England and Peace.

The Paris Monitor informs us that we to the millions of England the fact that Europe is now at peace. We do not know how far this is exactly true, but the words of the Monitor are carefully expressed.

THE WALLA WALLA COUNTRY.

The Touchet Valley—Waitsburg—Dayton—Vast Stock Range—Rich Agricultural Region—General Aspect of the Country.

As intimated in a former letter, I have to take advantage of whatever chance facilities to visit different points of interest in this eminently territorial country, and therefore cannot communicate with the Statesman and its readers every day.

The Walla Walla is a small river, something like the Calipatria, rising in the Blue Mountains, and emptying into the Columbia at Walla Walla.

THE HOLYOKE TRAGEDY.

That was a frightful disaster at Holyoke, Massachusetts. The burning alive of some seventy-five men, women and children, through an accidental conflagration in a Catholic Church, reminds us of the still more dreadful affair at the Santiago Cathedral some eight years ago.

TO ADVERTISERS.

The Walla Walla Statesman has a much larger circulation than any other paper published in the Territory of Washington, and hence offers superior inducements to advertisers who would reach the very best class of paying customers.

THE ABOLITION OF FRANCE.—The assurance that the peace of Europe will be preserved are not made more probable by the demand which General De Cissey, the French Minister of War, has made for fifty-one million francs to enable him to continue work on the fortifications and to purchase material for the army. At the same time this request seems to justify German fears that France may recover her military strength, though it does not prove that she intends to use it to obtain revenge. Why should not France prepare for war? None of the other nations of Europe are making the slightest preparation for peace.

THE WALLA WALLA COUNTRY.—We this week publish a second article from the S. F. Alta in relation to this immediate section of country. The publication of these articles was secured by Capt. Wm. H. Andrews, who is now in San Francisco and doing good work for this country. At a time when he is thus laboring to advance home interests, it is worthy of remark that the "stink pot"—Union—is abusing him in the most villainous manner.

SINGULAR.—Mr. Mullett made a defence of his conduct in purchasing stone at Cincinnati for the construction of the Chicago Custom House, by stating that it was the same that had been used years before his assumption of the duties of Supervising Architect, in the erection of the Cincinnati Post Office. It is now stated as being more curious, that the Cincinnati Custom House is being constructed of granite procured in the State of Maine at 89 cents, while the Cincinnati stone in the Cincinnati Custom House cost $1.25. How are these two facts to be reconciled?

THE OHIO REPUBLICANS.—The Ohio Republicans have followed their friends in Pennsylvania in recording themselves against the third term. They do not appear to have any purely State issues, judging from the synopsis of the platform, but content themselves with some rather large generalities. The planks in regard to tariff and finance are but little different from those of Pennsylvania. They declare in favor of the protective plunder system, and on the currency question it is hard to make out what they are driving at. It is one of those sounding utterances which can be construed to the pleasure of whoever reads it. It will apply equally well to expansion and contraction. In fact, it means nothing satisfactory. The intention of the democrats is to make a square fight on the oppressions of the tariff, and in that case they will assuredly beat their antagonists.

A CURIOUS LIBEL SUIT.—A rather singular libel suit has just been decided in the State of Maine. The Portland Press declared that one Stephen Grant was the greatest liar in the State, and he brought suit against the paper, laying his damages at $10,000. The verdict was for the defendant, consequently Mr. Stephen Grant has the satisfaction of reflecting that by a jury of his countrymen he has been awarded the peculiar position of champion liar in the State. We presume that the evidence in support of the defendant must have been very strong, or the character of the complainant particularly weak, but it is odd that a man who must have known how eminent were his claims to the title bestowed upon him, should have gone into Court at all with such a case. Perhaps, however, he wished to secure a legal certificate to the fact of his superlative mendacity, in which event he is doubtless gratified by the verdict.

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION.—Lord Derby's statement of the part taken by England and Russia in preserving the peace between Germany and France, goes far to confirm the substantial accuracy of the alarming reports which a few weeks ago seemed to indicate a rapidly approaching outbreak of hostilities. It is decidedly apparent in fact that Germany did seriously contemplate an assault upon France, and we think there can be no reason to doubt that such an attack was prevented solely by the joint protest of England and Russia. More than this, Lord Derby's statement shows that the danger is by no means over, but that as he expressly declares "the causes of dispute are liable to recur." So far as can be seen at present, they are not only liable, but certain, to recur, for it is the old story of the wolf and the lamb, and the lamb can do nothing which will not serve as a pretext for attack. The armament of France must be considerable, to maintain her independence as a nation, and for moral effect. But she cannot raise it to even the old standard without being accused of a secret desire to renew the war, while if she disarms under a menace she might as well abandon all thoughts of retaining the position of a first rate power.

Freight on the Columbia River.

