PADDY'S VERSION OF EXCESSIVE.

It was growing dark so terrible fast, As up the side of the mountain they pushed, A brood of a boy up to his neck in the snow; As he walked his shillalah he swung to and fro, Saying, "It's up till the top of the mountain it'll go, Unless covered up wid the bothersome snow, Be jabbers."

He looked mortal sad, and his eyes were as bright, As a fire of turf on a cold winter night; But divil a word that he said could ye tell, As he opened his mouth and let out a yell, Saying, "It's up to the very tip top I will go, Unless covered up with the bothersome snow, Be jabbers."

He saw in the cabin as he wandered along, The light of the candle and the fire's warm, But a big chunk of ice hung over his head, Will a snivel and a groan, "By St. Patrick," he said.

"Sure it's up till the very tip top I will rush, And then if it falls it's not neschil it will crush, Be jabbers."

"What a bit," said an old man, whose hair was white, As the snow that fell down on that miserable night, "Sure ye'll fall in the water, me bit of a lad, For the night it is dark and the road it is bad; Be jabbers, he'd not list to a word that was said, But he'd go till the top if he went on his head, Be jabbers."

A bright bronzed young girl, such as like to be kissed, Axed him "wouldn't he stop?" Now how could he resist? So snapping his fingers and winking his eye, While she shuffling up her he made this reply: "Faith, I want to go on till I get to the top, But since your sweet self has axed me, sure I might as well stop, Be jabbers."

He stopped all that night, and he stopped all the next day, And ye mustn't be axing, when did he go away; For wouldn't he be a lastly gossoon, For leaving his darlin' in the swate honey-moon, Be jabbers."

While the old man has parities enough and to spare, Sure he might as well stop if he's comfortable there, Be jabbers."

SOME UNTHOUGHT OF STATISTICS.—The Boston Transcript this groups together some statistics of the kind which almost everybody might know if any one took time to think of them.

Allowing two square feet to each person, the entire population of Boston could stand on the public garden, with a good deal of room to spare.

The entire population of the United States could stand in Boston proper (not including Brighton, Dorchester, and West Roxbury.)

The entire population of the world, (now estimated at 1,440,000,000) could stand on the Island of Martha's Vineyard, or in the space occupied by the towns of Boston, Brookline, Newton, Needham, Dedham, Hyde Park and Milton.

The state of Massachusetts would, in this way, accommodate seventy times the present population of the world.

The entire population of the world, placed side by side, and allowing two feet to each person would encircle the earth twenty times.

The states of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, taken together, are as large as England.

Any one of the states of Georgia, Illinois, Iowa and North Carolina is as large as England.

Kansas is as large as England and Scotland together.

Ireland is about the size of Maine.

France is more than twice as large as England, Wales and Scotland together.

Texas is thirty-five times as large as Massachusetts, or as large as Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio and Indiana combined.

The entire population of the United States could be provided for in the state of Texas, allowing each man, woman and child four acres of land.

The entire population of the world could be provided for in the United States, allowing each person one and a half acres of land.

TOOTHACHE HINTS.—It is natural for some people to have better teeth than others, but all must give attention to their cleansing and other treatment if they would have good teeth in old age.

A moderately stiff brush should be used thoroughly at least twice a day—morning and night.

Soft water (boiled water) and a mere taste of the best soap—white castile, for instance—are the only requisites besides the brush.

Powders are generally injurious to the enamel, and so are the much advertised liquid mixtures.

Strong acids, like lemon-juice, are d-structive, and the mingling of hot and cold food or drink at meals is very harmful.

Use, however, of hard, nutritious food, like well-baked Graham bread and crackers, promotes tooth-growth; while soft, watery food tends to decay the teeth.

It is now the opinion of leading dentists in Europe and this country that the reason there is so much tooth decay in early life, is in a large degree owing to the soft materials given to children as food, which are swallowed with scarcely any chewing.

