A dispatch from Whitman county, the cradle of the people's party in this state, conveys the information that the rank and file are not pleased with the nominations made at the state convention. C. W. Frequent petty thefts of late have caused the police officers to keep a vigilant outlook, and one night last week Officer Yeates caught a suspicious looking customer get off the train and start towards Chinatown. The fellow had a hodgepodge and a bundle, and Mr. Yeates confidently predicted he was going to make a rich haul. He followed his intended victim for a ways and then commanded him to halt. At this the supposed thief dropped his plunder and made his escape, his speed being accelerated by four bullets from the officer's gun. Next day he was around telling how an attempt had been made to hold him up, and triumphantly exhibited $1,500 that he had saved through being a sprinter. HOW PRESIDENTS ARE MADE.

The Railroad Corporations are Said to Have Nominated Harrison.

Chauncey M. Depew failed the strings of the great Railroad Machine and the Puppets Danced.

The Chicago Tribune of June 12th, in mentioning Chauncey M. Depew's success as a president maker, says: "His power as a man and an orator is not all that must be considered when the sources of the nomination of a particular person by a convention, the delegates chosen from the districts through which these roads run are pretty likely to be influenced by that person. No pressure is exerted on the workmen in the railroad shops, engineers, firemen or laborers. They do as they please before and after election. But the subordinate officers, the local attorneys of whom there are so many, the numerous local politicians who are pleased to be on good terms with a great road, which can reward those who assist it, are all given to understand the policy which has been decided upon. This vast army of agents, working quietly and systematically in great cities like New York and Boston and the rural districts, has that enormous power which disciplined and harmonious intelligence can exert when it pleases. It is difficult to overestimate the power of such a machine to secure results.

GERMANY'S WAR BALLOONS.

A Baltimorean Charges That They are His Invention—What They are Expected to Accomplish.

Baltimore Sun: Professor William E. Will, of Sadder's Bryant & Stratton business college, Baltimore, says he believes the war balloons from which the Germans have been observing the Russian fortifications and armies are his own invention. He says: "I mailed all my plans, drawings and descriptions to Germany December 3, 1891. By that time I had made a number of improvements in my invention, and was certain that it would accomplish what I claimed. I heard nothing in reply until late in February, 1892, although I had particularly requested of Chief von Lindenberg of the aeronautical department to return my plans as soon as possible if rejected. I then received a big official package from Berlin containing my plans and a letter from Chief von Lindenberg, in which he stated, in substance, that my invention was not adapted for use on the other side of the ocean. The balloon which I planned was cigar shaped. The car was about 100 feet long and about 30 feet wide. The bag was of silk and was to be filled with hydrogen gas. The car was made of steel rods and was attached to the bag with steel apparatus. The propelling force was electricity in storage battery, for which provision was made on board the car. The battery operated a screw propeller at each end of the car. The propellers had a lateral motion of ninety degrees on each side, so that any steerage power could be obtained by operating the propellers at the required angles. The propellers were different in form from those used by steamers, and were so constructed as to act powerfully in the attenuated medium of the air. They were controlled by a balloonman, who could direct their force as thoroughly as the pilot of a steamboat. In steering against the wind the propellers were used simultaneously, one pulling and the other pushing, with the result that by a lateral action the force of the wind could be counteracted.

"The speed calculated for was about twenty miles in a calm. My idea was that in warfare the balloon should always be kept far enough above the enemy to be out of the range of projectiles. Observations were to be made by electric search lights and telescopes. The balloon was also adapted to the dropping of torpedoes on a naval vessel from the air."

The writer has a right to reclaim and regain possession of a letter, provided he can prove to the satisfaction of the postmaster at the office from which it was sent, that he was the writer of it. Even after the letter has arrived at the office which is its destination, and before it has been delivered to the person to whom it is addressed, it may be recalled by the writer by telegraph through the mailing office. The reason is that the State is only the agent of the writer of the letter while it is in transit.

NEWS OF THE WORLD IN BRIEF.

Important Happenings Prepared Especially for "The Herald's" Thousands of Readers.

H. C. Frick, manager of the Carnegie steel works at Homestead, was shot and stabbed, on July 23, by a Russian Jew anarchist named Alexander Berkman. Frick was in his office at the time, and the murderous Jew forced his way in. Notwithstanding two bullet wounds and four ugly knife gashes Frick will recover. The assassin cannot be charged to organized labor, as the assailant had no connection with any labor organization, and his action is bitterly condemned by the workmen.