At their meeting, Tuesday afternoon, the representatives of the different Granges in Eastern Oregon, Washington and Idaho, sought and obtained an interview with Messrs. Ainsworth, Thompson, Reed, and Brazee, of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, with a view to coming to some understanding in relation to freights by way of the Columbia River. The Grangers set forth their demands in the following order:

- 1. We desire the cheapest possible freights up and down the Columbia River, without discrimination for or against any point.
2. We desire to have our products carried direct to Astoria, so that they can be shipped at the least possible cost; and cannot see why we should be required to pay for freighting 12 miles up the Willamette and 12 miles down again, all out of the direct line of transportation.
3. We feel that we are overcharged on our freights up the Columbia River, and more especially on agricultural implements and farming machinery.
4. Speaking for the settlers in the upper country, we say that we have been and are now dependent upon the O. S. N. Company for carrying our freights to and from the country, and we feel that the rates heretofore and now charged are too high and a burden upon the country. We further represent that under this burden the country has come to a stand still; and in fact is losing in population and capital.
To each and all of the queries, as above propounded, Capt. Ainsworth, speaking for the O. S. N. Company, returned favorable answers. Generally the interview between the steambot gentlemen and the Grangers was pleasant, and the parties separated with excellent humor and well pleased with each other.

A Gravel at the Railroad.

EDITOR STATESMAN.—In the Spirit of last Friday, I noticed the charges for freight from Walla Walla as made by the Railroad Company. Feeling from and by them, I come to the conclusion that the tariff on freight—when the railroad is completed to your town—will be three dollars per ton, by the O. S. N. Company's measurement.

Now, please find me and let me hear I come to show you that it is to their interest to continue to patronize us; then:

Table with freight rates: Freight per ton measurement, $3.00; Difference between measurement and weight, 10 cents; Handling per ton from the depot to the store, 1.00; Total freight per ton in cash, $4.10.

We take our pay in trade, and haul a ton weight of the merchandise to the depot, at $2.50 per cent. The merchant pays 1.25 cents.
Next cost per ton for freight, $3.75. These figures are plain, and as long as the Company charges $3 per ton measurement, we need not fear being driven off the Walla Walla road. While it is true that no fortune is to be made on the road at five dollars per ton, it is also true that it is a support and with it we are satisfied.

A FRESHMAN'S TESTIMONY.

MORE BONANZAS DISCOVERED.—MUCH EXCITEMENT.—There has been much excitement in town since Saturday, resulting from the discovery of rich rock in considerable quantities about a mile and a half west of Stoddard ledge, this side of Wagon town. Parties have gone out there and brought back samples of the quartz picked up on the surface of the Mountain which are immensely rich. From 240 grains of ore assayed, the result shows $7200 in the ton in silver and $9,300 in gold and gold combined. This rich stuff seems to be lying around loose on the ground, and men can make splendid wages by going up there, picking it up promiscuously and bringing it home with them. Several claims have already been located. There seems to be no definite opinion as to the extent of the quartz, but there is a well grounded supposition that there must be rich bodies of it somewhere in the vicinity, and it may eventually turn out to be the most important discovery of the kind ever made in this Territory. All the samples brought to town are remarkably rich, and there is plenty more of the ore behind. It is expected that several other gentlemen have been out there and they so favorably impressed with their prospecting explorations, that they will return in a day or two and commence permanent operations. Matters wear an encouraging look in connection with our mining operations this coming summer, and we are doubtless on the eve of the most important developments.—Oregea Advertiser.

TREATMENT OF CHILDREN.—P. A. Taylor, M. D., has recently called the attention of the British government to the case of a child, seven years old, who had been sent to the workhouse in England. The Home Secretary did not deny the truth of Mr. Taylor's statement, but said in explanation of the extraordinary circumstance, that the father of the child was an habitual drunkard; that another child of the same family had died from starvation, caused by the father's neglect, and that this same child, seven years old, had been previously convicted of being, and "as it was too young to be sent to a reformatory it was only sent to prison as an act of kindness to remove it from the evil influence of the parent." The Secretary further added that the chaplain and schoolmaster had been directed to the case. At the same time this is an extraordinary commentary upon the state of society in England that children of seven years can only be rescued from the evil treatment of a worthless father by being formally convicted of a crime and sent to prison.

NEW ENGLAND HOSTILITY.—It may be safely laid down as a rule that unless matters are differently managed in Massachusetts no gentleman will care to accept its hospitality. It seems that President Grant was invited by the committee who had charge of the celebration of the battle of Lexington to take part in the entertainment of President Grant and his friends. The points of discussion are, Did the President and his friends drink wine? How much wine did they drink? Did the bill represent more cigars than wine? Was the President at all under the influence of liquor? One of the gentlemen taking part in the discussion publicly expressed the fear that the President's habits were such as to give ground.