On the appearance of decay a dentist should be employed. Much toothache is due to indigestion and constitutional debility, and much so-called "neuritis" may be traced to decayed carious teeth.

Care in the matter of diet, and watchfulness with regard to the condition of the teeth, would save people a vast deal of suffering and expense.

ROYALTY IN RENO.—In a gorgeous blue uniform, with three rows of brass buttons down the front of the coat, a leather belt around the waist, a continental hat bearing a huge brass eagle crest and a black plumed helmet, the grand old chief of the Putes forms a conspicuous figure wherever he chances to promenade.

He grasps the streets to-day, and a Gazette reporter took advantage of the opportunity to interview him. He is accompanied by his private secretary, Captain John, who gave valuable assistance in interpreting the oracular utterances of the old man.

He says he was born seventy-five years ago, on the Humboldt river, near where Brown's station now is, and when a boy lived with his brother on Pyramid Lake and the Truckee river. His name is Indian for swiftness of foot, and when taken in connection with his chieftaincy means that he is everywhere at once, ubiquitous. He tells about two white men, the first he ever saw, coming to Salmon river to mine. He had never heard of any such creatures, and did not know what they were. He says he came from the Humboldt river to Winnemucca, where his wife died, but does not know when. Since then he has remained a widower, which will awaken the interest of the fair ones of Reno. He talks about his nabe (home) on Salmon river, where he keeps open house for all. He calls his tribe the Putes, sounding the final e. He lives to-night for his home at Fort McDermitt in Winnemucca.—Reno Gazette.

MONDAY the 16th ult. was a glorious day for America. We did not win a victory on field or flood, but we exported to Europe from New York alone two hundred thousand barrels of grain, twenty thousand barrels and bags of flour, twenty-five hundred hales of cotton and thousands of tons of meats, cheese, butter and other provisions.

SATISFIED.—The anticipated pleasures of to-morrow make us satisfied with the humble drum pleasures of today.

THE SURRENDER AT APPOMATTOX.

Gen. John B. Gordon on the Unwritten History of the Event.

"On the night of the 7th of April was held Lee's last council of war. There was present Gen. Lee, Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, as chief of the cavalry, and Pendleton, as chief of the infantry, and myself. General Longstreet was, I think, too busily engaged to attend. Gen. Lee then exhibited to us the correspondence he had had with Gen. Grant that day and asked our opinion of the situation. It seemed that surrender was inevitable. The only chance of escape was that I could cut a way for the army through the lines in front of me. Gen. Lee asked me if I could do this. I replied that I did not know what forces were in front of me; that then he had not—with his heavy masses of Gen. Ord had not arrived—as we thought infantry, I could cut through. I guaranteed that my men would cut a way through all the cavalry and get out in front of them. The council finally dissolved with the understanding that the army should surrender if I discovered the next morning, after feeling the enemy's line, that the infantry had arrived in such force that I could not cut my way through.

"My men were drawn up in the little town of Appomattox that night. I still had about 4000 men under me, as the army had been divided into two commands and given to Gen. Longstreet and myself. Early on the morning of the 9th I prepared for the assault of the enemy's line and began the last fighting done in Virginia. My men rushed forward gamely and broke the line of the enemy, and captured two pieces of artillery. I was still unable to tell what I was fighting. I did not know whether I was striking infantry or dismounted cavalry. I knew that my men were driving them back, and were cutting further and further through. Just then I had a message from Gen. Lee, telling me that a flag of truce was in existence, leaving it to my discretion as to what course to pursue. My men were still pushing their way on. I sent at once to Gen. Longstreet, feeling that if he was marching towards me, we might still cut through and carry the army forward. I knew that he was about two miles off, with his men faced just opposite from mine, and that he was waiting for a flag of truce. I called Major Hunter, of my staff, to me and told him that I wanted him to carry a flag of truce forward. He replied: "General, I have no flag of truce."

"I told him to get one. He replied: "General, we have no flag of truce in our command."

"Then get your handkerchief, put it on a stick, and go forward."

