

Mr. Smalley Criticized.

Having long been accustomed to find a peculiar pleasure in the newspaper criticism of E. V. Smalley, we are not a little surprised and chagrined at some of his statements in his "New Northwest" article, appearing in the "Cafeteria" for September.

Among the former members is an incident which we do not recall, as well as anywhere, at a meeting of the board of trustees, at the residence of one of the trustees, in a private room, at the residence of one of the trustees, in a private room, at the residence of one of the trustees, in a private room.

We might suppose that Mr. Smalley has been very largely upon his imagination when he writes of the "New Northwest" article, but we are not so sure, especially when he writes of the "New Northwest" article, but we are not so sure, especially when he writes of the "New Northwest" article.

It is a pity that Mr. Smalley has been so largely upon his imagination when he writes of the "New Northwest" article, but we are not so sure, especially when he writes of the "New Northwest" article.

tion of its membership. If it does, nothing but unusual skill, energy, and forbearance in the ranks of that party, combined with unaccountable apathy of the Democratic party, can avert a disaster. One thing is fast coming to be understood—the Republicans have got to unload Mr. Brents. Public judgment is fast crystallizing into the belief that he is a failure as a Washington Territory advocate, and it is very certain that this will be made itself felt in the convention on the 20th of September. Followed on to its logical conclusion, under these conditions that party will be reduced to the impotence that always waits on discord.

Whether or not it is correct as a principle, it will be admitted that a representative at Washington City must be a social standing in that city that can possibly be of benefit to him as a Delegate.

When the alleged editor of the infatigable effort at a newspaper says the convention, "an attempt was made" to pass resolutions of thanks to the editor of the Democratic paper, he deliberately falsified. There was not the slightest intimation of a move of the kind made in the convention.

The alleged editor of the infatigable effort at a newspaper says: "The convention made a new departure and one that does not please the party, when they nominated Miss Tina Johnson for the office of Superintendent of Schools."

Whatever of displeasure was felt among our citizens at the nomination of Miss Johnson, arose from the fact that they understood she was a sister of the alleged editor of the morning effort at a journal. We take great pleasure in correcting the error, assuring our readers that Miss Tina Johnson belongs to a very fine and popular family.

Milkmen never go to watering places in the summer, except it is with their cart and cans.

About the 21st of September it will be announced from Vancouver that several persons are tired of public life, anyway.

This is the season when city cantors get into linen dusters and flock to the country villages, armed to the teeth with political trifles.

The fact as given in yesterday's STATESMAN, that the Flathead Indians have sold the right-of-way through their reservation to the Northern Pacific road for $100,000, makes a final settlement of that question, and Hallett can go through to Missouri by New Year.

The election of Duffur, a pronounced Mitchell man, in Wasco county, represents the feeling east of the mountains in regard to John H. Mitchell, as U. S. Senator. Democrats and Republicans are piling up Duffur's majority. It is the same in every county this side, and if every Democrat in the Legislature were to cast his vote for Mitchell, the course would be approved by their constituents. The reason is that the times demand just such men in the Senate to advance the interests of the country, and Mr. Mitchell's previous career points to him as just the man to supply the want.

As usual, the alleged editor of the morning effort at a newspaper, abused the country extended to him by the Democratic Convention to-day, in allowing him a place at the reporters table, by half-masthead sneerings and idiotic laughs, at natural and ordinary overights or mistakes made by the Secretary or other members of the Convention. He is a contributor, both in and out of his paper.

The amendment is becoming as sharp as it is universal in Eastern Washington, that Brents cannot get the nomination for a third term in the interests of the Federal flag.

Two years ago, Thomas H. Brents promised that if he were given the nomination, he would in 1882 step down and out. His promises are ropes of sand.

Kansas has a clean bill of political health on the River and Harbor bill. Not a Senator or Representative voted for the original bill, not a Senator or Representative voted for the increased steel, nor a Senator or Representative voted to pass the steel over the veto.

