A RHYMING REVERIE.

It was a dainty lady's glove— A souvenir to rhyme with love.

It was the memory of a kiss— A memento to rhyme with bliss.

There was a month at Mount Desert— A rhyme to rhyme with rest.

A pretty girl and lots of style— Which rhymes with happy for a while.

There came a rival, old and bold— To make him rhyme with gold and sold.

A broken heart there had to be— Also: the rhyme just fitted me.

His First Was One.

Mr. McCrackle—"Young Brown won't have to wait ten years before celebrating his 'tin' wedding."

Mr. McCrackle—"How is that?"

Mr. McCrackle—"He married a girl worth $200,000 in her own right."—New York Sun.

Burglar, Take Warning.

Application has been made for a patent for an electric apparatus by which an instantaneous photograph is taken of a burglar while he is engaged in his nefarious operations. The moment he touches the wire of any safe, or any other place to which the tell-tale wire may be fastened, a correct photograph is taken.

The O. R. & N. Electric.

An election of the Oregon Railway & Navigation company, held in Portland, July 1st, the following officers were elected: President, Edmund Smith; first vice-president, W. S. Ladd; second vice-president, W. H. Holcomb; secretary, Theodore Wymant; assistant secretary, Prosper W. Smith. The new president of the Oregon Railway & Navigation company is from New York, and was formerly vice-president of the Pennsylvania railroad. Prosper W. Smith is a brother of Elijah Smith.

Editors Combine.

A large meeting of the editors of country papers was held in Indianapolis July 1, to form an association for the purchase of all kinds of newspaper supplies, ink, paper and type. It was claimed they bought at a disadvantage because of small purchases, and an association was formed and committees appointed. Lewis Hollman, of the Beard Democrat, was elected president. They will hereafter buy as an association and get material at lower rates.

OUR LUMBER YIELD.

Estimated Capacity of the Sawmills of Washington Territory.

The lumber saving capacity of all mills in Washington territory, as computed from lumber shipments and local sales, is 308,981,274 feet, valued at $6,759,890.34, the actual lumber production being about 350,000,000; the remainder is divided up into laths, pickets, shingles, spars and small lumber. This production covers the territory of Puget Sound, Gray's Harbor mills, Columbia river, Shoalwater bay, and a few interior mills. The Puget Sound lumber product for the year 1888 was 285,000,000 feet, which was sent to various points on the Pacific coast and the foreign shipments went to all parts of the world, the largest shipment, however, being consigned to the colonial markets, which have continued to demand our lumber with a steady degree that insured a profit to the ship owner.—Tribune Leader.

A Laughing Plant.

Pelgrava, in his work on central and eastern Arabia, mentions a plant whose seeds produce effects analogous to those of laughing gas. The plant is a native of Arabia. A dwarf variety is found at Kasun, and another variety at Qnan, which attains a height of from three to four feet, with woody stems, wide spread branches and light green foliage. The flowers are produced in clusters, and are yellow in color. The seed pods contain two or three black seeds of the size and shape of a French bean. Their flavor is a little like that of opium; the taste is sweet and the odor produces a sickening sensation and is slightly offensive. These seeds, when pulverized and taken in small doses, operate on a person in a peculiar way. He begins to laugh loudly and boisterously, and then sings, dances, and cuts up all kinds of fantastic capers. The effect continues for about an hour, and the patient is extremely comical. When the excitement ceases the exhausted individual falls into a deep sleep, which continues for an hour or more, and when he awakes, he is utterly unconscious that any such demonstrations have been made by him.—Scientific American.

The Inestimable value of Ayer's Sarsaparilla as a blood-purifier should be known to every wife and mother. It corrects irregularities, gives tone and strength to the vital organs, and cleanses the system of all impurities. The best family medicine.

Cold, cough, croup is what phlogosens term "a logical sequence." One is very liable to follow the other; but by curing the cold with a dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the cough will be stopped and the croup fit need not—just at present.

HELENA'S PRETTY MILLINER

How Her Advent Cost Handsome Al Worrall His Life.

A Terrible Night Which Resulted in Several Deaths and a General Reformation.

"I saw the first hanging in Helena, Montana, the stringing up of Big Jim Daily, the notorious desperado, by the Helena registers, as described in the Sun recently," said a former New Yorker, who was one of the engineer corps that made the preliminary survey of the route for the Northern Pacific railway, to a reporter for that paper, "and I saw the memorable deadly fracas that followed the execution, and which resulted in the summary cleaning out of the remnants of Jim Daily's gang, who had continued to hunt Helena, and were showing a disposition to run things again with a high hand. That bloody affray was indirectly caused by a woman, who subsequently became a social leader, in Helena, and who probably is yet, if she is living.