"I have no handkerchief, General."

"Then borrow one, and go forward with it."

"I tried, and reported to me that there was no handkerchief in my staff."

"Then, Major, use your shirt."

"You see, General, that we all have on flannel shirts."

"I believe, we found a man who had a white shirt. He gave it to me, and I tore off the back and tail; and, rigging this to a stick, Major Hunter went out toward the enemy's lines. I instructed him simply to say to Gen. Sheridan that Gen. Lee had written me that a flag of truce had been sent from his and Grant's headquarters, and that he could act as he thought best on the information. In a few moments he came back with a flag of truce, and I ordered Sheridan's staff to carry it forward. This officer said: "Gen. Sheridan requested to present his compliments to you, and to demand the unconditional surrender of your army."

"Major, you will please return my compliments to Gen. Sherman, and say that I will not surrender."

"But, General, we will annihilate you. I am perfectly well aware of my situation. I simply gave Gen. Sherman some information of the fact that he may be able to act to act. I showed Gen. Sheridan, Gen. Lee's note, and he determined to await events. He dismounted, and I did the same. Then, for the first time, the men seemed to understand what it all meant. And then the poor fellows broke down. The men cried like children, Worn, starved and bleeding as they were, they rather had than to have surrendered. At one word from me they would have hurled themselves on the enemy and have cut their way through or have fallen like a man with their guns in their hands. But I could not permit it. The great drama had been played to its end. But men are seldom permitted to look upon such a scene as the one presented here. That these men should have wept at surrendering so unequal a fight; at being taken out of the country, and sent to the camps; at being sent back to their families; that they should have wept at leaving their starved and wasted forms lifted out of the jaws of death, and placed once more before their heartless foes, was an exhibition of fortitude and patriotism that might set an example for all time.

"Ah! sir, every ragged soldier that surrendered that day, from the highest to the lowest, from the old veteran to the bareheaded boy, every one of them, carried a heart of gold in his breast. It made my heart bleed for them, and sent the tears streaming down my face, as I saw them surrender the poor, riddled, battle-stained flags that they had followed so often, and that had been made sacred with the blood of their comrades. The poor fellows would step forward, give up the scanty rags that they had worn so precious through to many long and weary years, and then turn and wring his empty hands together, and bend their heads in agony of grief. Their sobs and the sobs of their comrades could be heard for yard around. Others would tear the flags from the staff and hide the precious rag in their bosoms and hold it there. As Gen. Lee rode down the lines and saw the men crying, and heard them cheering Uncle Robert with their simple but pathetic remarks, he turned to me and said, in a broken voice, 'Oh, General, if it had only been my lot to have fallen in one of our battles, to have given my life to this cause that we could not save.' I told him that he should not feel that way, that he had done all that mortal man could do, and that every man and woman in the south would feel that we would make him feel it. 'No! no!' he said, 'there will be many who will blame me. But, General, I have the consolation of knowing that my conscience approves what I have done, and that the army sustains me.'"

"In a few hours the army was scattered, and the men went back to their ruined and dismantled homes, many of them walking all the way to Georgia and Alabama, and some of them on foot, and some on horseback. Thus passed away Lee's army; and thus were its last battles fought; that was it surrendered, and thus was that great American tragedy closed, let us all hope, forever."

THE election in the state of Maine passed off quietly. The democrats reduced the republican majority in that abolition state wonderfully.

BEN BUTLER has received the nomination for governor of Massachusetts from the democrats and greenbackers combined.

Letter From Idaho.

THURMAN'S MILLS, BOISE VALLEY, I. T., September 23, 1879.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—In perusing your wide-awake paper I have noticed that, in connection with its spicy items of home manufacture, it possesses one other commendable feature, viz: correspondence from various sections of the country. Doubtless the printer, as he lays his typographical hand upon some of these crude articles, swears softly to himself as his practiced eye takes in the total absence of punctuation points, or falls upon a word now and then which could be reconstructed in order to bring the writer's orthography up to Webster's standard. However that may be, they are generally read with pleasure (by the writer at least) and in this migratory age sometimes with profit. And with these preliminary remarks your humble correspondent invades the sanctum, and answers to the call for "more copy" with the following item from a portion of our "fair land of sage."

