TO ADVERTISERS.—The Walls Walla Statesman has a much larger circulation than any other paper published in the Territory of Washington, and hence offers superior inducement to advertisers who would reach the very best class of paying customers.

RATHER WOOLLY.—It is said that Ben. Butler will emigrate to Colorado, there to engage in the sheep business and thence go to the Senate. A Butlerizing process of wool gathering. The sweet lamb!

HAYES MAY TRAVEL, says an exchange, from Portland to Galvestor, sycophants may surround him, hands may play, the idle multitude may stare and the followers of the successful may flatter, but the words of C. F. Adams will remain true: "Hayes must forever carry on his brow the stamp of fraud first triumphant in American history."

FOUR YEARS HENCE.—Hayes is endeavoring to atone for his usurpation by following the line of policy which would have been adopted by the rightful occupant of the executive chair, remarks the St. Louis Republic, and though this does not strengthen his title in the least, it certainly makes him more tolerable to the democracy. Four years hence will be time enough to settle old scores, and settled they will be then, principal and interest.

FRAUDULENT HAYES expressed the belief recently that the radical party would surely carry North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Louisiana at the next elections. Mr. Hayes is hopeful. He forgets that in those States the people have a peculiar aversion to retreating board bayonets, and the "bloody shirt," the methods used by radicals to carry elections in Southern States, and methods which the people will not permit in the future.

THE FRAUDULENT PRESIDENT, in his letter to Governor Hampton announcing that only three indictments in the Ellerton case would be pressed to trial expressed his conviction that "a general amnesty should extend to all political offences except those which are of the gravest character." It is fortunate for Mr. Hayes that he is the dispenser rather than the seeker of executive clemency, for his political offense is indeed of the gravest character.

MATCHES.—In some respects Brother Hayes and Brother Beecher would make good yoke fellows. Both are under a cloud of public obprobrium. Both make pretensions to virtues which they do not possess. Both think by cool assurance and dissimulation they can eventually obtain oblivion of their offences, and both are constantly seeking endorsement from reputable people in a manner which is an acknowledgment that they have no moral right to it.

STRONGER THAN EVER BEFORE.—The democracy is stronger than ever before, and the failure of the recent efforts to divide it shows that it will remain united. All that was left of whiggery was absorbed by existing organizations. Its corpse cannot be galvanized, for no man knows where its grave was made. The Union Observer justly alleges that republicanism will be called up for punishment at the next Presidential election, and at all intervening elections. It may change its name, but it cannot change its identity, and by adopting an alias it will not mitigate, but intensify, the wrath of an indignant people.

NEWSPAPER FAILURES.—Some half a dozen newspapers have been started up in Nevada during the past few months. In some towns of that State there are two papers running where it is morally certain that only one can make a decent livelihood. Winnemucca, one of the most thriving towns of the State outside of those in the vicinity of the Comstock, was unable to support two papers, and so it will result in every instance where the supply is greater than the demand. The newspaper business is over done nearly everywhere, and men who start new enterprises of this kind would do well to look the field over carefully and see if they cannot make a better investment of their capital and a more judicious use of their time and labor.

CATCOTT IN THEIR OWN TRAP.—The New York chamber of commerce lent itself recently to the perpetration of a very sticky trick, which was not successful. It gave a dinner to which Fraudulent Hayes was invited and said that he would come, and it issued invitations to certain eminent gentlemen to "meet President Hayes." Among others, invitations were sent to Mr. Tilden, Gov. Robinson, Senator Kernan and other distinguished democrats, the idea being to get them, by accepting the invitations, to thus virtually acknowledge Mr. Hayes as the lawful President. But the trick failed. Mr. Tilden, Gov. Robinson, Senator Kernan and most all the democrats invited politely declined. They would not have objected to meeting Mr. Hayes, Governor Hayes, or General Hayes, but there never having been any such man as President Hayes—the people never having elected any man of that name President—of course they could not meet him. Tilden, Robinson and Kernan are too old a trio of birds to be caught standing still till salt be sprinkled on their tails and they saw through the whole game at the first glance. As a man they would meet Mr. Hayes gladly, but as President—that was a horse of another color. And so the chamber of commerce was beaten with its own weapons.

The Mormon Situation.

The evidences of a Mormon uprising are accumulating. Either the news reporters in Utah have chosen to become absurdly sensational or some unusual movement is on foot in this American Zion. The country will be slow to believe that the reorganization of the Nauvoo Legion imports a menace to the safety of Gentiles residing in the Territory. The Mormon leaders know that the murder of a Gentle by a Mormon, no matter what the real provocation may have been, is interpreted by the country to mean a religious assassination. Brigham Young has been and will continue to be held responsible for all the bloodshed in the Territory, and his hierarchy would not at this day survive another Mountain Meadows massacre. Of all persons, it would seem he is the most interested in preventing violence. The latest phase of the situation, as reported from Salt Lake, is to the effect that Brigham intends to gather 10,000 Indians in Thistle Valley, "to do the will of the Lord." To this end, Mormon settlers in that valley have been notified to leave, which would seem to indicate that they are not willing the Indians should do the will of the Lord upon them.