The unusually large crop of candidates for the Delegation is now supplemented by the name of Peter Roach, of Spokane Falls. Peter is a very handsome man.

To elect Brents is simply to agree to be actually deprived of all influence in Congress for the next two years, and to concur in the opinion that Washington Territory has no better man.

Becher is rich, has always been rich, yet he left his victim, Mrs. Tilton, to starve. Tilton never seeing her, stunts himself that he may provide her a comfortable living. That's the difference between two infamous men.

It is very manifest to-day that the Brents boom is petering out. If Dr. Minor will accept the annexation idea, he will probably get the nomination. Western can out-vote Eastern Washington in the convention, but at the polls we have the advantage.

To a plums-buk of Cincinnati, the war in Egypt is the closing of the gospel age, and is soon to be followed by the descent of Christ and the Judgment Day. It may have been cucumbers, but we think it was green apples.

It was the right thing for so many young men not only to attend, but to take an active part in the Democratic convention. We want more young men and invigorating blood in our politics.

Whether or not it is correct as a principle, it will be admitted that a representative at Washington City must be a social standing in that city that can possibly be of benefit to him as a Delegate.

Democratic County Convention. The convention was called to order at 11 o'clock, by Hon. N. T. Olsen, chairman of the County Central Committee.

Henry Wintler was made temporary chairman of the convention—unanimously elected by acclamation. John Sharpsteen was elected temporary secretary by the same mode of voting.

The chair appointed as a committee on Credentials, the following named: Messrs. Stine, Fall, Coleman, Barnes and Maier.

Upon motion the chair appointed as a committee on order of business, Messrs. Thomas, Gosc and Lowden.

The chair suggested that there was no occasion for a committee on Platforms and Resolutions.

Upon motion, however, the committee was appointed for that purpose, consisting of Messrs. Hanganate, Fall and Parker. Mr. Fall asked to be excused as he was already a member of one committee.

Upon suggestion of a member Messrs. Quinn, Parker and Martin were made the committee.

Upon motion, it was ruled that the committee on order of business constitute the committee on permanent organization.

After recess.

Aside from the delegates there was quite a large attendance at the afternoon session of the convention, which was called to order at a little past one by Chairman Henry Wintler.

The minutes of the morning meeting were read and approved.

PLATFORM AND RESOLUTIONS. We, your committee, appointed to consider the question, and draw up a platform and resolutions for approval at this convention, beg leave to report as follows:

The Democratic party of Walla Walla county convention assembled, resting in the faith that all power not delegated by the constitution is reserved to the states and the people; upholding the sanctity of personal property and the right of local self-government; therefore,

Resolved, That we favor the speedy admission of Washington and the Pan Handle of Idaho territories into the Union as states, believing that the people thereof are abundantly able to establish and maintain such a government, and that their present national property, resources and prospects fully justify them in demanding such admission.

Resolved, That we favor the nomination of an election of a delegate, whose ability as a representative of the people of Walla Walla county is beyond question, and who commands the affection and confidence of members of Congress, and the support of the people of this territory.

Resolved, That we believe all children are entitled to the benefit of, and that the best interests of the county demand, that they should receive a common school education, and therefore our public schools must be fully supported and encouraged.

Resolved, That we are in favor of civil service reform, an attorney general, and a county clerk, and that the qualifications which Johnson declared were the requisites of an office.

Resolved, Upon these declarations we invite the cooperation of all honest citizens who, with us, desire the establishment of a territorial and national government.

THOMAS QUINN, WILLIAM MARTIN, WILLIAM PARKER.

The report of Committee on Credentials was read and accepted.

The Committee on Order of Business, which was arranged, was the Committee on Permanent Organization was read, reported, recommending that the temporary officers be retained as permanent ones. And the committee respectfully recommended that the county committee shall consist of one member from each precinct to be elected by the precinct electors at the county convention and three at large to be selected by the convention.