We have been blessed with an abundant harvest this year. The grain yield was largely over average, and the same might be said of all other portions of the crop. The health also has been good, and as for morals, we are a model people (so I am told.) We vote an

AIR LINE DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

One of the least of our eminent virtues, and without regard to party lines or sectional feeling, give the hand of welcome to the stranger who wishes to make a home in our midst. A public school at this place closed a few weeks ago. The teacher, Mr. T. A. Wisdom, made many friends during his stay with us, and by his gentlemanly deportment and scholastic abilities, won for himself a record as a teacher as well as the lasting good will of his patrons and pupils.

The hands on this ranch, after a six-weeks run, made a final clean up with a result of something over

NINETEEN THOUSAND BUSHELS

Of grain, wheat, barley and oats. To harvest this large crop required a large force of men and horses, machinery, etc., but W. L. Thurman, who is a host within himself, put it through with a vim that, like Capt. Cuttle's watch, "could be equalled by few and excelled by none." His mills, the "Idaho Standard" have been running the past two or three weeks chopping barley, in order to meet the wants of his large trade in this country. The old veteran R. M. Crawford manipulates the buhrs, and turns out an article of flour that would, subdued by color, tickle the palate of an epicure and make a "mule skinner" think of the bread his mother used to give him. At the present time, the sporting element among us are looking forward to the fall races, which open at Boise City on the 6th of next month. Coin and greenbacks will make the usual transfers, and as our will, as likely as not, feel an aching void about the pocket, which, after all to the majority of us, will not seem unnatural.

As quiet as regards the festive L: and wishing the STATESMAN a long and prosperous journalistic career, I am yours, R. KENSAW.

Latest From the Front.

WARRENS, I. T., Sept. 4, 1879.

EDITOR STATESMAN:—In haste I write by this mail the very latest from the front. Gen. F

If, in the course of human events, Gen. Grant does not come up and see us, we can always find consolation in the reflection, as this is a free country we can all go down and see him.

When a Pacific sloop reads that "eastern cities are rapidly filling up with Chinese," he rubs his hands with glee, and longs to live until his relatives there fully understand the Chinese question as he sees it through his California spectacles.

MR. HAYES addressed the Western Reserve at Youngstown last week. For the first time in his presidential existence Hayes went for Tilden. He stated that there was a "suspicion" of trickery associated with Sannell. In this respect a great difference exists between Sam and Rutherford. There is no suspicion as to the latter's moral ideas of politics. It is settled.

N. P. GRADING.—A few days ago 100 Chinamen were set to work grading on the line of the Northern Pacific railroad, commencing at or near the mouth of Snake river, running towards Spokane Falls. Next week, we are informed, there will be an additional force of 200 more Chinamen put on to further the work. This betokens an earnestness that the public will be glad to witness.

THE report that Dave Thompson, mayor of Portland, had sent a telegram to a private individual inviting General Grant is without foundation. Dave knows a little too much to do anything so foolish. At any rate he knows that the mayor of the city would be the one to telegraph to. If he had done so he would probably have been told to mind his own business. We are not barbarians, but the toady nature and fawning spirit we have noticed in a case or two disgusts the majority of our citizens.

When Senator Morton visited this country his greatest complaint was that he could not be left alone for a single moment. There is not the slightest doubt but that the same foolishness will be attempted on Grant should he elect to pay us a visit. It is to be hoped that the city council will see to this matter and not allow any man outside their own body intrude his presence and take everything into his own hands. If so, it will make the city ridiculous as once before. There are moments when a man wants to be alone if only for a minute, and Grant is no exception to the general rule.