FIRE AT THE PENITENTIARY.—Soon after 3 o'clock this afternoon, says the Salem Record of the 4th inst., smoke in great volumes was observed pouring up in the direction of the Boston hotels for the entertainment of President Grant and his friends. The points of discussion are, Did the President and his friends drink wine? How much wine did they drink? Did the bill represent more cigars than wine? Was the President at all under the influence of liquor? One of the gentlemen taking part in the discussion publicly expressed the fear that the President's habits were such as to give ground.

THE FOLLOWING PARAGRAPH WAS PUBLISHED IN THE NEW YORK SUN, IN THE FORM OF A DISPATCH BEARING DATE, at Washington City, May 24th: Senator Jones of Nevada, has been in Wall Street, and came back a sadder and wiser man. He had himself made a Director in the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and undertook to buy the stock from 35 or thereabouts. He succeeded in running it up to about 1700. Jones was at one time nearly $300,000 ahead, and all went nicely. Jay Gould let him have the stock as fast as he was ready to buy, and when the Senator had completely loaded up with the stuff the wicked Gould took his scalp as neatly as Red Cloud himself could have done. The Senator is out some $700,000. It is said also that his present embarrassment is so great that he has been compelled to dispose of his interest in the St. James Hotel at a great sacrifice.

FIRES AT THE PENITENTIARY.

Walla Walla Country.

We have heretofore given, for the benefit of immigrants, some account of portions of Washington Territory, particularly that of the Walla Walla country. This country lies in the south-east corner of Washington Territory, the eastern portion south of Snake river, and the western portion bounded on the northeast and southeast by the Columbia river, the great bend of that stream occurring almost in the middle of the county. On the south, generally, its boundary is co-terminus with the northern boundary of Oregon. It will be seen, thus, that the county lies to the north of 46 deg. of latitude. On the eastern side of our continent sections lying to the north of 46 deg. are cold, very cold in winter, usually. But a very different and much milder climate marks this section of Washington Territory.

Particularly in the eastern section of this county of Walla Walla, the hills and highlands are excellent for grazing; and the best farming lands are along a stream called the Touchet. The hill lands up the stream have recently been proved as fine farming lands as could be desired by any one. For grain, they are the best. There is a good supply of timber along the stream. There are many streams which empty into the Touchet and Walla Walla. Mill sites with plenty of water are abundant. The waters of these streams are cool and clear. The land, as one approaches the central part of the valley, becomes level, with no hills between different portions. The valley is beautifully supplied with springs of excellent water. The most important crop in the valley is wheat. Although the costs of transportation have been great—so many changes, portages, etc., to get it to market—still it has proved a paying business, because the farmer is always sure of making a crop. The land is wonderfully productive, thirty-five bushels being the average, while an instance is given of forty acres producing seventy-three bushels to the acre. If the farmer can realize forty-five cents for his wheat clear of transportation expenses, he considers that he is doing very well. Many farms have yielded from forty-five to sixty-five bushels to the acre. The farmer has all the time that he may desire for ploughing, as only a few weeks during the winter prevent the use of the plough through cold and frozen ground.

The farmer's life in that delightful valley must be the perfection of that profession. He has plenty of time in which to plough. He puts in his crop and nature does the rest, until his grain is ready for the reaping machine. He has no fear of a short crop, or no crop for want of rain. The summers are like our California summers—dry. He has the Cascade Mountains between him and the ocean, and consequently has none of the 'web-feet' weather, which pours in rain almost perpetually along the coast to the west of these mountains. And besides, there is plenty of land there very cheap. Among the immigrants who visit this coast, if there be farmers with a little capital and strong arms, and vim, the Walla Walla Valley is their best resort.—S. F. Alta.

THE THIRD TERM.—The N. Y. Herald reviews President Grant's third term letter, and sums up its conclusions as follows: "We shall be surprised if the country accepts this as a satisfactory declaration from the President. It is an evasive letter. It would have been much better for his fame, and even for the welfare of the party which he proposes to serve if he had not written it. In a word, the country is told that the President will not take what is not offered to him. That is not what we wanted from the President. What we did want was an express avowal by General Grant that the question of a third term would be treated to a sacred respect of our unwritten common law—a declaration that whoever presumed to use his name for such a purpose would do an unworthy act, an admission to the country of the dangers to liberty which twelve years of centralization had produced, and a prayer that the people would destroy Caesarism by limiting all administrations to one term. Such a declaration would have thrilled the country and been a graceful cap-stone to the fame of Grant. As it is Caesarism is as a political issue more potent than ever. It becomes the dominant question in the next canvass. Our answer should be the limitation of the Presidency to one term, and no reelection ever after."