This may afford a clue to what Brigham means by the "will of the Lord," but it is already understood that in this modern Judea, as in the ancient, the worst atrocities—those of which devils should have been ashamed—are ascribed to the Lord. It is not clear, however, where Brigham is to gather his 10,000 Indians from, and it is still less clear how they can do the will of the Lord on any extended scale in a depopulated valley, for it is evident that the advent of the Indians and the hegira of the Mormons will be sufficient warning to the Gentiles. Some things, however, are very clear. Among them may be noted the fact that if 10,000 or any other number of Indians are gathered in any valley of Utah, and make any hostile demonstrations, the United States troops will do the will of the Government upon them summarily, and if it were plainly apparent that Brigham Young had designed any evil work for them, it would work the utter confusion and overthrow of Mormonism in this country. The stories bear a closer resemblance to an attempt to prejudice the Mormon people before the country, and excite and enrage popular sentiment against them, than the sober report of any existing facts.

MACMAHON'S DILEMMA.—Germany holds resolutely to the view that the recent change in the French government is a menace to her, as to all other powers committed to a policy with regard to the Pope unacceptable to the ultramontane party. In France, or at all events in the government circles and in official utterances, it is maintained with the greatest energy that this is not true, but that, on the contrary, the change made has no relation whatever to the foreign policy of France; the ecclesiastical agitators who helped to make this change will be disappointed. They constitute the party the President depends upon in his defiance of the party that is the exponent of the opinions of the majority of the people. If they are disappointed they will make their disappointment felt, and upon what will the President and his ministry rest then? He has thrown over the majority party and made it the enemy of his government because he puts himself in an attitude of hostility to the constitution and even to the parliamentary government. By the choice of a reactionary ministry he has even alienated and alarmed all those moderate conservatives who oscillate from group to group to the Centres. He has, therefore, no support but one to be drawn from the party of the right with priestly and royal sympathies. They will not insist upon programme with regard to royalty, but will they support a government that does not accept their views as to Rome and the Pope? Not for a moment. And if MacMahon accepts their views that is on the ground which the Germans allege he means to take, and he is in collision morally with the Italian and the German policy. If he does not change his foreign policy he is at issue with the only party from which he can hope for support, and he must fall. If he does change his policy he comes into collision with Germany. What course will he choose?

AGITATED.—The fraudulent administration at Washington is in a terrible stew all the time about Tilden. An afternoon paper in New York prints a Washington dispatch to the effect that the real cause of the postponement of the extra session of Congress was on account of the discovery of a conspiracy to inaugurate Tilden, the plan being the introduction of a resolution declaring that gentlemen to be the President elect, which it was expected would pass. We do not know whether there is any truth in this story or not, but the very fact that such a thing is talked about in Administration circles shows how guilty they all feel themselves to be. Somebody once said of the great Napoleon that if his grey surcoat were put upon a stick in any part of France it would cause all Europe to rush to arms from one end to the other. And this is how it is with the administration when the name of Tilden is mentioned. The conspirators huddle together, grow pale with fear and imagine all sorts of retribution as about to overtake them.

THE FOLLOWING LITTLE ITEM is from the Tacoma Herald.—Mr. Longway, proprietor of a saloon here, is "on the hook," and financial results are around much more frequently than is required for perfect health in a civilized community.

Peace Rumors.—Already, before the Russians have crossed the Danube, rumors are afloat that a peace will result from the interposition of neutral powers. Germany is reported as having taken an arrangement in hand, and there is certainly no power that could speak to Russia with so much force as the Emperor William. Not only are the personal relations of the two Emperors of the most friendly character, but they are united by the sympathy of mutual service rendered. The Emperor William will not soon forget the friendly services of Russia in holding Austria quiet during the war with France, as Germany was thus enabled to leave its eastern frontier unprotected, while its whole magnificent army was directed against France. It has been considered as settled in the best informed circles that Russia has the assurance of Germany that no overpowering European coalition shall be formed against her during her struggle with Turkey; and it is very generally believed that England's participation in the war as an ally of Turkey would be quickly followed by Germany as the ally of Russia. But if any such understanding exists between the two Governments, the recent change in the French ministry opens a possibility of new complications in a quarter Germany cannot disregard. With a French ministry in power that Bismarck suspects of awaiting its opportunity, Germany must be aware that the opportunity is afforded whenever it may become involved in war. Germany at least wants its hands free from other engagements when summoned to a decisive engagement with her old enemy, and may, consequently, think it better to hush up this comparatively unimportant quarrel between Russia and Turkey. The war area opens to such a vast extent, if no effort is made to check it, that the powers may well hesitate before making the final plunge. The successes of the Russian army in Asia almost compel England to come to the defence of her menaced provinces, in which event it is not improbable that the Russian Emperor would call on Germany for aid. France would then have her opportunity, an opportunity which the astute German Chancellor may not feel inclined to afford if it can be easily avoided.—Eo

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 24, 1877. EDITOR STATESMAN.—Sandwiched between armies of office-seekers, delegations of various kinds appear daily at the White House. Saturday the white politicians were there, yesterday the President, of course, was "at home" among these representatives of his own church, and left an excellent impression on them all. He is not always, they say, as kind to the students at the dead mans college, a name long ago, though doubtless improved when translated into their own language, was accurately reported in the papers next morning, and must have gone far when they read it, to reconcile those unhappy people to their peculiar misfortune.