"For while after Jim Daily was hanged there was a peaceful lull in the town, and it seemed an ominous calm to the citizens. Gradually the gambling dens, the saloons, and other lawless establishments became as free as ever. Still there was no trouble, and the registers had come to the conclusion that things were going on as well as might be expected, when calamity was precipitated by an unforeseen circumstance. The stage from Gallatin drew up in front of the International hotel one afternoon, and from it alighted a dainty, genteelly dressed young woman. She was clad in black, and an unmistakable air of mystery surrounded her. She entered the hotel, and nothing was seen or heard of her by the outside world for a day or so, when a modest sign was hung out opposite the side door of the hotel stating that 'Madame Louise was prepared to do millinery work for the female portion of Helena.' Madame Louise was the handsome and mysterious arrival by the Gallatin coach. That was all she saw fit to make known of her personality or antecedents, and that was all that the public ever knew of her history. But the men all fell in love with her, though after the hanging of Jim Daily, seemed to have fallen by natural selection, to the part of Burr, one of Daily's chief aids. Bill got a fair load of Helena tanglefoot on board one day, not long after the pretty milliner had settled in Helena, and in the course of his remarks he referred in very warm and complimentary terms to the possibilities in the direction of Mine Louise. He was promptly informed that he was wide of the mark in his calculations, as it had become an open secret at the hotel that the milliner was already in love with Al Worrall. This threw Bill in a terrible rage. He swore that the statement was a lie and made a big wager that he would come out ahead in the favor of the young woman.

"I'll get all hunk with the milliner," he exclaimed, "or I'll make Al Worrall crawl!"

"Al Worrall was a handsome young Philadelphian, and is remembered yet as one of the best amateur athletes that had ever settled in the West. Bill Burr's bravado and boasting remarks soon reached the ears of both Mine Louise and Worrall. They amused the lady but made Al mad. He threatened, in the event of hearing any further remarks of that kind from Bill Burr or any of his friends, that he would stand them on their heads.

"The next day was a lively one in Helena, for it was Saturday, and miners had come in from all sides to make a day of it. Our engineering corps was at the International, and Saturday afternoon Al Worrall came into the barroom to see some of the party with whom he was acquainted. There was a strict testator. While he was there Bill Burr walked in with half a dozen of his toughs, and, striding to the bar, called all hands to step up and drink. A number of citizens, knowing of the presence of Worrall in the saloon, naturally supposed there would be a fuse, and came in to watch the result. Worrall refused to drink, because of his temperance habits. Bill worked himself into an ugly fit.

"Any one who won't drink with me," he shouted with an oath, "will weigh more than he does now when I get through with him!"

"Al, seeing that the remark was directed at him, turned slowly around, and placing a hand on each hip, said, calmly and coolly:

"I have heard enough from you, Bill! If you raise any more fuss in this room I'll break your head!"

The business portion of Ellensburg is in ashes. An accident or an incendiary has struck the thriving metropolis of Kittitas valley a blow which she will have occasion to long remember and from which she will not fully recover for years to come.

The people of Ellensburg have the consolation of the knowledge, however, that the trade they gained in that direction was not naturally tributary to them and that they attained it only by their energy and push.

Seattle, Vancouver, Ellensburg, Durango, Colorado; Hatley, Idaho, and Bakerfield, California. This is the list of date of burned cities on this coast, and it is enough to make one lay awake at nights.

The citizens of Ellensburg will indulge in a go-as-you-please Fourth of July celebration. There will be no formality about it, and every free born American can fly the eagle to suit his taste.

There was no formality in the way the Fourth was observed in Ellensburg, to be sure, but her display of pyrotechnics was on the most stupendous scale, the estimated cost of which is a round two millions of dollars.

It was Bob Ingersoll who said that Cleveland's position as a candidate for 1892 reminded him of a man on top of a greased pole.

A "SUBSCRIPTION BAR" has been opened in Berlin. The payment of one hundred and fifty dollars a year entitles a subscriber to all the liquor he wishes to drink, without further expense.

THOS. H. CAVANAUGH, of the Olympia Tribune, has at last been rewarded—for what it is hard to say—having been appointed by the president surveyor-general of the territory to succeed J. C. Breckinridge.

