Dec. 20, 1862.
FRANK CARPENT, Proprietor.

Song—The Battle-Cry of Freedom.
We are marching to field, boys—going to the fight,
Shouting the Battle-cry of Freedom;
And we bear the glorious stars for the Union and the right,
Shouting the Battle-cry of Freedom.
The Union forever! hurrah, boys! hurrah!
Down with the traitor—up with the Stars;
For we're marching to the field, boys—going to the fight,
Shouting the Battle-cry of Freedom.
We will meet the rebel hosts, boys, with fearless hearts and true,
Shouting the Battle-cry of Freedom;
And we'll show what Uncle Sam has for loyal men to do,
Shouting the Battle-cry of Freedom.
If we fall in the fray, boys, we'll face them to the last,
Shouting the Battle-cry of Freedom;
And our comrades brave shall lead us as they go rushing past,
Shouting the Battle-cry of Freedom.
Chorus—The Union forever! &c.
Yes, for Liberty and Union we're springing to the fight,
Shouting the Battle-cry of Freedom,
And the victory shall be ours, for we're rising in our might,
Shouting the Battle-cry of Freedom.
Chorus—The Union forever! &c.

business, he retraced his steps, and at the White House, a marriage engagement took place."
MARRIED LIFE.
Washington and his wife frequently visited Annapolis and Williamsburg, the respective capitals of Maryland and Virginia. For fifteen consecutive years, he was a member of the Virginia House of Burgesses, and Mrs. Washington spent much time with him at Williamsburg during the sessions. Both fond of amusements, they frequently attended the theatrical representations there and at Annapolis, the entertainment being then a recent importation from England, the first company of actors, under the direction of Lewis Hallam, having first performed in the Maryland capital in 1752. They also attended balls and parties given by the fashionable people of Annapolis and Williamsburg, and frequently joined in the dances. But after the Revolution, Washington was never known to dance, his last performance was in a minute of which he was very fond, on the occasion of a ball given at Fredericksburg, in honor of the French and American officers then there, on their way north, after the capture of Cornwallis, towards the close of 1781.
DAILY WORK.
The labors in his library, and a visit to his stables, usually occupied the hours before breakfast. After making a frugal meal of Indian cakes, honey, and tea or coffee, he would mount his horse and visit every part of his estate where the current operations seemed to require his presence, leaving his guests to enjoy themselves with books and papers, or otherwise according to their choice. He rode upon his farms entirely unattended, opening the gates, pulling down and putting up the fences, and inspecting with a careful eye, every agricultural operation, and personally directing the manner in which many should be performed. Sometimes the tour of his farms, in the course of the morning might average, in distance, twelve or fifteen miles; and on these occasions his appearance was exceedingly plain. The late Mr. Custis, his adopted son, has left on record a description of him on one of these occasions, in the latter years of his life, which he gave to a gentleman who was out in search of Washington:
"You will meet, sir," said young Custis to the inquirer, "with an old gentleman riding alone in plain drab clothes, a broad brimmed white hat, a hickory staff in his hand, and carrying an umbrella with a long staff, which is attached to his saddle-bow—that person, sir, is General Washington." The umbrella was used to shelter him from the sun, for his skin was tender and easily affected by its rays.
THE BEGINNING OF THE WAR.
Washington was at Mount Vernon only a few weeks at a time, from the summer of 1774 until his retirement from the army in 1783. He was in the first Continental Congress, as we have observed during the autumn of 1774; was absent upon military services much of the time during the winter of 1775, and was a member of the Virginia Assembly in the spring, when Patrick Henry made his famous war speech, which was closed with the burning words—"What is it that gentlemen wish? What would they have? To be so dear or so precious, as not to give me liberty or give me death?" With these words of Henry ringing in his ears, Washington returned to Mount Vernon, and prepared for a journey to Philadelphia, there to take his seat as a member of the second Continental Congress. Just at the close of a mild April day, while he and his neighbor Bryan Fairfax, with Major Gates, were discussing the stirring events at Williamsburg, connected with the seizure of powder belonging to the colony, by the royal governor, and the bold stand taken by Patrick Henry—events which were then arousing every republican heart in Virginia to action—a messenger came in haste from Alexandria, bearing the intelligence of bloodshed at Lexington and Concord. That intelligence made a deep but widely different impression upon the minds of the three friends. The gentle Fairfax, even then inclined to enter the gospel ministry, which he afterward adorned, was drawn, by the ties of consanguinity and ancestral reverence, to the side of the parent country. He was much distressed by the tidings from the east, for he perceived the gathering of a cloud of miseries for his country, and the peril of all social relations. Gates, ambitious of military glory, and eagerly looking for the honors and emoluments of office, for which he had long pined by the appointment of an avenue to a field of action wherein they might be won; while Washington, communing with the intuitions of his better spirit, became thoughtful and reserved, and talked little, but wisely on the subject. But he resolved nobly and firmly to go zealously into whatever conflicts might rise for the defence of the liberties of his country. All regarded the event as the casting away of the sabre, as the severing blow to colonial allegiance.