It is feared that cholera, which is playing havoc in Asia and threatening Austria and Russia, may gain a foothold on this coast by means of the Asiatic steamships, and sound papers are urging the taking of precautionary measures.

There is certainly no baking powder so well known and generally used as the Royal. Its perfect purity, as well as its superiority in leavening power, are matters of fact no longer disputed by honest dealers or makers of other brands. Its virtues are so well known to every housekeeper that the standards of the dishonest makers of the cheaper goods fall to touch it.

HERALDINGS.

Alex Miller has joined his wife at Soda Springs and will remain for a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Reed left for Tacoma on Tuesday, to be gone a week or ten days.

Messrs. Slemons and Miller are down from Ellensburg, engaged in taking testimony in the Northern Pacific cases in progress at the land office.

Members of the people's party are anxious for a newspaper organ, and there is an effort being made to get sufficient subscriptions to at least run an edition during the campaign.

Receiver W. H. Hare, of the land office, has been granted a leave of absence of fourteen days, beginning on the 9th inst., which he will spend at Astoria and other points along the coast.

J. J. Carpenter and W. H. Carpenter left this week for Bunsing lake and a trip over the Parkwood trail. They will be absent until the middle of the month, and possibly longer.

Summer has come, but whether with the intention of spending the season or merely on a few days' excursion remains to be seen. Yakima is a great summer resort only when summer resorts here.

Dr. Albert Wilgus has resigned the office of physician at Fort Simcoe, and after spending some time at Albany, Or., will return to North Yakima to permanently reside and practice his profession.

Annie Bennett's house of alleged pleasure was burglarized by thieves, on Sunday afternoon, who obtained entrance by cutting away the window screens while the girls were absent. Several articles of jewelry and a revolver were taken.

Three tons of peaches were shipped from this point to Tacoma and Seattle on Saturday last. This is the heaviest single shipment made this season, but some of them will not fall behind these figures very much. So far the market has been good and the prices very satisfactory.

Postmaster Dunn has sold his lower ranch to G. L. Cline, of Puyallup, who turned in 60 head of horses and 20 colts as part payment. Mr. Cline proposes to put the place in a thorough state of cultivation. It embraces 247 acres, most of which is under the N. P. Y. & K. C. Co.'s canal.

For the past few days the thermometers in Yakima have been ranging between 100 and 105, and while humanity has been rather uncomfortable the hot spell is not to be deplored, for it sweetens the peaches, makes the melons grow and ripen, and obviates all fear of damage through the festive hot house.

The secretary of the interior has reversed the decision of the commissioner in the case of the Northern Pacific railroad company vs. J. M. Baxter. The land involved was 123 acres in Yakima county near Pasco. The decision of the secretary of the interior leaves the title of the land with the Northern Pacific.

George Ford, a conductor on the local freight, sustained injuries while working in the yard at Prosser, on Sunday last, that necessitated the amputation of his right leg above the knee. He was trying to couple the engine onto the cars at the time, when the pilot-bar broke and his leg was caught in the jam. Ford was taken to Ellensburg, where he will receive every attention.

More shakey-legged peop'le appropriated the sidewalks last Saturday night than have been seen here for a long time. For the morals of the city it may be said that most of them were comparative strangers, who are employed on the various irrigating canals of the county, and who found that the hospitality of North Yakima is altogether too damp, too copious and too composite in its ingredients to be safe as a regular diet for men of temperate habits.

That Yakima is a wonderful country there can be no denial; but surprises are constantly cropping out that startle even the old timers. This spring Dr. W. F. Morrison planted fifteen acres to hops, and not wishing to go to the heavy expense of poling them the first season he sowed the field to Russian sunflowers, for the support of the young hop vines, and now the doctor finds that he has not only a pretty fair crop of hops, but he is preparing to harvest the sunflowers which he estimated will yield over 100 bushels of seed. The stalks are like young trees, and it would be difficult to crowd some of the heads into a flour barrel.

THEY DRILLED LIKE SHEEP.

The County Convention Well Planned by the Republican Bosses.

The Rank and File Heavily Acquiesced and Swallowed Their Grief With Scarcely a Grin.

Saturday was a great day for the republican bosses, and they carried out the program, which they so carefully and systematically laid at the primaries, without a bobble. The city delegates planned to capture the nominations for all of those offices that were worth having and they succeeded to their entire satisfaction. The bosses slyly winked as they tossed a few crumbs to the country delegates whose votes they want, but do not care to bid too high for them.