TOWN TALK.

The Lowe contest, which has been locally famous ever since the city was founded, has been decided by the general land office at Washington in favor of Lowe and against the railroad company.

The bedbug shanty which was moved from First street to Second is in place, and the proprietor must feel very proud of himself as he contemplates this trophy of his industry.

The democrats made a clean sweep of the municipal election at Port Townsend Monday. Joe Kuhn was elected mayor.

The celebrated Brantner-Wickersham case has been dismissed, and the defendant is again free.

On Thursday next, the 18th inst., the pupils of St. Francis school will appear at the opera house in an historical drama of five acts, portraying the martyrdom of the forty martyrs of Sebaste, in Armenia, in the year of our Lord 320.

The following is the caste: Lysias, Ch' of General of the army of Emperor Licinius, Stanislaus Hilairs, Melithan, the youngest of the forty martyrs, Willitt Olney.

Persons desiring transportation about the city or vicinity can be accommodated by leaving orders at Allen & Chapman's for Stanton's hack line.

THE BALL AT "THE YAKIMA."—The ball at "The Yakima," on the night of the Fourth of July, was a very pleasant affair.

POOR MAN'S FAIR.—The Y. W. C. T. U. feel so much encouraged in their efforts to keep open a free reading room, that they have determined upon giving a novel entertainment at the opera house, Wednesday evening, July 17th, for the purpose of still further aiding and making attractive that institution.

THIS RACE ON THE FOURTH.—The races on the Fourth attracted a large crowd to the track. The first race was a trot, mile heats, three in five, for a purse of $200—$100 to the first horse and $50 to the second.

OUR NEW BUILDINGS.—The great amount of building that the HERALD has previously reported has begun in earnest. Ground was broken to-day for Lewis & Engle's three story brick, and it will be pushed to completion as fast as money will do it.

AN ATTRACTIVE PUBLICATION.—A handsome twenty-page pamphlet, illustrated, setting forth the reasons for the location of the capital at Yakima has just been issued from the HERALD office.

FIREMEN'S ELECTION.—The annual election of the members of the Yakima fire department was held Wednesday evening and resulted in Fred E. Rowe being chosen chief, W. W. Atherton assistant chief, Myron H. Ellis secretary and Chas. Gordon treasurer.

Prizes for Produce.

Table listing prizes for various produce items such as melon, potatoes, cabbage, etc., with corresponding amounts.

It is our intention to make a fine showing in our office this year, and we ask the farmers to bring us samples. All parties competing for prizes will be notified when the premiums will be given, and three farmers will be selected as judges.

LOCAL EVENTS.

A five hundred pound bell was placed in the Congregational church, Tuesday.

A. H. Reynolds has sold his furniture business to Messrs. Lombard & Horsley, late of Des Moines, Iowa.

The city is to have a fire bell costing $250. The money for its purchase was raised by popular subscription.

Frank Prosey recently caught a lynx in a trap on the Wenas. It was placed on exhibition at Kershaw's meat market.

A delegation of Goldendale Knights of Pythias will shortly be here to institute a lodge of that order in Yakima.

The HERALD is indebted to Harry Warren for some of the fine peaches, plums and apricots from the Konnewick district.

Louis Janick, recently one of Allen & Chapman's prescription clerks, has bought and taken possession of Bushnell's drug store.

Mrs. Jock Morgan has complimented her husband by presenting him with a baby girl. Jock says the old-timers are coming to the front.

Sam Vincent brought with him from Spokane Falls a magnificent specimen of the English mastiff. The dog is eighteen months old and weighs 130 lbs.

Joseph Appel's saloon was closed this week on attachment issued in favor of C. Langert, of Tacoma. Appel was also largely indebted to Coblenz & Levy, of Portland.

The amount of school money subject to apportionment July 1st being very small, it was thought best to make no apportionment until on or about the first Monday in October.

M. F. Spain, of Spokane Falls, grand master I. O. O. F., will lecture in the opera house next Saturday evening, July 12th, at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Two sheep men named Hicks and Evans were fined $20 and costs this week for filling up the Ahtanum canyon road with rocks. They drove their flocks along the hillsides with the result of starting the rocks to rolling.

A member of the W. C. T. U. says that the notice of the granting of a saloon license at the recent meeting of the council and the order authorizing the marshal to purchase balls and chains, billies, whistles and nippers "speak for themselves."