Speaking of office-seekers, these hot summer days find the city full of them. When it is hot in Washington it is very hot, but heat seems to have no terror for this class. Among other reasons given by the press why the President postponed the extra session is the fear that democrats would seize the occasion of its assembling to inaugurate Mr. Tilden. This is hardly a good reason, for Mr. Tilden has the same proper means without as with Congress of testing his right to the office of President. He is not of that class of men who grab at things simply because they shine bright. He will have a valid title to the Presidency before he occupies the White House. But the occasional mention of these rumors by republican papers, shows at least a suspicion among them that the title of Mr. Hayes is not what it ought to be. It shows a desire on their part, too, to create an issue which will lead existing troubles inside their party.

In our local affairs, made interesting to the whole country from the fact that the nation must pay or delay a lively time is going on over the appointment of one of our commissioners. Three commissioners, by the way, rule us without appeal. The contest now is between a farmer mayor of the city and a former member of the board of public works. As the latter has the most will of flow, Stanley Matthews, of Ohio, Hon. Wm. Dennison, of Ohio, and Hon. J. A. Garfield, of Ohio, you may set it down as certain that he will be appointed.

A. Walker, formerly of Ohio, and notice of his appointment will be looked for in my next letter.

A case law just been decided here which will be of interest everywhere, for criminals are everywhere. A man was convicted in a lower court of the district of Columbia, and sentenced to three months in jail for each offense. The commitment, it appears, or this case, and the higher court held one commitment, and discharged the man at the end of the first six months. The military authorities have their own way, there is no doubt the pocket rule on Mexico will be a disappointing result. There is a great deal of bad feeling among our officers just now, caused partly by the growing dislike with which a standing army is viewed, and partly by the anomalous conditions that find themselves by reason of the necessity to call Congress together, and they would no doubt be glad to see service to reconstitute themselves in public favor, and to hasten restriction in their behalf. However high in position they ought to be, they are not above the law. Their business is to do the duty of the war contractors. No doubt the President will do well to have his eye on Sherman, Sheridan and Ord in these uncertain times.

THE GLOBE OF DAY.—In a recent lecture on "The Sun," before the royal institution, Professor Gladstone said: "The nucleus is now believed to emit rays of every degree of refrangibility, and possibly consists of a liquid globe, but its low specific gravity rather indicates a vast conglomeration of condensed vapors. The first atmosphere consists of vapors of metals, among which chromium, magnesium, iron, nickel, cobalt, uranium, manganese and many others have been recognized. They are, doubtless, constantly passing from the gaseous to the liquid condition, and from those white, hot clouds which we see, and moving, mottled surface we see. The clouds are sometimes heaped together in masses of unusual brightness termed facule, and sometimes give way to colder spots. Outside this atmosphere is another luminous atmosphere, named by Lockyer the chromosphere. It is red in color, and consists of hydrogen, with the more volatile metals sodium and magnesium, several of which are sometimes seen rising in it. This red zone is usually 5000 to 7500 miles high. Its visible limit is doubtless determined by the cooling of the glowing gas, but an atmosphere probably extends to at least 200,000 miles beyond the chromosphere. In this there frequently rise red flames of hydrogen of fantastic forms, some of which are 180,000 miles high, and move at the rate of 174 miles a second. Far beyond the red flames there is seen, during a total eclipse of the sun, the faint light known as the corona. This is believed to be due partially to reflected light, but it shows a peculiar yellow line identical with one found in the aurora borealis.

NEWS FROM THE EAST.—If the report of the destruction of another Turkish gunboat by the Russians on the Danube proves to be true the Turks will begin to regard torpedoes as "bad medicine." These terrible engines of destruction strike below the armor plating, and while rendering an immense service in the ship generally insure the destruction of the crew as well. As bearing on the defenses of the Danube the loss of two large gunboats will necessarily have a very depressing effect on the Turkish navy. The Turkish fleet is considerably strengthened by the possession, as they thought, of the control of the navigation. While dimensions at Constantinople hamper the government a little war cloud is gathering on the Greek frontier. It is natural that the sympathies of the Greek should go out to the religiousists of Russia, especially when a considerable number of territory is likely to be awarded him for his timely action in manning the Turks. In the event of hostilities in the "idleless Egean" it will be interesting to Europe to know what attitude the English fleet will assume when Hubert's Pacific iron clads are bombarding the Princes. The recent Greek victory over the expedition at St. Petersburg of Russia's iron clads in connection with the present war is highly interesting. Constantinople as a free port under the protection of the great Powers of Europe and the extension of the Russian Pacific navy toward the south at the expense of China would certainly work a great change in the commercial world, and one from which all civilized nations would derive a benefit.—N. Y. Herald.

WILLY WILLIAM A.—The New York World discourses as follows in reference to the second officer in the Federal government: "Where is Wheeler all this while? The only William A. couldn't go to New Orleans, because he had to paint his house or plow his meadow lot, we forget which, but when we remember that about two months ago it was proclaimed that the leading characteristic of this administration was to be the active participation of the Vice President, we think it odd, to say the least, that Mr. W. A. Wheeler isn't at his post holding up the President's hands. We refuse to entertain the suspicion that Wheeler would like to see Mr. Hayes badgered into resigning, but as a matter of curiosity we should like to know whether in the approaching republican chase Mr. Wheeler is going to hunt with the hounds or to run with the hare.