Song.
When all the world is young, lad,
And all the trees are green,
And every goose a swan, lad,
And every lass a queen;
Then boys for boots and horses, lad,
And round the world away;
Young blood must have its course, lad,
And every dog his day.
When all the world is old, lad,
And all the trees are brown;
And all the sport is o'er, lad,
And all the wheels run down;
Creep home and take your place there,
The spent and maimed among;
God grant you find one face there,
You loved when all was young.
CONEERNING US ALL.—The man that dies young, as might be expected, perhaps, is the railway brakeman. His average age is only 27. Yet this must be taken with some allowance, from the fact that hardly any but young and active men are employed in the capacity.
At the same age dies the factory workman, through the combined influence of confined air, sedentary posture, scant wages, and unremitted toil.
Then comes the railway baggage man, who is smashed, on an average, at 30.
Milliners and dressmakers live but little longer. The average of the one is 32, and the other 33.
The engineer, the fireman, the conductor, the powder-maker, the well-digger, and the factory operative, all of whom are exposed to sudden and violent deaths, die on an average under the age of 35.
The cutter, the dyer, the leather-dresser, the apothecary, the confectioner, the cigar-maker, the printer, the silversmith, the painter, the shoe-maker, the engraver, and the machinist, all of whom lead confined lives in an unwholesome atmosphere, none of them reach the average of 40.
The musician blows his breath all out of his body at 40. The editor knocks himself into "pi" at the same age.
Then comes trades that are active or in a purer air. The baker lives to the average age of 43, the butcher to 40, the brickmaker to 47, the carpenter to 49, the furnace man to 42, the mason to 48, the stone-cutter to 43, the tanner to 49, the tinsmith to 41, the weaver to 44, the drover to 40, the cook to 45, the inn-keeper to 46, the laborer to 44, the domestic servant (female) to 43. The tailor lives to 48, the tailoress to 41.
Why should the barber live till 50, if not to show the virtue there is in personal neatness and in soap and water?
Those who average over half a century among mechanics, are those who keep their muscles and lungs in healthful and moderate exercise, and are not troubled with weighty cares. The blacksmith hammers till 51, the cooper till 50, the builder till 52, the shipwright till 50, the wheelwright till 50. The miller lives to be whitened with the age of 61. The rope-maker lengthens the thread of life to 54. Merchants, wholesale and retail, till 52.
Professional men live longer than is generally supposed. Litigation kills clients sometimes, but seldom lawyers, for they average 55. Physicians prove their usefulness by prolonging their own lives to the same period. Clergymen, who it is to be presumed enjoy a greater mental serenity than others, last till 65.
Seafaring life, and its adjuncts, seem, instead of dangerous, to be actually conducive to longevity. We have already seen that the shipwright lives till 56. The sailor averages 43, the caulker 63, the sailmaker 52, the stovedore 57, the ferryman 65, and pilot 64.
A dispensation of Providence that men may consider incomprehensible, is that brewers and distillers live to the ripe old age of 64.
Last and longest lived come paupers, 67, and the gentleman 68. The only two classes that do nothing for themselves, and live on their neighbors, outlast all the rest. Why should they wear out when they are always idle?
THE ART OF BEING POLITE.—First and foremost don't try to be polite. It will spoil all!
If you keep overwhelming your guests with ostentatious entreaties to make themselves at home, they will very soon begin to wish they were there. Let them find out that you are happy to see them by your actions rather than your words.
Always remember to let bashful people alone at first. It is the only way to set them at their ease. Trying to draw them out has sometimes the contrary effect of driving them out of the house!
Leading the conversation is a dangerous experiment. Better follow in its wake, and if you want to endeavor yourself to talkers learn to listen well. Never make a fuss about anything—never talk about yourself and always preserve perfect composure, no matter what solecisms or blunders others may commit. Remember that it is a very foolish proceeding to lament that you cannot offer to your guests a better house, or furniture, or friends.
It is fair to presume that their visit is to you, not to the surroundings. Give people a pleasant impression of themselves, and they will be pretty sure to go away with a pleasant impression of your qualities. On just such slender wheels as these the whole fabric of society turns; it is our business to keep them in perfect running order!
A western editor, in speaking of a poet out his way, says he begins to claim the usual privilege of talent. He has been drunk as often as four times during the past week.
A wag once said that the reason why unmarried ladies looked so often at the moon, was the vulgar belief that there was a man in it.

JOSH BILLINGS ON DOGS.—Dogs are various in kind, and thank you an all wise Providence, they are various in number. They are the only animal of the brute persuasion who have voluntarily left a wild state of nature, and come in under the flag of man. They are not vulgar bones but chosen, and they belong to somebody. This fact endears them to us, and I have always rated the dog as about the seventh cousin to the human species. They talk, but the language is in the hand; this shows that their hearts are in the right place where other folks' tongues are not. Dogs in the lump are useful, but the article always profitable in the lump. The Newfoundland dog is useful to save children from drowning, but you have got to have a pond of water, and children running around carelessly, or else the dog ain't profitable. There ain't nothing but boarding a Newfoundland dog. Rat Trappers are useful to catch rats, but the rats ain't profitable after you have caught them.
The Shepard dog is useful to drive sheep, but if you have to go and buy a flock you sleep, and pay more than the sheep are worth, just to keep the dog busy, the dog ain't profitable, but if you don't hold them in your lap and the time ain't profitable at all. Bull dogs are extremely useful, but you have to keep a bull dog or else you can't make anything on the dog. The Copeh dog is won of the most un-fussful of dogs I know of, but you have got to have a coach (and that ain't always pleasant), or you can't realize from the dog. Thus we see, that while dogs are generally useful, there are times when they are generally profitable. I don't really buy a Yaller dog for a mud dog, but with these few unfortunate exceptions, it is a difficult hard work for me to say a hard word against the dog; the wag of his tail is what gets me. Every man who will abuse a dog will abuse a woman, and every man who will abuse a woman is thirty-five or forty miles mear than a pale yellow dog. These are my sentiments, and I shan't change them, until I receive notice that the camel has smoothed down the hump on his back and the serpent ceased to wiggle when he wanders.
Some half dozen prisoners made their escape from Point Lookout, by a dodge that showed up no little ingenuity and nerve. Knowing that they would be under less rigid watch in the hospital, they determined to palm themselves off for small pox patients. To this end they secured a wire, heated it, and marked their faces and hands, producing blisters even, and thus were suddenly ordered to the hospital as dangerous cases. They succeeded, subsequently, in eluding the vigilance of the guard, who never dreamed of the running away of men lately broke out with the small-pox, and made good their escape.
HOW THE SOLDIER SLEEPS.—You would I think, wonder to see men lie right down in the dusty road, under the full noon sun of Tennessee and Alabama, and fall asleep in a minute. I have passed hundreds of such sleepers. A dry spot is a good mattress; the flap of a blanket coat a downy pillow. You would wonder, I think, to see a whole army corps, as I have, without a shed or a tent to bless themselves with, lying anywhere and everywhere in all night rain, and not a growl nor a grumble. I was curious to see whether the pluck and good nature were washed out of them, and so I made my way out of the snug, dry quarters, I am ashamed to say I occupied, at five in the morning, to see what water had done with them. Nothing! Each soaked blanket hatched out as jolly a fellow as you would wish to see—muddy, dripping, half-battered, forth they came, wringing themselves out as they went, with the look of a troop of "wet down" rosters in a full rainstorm plunage at half mast, but hearts triumphant. If they swore—and some did—it was with a laugh; the sleepy frowns were stirred up; then came the coffee, and they were good as new. "Blood is thicker than water."—B. F. Taylor.

