majority."

Mr. John Goodwin, one of the wealthy citizens of Columbia county, paid the STATESMAN office a visit on Wednesday last. Ten years ago Mr. Goodwin came to this section a poor man. Last year he paid the local railroad over seven hundred dollars for the transportation of only a portion of his crop to the river, and this year, with average good luck, he will increase that figure. Mr. Goodwin's case, like many others, proves that, in this country, all that is necessary to accumulate a fortune is patient, honest industry.

While a war between Russia and England would probably prove a financial blessing to our people, still it would have its drawbacks. Just imagine the average Oregon paper, now filled with out-standing and graphic reports of the noble game of horse-ball, filled "to the muzzle" with nothing more exciting than thrilling descriptions of bloody battles. In this case the law of compensation would once more be forcibly illustrated. However, what at $1.25 per bushel is hardly sufficient compensation for the loss of the base-ball news.

Walla Walla is singularly free from the class of men referred to in this paragraph, from the Idaho Statesman: "What a dreary and forlorn life a man must lead who goes forth in the morning and makes the rounds of every public resort in the town, idling away valuable time at each, and seeming to have no more regard for the present or future than a dumb animal would have. Day after day he goes through the melancholy task, plodding along through life a monument of his own worthlessness, lack of energy, and everything else that goes to make up active and honorable manhood."