OMIO.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Express says: "I was shown a letter from Ohio yesterday, written by a very intelligent and somewhat prominent, though local, politician of that State to a friend in one of the executive departments, deploring very much the evidence that existed in that State of unusual democratic vigor. The campaign for the fall election, the writer said, would be one of intense activity, and the democrats, he said, were having advantages offered them by the strange course of the administration that could only redound to their success. The writer also intimated that Hayes has disappointed his best friends, and was giving himself away to the enemies of the republican party. 'Any more dallying with Southern politicians and the party is gone to the devil,' was the more emphatic than eloquent conclusion of the lachrymose letter.

COURAGEOUS.—Mr. Hayes is afraid of Congress; Mr. Hayes is a timid man. No doubt Mr. Hayes sleeps in a night cap with long strings and a fringe. There is not grit enough in Mr. Hayes' composition to make a grindstone the size of a blind worm's eye, remarks the Cincinnati Enquirer.

SERIAL MURDER.—The special mail is extending all over the State, and every section seems to be afflicted by the same disease. The late victim of Mr. Richard Crump, foreman of Col. Harding's regiment, is "on the hook," and financial results are around much more frequently than is required for perfect health in a civilized community.

Gen. Custer and His Comrades.

The war department has decided the remains of Gen. Custer and the officers who fell with him in the battle on the Little Big Horn shall be removed to a more accessible place of rest. Colonel Sheridan has already left for the scene of the battle, and it is expected that the work may be finished in little more than a month. The graves of the sixteen gallant officers are side by side, and each was carefully marked at the time of burial for future identification. Unless the Indians have deserted this rude sepulchre there will be little difficulty in transferring the remains to Fort Leavenworth, where in the national cemetery, they will repose in security. The body of General Custer will be taken to West Point, in accordance, it is said, with the wishes of his family. The only exception, we believe, to the removal is in the case of Lieutenant Crittenden, whose father has desired that the body of the young soldier shall rest where he fought so bravely.

There are good reasons for this action of the government. It is the duty of the nation to commemorate the event as well as the locality, and many of the relatives and friends of these officers would prefer to have them interred at Leavenworth cemetery instead of the now a most inaccessible wilds of the Indian country. No tomb could be found more appropriate to the valorous Custer than that at West Point. But nothing should be done in such a matter without the approval of the relatives of the dead heroes. Their wishes should be respected, and, no doubt, will be by the government. The question is purely one of sentiment, and some may feel, like General Crittenden, that the most honorable grave for a soldier is on the battle field where he fell. With this right of relatives understood, the decision of the government will be approved. But the losses of hundreds of men have not continued to moulder in that fatal pass. It was not possible to identify all who fell, and many must enclose them forever. Whatever honors may be paid the slain at West Point or Leavenworth equal respect should be rendered to their names with Custer to death. A monument should be built to that lovely valley which did not do the memory of all who fought so nobly, from the foremost and famous leader to the humblest trooper in his command.

General War Notes.

A heavy consular has been heard at Salina. It is rumored that a Russian squadron has attempted to force an entrance into Salina at the mouth of the Platte in order to assist at the crossing of the troops. The official report of Vienna, published in the intelligence from St. Petersburg, that the Russian army is moving from Vienna and Berlin, who recently arrived at St. Petersburg, was called either by Prince Gortchakoff to consult on the best means to secure the conclusion of peace, with the cooperation of the powers.

LEXINGTON, June 1.—The Times' Belgrade dispatch says it is rumored that Prince Milan won't go to the meeting at St. Petersburg, unless he is accompanied by a former minister of Serbia, who is now in Roumania.

The consular army corps of the Drina are encamped for drilling near Obrenovatz. The corps of observation is ready to march for the Trank frontier.

Letters from Sarajevo state that a great battle has been fought with the insurgents at Liscio. The Times' Belgrade dispatch says the operations of the Turk army in Bosnia are progressing. Troops in Herzegovina are moving towards Kragujevac. The Turkish army is moving from Podgorica and has occupied an entrenched position between Zetina and Susstizza, close to the frontier.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 5.—The arrival of the Russian forces at Sulistina and Koshkice, brings two strong Russian columns within six hours march of Ezerouni.

A dispatch from Ezerouni says it is confirmed that the troops belonging to the Russian corps continue patrol as far as Sulistina mountains.

The Turkish headquarters have fallen back on Hupskick.

The vanguard of the Russian right wing has passed the R. Koshkice.

Intelligence has been received that Mukhtar Pasha is falling back on Zaim. The army is considered to be in a grave position.

The English have been in a good position that a Russian 204-veck alliance has been arranged for war.

VIENNA, June 4.—The Standard's correspondent has the best authority for stating that Subotzian Pasha, the new minister of foreign affairs, left Constantinople Saturday with instructions regarding the course to be pursued in the matter of Germany is still at the latter stage of the war.