D. E. Hodges; Mill Creek, John Tracy; Russell Creek, John Scott; Dry Creek, J. M. Lamb; Walla, W. H. Johnson; Copeland, Thomas J. Holloway; Touchet, Ben Plattner; Eureka Flat, W. H. Babcock; Lower Touchet, Mr. Brown.

The Committee as large selected, N. T. Olsen, E. McDonnell, A. J. Marion.

Upon motion T. J. Hamilton was made chairman of the committee, and A. N. Martin Secretary.

The following resolution was introduced: Resolved, 1st. That we are opposed to the proxy system which prevails so extensively in nominating conventions, as it fosters combinations and assisting rule.

2d. That the majority of the delegates elected by the convention who attend the territorial convention to be held at Vancouver on Oct. 11th next, be and they are hereby authorized to cast the vote of any and all delegates so elected, not attending in person.

The resolution was adopted by a rising vote.

The chairman extended his thanks for the hour conferred upon him, the thanks of the convention were extended to Secretary Sharpsteen, and the convention adjourned sine die.

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET. The Democratic County Convention of last Saturday began well, and continued its labors to the end without committing a mistake. The ticket, which we present in another place in this paper, is a strong one.

In the comparison, the Republican County Convention, which met not long since and nominated a ticket, did then and there to all intents and purposes, depart this life. Making as they should a thorough and an aggressive campaign the Democratic party in this county can elect the ticket nominated on Saturday.

For Councillor Mr. Don Keefe is presented to the people. Mr. Keefe is a representative business man, an engineer of ability, and a contractor of prominence. A man of executive ability and shrewd business judgment, he will be a faithful custodian of our interests at Olympia.

For the Legislature, we present W. R. Thomas from Mill Creek precinct, H. H. Hanganate from North Walla and A. G. Lloyd. These gentlemen come from and represent the agricultural interests of this county and territory. The last named has already served this county as member of the Legislature, and he represents it faithfully and well. They are all of them thoroughly known and esteemed in this county and filled with its best interests, and ought to have the solid support of the people.

J. E. Bodd, a young and prominent lawyer of this city, and a brother of the gentleman now making the California canvass against Congressman Page, of that state, is presented for the voters of the people for Prosecuting Attorney. Mr. Bodd has worked his way to the front ranks among legal gentlemen in this county, and has the ability and honesty of purpose to make the people a strong legal representative in our courts.

Next in order comes Samuel Jacobs, who is the candidate for Auditor. No language could we use here, would more fittingly set him before the people than to say that for several years he has faithfully served his constituents; to him more than to any one else in this county, we believe that the people of this county are indebted for the maintenance of their public treasury or other holders by bills, or by assessments of money for political purposes, believing that public officers are the property of no man, but we open to every man, honest, capable and faithful to the Constitution, the qualifications which Johnson declared were the requisites of an office.

Resolved, Upon these declarations we invite the cooperation of all honest citizens who, with us, desire the establishment of a territorial and national government.

And the committee respectfully recommended that the county committee shall consist of one member from each precinct to be elected by the precinct electors at the county convention and three at large to be selected by the convention.

On motion of Mr. Fall, a recess of half an hour was taken.

After a caucus among the members the convention was called to order, and proceeded to the business of NOMINATIONS.

The first was the nomination of Councillor. Don Keefe was nominated by Secretary Sharpsteen. He was elected by acclamation.

The following names were then placed in nomination for the Legislature: W. R. Thomas, H. H. Hanganate, A. G. Lloyd. On motion the candidates were elected by acclamation.

Next in order was the nomination of Prosecuting Attorney. J. E. Bodd was placed in nomination and elected by acclamation.

Samuel Jacobs was next nominated for Auditor. As with the others, this candidate was elected by acclamation.

James B. Thompson was nominated for Sheriff. He was unanimously named as the choice by acclamation.

Mr. Stine made a motion that the nomination for County Treasurer be left blank. The motion prevailed.

Mr. John N. Fall was placed in nomination for County Assessor. It was moved and carried that his election be made by acclamation.

For County Commissioners the following were placed in nomination: C. Maier, F. Lowden, W. T. Barnes. These candidates were made the choice by acclamation.