THE WINESTED HERALD very coolly publishes the following among its marriage notices. How many unfortunate bridal parties will see the point?—Married.—At the Methodist church in this village, on Tuesday evening last, after a partially protracted prayer by Rev. E. A. Spencer, of Terryville, Capt. Charles L. Hoeford to Hattie L. Pierce, both of this place.

Why are kisses like the Creation?—Because they are made out of nothing, and all very good.

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERRORS.—A lad in a printing office, who knew no more about typesetting than he did of the Greek mythology, in looking over a poem they were printing, came upon the name of Heoete, one of the lady divinities of the lower world, occurring in a line like this:—
"Shall reign the Heoete of the deepest Hell."
The boy thinking he had discovered an error ran to the master printer, and inquired eagerly whether there was an e in cat. "Why no, you blockhead," was the reply. "Away went the boy to the press room, and extracted the objectionable letter." But fancy the horror of both poet and publisher when the poem appeared with the line:—
"Shall reign the Heoete of the deepest Hell."
How important the loss of a single letter may become is seen by the following example:—
A printer putting to press a form of the Common Prayer, there in the following passage dropped out unperceived by him:—
"We shall all be changed in the twinkling of an eye." When the book appeared, to the horror of the devout worshipper, the passage read, "We shall be hanged in the twinkling of an eye."
Fun should be cultivated as a fine art; for it is altogether a fine thing. Whoever knew a "funny man" to be a bad one? On the contrary, he is not, nine times in ten, generous, humane, social and good? To be sure he is. Fun is a great thing; it smooths the rough places of life; makes the disposition as fresh and rosy as a maiden's kiss; scatters sunshine and flowers wherever he goes; gives the world a round, jolly countenance; wakes all the girls as pretty as June roses, and mankind one of the best families on earth.

Eastern News.

News of March 8th.

Washington, March 1.—Orders have been issued to the Provost Marshal General in each of the several Atlantic States to be fully prepared to commence the draft on the 10th of March, and make it in every sub-district which shall not have raised its quota before the 1st of March.

A special dispatch to the Times of the 1st, says: The latest information received from the Army of the Potomac is to 9 o'clock this morning. Heavy musketry firing was heard early this morning to the extreme right, in the direction of Stannardsville, where it was supposed Coster's cavalry were engaging the rebels.

There is an evident disposition on the part of Lee to avoid a battle by keeping behind his entrenchments.

New York, March 3.—The Richmond Examiner of Feb. 24th says an official despatch was received at the War Department last night from Polk, stating that Sherman's forces had evacuated Meridian and were retreating in two columns towards Vicksburg. It was supposed that, finding his designs thwarted by his cavalry reinforcements being intercepted, and being in distress for supplies, was forced to abandon his expedition and take the desperate expedient of retreat through a country stripped of supplies and laid waste by his advance.

Chicago, March 2.—The Provost Marshal Gen., in his instructions to Provost-Marshal, says: If the quota is not filled by the first draft, the boards shall make a further draft until the entire quota be obtained.

Philadelphia, March 3.—The Richmond papers announce "with unfeigned regret" the appointment of Braxton Bragg as Commander-in-Chief of the rebel army over the head of Gen. Lee.

Washington, March 2.—The correspondence between Gen. Butler and the rebel Commissioner Gen. Ould, relative to the exchange of prisoners resulted in a declaration of exchange, in which it is agreed that all persons delivered at City Point up to the 24th Jan., 1865, are exchanged.

The President has ordered that all punishments to deserters now under sentence of death, be mitigated to imprisonment during the war, at the Fort Dry Tortugas.

The House passed the bill reported from the Committee of Ways and Means last week, authorizing a change in the form of the loan authorized by the act of March last. This is a bill for the issue of $200,000,000 of 5-40 bonds.

Washington, March 6.—Gen. Meade appeared before the Committee yesterday and denied emphatically that any orders were made or delivered to Sickles and Doubleday regarding the recall of the army at Gettysburg. It is understood that his explanations were not entirely satisfactory, and the Committee will pursue its investigations.

Admiral Dupont is in Washington and is to appear before the Commission for investigating the failure of the attack on Charleston.

One or two more ships of war are to go to the Pacific.

Official intelligence confirms the report that Jeff. Davis has ordered the immediate seizure of all points now held by the Federals in North Carolina.