Mohamed Reza Pasha has an audience with the Sultan. He is regarded as the coming grand vizier.

A conspiracy has been discovered in Belgrade against Prince Milan and in favor of the Prince of Montenegro. Many members of the Oublinevo have been arrested. Serious events are likely to follow.

RADICAL REVOLT IN OHIO.—The radical revolt in Ohio appears to be a good deal more of a reality than the head of the present Administration care to admit. But ignoring it only makes it worse. When the party's convention meets we shall know all about it.

The cause of offence is the Southern policy; no hard more than that. Mr. Hayes has followed out the course which the democrats long demanded and the country endorsed last November. The rebellion is reported to be rapidly spreading through the west and northwest, threatening in the end to break up the Cabinet. The Ohio recruits are calling on Hayes to come to the front with his dancing feather and lead them in the fight; but the Maine Senator and statesman seems to have had a new wisdom tooth cut since he made his notable bonous in the Senate, and prudently shuts his mouth. All the fight he is making at present is at the sharp point of Gail Hamilton's pen. It is perfectly obvious, says the Boston Post, that the whole of this changed row is because Hayes has sold off what remained of the radical "cock in trade" with the bloody shirt gang, the party flag is not to be found waving anywhere. The struggle, however, over the question of prolonging this sectional controversy might as well come in the party now as at any time, for some it must and sectional hatred must end if we are ever to become a united and prosperous nation. The "Anarchy" of which these radicals cling to the promises of war shows that they have not even yet comprehended the true meaning of the conflict, and that their capital is so completely exhausted as to compel proceedings in bankruptcy.

CHIEF JUSTICE'S ALIVE CASE.—When Mr. Tilden was candidate for the Presidency, he had no warmer friend or more earnest advocate than the Chicago Tribune. Since his election, that paper has gradually changed its tone. Speaking of his failure to attend the banquet given to Mr. Hayes in New York City, to which he had been invited, it says: "It is possible that Tilden imagines he is still an object of interest to the American people; that he is still a representative of public opinion; that he is still a political leader; and that he is still a man of honor. The party and a party standard-bearer, that the eye of the country are still upon him, reading him as the true hero to the which which angles in the most delicate of lyric. But if so, he is no longer worthy itself about Greece. The country no longer worships itself about Greece. It has ceased to think of him, save as a sharp New York lawyer who was once a candidate for President, and who is now in the way of the world, to whom he meets with no fortune, and the Times is evidently a very worthy paper.

GEN. JOHN BRATTY, one of the Ohio republican State committee, according to report, has been studying whether the Southern policy of the Frankfort President suits or not, and has arrived at the following conclusion, by asking himself the question: "Do I like the President's Southern policy?" No, sir, I don't like it; I did not like it last fall, when it was Mr. Tilden's policy, and I have no more faith in it now. We must either believe that the President has made a great blunder, or that the republican party is a great blunder, or that the republican party is a great blunder. These holdings off and these expecting of others are as bad as confess that they have been half-hearted, deceitful and betraying, while the other half expect to talk on the subject without availing, and therefore prefer not to talk at all. Ohio will not endorse the President's Southern policy."

A NEW OLD BILL.—Julius Taft, the poor old fellow who played attorney general during the latter part of the administration and who asserted that Mr. Hayes never kept a pledge to a friend, wants to be governor of Ohio. But Mr. Young, the present incumbent, also wants to try it again, and we guess have the support of Father Taft in the republican convention, particularly as he will be likely to have too much of a legittimate under Mr. Grant, to have any very good chance now with the people. But the Democracy of Ohio will most likely settle his hash and Young's too.

NEW TELEGRAPH LINE.—To meet the demands of business better the Pacific Telegraph Company contemplate the construction of two lines across the Blue Mountains, the distance being only thirty miles from the westward. These two will insure communication without fear of breaks and the consequent annoyance of delay to the public in the transmission of dispatches. It was discovered that the old line was in bad condition and required permanent repairs, and that nothing temporary would give satisfaction. This necessitated the building of the line throughout.—Portland Standard.

WORLD NOT IMPROVE HIM AGAIN.—If it wasn't that we never could depend upon what a rational opinion of the Cincinnati Gazette: "That if another election were now to be held in Ohio, the republicans would not carry a single county in the State, so policy among the politicians."

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—LOST: A BLACK VAISEL, containing CLOTHING, &c. the same will be returned if found by leaving the Value set on the road between the City and Nursery, and Walla Walla city.

Advertisement for Johnson, Rees & Winans, featuring a large illustration of their store building and text describing their extensive stock of goods, including wall paper, and their location in Walla Walla.

HAWLEY, DODD & Co. are constantly receiving large invoices of all kinds of farming machinery.

NEW GOODS.—We noticed on Tuesday last that very large quantities of goods of all descriptions were being received by the merchants of this city.

SIDE WALK.—We notice that there has been a new side-walk put down in front of what is known as the old Wertheimer property, situated just above Tom Tierney's livery stable. A great many other property owners should go and do likewise.

"DIED."—A Portland paper notices the death of a couple at Dayton, W. T. There are still a few more young men left in this community who would like to die the same way the one noticed in the alfredaid paper did.