There was a large attendance and the court room was comfortably filled when S. C. Henton, chairman of the central committee, called the meeting to order. W. L. Stabler, as usual, was summoned to the chair, and George S. Courter was made temporary secretary. On motion the chair appointed the following committees and then announced a recess in order to give them time to report:

Credentials.—R. Dunn, F. B. Woodcock, Timothy Lynch, John Cleman and J. M. Brown.

Rules, order of business and permanent organization.—L. S. Howlett, John Reed, J. J. Wiley, A. J. Lewis and E. E. Butler.

Platform.—A. B. Weed, Edward Whitson, J. H. Hubbard, Isaac Hays and S. M. Webber.

The committee on credentials reported all precincts represented excepting Alder Creek, and that the convention was entitled to 61 votes.

The committee on rules, order of business and permanent organization reported in favor of making the temporary organization permanent with the addition of an assistant secretary, and to have the chairman of the various precinct delegations cast the vote of the delegation. This was done ostensibly to expedite the business, but really, as one of the bosses remarked, to see that the delegates lived up to their pledges.

The committee on platform was out a remarkably short time for the work that was expected of them and when they returned they brought in a type written document that in conformity with all the other cut-and-dried work of the convention was prepared before hand. It read and was adopted as follows:

The republican party of the county of Yakima hereby endorses and ratifies the republican national platform of 1902. It hereby reaffirms its devotion to the doctrine of protection and its twin sister, reciprocity, by which all classes of our people and all kinds of business have been so much prospered and benefited. It favors gold and silver coin in all necessary quantity, and of equal market value as our medium of exchange, and approves the wise policy of President Harrison in urging an international monetary congress to properly settle and arrange this vexed question, upon a just, useful and business basis.

It is the friend and advocate of every citizen who tends to protect, elevate and better the wages and conditions of our industrial population, and sympathizes with them in all their efforts in resisting unjust encroachments of capital upon their rights.

It denounces the use of private armed bodies of men, as an illegal constabulary; its continuance as a subversive of our personal liberty and opposed the spirit of our institutions, and demands the repression of Pinkertonism by stringent legislation.

It believes the interest of the producing classes should always receive the foremost care of the government, and therefore demands such legislation as will afford our farmers and others, a just and reasonable reduction on all railroad and steamship fares and freights, which may be proven to be exorbitant or excessive.

It asserts that our arid lands when properly irrigated are the most valuable and fertile property in the state; that laws in regard to the economical use of water for irrigation, are crude and insufficient. Legislation is needed on this subject and also the creation of the office of state engineer in order to intelligently prepare and enforce a uniform system of irrigation, for all of our arid lands, and that the water available for such beneficial use may do the greatest good to the greatest number.

It demands the utmost thrift and wise economy in the conduct of all government affairs, and believes in holding public officers to a strict accountability for all official acts.

It recognizes education to be the foundation of the republic. That every child in the land must be educated for citizenship as well as business affairs, and to the accomplishment of this great purpose urges that no means should be unduly or expensively spared.

Honestly affirming its devotion to these principles, which are the convictions of all true republicans, and asking that the same be incorporated in our state platform; the republican party of Yakima county hereby pledges its hearty and undivided support to all our nominees, national, state and county.

Twelve candidates for delegates to the state convention were named. It was necessary to have 32 votes to elect and the only ballot taken resulted in the choice of R. K. Nichols with 57 votes; Nelson Rich with 51; L. S. Howlett, 43; John Reed, 34; Edward Whitson, 22; Wallace Wiley having received the next highest number of votes was on motion selected to fill the quota of delegates. These delegates are all pledged to attend the convention, but as an empty honor the remaining candidates, who were George Donald, D. E. Dush, John Cleman, E. E. Butler, L. K. Sperry and J. D. Cornett, were elected alternates.

When the chair announced that the next business would be the nominating of a representative some little interest was shown. W. F. Jones having previously withdrawn from the contest those who were opposed to Mr. Weed had been looking up an opposition candidate—a wonderful dark horse who was reported to have both speed and bottom, but this interest died out almost entirely when Postmaster Dunn in a brief speech placed in nomination A. C. Ketchum, a heavy-weight from the lower end of the county. Hoch Sinclair named Alfred B. Weed and the latter soon at a center, receiving 43 votes to 16 for Ketchum. The nomination was made unanimous.