All was quiet at Jacksonville, Florida.—Reinforcements were rapidly arriving. Our position is sufficiently formidable to repel any attack.

Knoxville, March 4.—Scouts report that Longstreet has shipped his wagon trains to Richmond and is mounting his men upon horses and mules, and pressing into service all the animals that can be found. The rebel cavalry is still scouring the country north and east of us.

Washington, March 8.—The House to-day amended the gold bill so as to authorize Secretary of the Treasury to anticipate the payment of interest on the public debt from time to time, with or without date, as may be deemed expedient. Bill passed by 90 to 84.

Special committee of House on bill to allow officers of Departments to be heard on the floor of Congress was favorably considered.

All loyal States except Massachusetts, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Iowa, have raised their full quota under the last call for men. Wisconsin is nearly full.

New York, March 9.—At the election held yesterday in New Hampshire, the total vote was 23,280 of which 1,640 were a majority in favor of an amendment to the Constitution allowing soldiers to vote.

New York, March 10.—Chase wrote a letter, which is published to-day, declining to become a candidate for President. Referring to a former letter he says: "I said should our friends in Ohio manifest a preference for another, I should accept the decision with ready acquiescence from one who has already been trusted beyond his merit and expectations. Recent action of the Union members of the Ohio Legislature indicating such preference, I ask no further consideration be given my name."

Washington, March 10.—The Ratification treaty between the United States and Great Britain for final settlement of the claims of Hudson Bay and Puget sound agricultural Cos. has just been exchanged. All claims between the United States authorities on the one hand; and those of companies on the other, with respect to possessory right, and claims of these companies and other British subjects in Oregon and Washington Territory, are to be settled by transferring these claims and rights to the Government of the United States for an adequate money consideration. Both Governments shall within twelve months after the exchange of ratification of the present treaty, appoint each commissioners for the purpose of examining and deciding all claims arising out of its provisions.

The Richmond Sentinel says Kilpatrick's officers and men have been put in irons. Gold 164@164 1/2.

Washington, March 11.—Senate bills for the admission of Nevada and Colorado into Union as States will be considered on the 14th, the day set aside for Territorial business.

The Gold bill as amended by Sherman, and with further amendments restricting anticipated payment of interest on the public debt to a period of one year, passed the Senate by a vote of 80 to 8.

A correspondent who accompanied Sherman's expedition writes from Canton, Feb. 26th: The expedition was successful in achieving the objects for which it was sent. With 20 days' rations Sherman left Vicksburg on the 3d of Feb. Crossing Big Black next day, he had a sharp fight with Adams' cavalry, driving him beyond Jackson, where the army camped that night. Next morning advanced, skirmishing with the rebel cavalry and driving them before us. On reaching Meridian we encountered Loring and French's divisions, who had been thrown up defenses, evidently intending to fight, but retreated without firing a gun. On the 14th Hurlbut's corps entered Meridian, the remainder of the expedition following the ensuing day, having destroyed the town of Hillsboro on the way. At Meridian we encountered the rebel cavalry. Took possession and held the town four days, during which time expeditions were sent out and destroyed 70 miles of railroad, including 80,000 feet of bridging, and a large amount of rolling stock. Considerable rolling stock was destroyed by the rebels to prevent its falling into our hands. Trains at Enterprise and the railroad station at Chankey were destroyed with a large amount of rebel stores. There was no intention of going to Selma, and the main body of the army never went beyond Meridian.

Veterans are coming back at the rate of 2,000 per day—many regiments having from 800 to 400 recruits.

New York, March 11.—A letter from Farragut's fleet says he intends to silence Fort Powell so as to send the Mosquito fleet up Mobile Bay. This will cut off Fort Morgan and Gaines. The bay is said to be obstructed three miles below in such a manner as to compel vessels to pass under the guns of two iron-clad forts and battery on shore on the west side. Mobile is defended strongly at every point. The rebel ram Tennessee still lies in the bay. Mobile is almost entirely destitute of troops, 10,000 having gone to meet Sherman.

Louisville, March 11.—The Union Central Committee have called a State Convention to meet in this city in May, to nominate an electoral ticket and appoint delegates to the Chicago Convention. The call was signed by James Guthrie, Geo. D. Prentice and others.

Concord, N. H., March 11.—Returns from the entire State, except ten towns give Gilmore 5,992 majority. Four out of five Councilors and 2 out of 12 Senators elected are Union Republicans. The Republican majority in the House will be about 75. Gilmore's majority will be about 5,600.

Washington, March 11.—In compliance with the Senate resolution respecting the point for the commencement of the Pacific Railroad on the 100° west longitude, with a branch road from the western boundary of Iowa to said 100° west longitude, the President sent a message to that body to-day, designating and establishing such first above named point on the western boundary of Iowa east of and opposite to Omaha.

San Francisco, 12.—The French Consul of this port has just issued an order declaring the Mexican ports of Acapulco and Manzanillo under blockade and that neither merchandise nor passengers will be allowed to enter either of those ports.

The following military arrangements have been made: 1st, by order of the President, Lieut. Gen. Grant is assigned to the command of the United States Army. 2d, Major-Gen. Halleck is relieved from duty as General-in-Chief, and assigned special duty in Washington as Chief-of-Staff of the Army. 3d, Major-Gen. Sherman is assigned to the command of the Military Division of the Mississippi, lately commanded by Gen. Grant, comprising the Departments of Ohio, Cumberland, Tennessee and Arkansas. 4th, Major-Gen. McPherson is to command the Department of Tennessee, recently commanded by Sherman. 5th, Gen. Grant is to establish his headquarters in the field, with the respective armies of the Ohio and Tennessee under his personal supervision.