WILL ROMAN.—Company "H," 21st infantry, now at this post, who left Vancouver some time ago for field service in the Wallowa valley, have received orders to have their laundresses and baggage brought to Fort Walla Walla, which means that they will be stationed here for a while at least.

FISHING PARTY.—Messrs. J. Linsinger, Julius Wezic and Mr. Mogler left last Wednesday afternoon for the Calville and Palouse country. They took with them all the necessary fishing tackle so as to be able to have a first-class time angling in the creeks of that country for members of the fishy tribe. They will return in about three weeks.

SUPPLIES.—As per order from headquarters, department of the Columbia, the A. A. C. S. at Fort Walla Walla, sent on Tuesday last rations for the command in the Wallowa valley, to last through to the 31st day of July. As will be seen from this order the command will not return to this post for some time.

SHUT DOWN.—The Standard Mills, A. McCally & Son, proprietors, were shut down for the season on last Monday evening. Mr. Adam Weatherston, the millwright noticed elsewhere, will soon take charge of the mill, and give it a thorough repairing; he will also make several important changes in the establishment before the summer and fall run will commence.

HON. W. H. NEWELL, editor of this paper, in company with Miss Bettie Butterfield and Mr. A. McCally, of the Standard Mills, took their departure by last Sunday evening's train for Portland. Miss Bettie goes to Corvallis to visit her relatives and friends at that place. Mr. Newell and Mr. McCally will visit various towns in the Willamette, as they are on a business and pleasure trip. They will return some time next week.

TRANSFER OF PROPERTY.—Mr. Edward Williams has bought the property, occupied by him as a school for the past year, of J. H. Lester, paying the sum of $3550 for it. It is situated on Main street, between Second and Third, being 27 feet front and running back to the alley. Mr. Williams informs us that he will, at an early day, raise the building up to a level with the street, lay a new sidewalk, and improve the place generally. It is a clever fellow, and his numerous friends in this city are glad to see him thus prospering.

FINE CLOTHING.—Messrs. Dusenbery Bros. have now in their store as large and complete a stock of clothing as can be found in any establishment north of San Francisco. They have enough to supply every man and boy in the valley with a suit of clothes, and then have plenty left. They also have a very large stock of ladies' goods, to which they invite attention. All of the above goods are bound to be sold cheap, and purchasers will do well to call at their store before buying elsewhere.

DRONES.—One idle man in a community does almost as much mischief as a plague or a famine could do. Not satisfied with his own idleness, he is continually growling and grumbling about the condition of the country, and decrying every honest and legitimate effort on the part of those who are trying to build it up. Drones of this description should go off to some secluded spot, where the voice of no civilized man could ever be heard by them, there to enjoy that peace which belongs only to men of their class.

SCIENTIFIC ASSOCIATION.—Last Monday evening the regular meeting of the Walla Walla Association for the Advancement of Science, took place at the Court House. Lieut. F. F. Knox, delivered a very able discourse on the "History and Advancement of Arms," in which he described the various implements of warfare used by man from the one club of a thousand centuries ago down to the needle gun and Krupp cannon. The weather was exceedingly unpleasant, yet a good audience was in attendance. After the lecture a report on the transactions of the American public health association was made by Dr. Bingham, followed by remarks from several of the members. These meetings are becoming exceedingly interesting, and we advise all our friends to remember the first Monday of the month, and not to neglect attending these instructive meetings.

FIRE AT ASTORIA.—A dispatch to a Portland paper, dated Astoria, June 24, says that Astoria has been visited by a very destructive conflagration, which for a time threatened to sweep away the most of the town. The fire commenced in the Sang saloon, on Concomly street, directly opposite to Kinney Bros' saloon. By almost superhuman exertions the cannery was saved from destruction. Every building was consumed on the north side of Concomly street from Kinney's cannery to Sison, Hamilton & Co's store on the west side of the Parker House block. Sison, Hamilton & Co's store is scorched brown. Peter Kinney's new building opposite is consumed, and but for a change in the wind while this was burning, all the business part of the old town, including the Parker House and Occident Hotel, would have been burned. Every store and dwelling house in this part of the town was emptied of its contents, as owing to the total absence of anything like an efficient fire engine, everything burned down. The principle losers are Peter Kinney, Isaac Bergman, Sessions and St. Louis, H. E. Parker and Geo. B. McEwan. The estimated loss is $20,000.

THE ANNUAL FAIR.—The managers of Walla Walla County Agricultural Society are doing everything in their power to make the County Fair a success. The Fair will commence on Tuesday, September 18th, and no doubt will be far ahead of any previous one held in this county. The premium list will be published in book form, which will be a great improvement on the old way. Neat posters are being gotten up, and will be circulated about the 1st of July. The managers have also succeeded in getting Hon. W. H. Newell, our editor, to again deliver the annual address. If the editor was at home his extreme modesty would prevent this item from being published, but in his absence we feel that it is only doing him justice to say that no better selection could have been made.