By consent of the Convention the nomination of Surveyor was left blank.

Mr. Bock declined the nomination for School Superintendent.

A motion to have the nomination blank was not carried. The following was placed in nomination for School Superintendent: Under the applause of the convention Miss Tina Johnson was placed in nomination. The convention was assured that Miss Johnson was a Democrat.

Mr. Critchfield withdrew from the contest through Mr. Fall.

On motion Miss Johnson's nomination was made by acclamation.

R. Guichard was then placed in nomination for Probate Judge, and it was made unanimous by acclamation.

For Sheep Commissioner Jesse Drummeller was nominated but respectfully declined. John Dooley was nominated for Sheep Commissioner, and the choice was made by acclamation.

W. B. Walls was nominated for Coroner. The choice was made unanimously by acclamation.

For delegate to the Territorial Convention the following were elected: Judge Sharpsteen, Thomas Quinn, W. T. Barnes, Theo. Rogers, Marie Evans, Jesse Drummeller, A. G. Lloyd, D. Stewart, J. E. Bodd, D. E. Hodges.

On motion the choice of the delegates was made by acclamation.

Mr. Critchfield withdrew from the selection of a County Central Committee. The following were selected: For North Walla Walla, Henry Wintler; South Walla Walla, T. J. Hamilton; Walla Walla, W. M. Kinney; Franktown,

D. E. Hodges; Mill Creek, John Tracy; Russell Creek, John Scott; Dry Creek, J. M. Lamb; Walla, W. H. Johnson; Copeland, Thomas J. Holloway; Touchet, Ben Plattner; Eureka Flat, W. H. Babcock; Lower Touchet, Mr. Brown.

PREPARING TO MOVE!

On or about September 10th, DOHENY & MARUM will remove to the vast establishment now being erected for them on Main Street, just above the Postoffice.

Our last announcement from corner Main and Second.

The People's Final Opportunity!

In years to come the Public will remember the bargains that we offer to-day.

The near approach of the completion of our new building reveals to us the imperative necessity of taking some forcible measures to sweep away every vestige of our present stock.

We have carefully weighed the consequences, and we have resolved, no matter what the loss, to carry NO OLD GOODS into our new establishment.

For the coming few weeks we propose to demonstrate the principle, in a manner that will not soon be forgotten, that, in this case, our loss will be a public gain.

No matter whether it be staple black silks, summer dress goods, ladies' hosiery, or house furnishing goods, the prices of all must perish now alike.

We are prepared to lose; but our loss will be an indelible advertisement, and we know it.

There is one thing the public should bear distinctly in mind, which is this: the goods which we are now clearing out, regardless of their value, are not old goods; they are all fresh, desirable, and new, and appropriate for this season.

One Price Only!

All Goods Marked in Plain Figures!

The Public know what this system means—it is the architect of our popularity, the foundation of our business, and modern thought cannot invent any safeguard to protect a purchaser so comprehensive and secure as this.

We give no Price List! It would be no use! It could explain nothing, in reality!

If we said we sold 50-cent table linen for 25 cents, or 60-cent crotona for 25 cents, or 50-cent straw hats for 15 cents, or $1.25 undershirts for 65 cents, it would in reality reveal nothing, because those are things which the Public must see for themselves, and carefully examine and compare the prices with what they have paid on other occasions, before they can properly understand them.

We ask no lady to purchase, we simply wish them to examine our prices and goods; we are always well pleased when a lady examines our goods and says that she will try elsewhere, because she will return when she sees the prices in other stores; and then she is better satisfied, and so are we, because she then believes what we told her, when we said that our prices were always at least 40 per cent less than any other store in Walla Walla.

In 1848 Gen. Lewis, in company with F. W. Patterson, founded the city of Portland.

For the Daily of Wednesday.

A Season of Business Activity.

It would be difficult to get a stray from the evidence that the present is a season of unusual business activity here in Walla Walla city and county.