Gen. T. W. Smith was to-day nominated Major-Gen. of Volunteers, vice Grant promoted. This is supposed to be preparatory to his assignment to the command of the Army of the Potomac.

Gen. Grant intends to concentrate all the Western forces in camp for smashing blows this spring. Another call will soon be issued for 300,000 or 300,000 men.

Louisville, March 12.—Under the new order, it is understood that Gen. Schofield is to remain in command of Eastern Tennessee and Thomas at Chattanooga. Hooker, Logan, Hurlbut, and Granger will retain their present positions as corps commanders.

San Francisco March 12.—The steamer Brother Jonathan, from Victoria, has arrived.

GREETINGS.—The following greetings were exchanged between the Mayors of Portland, Oregon, and Portland, Maine, a few days after the completion of the Oregon telegraph:

Portland, March 1st, 1864. To Mayor of the City of Portland, Maine:—Portland of the Pacific to Portland of the Atlantic,—the younger to the elder sister—one in name. May they ever be united in the preservation of our common country and its liberties. DAVID LOGAN, Mayor.

Portland, Me., March 8th, 1864. (Rec'd 9th, 1.30 P. M.) David Logan, Mayor:—Portland, Maine, to Portland Oregon, this morning greets her fair sister. The floods clap their hands, the hills shout for joy! Let the sun in all his course witness our undiminished love and sleepless vigilance, as we keep the gates of the Republic. JACOB McLELLAN, Mayor of Portland, Me.

ESCAPED.—Three prisoners escaped from the Dalles jail, on Wednesday of last week. Their names are, J. W. Smyth, Charley Pohl and S. C. Hoyt. The Sheriff of Wasco county offers a reward of $200 for the arrest of Smyth, and $100 each for the other two.

THE WASHINGTON STATESMAN

SATURDAY MORNING, MAR. 19, 1864

Extremes.

The New York Journal of Commerce, a paper owing allegiance to no party, says, in times like the present there is a tendency to extreme views on public questions, and that tendency produces now such a broad and decided line between various persons and parties that it cannot but be regarded as one of the most dangerous features of our difficult and dark position as a nation. The radical party encourages the most violent treatment of its opponents, and those opponents are in many instances induced to rush to extreme views against radicals and radicalism. Looking to the future, to the great efforts of the war, to the end which ought to be brought out of our present troubles, none can doubt that a reunited people, a nation calmly pursuing its old course of prosperity in peace, is the point which ought to be reached. The divisions of the nation ought to be healed. But the radicals insist on exterminating the evils which they think dwell in the very constitution of southern society, and therefore their method of restoring union is simply to compel the enemy to submit, and acknowledge themselves thoroughly and hopelessly whipped. Here then, is the first great division—not only that between rebels and all northern men but that helpless division between the radicals and the inhabitants of the slave States. But there is a large party in the north—full one half, probably three-fourths of the people of the northern States—who are willing and anxious to repair the breach and have the southerners return to their old Union, peaceably and quietly as heretofore. Against this position of the northern population the radicals fight with more ferocity than against the rebels. For the radical party would willingly, if it dared, give up the content and say to the slave States, "Go in peace;" but they are mingled hopelessly among the conservatives, and must live in the same towns, villages and homes with them. Yet they contrive to cultivate a most bitter hatred toward them, invent opprobrious names to apply to them, and exhaust the catalogue of illegitimate phrases in expressing their intense animosity to them. This, of course, makes great divisions, and opens almost hopeless chasms between political parties.

A radical can hardly keep his temper in conversation with a conservative. He cannot omit telling him that he is a sympathizer with rebellion. He regards it as a duty to insult him, and is astonished if the insult is resented. Radical newspapers say "served him right," when they publish accounts of mobs ill treating conservative editors or politicians, but they howl in astonishment and dismay when the mob attacks their own friends. It has been for two years a received doctrine among the radical politicians, that a conservative had no personal or political rights, which they were bound to respect, but that radicals were under all the constitutional and legal protections which ever existed.

DROUGHT IN CALIFORNIA.—Our California exchanges are full of lamentations for want of rain. Every county is suffering, and the prospects of the grain harvest are very gloomy. From Contra Costa, one of the most productive districts in the State, a letter states:—

"Everything is drying up; and if we do not have rain soon the cattle will die of starvation. The hills look as dry and brown as in summer time. Our crops, so far, look pretty well. The wheat looks green and fresh; but the barley shows the want of rain; the leaves are yellow and dry. The weather is as warm as in July; and if it continues for any length of time, vegetation will be parched from the face of the earth."

We might quote a column of similar reports, and we are convinced, therefore, that the alarm is not merely for speculative purposes, but is real and is likely to effect the price of grain very sensibly. The farmers of Oregon ought, in view of this state of things, to be more than usually active in their arrangements for a great harvest.

Those who secure good crops will be sure of large prices—greater we believe than any which have been paid for ten years. The best mines this summer will be the farms of the Willamette valley. There is no mistake about it, and we hope their owners will understand it and cultivate every acre possible."—Oregonian.

We entirely agree with the Oregonian in its remarks with one exception, and that is we substitute the farms of the Walla Walla valley, as the best mines for the season, in place of those of the Willamette.—With the large emigration this summer to the mines of the upper country, will be a greatly increased demand for the staple products of the country, and it especially behooves our farmers to cultivate all the ground possible in order to meet this demand. The farmer who would neglect his place or rush off to the gold mines this spring, with such glowing prospects at home in his favor, would deserve to be poverty stricken all the days of his life.

MINING ON SNAKE RIVER.—A party of miners are at work on Snake river a few miles above the mouth of the Palouse, and about forty miles distant from this city—making from five to eight dollars per day. They state that prospects for the same wages can be obtained upon a number of bars between there and Lewistown.