A SAN FRANCISCO PAPER very properly suggests that the "government owes it to itself and the public, as well as to Judge Lewis, to exert its utmost powers of investigation in order to discover the author of this last forgery. He is probably the same man that perpetrated the former one. One can almost pardon the man who makes a bold but honorable canvass for a judgeship, however much honest men may prefer that such honors and responsibilities shall be unsought by the recipient. But there is nothing but detestation to be felt for a fellow who would attain such a position for himself or his favorite by means which are nothing less than State Prison offences."

MR. ADAM WEATHERSTON, of Oregon City, an experienced millwright, arrived in this city some days ago, and has spent the past week in looking at different parts of this valley. Mr. Weatherston intends to locate at this place if he thinks, after thorough investigation, it will pay. This gentleman comes well recommended, and we think the mill men of the valley and the surrounding country would do well to offer him inducements to locate somewhere in their neighborhood.

EVERY MAN interested in productive soil will act sensibly by cultivating every inch of it to the extent of his means and ability. The European war may last for a long time, and this country is liable to be drawn upon very heavily for all kinds of produce. A new era is dawning upon the farmer of this section especially, and by their energies they should be able to take advantage of it. Stock raisers, manufacturers, and parties engaged in all branches of business will find it to their advantage to be up and doing.

THE LADY, whose death notice will be found elsewhere, Mrs. Rogers, was a former resident of this valley. Her former husband died in this city in 1873, after which she married Mr. Moses A. Rogers, and removed to Bitter Root valley, Montana. After remaining there some time removed to Dennison, Texas, at which place she became afflicted with malaria fever, and it was thought best to remove for change of climate, hoping thereby to restore her health. On their arrival at Coffeyville, the best medical attendance was summoned, but to no avail.

ROBBERY.—Tuesday night last some unknown thief or thieves entered the Star Saloon situated at the upper part of town, and took therefrom, we are informed, about $200 in cash, twelve watches, and three mechanical watches. We suppose the watches were of a rather cheap quality judging from the estimated value of the number stolen, the parties estimating the whole loss, as is generally understood, at three or four hundred dollars.

JAMES WHEELAN, the new saddler, is doing a large business in his line. He keeps from four to five men constantly employed in supplying the wants of his customers. He received one day last week a large invoice of California leather and saddlery, and it will pay all persons to call and examine his stock before purchasing elsewhere.

WILL SOAR THE EAGLE.—The citizens of Boise City and vicinity have completed arrangements, and will celebrate the coming Fourth in grand style. Hon. W. A. Goulder, well and favorably known in this city, has been selected as poet of the day.

COMEDY COMPANY.—The J. P. Stevens' Comedy Company gave a performance at the City Hall last evening, but as we went to press before it commenced, we cannot give particulars. They will perform this evening we hope to a full house.

AN EASTERN PAPER publishes the marriage notice of a Mr. John Corkscrew and a Miss Minnie Angur, and wants to know what the result will be. One would naturally suppose that it would be a few little gimlets.

EXAMINATION.—The annual summer examinations of the St. Paul's School will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday next, during both morning and afternoon. The public are invited to attend.

NOTION STORE.—Kirby & Day, we understand, have opened a cigar and fruit stand at Dayton. They will also dish out ice cream in quantities to suit the Daytonites.

JOHN B. LEWIS, dealer in books and stationery, has everything in his line for sale cheap for cash. He keeps all the most popular news papers and periodicals, of the latest dates, constantly on hand.

MOVED.—The old building at the corner of 7th and Main streets is being removed to the location of the new depot of the W. W. C. R. Railroad, for a warehouse.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.—The regular monthly meeting of the Walla Walla Lyceum & Library Association, will be held this (Saturday) evening at 8 o'clock.

MR. ROBERT PELKEY & Co. are prepared to sink, clean, and wall wells, clean flues, etc. Leave your address at H. E. Homes' Drug Store.

CELEBRATION.—The Masonic Fraternity of this city will have a celebration on the 25th inst. by taking an excursion over the railroad to Wallula.

RONAN BROS. have put down a new sidewalk in front of their new brick building. Quite an improvement over the old one.

CHARLEY PHILLIPS is just now turning out some very fine work in the line of photograptographs.

J. M. HURT, proprietor of the Dayton hotel, paid Walla Walla a flying visit last week.

IN PROBATE.—Letters of administration in the matters of the estate of Philip I. Hawley, deceased, have been issued to W. Hawley, and George F. Thomas, E. B. Whitman and Richard Jacobs were appointed appraisers of said estate. The estate is said to be worth about $12,000.

A NICE YOUNG MAN was out riding with his sweetheart a few days ago, when the young chap had to stop the team and get out to buckle a crupper which had come loose. The young man explained to his "Hannah" that the animal's bustle had come loose.

SEWING MACHINES.—The new family Singer sewing machines are now advertised by the manufacturing company at $30 each. Just one-half the price as heretofore charged for the same quality of machine.

JUDGE GUICHARD has so far recovered as to be able to attend to his official duties, but is still very weak and feeble.

JOE BAUER has just received a large stock of baby carriages, and bird cages. Go and look at them, all that need such articles.

THE WEATHER was quite warm yesterday, the thermometer standing at 75 in the shade, at half past ten o'clock.

JOHN MCCOY, formerly of this city, and a well known soda manufacturer has returned.

CHERRIES and strawberries ripening fast these warm days.

LOST.—See advertisement under the above head in another column.