The HERALD job department keeps in constant employment two and three men and is turning out a vast amount of work. The reasons for this are that only the best of workmen are employed and the job plant, while not the largest, is complete, and the equal of any in the Northwest.

T. J. V. Clark and H. L. Tucker were witnesses in the case of Sam Patrick Honi, the Yakima Indian, who was indicted by the Grand Jury of Pierce county for murder in the second degree, for the killing of L. C. Cass, another Indian, at Puyallup last summer. Honi was acquitted.

The Constitutional Builders.

The constitutional convention was convened at Olympia on the Fourth. Judge John P. Hoyt of Seattle was elected president, John I. Bozue, of Spokane Falls, chief clerk; B. O. Welts, of Skagit, enforcing clerk; J. H. Leiter, of Colfax, sergeant-at-arms and door keeper, and Major C. M. Barton, of Tacoma, reading clerk.

An adjournment was made on Saturday until Tuesday when President Hoyt named the members of the various committees. The delegates from this district were placed as follows: Proser—Military affairs, apportionment and representation, and harbors, tide water and navigable streams. Dunbar—Education and educational institutions, judicial department, and state, school and granted lands. Ebelman—Education and educational institutions, appropriations and representation, and state, school and granted lands.

The women suffragists are making an active effort for recognition. Their latest movement is in the shape of letters to various members. Yakima is not behind in this and the suffragists of this city have been heard from.

A resolution was introduced by Kinnear aiming to prevent the formation and existence of trusts and combinations which are death to honest competition. The resolution was referred to committee.

ELLENSBURGH'S HARD FATE.

The Losses the Business Portion of the Town by Fire—A Complete Sweep—Losses About $2,000,000.

While a large number of the good people of Yakima were merry-making at the opera house and "The Yakima," on the night of July 4, a light was observed over the Umpanium hills in the direction of Ellensburg. Although indistinct at first it soon gathered color and shortly after eleven o'clock the undefined fears of the watchers became a certainty that dire misfortune had overtaken our bustling and pushing sister city of the Kittitas valley.

Word was soon received by telegraph that the business portion of the city was in flames. Mayor Reed wired Mayor Abrams enquiring if Yakima could be of any assistance and transmitting the sincere sympathy of the people of Yakima at the misfortune which had overtaken Ellensburg.

The fire broke out about eleven o'clock p. m. in the grocery store of J. S. Anthony, situate on Main street, between Fourth and Fifth. There had been no fire in the building during the day and it is generally believed that it had an incendiary origin. There was a strong west wind blowing at the time and the flames leaped from building to building despite all efforts of the firemen with their hand engine. The water supply was totally inadequate and so great was the heat that the little water that was to be had scarcely neared the flames before it went up in steam. The firemen, seeing it was useless to longer attempt to stay the progress of the fire turned their attention to the saving of goods. Within half an hour the greater portion of four blocks had been consumed. That great fire trap, the Johnson House, early fell a prey to the flames. There was a ball in progress in the hall, on the third floor, when the fire commenced, and about three hundred people were present, and it was only by the good judgment and determination of some leaders that the hall was cleared without a stampede and a great loss of life. As it was the building was smoking before all were out. The Ashler House, the Davidson building and the Geddis block were all on fire at once and the heat was so intense that even the splendid stone building belonging to Snipes & Abrams could not withstand it and it too soon succumbed. The direction of the fire was southeast and it lapped up Kreidler's I X L store, the Oriental Hotel, Nelson Bennett's store, the wholesale establishment of the Lloyd Mercantile company, and the lesser buildings along its course, as if they were so much tinder. At this period the wind veered and the fire took a westward shoot and soon had Shouky's new brick and Cregger's venerable building in its warm embrace. From here its route was south and east and in less than three hours after its commencement ten blocks had been swept out of existence.

The fire started immediately south of the Nash building, a brick block which was commenced over a year ago but never completed, and consumed every building in the business portion of the town excepting the Lynch block, the First National bank building and Binnauer's store. The latter was saved owing to the fortunate circumstance of having shade trees between it and the fire.

Every saloon in town, with the exception of one, was burned. The saloon that was left had never done much of a business but it picked up trade wonderfully fast up to ten o'clock in the morning, when the mayor blasted the proprietor's hopes by ordering it closed.