The harvest is ended, the products of the valley land are being brought into market, debts at commercial and banking houses, and individual accounts are being settled, a large circulation of cash is being retailed, the hot weather has passed and our people have taken a new lease of life.

In the stores we find our merchants in the possession of getting in larger and finer stocks of goods than ever before brought here, and all of them with that confidence in the future of this bright little city, which was not only the result of investments of goods, but extensive improvements in their business houses that look to an increase of trade.

The exception would be to find a merchant here who is not confident of a bright future for Walla Walla, and unwilling to invest freely in enterprises of all kinds. Outside of the business houses, we have the best of evidence that people here are anticipating unusual activity in almost every direction where capital is invested.

All this activity, or quite all of it, of course, one of the results which our general country, and this country in particular, has enjoyed for the past year or two.

Another element in the railway building now going on hereabouts, conservative business men, who a year ago closed their purse strings against all investment, have been touched and tempered by the spirit of activity abroad in this fair land and are seeking for deposits of money, satisfied that here is a golden opportunity.

There is nothing of a "Panic" about all this business boom and general activity here in Walla Walla, but an air of thrift and enterprise that has a good sound basis. It is based upon tons of golden grain, upon abundant yields of fruit, upon a rapid increase of population and the multi-plied wants of this population, upon a great tide of emigration pouring into this territory and this valley, upon the opening up of new lands and the building up of new homes.

In all this there are no bubbles, which being in the transcendent sea of mere speculation, into which our people may be drawn. There can be no sudden shrinkage of such values as these things present. There is no opportunity for that undue confidence, which is a trait of wild and baseless speculation. It is a sound prosperity that has come to us, and has none of that false stimulus from which comes an enervating reaction.

The present has its opportunities and its gains for every man who chooses to invest. There has been no excitement about this rapid increase of our prosperous outlook.

Our Country Fair.

Now that the two political tickets are fairly in the field, and the candidates properly placed before the people, the golden harvest gathered and our farmer friends having a little leisure, some consideration is given to our proposed county fair.

A good well established county fair is not only an evidence of culture and a reflection that our farming community are alive to these declining elements, but it is one of the best plans for advertising this section of the country. It will be impossible to hold a fair in Walla Walla for a week or ten days without its being visited by a great many people from abroad, who will use the opportunity of examining the products of our soil, and what they see there will prejudice these people for or against, and become the subject of conversation and letters with one to strangers, there can be no doubt. Aside from this, the newspapers will take up the subject in a detailed form, and in that way spread our fair far and near. Fair is an education as well. Not a year goes by but very important improvements to machinery and farming implements are made, improvements that the general public have little about, and of which the farmer, for whose benefit they are made, reads in his newspaper. But at a fair these improvements and their benefits are fully revealed and explained. That is a kind of very important education. An agent, specially gifted, may visit a farmer and explain the nature and great benefit of the improvements to a farmer, but at the fair the farmer can examine and see for himself. He is easily educated, because the object is before him. And so all through the ranges there by a fair, there is information as well as pleasure. Directly and indirectly a fair will do service to every business man in the community, and every business man here should most cheerfully come to the support of the enterprise.

About Sheep and Wool.

Recently they have had a convention of stock-breeders and wool-growers at Philadelphia, and what was said there, in part, may be of interest to our farmer friends. One speaker said: "I would say to the farmer, you can and should manage your sheep in the way you can get the most money for their carcasses, whether raising mutton or lambs, and let your wool take care of itself. You must regard your sheep as machines for converting grass, roots and grain, in the shortest possible time, into mutton, with wool as a mere incident. By making your sheep fat in the shortest possible time—when you can do best with the English race—and killing them as soon as they are mature, you make the best and most useful wool. It will not only be young but healthy; it will have no tender places in it. Aiming for the best mutton, you will be certain to get the best wool, which will always sell, no matter what race it belongs to. This is the system in England, and it is really a matter of surprise in reading English agricultural journals to see how little consideration is apparently given to the qualities of wool, while the different breeds of sheep are so much the subject of their weighty articles. Yet it is fully recognized that the characteristic qualities of the English combing wools have been developed upon a principle of short-wooled animals by the successful development of their flocks, through the constant aim to develop their carcasses for the market. Thus the interests of the grower, the consumer of meat, and the manufacturer of wool are identified."