The statements written to the Oregon and Sound papers, reflecting on the officials of Yakima county, are based on spite and on a par with the usual vicious course adopted by the radicals—when they cannot rule, they wish to ruin. A prominent citizen of Yakima, now in this city, informs us that the strictest watch has been kept over the Indian prisoners connected with the murder of the Perkins family. It was the men who tell these lies that stayed at home concealing slander, while the brave officials and citizens were out in the harshest winter ever known, capturing these Indians, which acts cast a halo of glory over our frontier territory at the time. Jealousy is at the bottom of it.

A SUGGESTION.—The troops have been out in the mountains all the past summer trying in vain to capture or kill the Indians who have committed the depredations in the Salmon river and Weiser countries. Since such a desirable consummation cannot be reached, would it not be better if a party of reservation Indians of their own tribe who are on the Simcoe reservation, be sent out to induce them to come in and take their chances with the rest? They cannot be caught, and so long as they are loose will keep the whole frontier in an uproar and continue their mischief. We think that this could be accomplished with very little exertion, and start the suggestion for what it is worth.

A SO CALLED OUTRAGE.—A correspondent writing to the Oregonian complains of the cruelty shown to a soldier by putting him into a sweating box for drunkenness. We know the commanding officer at the camp referred to, and can state from experience that there is no man in the United States service more beloved by his men than he. This action must be caused by some outrageous conduct on the part of the soldier, otherwise we are certain it would never have transpired. There are "Holy Terrons" amongst soldiers as well as among roughs, in the latter case they are often deservedly shot down; in the former they are punished as they really deserve. No doubt if the correspondent had given the full facts there would have been no cause for sympathy.

SUPREME COURT OF CALIFORNIA.—Fall returns show that the following associate justices of the supreme court of California have been elected, namely: Sharpstein, McKee, McKinstry, Thornton, Ross and McKee. The five first named gentlemen are democrats, while the last named is a republican. At the time Judge Sharpstein, who is a brother of our esteemed fellow townsman, B. L. Sharpstein, Esq., was nominated, the Union sarcastically said that his nomination would be as near his election as he would ever come. These repeated unfriendly remarks towards the brother of him, who has always extended to the editor of the Union kindness only, and often received him at his house as an invited guest, can only be accounted for on the hypothesis that the sabbine word "gratitude" to his ideas only mean a lively sense of favors to come.

A POLITICAL WHALE.—Ben Butler is playing now his last chips on the political table. He has borrowed these, and if he loses, his credit is forever gone. Ben is now on his turning point; its result will be political death or life. He has a fine field before him for success, but the very fact he stands so strong and firm will cause as it will compel his opponents to recruit their armies with greater and more emphatic activity. Ben stands before the people of Massachusetts, from the sandy shores of the belching Hyannis to the culchawed circles of Beacon street, Boston, as a political Jonah, who has swallowed the whale of democracy, the black fish of independent republicanism, and the green back of nationalism. Unless he has engulfed more than he can digest his run will be successful. The Irish element, like the poor, he has always with him. Butler is a man of great magnetism which draws all things to him. The magnetic current of his soul can attract anything from a silver vase to a vote, and the devility of his originality blends with the honest dash of a "green-jinniness" of a good-heartedness to win men to him. He is a good fellow, is Ben, and a philanthropist, if it were only for the reason that his peculiar style of beauty will never break up a family, and his photograph is invaluable to parents to scare their children with.