The burned district is forty acres in extent and was covered by about two hundred buildings. The loss is stated at two million dollars, of which seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars is the estimated value of the buildings and one million, two hundred and fifty thousand dollars of stock. These figures are probably an over-estimate, but to what extent it is difficult to say. The insurance amounted to three hundred and sixty thousand dollars.

About two hundred and fifty people were rendered homeless and many lost their all. Yakima was the first to respond to the call of the sufferers and a popular subscription of nearly twelve hundred dollars was raised, and a car load of provisions and blankets sent for the relief of the distressed.

Amusing Misinformation.

The New York Herald issues an edition in London. English newspapers have been noted for ludicrous blunders in dealing with American affairs, but it was supposed that the London New York Herald would set a better example. Nevertheless we have rarely seen in any European newspaper a tissue of more ludicrous blunders than is found in the London New York Herald's statements about Seattle. After printing an account of the Seattle fire, that paper offered the following batch of amusing misinformation:

"The town of Seattle, in Washington territory, is only of recent growth; to all intents and purposes, it is a mushroom town. It has always regarded itself as a sort of rival to the town of Tacoma, which is about twenty miles away, though it undoubtedly plays second fiddle to its neighbor. At one time there was considerable rivalry between Tacoma and Seattle. The residents in both were bitterly engaged in booming their respective towns and another broadsheet glowing descriptions thereof for the attraction of the dweller in the eastern end of the continent and the transfer of his dollars. But in this race Seattle was ignominiously beaten. The great Northern Pacific railroad was coming on apace. Tacoma was bought up entire—the whole township—by about $7000 by Mr. Billings, of Philadelphia, one of the magnates of the railway company, and a few friends. Tacoma was made the terminus of the line, and its branch line was made to Seattle.

"The town that has just been destroyed was thus left utterly in the cold. Its population was about 12,000. Most of its buildings, private, commercial and public, were built of wood, and naturally were only so much material for the fire. It had an opera house, public halls and several places of worship, and a few of these were constructed of brick.

"Seattle occupied the unenviable position of being a seaport town without any anchorage. It did some business in fitting the boats for the San Juan fisheries, and was a center for the adjacent country, whence the farmers could go instead of Tacoma. The town has been in existence since the United States acquired Alaska, and it had a big boom when Henry Villard drove the golden spike at Walla Walla, the last spike of the Northern Pacific. Coal vessels calling there en route to San Francisco, or traveling between the Golden Gate and British Columbia."

The Wheat Crop

Speaking Falls Review. W. H. Reed of Walla Walla and W. Cadman, chief clerk of the Walla Walla land office, are in the city for the present week attending the races and seeing the magic city. Mr. Reed, besides being the leading authority in the west on land laws and their construction, is extensively engaged in wheat raising. He states that the wheat crop of the Walla Walla country will be nearly or quite up to the average yield in quantity though not in quality. He states that he has had late reports from most of the counties lying north and east of Walla Walla, and that the wheat crop will vary greatly in yield according to location. In Columbia and Whitman the crop will fall somewhat below the average, while in Garfield and Asotin where the land lies high and where the crop was later than on the lower lands, the crop will be nearly a failure. In seasons having a different distribution of rainfall these higher lands would perhaps produce better than any other, but this season has apparently been peculiarly against them. The best reports come from Yakima county, where artificial irrigation renders the farmer independent of the rain clouds. But the products of all sections of Eastern Washington will be much better than has been predicted. The early fruit crop of Walla Walla, although cut a little short by drought, has been excellent, and the prospects for late fruit is considered fairly good.

The Money Race

Detective—I have discovered, sir, that your confidential bookkeeper, Mr. De Clerk, is a defaulter to the extent of many thousands of dollars. As he has lived plainly, and has not gambled in stocks he must still have the money in his possession, but if we arrest him you will never get it, of course, and if we corner him and try to compromise for one-half or two-thirds, he will probably skip to Canada with the whole bundle.

Business Man—My goodness! Mr. De Clerk!

Mr. De Clerk—Yes, sir.

Business Man—Mr. De Clerk, a few days ago I refused you the hand of my daughter, and I afterwards employed this gentleman, who is a detective, to look closely into your personal character and past history. His report returns in such detail to your covered habits and business aptitude that I have changed my mind. You shall have her.

Such Babies Twin.

"Dat's so," said Uncle Rastus, reflectively.

Then, after a pause, he added, "Well, I'll tell ye. We'll call 'em Edward an' 'Eugene.'—Youth's Companion.

Their Business Booming.

Coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, croup and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.