Need of Detective Work.

It is not surprising that the papers outside of our territory are commenting unfavorably to us upon the number of crimes committed here, and the escape of the perpetrators.

We most certainly stand in need of some shrewd and efficient detective work.

An agent at New York Bay is foolishly murdered, and to-day the murderers are not apprehended; in fact, no clue to them has been obtained. Here Williamson leaves Moran Prairie, in Spokane County, coming to Walla Walla, driving a pair of horses that are easily identified. Suddenly he disappears, and to-day his whereabouts or that of the animals he drove is a complete mystery. Doubtless he was murdered for the few dollars paid him for railroad labor. A long resident near Pendleton is waylaid and shot to death, and the assassins are at large. An old and esteemed citizen of Spangle is called to his door and is shot at and narrowly escapes instant death. The villains ride away and escape. An old lady going from Dayton to her home, a few miles in the country, is waylaid and beaten until she is unconscious, and these criminals escape.

At every camp along the line of the Northern Pacific established between Westwood and Rock Island, thugs have congregated and bludgeoned men until the aggregate reaches into scores, and there has been but one or two arrests made. Indeed, it may be truly said that these murderers and assassins take no risks, if they can get the job done and have five minutes' start. Something more in the way of efficient detective work than is being accomplished, should be put on foot by the authorities. If we lack in this element, let the Territory employ talent from the outside, and these murderers be hunted and punished as the criminals demand. Something of this kind ought to be done, else we shall soon obtain the unenviable reputation that attaches to the lawless communities of New Mexico and Arizona. This Best Oregonian writes:

The rubbers and murderers that are now investing this State and Washington Territory should receive no mercy. They take all risks, and summary execution is needed in their cases to let these intentions follow after them know that they may expect the same. If they expect death let them have it, for it is what they deal out to others. A little more of the same given to Brown and Johnson a few years ago would prove efficient, perhaps, in protecting the people who are now a prey to cut-throats and thugs.

After Harvest Comes Seed-Time.

A writer, who is evidently a practical farmer, sends the following, which is timely: Our farmers will soon be reaping the harvest, and then follow seed-time for all summer-fallow land. It was formerly the practice to wait till the early rains had softened the soil and mellowed the summer-fallow lands before sowing. It is observed, however, that volunteer grain coming forward with the first rains get a good start in the warm fall weather and warm soil, and that with this early start they kept growing right on through the winter months, and come to maturity early and yielded better crops than the well cultivated summer-fallow sown late in the season. It was observed also that the earlier-sown grain on summer-fallow lands generally made better crops than the late sown grain on equally good soil in an equally good state of cultivation. These observations led to the conclusion that the nature was followed in the matter of seed-time the better. The volunteer was Nature's mode of sowing. The grain dropped from the ear at the time of harvest by the soil or in the small cracks and crevices without germination till the rains mellowed the soil and caused the seed to sprout. Dry sowing is simply following Nature in regard to the time of sowing. By sowing following the lead we help Nature, by giving the grain a good mellow soil bed, in which the roots can strike down deep and grow large and strong even during the coldest winter weather. Experience is now highly in favor of sowing following and dry and early sowing. By sowing early we counteract any time now when farmers are only to get at it. Seed is preserved just as well in the dry soil as in the soil and rain, and the sooner this work follows harvest the better, for when out of the way other winter work, such as getting wood and fanning, etc., may be attended to.

Walla Walla and Pendleton.

A correspondent writing to the East Oregonian from this city says:

Walla Walla is very lively, seems to be flourishing, full of confidence and enterprising citizens. One whole block of brick stores are nearly completed, and a number of other buildings are in course of construction. Hotels and restaurants have plenty of patronage, and the whole city seems to be doing a good business.