AGRICULTURAL FAIRS. Fairs as they are conducted in England and many of the Atlantic States, are of great benefit and are attended with no small amount of interest. The Mechanics fair of San Francisco, is a credit to the state, and has been for the last four years, an eminent success, and each succeeding one is an improvement on those preceding. The Oregon Fair is yearly growing better, but that of last year had rainy, bad weather during the whole time it was in progress, and on that account was not so largely attended, and consequently not so much of a success financially. The fair there is a little too much in its make-up like those held in this county; there is too much horse; horse trots are given in their places, but so long as they absorb the major interest and overlook all other considerations they will fail to awaken the interest that properly conducted fairs are known to create in other localities. This is a community of farmers, and among them there is not more than one in ten, perhaps, who would rather see a horse trot than a good display of wheat and other farm products. The display of wheat and other cereals presented a sorry looking sight which amounted to nothing, simply because there was no competition. This should have been the chief object of attraction; but we are grieved to announce the fact that it was almost a total failure. We would suggest that $30 or $40 be awarded to the one who displays the best cental of wheat, and that all the other cereals be given equally liberal premiums. Fruit, too, is deserving of encouragement and should occupy an important niche in the show. All of our farmers are interested in cattle, sheep and hogs; in their improvement, and liberal premiums should be given to encourage all stock-raisers, to stimulate, to excel one another in raising not only blooded stock, but to bring such as they are able to afford, to the fair grounds in good condition. Premiums should be given for fat, well cared for stock of all kinds. Then every farmer could take a hand if he felt so disposed. Another pertinent suggestion we would make: That no judge be allowed to compete for the prizes named herein.

GRANT.—There is a decided feeling in our city that General Grant should visit us. This comes from prominent citizens irrespective of party; while this feeling exists there is a very apparent reluctance to appear too eager in the matter, arising doubtless from the independence natural to American citizens. We suggest that the mayor and city council telegraph an invitation to Gen. Grant; if accepted, we can then very easily make all the necessary preparations, and receive him in a becoming manner. While he will be pleased at seeing the tremendous stride made in what, when he last saw it, was looked upon as a vast wilderness, it will also benefit the country, from the fact that an ex-president has considered it worth visiting; in short, it will be the best advertisement this country ever had. Extend the invitation by all means, gentlemen, and you need not tax the city for it either. Do that, and the citizens will attend to the other part.

HELMHOLD'S MEDICAL PREPARATIONS.—Helmhold's various medicinal preparations have for the last twenty or more years occupied a prominent place on the shelves of every respectable druggist and chemist in the land. The skill displayed in their preparation, the invariable promptness and efficiency of their action, the absence of noxious and disgusting taste or odor, and the attractive manner in which they are put up, have made them universal favorites. It is especially in the case with Helmhold's famous Bichin, a medicine which has become indispensable in the treatment of a large and troublesome class of diseases, particularly those which affect the digestive and urinary organs. As a domestic, it is invaluable, and the great advantage it possesses over other preparations is the absolute purity of the ingredients, and the infidelity of strength. Parties purchasing should be careful to see that Helmhold's proprietary stamp is affixed to each bottle.

PRICE LIST.—We have taken considerable trouble to gather the wholesale cash prices of the staple articles sold at the stores in this city, and print them for the benefit of our numerous readers who live away off. They can rest assured that they are the legitimate cash prices. The list is subject to corrections and additions every week, as it will henceforth be a feature of the STATESMAN. We vouch for the prices, now; but sugars are advancing and hardware also; in fact, in the latter line of goods, many articles are not obtainable in the markets, such as the immense demand consequent on the sudden prosperity and rich harvests that the work shops are unable to supply the demand.

WORK BEGAN ON THE N. P. LINE.—Assistant Superintendent H. M. McCartney, with a large force of laborers and mechanics, left Wallula on the 3d inst. for the mouth of Snake river to commence work on the Northern Pacific railroad. Among the citizens of that place there was great rejoicing over the sure sign that work was to be commenced immediately, and the parting whistle of the boat was drowned by the wild shouts of rejoicing citizens on the banks.

ORTHOGRAHY.—The schoolmaster is not only abroad, but he is at home also. A letter came to the post office addressed Walla Walla, Wisconsin to wit. This is bad enough, but when we see notices stuck up around in conspicuous places with an advertisement of a "one" bull found on a "Friday," we are inclined to wonder if the schoolmaster has ever been here. Go around town anywhere and you find "frunt" rooms to be "oup" stairs. Which of our contemporaries is responsible for this vile orthography.