We are indebted to Dr. Bowtell, of this city, for the following extracts from a private letter, just received by him, from Rev. D. Hockett, in relation to this year's emigration, etc. Mr. Hockett formerly resided in this valley. He writes from Freeport, Ill., under date of Jan. 26th, 1864. He says:—

"By this you may learn that I have arrived safely at home. I found brother-in-law with a large company, preparing for an overland passage to that most wonderful of all Gold Fields—Boise. I say 'most wonderful' because the excitement with reference to it runs higher than the excitement with reference to the war for the preservation of the life of the nation. The number going in the spring is legion of legions. All the way from New York to western Iowa, this excitement prevails.—Thousands will go by water, and many more by land. I am determined to advise no one, but simply state what I know to be true.—I am satisfied that the time is near at hand when the vast mineral resources of Idaho, Oregon, Utah, Nebraska and California will be developed by a population so numerous, that through the port of San Francisco, will pass the exchange of the commerce of the world."

Times are tolerably good here. Money is plenty, but all kinds of dry goods and groceries are selling at exorbitant prices. Everything in that line is lower in San Francisco than in New York. Bleached muslin is selling at from 35 to 50 cents; unbleached, at from 50 to 60c; cotton flannel, at the same. Prists sell at from 25 to 35c per yd, sugar fully as high as in Walla Walla; coffee and tea fully as high. Woolen goods are not quite in proportion. Clothing is cheaper in Walla Walla, ready made, than here. This may appear strange to our emigrant brethren, yet it is, nevertheless, true. Wheat is worth $1.15 per bushel; oats, 65 to 70c; pork, from 86 to 87c per hhd; corn, about 86c per bushel. The passengers generally received in New York for their gold, $1.59 in greenbacks for $1 in gold.

The excitement with reference to the war is not very great. Most of our armies are in winter quarters. Every train through the States is loaded down with soldiers returning on furloughs. The old regiments are all existing, as far as I know. There is from $400 to $1000 paid as bounty in the different States. New York pays in all $777, and New Jersey $1000 for veteran recruits; for new recruits, $100 less. Those States pay the highest bounties.

When in New York I saw the 51st come home on the cars. They were met at the Depot by many civilians, also the military, together with fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters. When they made their appearance it was announced that out of 1800 they had buried 1,000—most of them on the field of battle. The remaining 800 on leaving the cars were in marching order, their little brothers, sisters and mothers hanging to them. Every soldier moved as though the fate of the world depended upon his keeping the exact step. Then they hoisted the colors that they had carried through so many battle fields victoriously, and every one was literally riddled with bullets, as also were the hats, caps, and almost every vestige of the soldiers' clothing. Thus at the sound of their own familiar file and drum, while mothers, sisters and brothers followed weeping as though their hearts would break, they marched straightway, at their own request, to the city plaza, where every soldier enrolled his name for during the war. I had heard of patriotism, but these men only covered themselves with glory. Such is only one of the every day scenes throughout the States.

PAY AND SERVICES OF GEN. I. S. STEVENS.—The Committee on Indian Affairs, to whom was referred the memorial of Margarette L. Stevens, widow of Gen. Isaac I. Stevens, made the following report, February 1st.

That Isaac I. Stevens was, on the 9th of May 1858, appointed Governor of Washington Territory, and ex officio Superintendent of Indian Affairs, in which capacity he served until the 31st day of May, 1857; that during that time, under instructions of the proper officers of the Government he negotiated many treaties with various Indian tribes; that, by the treaty with the Flatheads and other Indians, the Government obtained a title to 14,720,000 acres of land, and by the treaty with the Nez Percés 16,400,000 acres were acquired; that by the treaties with the Quinalt and Quilchate Makah, Demahish, Walla Walla, Nisqually and other Indians, immense quantities of land were acquired by the Government; and that in 1855 he was party to making the treaty with the Blackfoot and other Indians east of the Rocky mountains. His labors were varied, extensive, important, difficult and dangerous, and always performed with ability and fidelity to the Government. He received as Governor a salary of $1,500 per annum, as Superintendent of Indian Affairs a salary of $1,500. By the act of Congress, approved June 5, 1856, the Superintendent of Indian Affairs for the Territory of Oregon received a salary of $2,500 per annum. Your Committee believe that the duties performed by Gen. Stevens were far more arduous and important than those performed by the Superintendent of Indian Affairs of Oregon, and as such of Gen. Stevens' labor was under instructions of the Government, performed outside of the limits of his Superintendency, your Committee are of opinion that he is justly entitled to receive the additional sum of $1,000 per annum for said services. Gen. Stevens was killed at the battle of Chantilly, on the 1st day of Sept. A. D. 1862, at the head of the division which he was commanding, and while in the act of bearing the colors and successfully rallying the regiment in advance. Your Committee therefore report a bill for the relief of the petitioner, and respectfully ask its passage by the House.

KEEP AN EYE UPON YOUR VALUABLES.—Those who know, state that among the recent emigrants from California are some of the worst characters that have ever been in that State. They will probably fare as their predecessors have in this country; but in the meantime it would be well for all here, who have occasion, to exercise a little extra vigilance.

The Bachelor's Cry of Union.

(Some matrimonially inclined individual, who certainly can not boast of being flattered with that "renned insanity" with which it has been said all genuine poets are afflicted, and who has, perhaps, nothing more to recommend him than a bit of that principle of Yankee nature for parodying everything written, however sacred, sends us the following villainous parody upon that just now popular song, "The Bachelor's Cry of Union.")

We are marching to the girls, boys, going for dear life, Shouting the bachelor's cry of "union," And we'll tell their dear names what it is we want to do. Shouting the bachelor's cry of "union."