There seems to be a general impression in Walla Walla that Pendleton is destined to be a large town—5000 to 10,000 inhabitants. One or two men in business said to me: "You have railroad communication now, and you have rail to create Walla Walla in sun and light importance." This was a question with an answer, but it shows that idea is in the heads of Walla Walla people, who seem very anxious to know what Pendletonians think about it.

The road at Pendleton of Walla Walla is very beautiful; the residences are attractive, and their yards and surroundings tasteful. The grass on the strand is good and extending, nearly everyone trying to outdo their neighbors in the adornment of their homes.

Walla Walla has an excellent, and that is too much to say for her size—this thing of having your supper in the morning, your breakfast at noon, and your dinner between six and seven in the afternoon, is enough to make the stoutest man sick. Walla Walla is well supplied with the churches and schools.

Intended church and was dedicated to Miss Florence Pendleton, young lady, niece, Miss Flora Dastman, Miss Jessie Nye, Miss Eschbacher and Miss Minnie Doolittle. I learned they were all contented at school, liked the teachers, which is no wonder.

YELLOWSTONE PARK RANSE.—It will be good news for those who, for next season, are reasonably certain of leaving open season for a trip over the Northern Pacific to the Yellowstone Park country, that the government has decided to lease such portions of that famous spot as will be used as resorts, that famous spot as will be used as resorts, that famous spot as will be used as resorts.

A telegram from Washington says: Acting Secretary of the Interior John D. Eaton has decided to lease such portions of that famous spot as will be used as resorts, that famous spot as will be used as resorts, that famous spot as will be used as resorts.

LEAVE POTATOES.—E. G. Riddle who operates a ranch about four miles up Mill Creek, leaves with us to-day a few specimens of the White Pearl potatoes. We have seven and any one of the lot would make a meal for a large family. Mr. Riddle had a large crop this year.

The Criminals.

The Autumn campaign has commenced, and the voice of the political Cries is heard in the land. He is generally found along the edge of the sidewalk, with his finger in some poor-dressed soul's button-hole, and with an eye-peak up and down the street, he puts out his dirty. Sometimes he runs to beer hall tables, or is found in groups convenient to a place for irrigating, but no matter where found he is industriously spreading his alarms. He has probably lost prestige with his party, or a pro-charge has been overlooked in the search for official timber, and of course our Cries tells you confidentially that the political events are at a grand turning point, on this account; that the most momentous events hang on this, to you, mere bagatelle. He deems it his duty to sound the alarm, and he does it clamorously and incessantly. He professes what ordinary mortals cannot say, and unless they give him a chance, he will not answer for consequences—a favorite phrase—though it never occurs to him that nobody wants him to answer for them, and that the consequences are not more alarming than they have ever been. They appear so, because his deaf makes them enlarge. Of course the party is ruined unless the old Cries can establish his point, whatever that may be. The man has some influence, if it is no better than that which makes you uncomfortable. What with his pokes in your side, as he looks wise, hisly whispers, his sidelong glances, and his staking his face close to yours, so that you get the full benefit of a sour stomach as well as a sour wind, the Cries is a nuisance. He gets into other matters as well as politics. If there is a slight and temporary change in movements of a railway, the Cries sounds the alarm. He sees woe and calamities unutterable in everything of the kind. Highly educated and generally disturbed in his own person, he is particularly disturbing to those about him. And he seems to enjoy the anxiety and annoyance he finds he is capable of giving others. He pretends to know what it is not possible for him to get reliable information about, and decidedly the Cries is a fit subject for abatement.

From the Palouse Region.

We have a communication from a reliable informant in the Palouse region, from which we glean the appended items:

Colfax City is not rebuilding in the permanent manner indicated by the publisher of the Colfax. A number of these burned out houses are in the process of being rebuilt, but these are nearly all of that temporary character, common in frontier towns. So far no effort at building a hotel has been made, and at this time travelers who visit there have to do some resting to find a place to sleep. The insurance men are fighting any of the place, the City Council, in spite of the terrible experience of the past fifteen months, failing to make proper provisions against fire.