FRUIT CANNING.—Quite a business has been done in the line of fruit-canning. All kinds of fruit have been put up in their season, and the business is far from being completed. We heard a few days ago that over 2000 dozen cans have been made in this city since the fruit-ripening commenced, and it is safe to say, we think, that half as many more will be needed before the season closes. This is a gratifying state of affairs which we chronicle with no little satisfaction.

THE BLESSED RAIN.—Last Saturday the long prayed for rain came down in torrents; the effect it had on people was astonishing; not an umbrella was to be seen, and everybody gloried in what they felt to be a perfect blessing. It settled the dust of the dust that had filled the air for weeks, and everybody felt better and breathed more freely.

TO YOUNG MEN ABOUT TO MARRY AND OTHERS.—The opportunity offered to-day to get a home for a mere nominal sum ought not to be neglected. The auction sale of lots by Chapman & Boyer will take place on Tuesday. Be on hand young men, and get ready to save that rent bill.

WE intend printing on the outside of the STATESMAN some of the most solid, sound and good articles we ever came across. These are termed "John Ploughman's Talk," or Plain Advice for Plain People, and are written by C. H. Spurgeon. The first one next week on "Religious Grumblers."

THE EXCHANGE HOTEL.—This hostelry is fast becoming the headquarters of all the fairs; we notice on the register some very prominent names. Last week were registered amongst others Judge Boise, and L. W. Wallace, of Portland, M. M. McCartney, and J. S. P. Weeks, of the North Pacific railway.

NEW MAIL ROUTE.—The military mail to the new post near the Okanogan now leaves here every Tuesday. Tom Kough takes it to Crab creek, connecting with another man who takes it right on. James Monahan has the contract, so it may be depended upon for schedule time.

PERSONAL. Capt. Hodges, of Wallula, was in town during the week. F. G. Newland, of Dayton, was in town last Sunday and Monday. Fred Stencil begins to look as though an extended holiday would do him a heap of good. G. W. Freston, Esq., of the pretty and thrifty town of Waiilatpu, has been paying our city a visit. His Honor Judge Wingard and A. Reeves Ayers, left on Wednesday for Yakima City to hold the October term of court. Capt. Forsythe left us on Tuesday for his station at the new military post, where he will resume his duties as quartermaster. Lieut. Backus, 1st cavalry, has returned home from his holiday much improved in health and looking 100 per cent better than when he left. Arthur Williams, Esq., called on us on his way to Mount Idaho from Victoria. He is largely interested in Northern Idaho and deserves every success. Jesse Day, of Dayton, and the father of Columbia county, and one of the best men in our territory, paid our office the honor of a visit on Saturday last. Mr. Dick Kelling and John Lewis left for San Francisco on Thursday. Their object is business, pleasure, and health combined with orders to bring Gen. Grant up if possible. Friend Robey now has the Weston hotel under his charge. We have not the slightest doubt of his success in this business, for he is one of the few men know how to please everybody. Eph Banker, of Lewiston, is coming down to the races this fall. He has hosts of friends here who will warmly welcome him. We are keeping his record during the Nez Percé war for his arrival. Our old friend Jim Barnes, of Boise City, cast his smiling shadow over our threshold last Thursday. Jim is inclined to settle down here, and we hope he will for he would soon become a power in the land. Mr. Sim Reel, president of the O. S. N. company, was in the city during the week. Sim is a right-voiced fellow and a companion for princes. He is one of the men who made this country and has left his imprint everywhere. Long life to him. Charley Hopkins, of the Palouse Gazette, is in town looking as handsome as ever. Since he has gone in on his paper alone it has become a regular rate. Charley is a will-awake boy and full of that energy which always carries its way through the world. Horatio O'Brien is having his stand thoroughly renovated, and will be fitted with a new stock of goods next week. We are glad to notice these signs of prosperity in our young friend, who is a good boy, and is possessed of a fine taste in the square inch than all the rest of his size in town. A. L. Kinnear, of Waiilatpu, is again in town looking after his wheat. His firm has bought an immense quantity this season and are still buying. Their warehouse is built expressly for easy handling of wheat; the floor is on an incline, and has a fall of 14 feet. It makes it very easy to roll the sacks out towards the river.