Chorus.—The union forever, &c. The "union" forever! Hurrah, boys, hurrah! Down with the bachelor's cry!—Bless their little stars! We are marching to the girls, boys, going into the right, Shouting the bachelor's cry of "union."

We will meet their papa there, boys, with fearless hearts and true Shouting the bachelor's cry of "union," And we'll tell their dear names what it is we want to do. Shouting the bachelor's cry of "union."

Chorus.—The union forever, &c. If they show us to the door, boys, we'll travel mighty fast, Shouting the bachelor's cry of "union," And their daughters dear shall hear us as we go marching past, Shouting the bachelor's cry of "union."

Chorus.—The union forever, &c. Yes, their daughters and a union—we'll have them, for we're right, Shouting the bachelor's cry of "union," And the victory shall be ours, for we'll steal them in a night, Shouting the bachelor's cry of "union."

Chorus.—The union forever! &c. CHINESE EXCLUDED.—We have received the following from Pierce City, relative to the action of the Miners' meeting recently held in that district for the purpose of taking into consideration the expediency of introducing Chinese labor in that camp:

WHEREAS, We, the citizens of Shoshone County, and miners of Oro Fino District, believe that the true interests of this community, as well as that of Idaho Territory, requires the exclusion from our midst of the Chinese, and all similar races; therefore,

Resolved, That we wish it to be distinctly understood by Chinamen, and by all persons who may feel desirous of introducing Chinese labor into this camp, that there is a large majority of all the citizens here, who are opposed to such a measure.

Resolved, That we are determined to use to the utmost of our power, all honorable means to prevent the presence of such a population here.

Resolved, That we will cherish the hope and belief that the citizens of all the mining camps in this Territory, and elsewhere, will approve of our action in this matter, and that they will cordially co-operate with us, to the end that they may preserve our young country from this great social nuisance and enemy of all civilization.

By adopting the foregoing resolutions, the miners of Oro Fino have effectually played out the Chinese labor lobby in that section, and the probability is that the sentiment embodied in the resolutions will be approved by a large majority of the miners throughout Idaho Territory.

CHANGE OF PROGRAMME.—It is stated, unofficially, that a change of programme has been made in regard to the consolidation of the Washington Territory Infantry, and that the Regiment is not to be consolidated, but is to be filled up by enlistments or otherwise. The more timid anticipate a draft. Of course, if the regiment is to be filled there will be a chance for a Colony.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.—The Border State emancipationists denounced Lincoln's amnesty proclamation to the rebels, as inexpedient and unjust. The Oregon emancipationists fairly jump at the chance to approve and endorse it. The "immediate boys" of Oregon are ahead, they always are—provided, always, that what he does is unequivocally in favor of radicalism.

G. E. Upson, writing to the General Land office, says the highest gold yield in the region of Bannock City, Idaho, is $500 to the pan, and that the average yield is $8 to the pan!—What an unconscionable exaggeration.

WHY DON'T THEY?—The question is often asked why the merchants and business of this place do not adopt the Portland and San Francisco standard for taking greenbacks. The present style of one man taking them at 65c. one at 70c. and another at 75c., occasions a vast deal of unnecessary wrangling, which could easily be avoided by the adoption of some general rule for taking them.

FIRST PACK TRAIN FOR KOOTENAI.—Mr. Day will leave this city next week with a pack train of fifteen or twenty animals, loaded with miner's merchandise, for the Kootenai mines. This is the first pack train of the season for that country.

FROM THE KOOTENAI.—Mr. Eades, from the Kootenai, called upon us this week. He confirms the statements made by Dr. Toby in regard to that country, and gives his opinion that the mines, so far as prospected, will pay an average of an ounce per day.—He thinks the statements published in the papers below, that large amounts of gold were taken out of the mines there last season are incorrect in the main.

George T. Hough and John S. Nixon have been confirmed by the Senate of the United States as the Attorney-General and Collector of Internal Revenue for Idaho Territory.

Men who have a dozen irons in the fire are not the ones to go crazy. It is the man of voluntary or compelled leisure who mopes, and pines, and thinks himself into the mad house or the grave. Motion is all nature's law. Action is man's salvation, physical and mental. And yet nine out of ten are wistfully looking forward to the coveted hour when they shall have leisure to do nothing, or something only if they feel like it—the very siren that has lured to death many a successful man. He is only truly wise who lays himself out to work till life's latest hour, and that is the man who will live the happiest and to the best purpose.

RELOGG & CALDWELL'S FERRY. AT THE MOUTH OF TUGANON, three miles from the old Ferry on the Colville Road. This Ferry possesses superior advantages to the traveling public, situated as it is on Snake at the most accessible point for travel to Colville, Anacostia Plains, Bitter Root, and the Kootenai Country, and, in fact, is on the most direct route to all that portion of country lying to the north and northeast of Snake river. The road leading from Walla Walla to the Ferry is far superior to the old Colville road, and the property is better supplied with grass and water. The public will find it to their advantage to travel this road. March 19, 1864. W. L. WALLA, W. T. RELOGG & CALDWELL.