AN HONOR TO JOURNALISM.—Mr. John Lemoinne, the editor of the Journal des Debats, has been elected to the French Academy. This is the highest honor that can be paid to a literary man or politician in France, and it has been awarded to the bold journalist in Paris, a man who has been prominent in every discussion of political questions, and not in that light spirit of perfidage and banding characteristic of French journalism, is the highest compliment that has recently been paid to a representative of the press.

ABRAHAM JACKSON, the distinguished defender of Boston, whose unexpected delinquencies threw a bombshell into the modern Athens, is in the hands of the police. Now for a trial of Boston respectability which will cast the Becher trial into the shade.

A Question of Party Spills.

"Those small creatures who by an insupportable Providence, are permitted to edit country newspapers," and to subsist upon the garbage gathered from the corruption of party politics are thrown into spasms of envy because the editor of this paper has been awarded a position of public dirt or doing mischief party service; a circumstance which they cannot comprehend, as the like never before came within the experience of any of them.

"First comes the cast village attorney who resorts to the press as an alternative to starvation at the bar, and lays down the law on the subject, which the virtuous editor of the Tacoma Tribune echoes forth as follows: "Judge Lewis has, we are informed, and quite arbitrarily, we think, taken upon himself to appoint Deputy Clerks for Mr. Seavey at both Steilacoom and Seattle—at the former place Mr. Julius Diekes, and at the latter Mr. Beriah Brown—in this way frustrating the intent of the law combining the three clerks in one."

Had either of these men known anything of the law of which they assume to speak so positively, they could only have made this statement with the malicious intent of misrepresenting the facts. Section 358, of the United States Revised Statutes, says: "One or more deputies of a clerk of a district court may be appointed by the court, on the application of the clerk, and may be removed at the pleasure of the judge authorized to make the appointment."

Strictly in accordance with this law, on the written application of Mr. Seavey, now on file in this office, the Chief Justice made the appointment. If any consideration of reward for party services, past or prospective had any influence upon the Judge's choice, we are not conscious of it. That our appointment was recommended by a majority of the bar of this District, of both political parties, we are credibly informed, but it is not our business to concern ourselves upon party questions, and we have no reason to doubt. But the Courier, the professed organ of the republican party of the Territory, and its confederate, the Standard, the professed organ of the democratic party of the Territory, join in a denunciation of the appointment as in violation of the law, and intimate that Judge Lewis is either a party to a corrupt bargain, or false to his party obligations. The last Legislative Council was composed of five republicans and four democrats. We received the unanimous vote of the members of that body for Chief Clerk, a position of more political influence than that of the Court. We accordingly received the unanimous vote of the entire Legislative Assembly for Regent of the University, and were afterwards elected President of the Board of Regents; a position certainly of more dignity than that of a Deputy Clerk. In neither of these cases was there an intimation or suggestion of corruption or violation of party duty. We therefore suppose the emoluments of those offices were supposed to be much less than those of Chief Clerk of the Court; the logical deduction from which is, that they regard the amount of the spoils of office as the sole test of party fidelity.

Fortunately for the country and for the honest and high-spirited party politics, such principles are held in low esteem by the more honorable even of both political parties. A gentleman whose connection with the republican party dates from its first existence, and who has enjoyed its highest honors in the Territory, writes us: "My hearty congratulations on your recent appointment. As a member of the bar of the 6th district I would not have been surprised if you had not felt it to exhibit my wish for your success. I know you are honest and competent, and I trust I do not misapprehend the signs of the times, for we are really getting back to the Jeffersonian test for appointment to office, and getting away from the horrid innovation that is to the victors belong the spoils," and that "the 'herd' or 'mob' law," is not to be the sole claim to position, regardless of capacity or character."—Seattle Dispatch.

Dayton Letter.

EDITOR STATESMAN.—The recent fine shower of rain assures us a most abundant crop. The wool growers of this county met here on Saturday last and formed a "Wool Growers' Association," and adjourned to meet on the 1st of August, at Dayton, Ohio, to transact further business in connection with their interests. The Woolen Factory Company are now contracting for wool, and will be able to obtain all they will need for their next year's work. Messrs. Wait & Metzger have a fine water power under their mill, which they are now making arrangements to bring into use. He will first put up a saw mill with the view of propelling other machinery in addition. J. N. Day, Esq., proposes to erect a fine residence this summer. Many other improvements are in contemplation. The "herd" or "mob" law," is not to be the sole claim to position, regardless of capacity or character. The friends of the measure are agitating it with the intention of obtaining legislation upon the subject this fall. During the week reports reached here that new rich gold diggings had been discovered in the Clear Fork country, and several persons have already left in search of them. Elder Van Horn has been holding forth to us for the past week in his large tent. He has had good congregations and will remain three or four weeks longer. J. M. H.