FRAUDULENT HAYES ON SILVER.—The New York Tribune says that the Fraudulent President favors the re-monetization of silver, but under such conditions as will shake the national credit. He does not believe in the justice of making the principal and interest of the public debt payable in silver. The country would doubtless like to know more of Fraudulent Hayes' views on silver. The idea of providing a currency for trade and general use which is not good enough to pay foreign debts with, is not pleasant to contemplate. The nation does not want two kinds of money of different values, and any financial policy based upon any such shuffling principle will be condemned. Of course the nation, like an individual, must fulfill contracts in the spirit and to the letter, and if we have sold bonds payable on their face in gold, they must be paid in that metal. But if silver is re-monetized, bonds issued before it was demonetized will be payable in gold or silver. Besides, the fundamental idea of re-monetization is that the two metals should be coined into standard, and established on the basis of equality in value. The silver dollar must be worth as much as the gold dollar. This would not relieve us from an obligation to pay in gold when the bonds call for gold; but it will relieve the nation from loss on account of the obligation.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.—A Negro was shot and killed at Toxoma, on Sunday night, by a Kanaka. It seems that during the evening the Negro and Kanaka and a white man were engaged in playing a game of cards in the Negro's skabin up town, and that the party broke up in a row; that the white man and Kanaka left, that during the night the Kanaka went back to the cabin and finding the Negro there alone shot him dead. A bullet hole was found through the door of the cabin, in the morning, and the dead body of the Negro lying just inside the door with a bullet hole through the breast. The night watchman heard the report of the rifle about midnight, but did not ascertain whence it proceeded.—Seattle Intelligencer.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS.—One lady begs that mothers make confidants of their daughters. What necessary information has a mother to impart...

WHY PRINTERS DIE YOUNG.—A writer fully accounts for the reason why printers die young, and why they are continually tramping from place to place in search of peace and quietude.

THE BLUE-GLASS MANIA.—The blue glass mania has reached its climax in the sad case of a Chicago man. He went into an optician's and bought a pair of blue goggles to wear on his eyes.

BEWARE OF HAIR-DYE.—One of the residents of a down east village is a crazy woman whose insanity is manifested by always wearing a letter envelope on her bonnet or tied to her parasol, or in some other harmless way.

A ROCHESTER WOMAN appeared on the streets in a ball room dress. She was arrested, but her good character insured her discharge.

The Russian fleet, so long lingering at New York, has departed—whether it is not known. It is rumored, however, that large shipments of arms and ammunition, bound for Russian ports in the Baltic, will follow close behind the fleet, and under protection of its guns.

THE WAR IN THE CAUCASUS.

Some Account of the Circassian Struggle Against Russia. The cable dispatch that the Porte had resolved to send Shamil, a young son of the great Shamil, to the Caucasus recalls the most striking phase of the Russians to the lands just to the south of them.

The fortress was captured by the Russians in 1807, but five years later, by the treaty of Bucharest, was restored to the Turks, who availed themselves of the peace that followed to convert the Circassians to Islamism.

His forces were supposed to be crushed and himself killed, but he reappeared soon afterward and renewed the struggle. The fighting at Akkoiz was of the most desperate character, and for three days the conflict was hand to hand.

In 1870 the old hero repaired to the shrine of Mahomet, where he died the following year. Although subject to Russia the Circassians have not abandoned their hopes of freeing their country with the assistance of their old allies, the Turks.

A FARM.—It was bad enough for the radicals to cheat Tilden and the democracy out of the Presidency, but they are not the only ones cheated; for, so far, Hayes seems to be defrauding the radical party as much as his friends defrauded the democratic party.

THE ORNAMENTAL young men who stand at pinoes and turn the music for the girls, are disguised with a meddling Dutchman, who has invented a machine with which the player, for so far, Hayes seems to be defrauding the radical party as much as his friends defrauded the democratic party.

THE AGE OF THE EARTH.

The law of the radiation of heat, as illustrated by some experiments with an ignited strip of platinum, has been applied in recent discussions respecting the age of the earth. Geological evidence has satisfactorily established that the temperature of the earth was formerly much higher than now, and the decline that has happened could only have taken place by radiation into space.

Color Poisoning.—A belief in color poisoning by means of green dyes and green wall papers has already been forced upon the public by some tolerably conclusive evidence; but it seems that the mischievous properties of this color are far from being yet fully exposed.

THE WILL OF THE RICH man of the future will read: "To the respective attornies of my children I give my entire estate and worldly goods of all descriptions. Personally to the children and to my beloved wife I give all that remains."

TOO THIN.—The old saying about "the sowing of wild oats" is a very foolish one. It is on par with other inappreciable and still popular ones, such as that "bad beginnings make the best endings," and that married rakes are the best husbands.

BRIGHT YOUNG is the father of 63 children, 45 of whom are living; more than half of these are females, and with but two or three exceptions, all are blondes, and none what may be called beautiful. The youngest is six years old.

THE ORNAMENTAL young men who stand at pinoes and turn the music for the girls, are disguised with a meddling Dutchman, who has invented a machine with which the player, for so far, Hayes seems to be defrauding the radical party as much as his friends defrauded the democratic party.