The crops in the Palouse belt have been fully two-thirds, and in many places a three-fourths yield.

Down at Placerville, which is about three miles from Colfax, on the main line of the road between the Northern Pacific and Moscow and Farmington, and outside of the hill lands which surround Colfax, preparations for a dedication of the town are being made. Without any previous consultation, this affair to have met the views of the people in this section as the best plan for a town, and it is believed that when the plans are ready and approved, there will be a very general purchase of this property, and considerable of a town will spring up and be thoroughly established.

Our informant traveled through the Farmington and Rockford region, and there, not only good crops, but an enterprising, thrifty people, publishing over the early prospect of being able to ship their products by rail. This region is rapidly settling up, chiefly by people from California. Mr. Murphy, who located at Rockford about ten years ago, has indicated quite a large migration from Delaware county, New York, and from Northern California. A dozen new dwellings have been built at Rockford this year, a large saw and grist mill has been added to others there, and Bennett & Co. have had to add to their warehouse room to enable them to handle all the grain coming there for a market.

Banking for a Fight.

A couple of harvest bands came to the city yesterday to enjoy the fruits of their labor, and by the time the sun was glaring at them from the western horizon, both were identically boozed, maddened drunk, and the couple hugging each other and one of the trees at the corner of Third and Alder, was a spectacle. Evidently, the youngest was banking for a fight, and in the hope of bringing it had got on the sicker racket. Walla his arms around the other fellow's neck, and with his body leaning against the tree, he swayed about and exclaimed:

"Koukouny (his) zister, Bill!"

"Incoore I do, Sam, they course."

"Don't (he) go to zoster" (his) (his) my zister, (his) Bill, I'll (his) (his) you."

"Course (he) not, Sam."

"Don't (his) you, Bill, (his) she's a heik (his) my zister (his) she's (his) (his) talked about by you (his)."

"Now, Sam, (his) I'm not talking (his) you're zister (his) I'm far her (his) (his) all the other."

"That's right (his) Bill, but I'll (his) you (his) if you'll (his) only say, Sam's not a heik."

And then their arms fell from each other's, and they stumbled down Alder street.

NORTHERN PACIFIC PROGRESS.—Col. Dudley Lewis, who was with the merchant and newspaper party from Portland and Walla Walla in the Missouri visit, has returned to Portland and says of the Flathead agreement: "The money consideration was $16,000, besides independent damages to several farmers for cutting up their lands." Of the N. P. road he says: "From Missoula to Deer Lodge, 90 miles east, grading is practically done. From Deer Lodge to Helena, through the back-logs of the continent 45 miles, and from Helena to Bozeman, 110 miles, grading is well under way and will be up through the winter. On the western end of the eastern division the company are ambitious to close the gap from Billings to Bozeman, 155 miles, before winter, and they are almost certain of getting within 30 miles of Bozeman before New Year. The Bozeman tunnel is 2,600 feet long from face to face and the perforation last week was one-third done. The contractors expect to finish it within two months. The Helena tunnel is about the same length and is about as far advanced as the one at Bozeman. It is likely that a temporary track will be laid around the latter tunnel to facilitate advance work."

Ingersoll's Estimate of Conkling. New York Health Reporter.

Mr. Conkling made a good use of the tariff discussion and Hancock's loud isue at the last election.

"Well, I don't know. His speech in New York, where he claimed that the duties were all paid at the harbor of entry, instead of by the consumer, was foolish."

"He certainly did great service in Ohio and Indiana."

"And never mentioned the names of the candidates? He and Grant went west and didn't mention Garfield. If I had been Garfield I'd have telegraphed them to go home."

"But, on the contrary, he begged them to stay."

"I would have done as I say."

"And he'd be State?"

"No; it would have been worth 100,000 votes to the ticket. I don't underate Mr. Conkling. He has talent, but he's not a great man. He has been twenty-five years making speeches, and never has given a line to literature."