TERRITORY OF WASHINGTON. COUNTY OF WALLA WALLA. ss. In the District Court—First Judicial District. PATRICK FARALL, P't, vs. JOSEPH MOORE, Defendant. YOU are hereby notified that Patrick Farall, the above named Plaintiff, has filed a complaint against you in said court, which will come on to be heard at the first term of said court which shall commence more than two months after the date of this publication, and unless you appear at said term and answer the same will be taken as confessed and the prayer thereof granted. The object and prayer of said complaint is to recover one hundred and seventy-three dollars and costs of suit for said amount, advanced to defendant by plaintiff on the price of a wagon, which claim was refused to deliver and converted to his own use. This March 18, 1864. LASTER & LANGFORD, Atty's for P't. mar. 19-1864

Administrators Notice. NOTICE is hereby given that the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified by the Probate Court of Walla Walla county, Washington Territory, as Administrator upon the estate of Samuel Foreman deceased late of said county, and Territory, therefore notice is hereby given to all persons indebted to said estate to come forward and make immediate payment to me at Walla, Fargo & Co's Express office in Walla Walla, and those having claims against said estate must present them, with proper vouchers, within the time specified by the foregoing notice. The Bewitched Terrier.
BY THE ARKANSAS NIGHTINGALES.

Sam Johnson was a bachelor,
Who lived down by the sea;
He owned a rat tan terrier,
That stood 'bout one foot three;
And the way that creature showed up
Was gorgeous for to see.

One day the dog was slumbering
Behind the kitchen stove,
When suddenly a wicked flea—
A ugly little cove—
Commenced upon his faithful back
With many jumps to rove.

Then up arose that terrier,
With frenzy in his eye,
And wailing only long enough
To make a coughing cry,
Commenced to twist himself around
Most wonderfully spry.

But all in vain his shape was such—
So awful short and fat—
That though he doubled up himself,
And strained himself at that,
His mouth was half an inch away
From where the varmint sat.

The dog set up an awful howl,
And twisted like a reel,
Emitting cries of misery
At every nip he'd feel,
And tumbling down and jumping up,
And turning like a wheel.

But still that most odious flea
Kept up a constant show,
Just where he couldn't be scratched out
By any reach of paw,
And always half an inch beyond
His victim's snuffin' jaw.

Sam Johnson heard the noise and came
To save his animal;
But when he saw the critter spin—
A barkin' at the wheel—
He dreaded hydropnea,
And then began to rle.

"The pup is mad enough," says he,
And luggin in his ax,
He gave the flea a good smack,
A pair of awful cracks,
That stretched him out upon the floor,
As dead as carpet lack.

MORAL.
Take warnin' by this terrier,
Now turned to scalding meat:
And when misfortune's flea shall come
Upon your back to eat,
Beware our you may die because
You can't make both ends meet.

HOW TO TREAT CHILDREN.—"Anti-Herodias," in Harper, contains the following good word to children:

Pity and love the little children. Tolerate these pets. Comfort Nellie over her dead bird, and don't call Molly's "little kitty" a "cat." It is enough to break a juvenile heart to have one's darlings snubbed. How would you like to hear your own Frederick Augustus called a "dirty one?" The little ones have their tragedies and comedies, and laugh and weep more sincerely than you do at Falstaff and Lear. They love, marry, keep house, have children, have weddings and funerals, and dig graves for dead mice in the garden, and mourn into small white handkerchiefs, and get brother Jim to write an appropriate inscription for its tiny head.

Is not this human nature in little, and in its small way, as deserving of a certain respect? You do not despise your own reflection in a convex mirror, your own—cherish the children; mend the frocks; don't scold them for broken toys—for man is not more inevitably mortal than playthings. Don't strip their fat shoulders in winter, nor roast them in flannels in dog days, because somebody told you to. Don't drug them; don't "furb" them; don't stuff them with pastry or starve them on chippy bread; don't send them to infant schools at three, or to fancy halls at ten, nor teach them the commandments earlier than they can remember mother Goose. Let them have Christmas and Fairy-stories; grandpa's horse-cane rather than Mr. Birch's ferule; Little Bo-Peep, not English Reader; Mary Howitt, not Jamieson's Rhetoric. Give them Wilson's readers when they want them; not before.

ASKING FOR A PASS.—The Buffalo Courier tells the following anecdote of a prominent railroad gentleman, who is equally renowned for his ability to make and take a joke:

A railroad employed, whose home is in Aron, came on Saturday night to ask for a pass to visit his family.

"You are in the employ of the railroad?" inquired the gentleman alighted to.

"Yes." "You receive your pay regularly?" "Yes." "Well, now suppose you were working for a farmer instead of a railroad, would you expect your employer to hitch up his team every Saturday night and carry you home?" This seemed a poser, but it wasn't.

"No," said the man, promptly. "I wouldn't expect that; but if the farmer had his team hitched up, and was going my way, I should call him a mean cuss if he would not let me ride."

Mr. employee came out three minutes afterwards with a pass good for twelve months.

FIVE DEATHS AT A TIME.—A Frenchman resolved to get rid of life, went a little before high tide, to a post by the seaside. He had provided himself with a ladder, a rope, a pistol, a bundle of matches and a vial of poison. Ascending the ladder, he tied one end to the post, and the other end around his neck, then he took the poison, set his clothes on fire, and kicked away the ladder. In kicking down the ladder, he snatched the pistol so that the ball missed his head and out the rope by which he was suspended; he fell into the sea, thus extinguishing the flames of his clothes, and the sea-water, which he involuntarily swallowed, counteracted the poison, and a wave washed him ashore; thus, in spite of his precautions, he remained unharmed, unshot, unpoisoned, unburned and undrowned!

"Sir," said a young wife to her husband, a few days after marriage, "you were honest enough to tell me your chimney smoked but why didn't you tell me that you smoked yourself?"

WORTH TRYING FOR.—Oh, whistle, daughter, whistle, and you shall have a cow; I never whistled in my life, and I cannot whistle now. Oh, whistle, daughter, whistle, and you shall have a man; I never whistled in my life, but I'll whistle if I can.

"What's the matter, Frank?" said his mother to a little three-year old, who was troubled with a pain the other day; "got the back-ache?" "No, me no got back-ache; me got 'front ache,'" replied Frank.