AGRICULTURAL MACHINERY!

THE CELEBRATED BAIN WAGONS.

The Leading Wagon of the United States and the Best Wagon Made.

The great and constantly increasing popularity of the Bain Wagon is due to the extra care taken in selecting material, the thorough seasoning of all the wood before using, the rigid inspection to which the work is subjected at its various stages, the employment of nothing but the best skilled free labor, (no convict labor being used,) in discarding piece work and paying mechanics by the day, thus insuring honest work and producing a wagon which for strength, durability, and lightness of draft, is unequalled by any other wagon made. Full Round Edge Tires, projecting over the felloes and protecting them from wear, oil cups with Brass Screw Caps, and patent Skin tighteners, will be on all Bain Wagons imported the coming season.

MOWERS AND REAPERS.

The Champion Combined Reaper and Mower.

The Champion Combined Reaper and Mower is the most complete harvesting machine made. Not only is it well constructed throughout, of excellent material and with every facility for cutting grain and grass and raking grain, but it embraces every device for the convenience of the farmer. The Rake-Raking apparatus is remarkably simple and not liable to get out of order. The rake delivers the grain at the side of the machine and out of the way of the team in making the next round. It is under complete control of the driver, and can be set to rake automatically, delivering a bundle at each revolution, or by means of the foot treadle, to rake at the will of the driver large or small gavel, or the rake can be held to carry a bundle around a corner, or any distance. This machine is also complete as a Dropper or as a mower. Each machine is built as a Mower, and so arranged before it leaves the factory that a Dropping Attachment or a Self-Rake Attachment can be added at any time by the farmer, and no tools are required to put on or take off these attachments, except such as are sent in the tool box with each machine. Two smooth edged mowing knives and one serrated edged grain sickle are furnished with each Champion Combined Mower and Reaper.

HAINES' SINGLE GEAR HEADERS.

To the farmers who still adhere to the old and economical method of harvesting with headers, we offer the genuine Haines' Headers with single or double drapers made by A. J. Hodge & Co., of Pekin, Ill., with many valuable improvements for the season of 1879, which will be found on no other headers in the market, as they are made to our order, from suggestions of some of the best farmers in the Territory, and for our exclusive sale. Farmers who want the best header made, should examine our machines before buying.

The "Tiger" Self-Discharging Sulky Hay Rake.

Awarded the First Medal of the Highest Honor at the Centennial Exposition and Field Trial.

A perfect Self-Discharging Sulky Rake, high wheels, with hickory spokes, solid wrought iron axles, twenty steel teeth tempered in oil, dumps from both wheels, discharged by a slight pressure of the foot. Any boy or girl that can drive a horse can operate it as well as the strongest man. In simplicity, strength and durability, ease of operating or adjusting to any variety of crop or surface it is without a rival.

"Mansfield" Portable and Stationary Steam Engines.

These Engines combine lightness with ample power, and economy of fuel and water in the greatest degree, being the only Portable Engine manufactured in the United States having Steam Jacket and Balance Steam Valve. For mechanical construction, accessibility of all its parts, regularity of speed and thorough workmanship, THIS ENGINE HAS NO RIVAL IN THE WORLD.

THE NEW ECONOMIZER ENGINE.

In Agricultural Engines which require frequent removals, it becomes an object of great importance to have as little weight as possible to transport, and yet have the material of sufficient strength, and put together with skill to withstand the hardships to which they are subject, and especially the "Trotter's" Engine, which is probably subjected to more abuses than almost any other class of engines, as they are moved very often and over all kinds of roads. In these respects the manufacturers of this Engine have taken great pains to build an engine and boiler that will stand the test for years. We invite competition with those of other makers.