L. S. Howlett, in a eulogistic speech, nominated that "rising young attorney," J. A. Rockford, for prosecuting attorney. On motion of Robert Dunn the nomination was made unanimous.

For clerk Nelson Rich, of Prosser, nominated his fellow townsman, J. M. Brown, and Jack Shaw placed Ed. Shannafelt in nomination. Mr. Shannafelt's excellent work as assessor did not seem to count against the political canvass that Mr. Brown has been making for some time past, and the latter received 46 votes to his opponent's 14.

George Vance, who was officiating as assistant secretary, placed Myron H. Ellis in nomination for auditor. There being no other candidates, Mr. Whitson moved for a suspension of rules, and he was nominated by acclamation.

Mayor Weed nominated George Nevin, the present incumbent, for treasurer. Mr. Stabler called F. B. Woodcock to the chair and placed James Wiley in nomination, stating that he thought the country should have something, with strong emphasis on the "something." That, however, did not suit the controlling ring, and Nevin got the nomination by a vote of 44 to 17.

D. W. Simmons was placed in nomination for sheriff by A. J. Lewis, and there being no other candidates his nomination was made by acclamation, on motion of Mr. Courter.

Mr. Howlett placed O. V. Carpenter in nomination for assessor, and having no opponent he also went in with a rush.

Richard Siak, of Wenas, received the nomination for sheep commissioner over D. G. Goodwin; J. G. Lawrence was nominated by acclamation for school superintendent under suspended rules; J. O. Clark received the unanimous nomination for coroner, and W. H. Redman downed George Wilson for surveyor by a vote of 45 to 16.

Frank Kandle was nominated for county commissioner from the first district; J. H. Hubbard from the second, and W. A. Kelso from the third.

As an indication of how perfect was the ring organization, it is only necessary to glance at the vote where there were two candidates, and see how evenly they run. For representative, Mr. Weed received 43 votes to his opponent's 16; for clerk, Brown received 45 votes and Shannafelt 14; for treasurer, Nevin had 44 votes to Wiley's 17, and for surveyor, Redman showed his heels with 45 votes to Wilson's 16. Everybody said it was beautiful work, and no one can doubt it after looking at the figures.

Previous to adjournment the following central committee was selected, over which John Reed will officiate as chairman: Abtaunum, W. L. Stabler; Redrock, J. M. Brown; Cowyabee, Isaac Hays; Kiona, Wm. Bauer; Kennewick, H. J. Sinclair; North Yakima, No. 1, J. H. Taggard; North Yakima, No. 2, John Reed; Parker Bottom, C. D. Flemming; Simcoe, C. H. Lombard; Tappino, B. C. Edlin; Wenas, John Cleman; Wide Holc, J. C. Brooker; Yakima City, J. F. Sinclair.

A good story is told of a third party financier, who was approached by a sprinter from the east who told him that he had made a match with an Ellensburg runner, which was coming off during the convention. He said that he had a dead thing on the race, but that he had only been able to scrape up $50 of the $100 for which the race was made, and that if the financier would back him he could win lots of money. The financier saw an opportunity whereby he could make enough to carry him along until his party opened up the treasury, so he snapped at the chance and put up his hard-earned coin. The race came off as arranged, and the eastern sprinter easily ran away from the Ellensburg man, but just as he was on the home stretch he tripped and fell, and the race and money was given to the slower and slower contestant. The financier felt an honest pity for the unfortunate sprinter until he learned that it was a put up job to down him, and then he was mad. He wanted the confidence man arrested forthwith, but was finally persuaded to keep quiet as it might hurt the party if the story got out.

Frank Cooke, one of the early settlers of this city, who was in the employ of J. W. Shull, when the latter kept a hotel on Yakima avenue, near First street, returned here Sunday and is now on the day shift of the Hotel Yakima bar. When Mr. Cooke left Yakima he was compelled to have a spider painted on the top of his head to keep the flies away; but he has either found the spring of perpetual youth or an excellent hair restorative, for he has no further reason to consider the possibility of a wig, and looks fully as young as when he left. Mr. Cooke's many friends will welcome him back to his old stamping ground.

Under the regime of the city the foremen on the sewer work are J. C. MacCrimmon, J. P. McCafferty and D. Stewart. J. R. Coe is officiating as street keeper. Eleven hundred dollars was distributed by the city in wages Tuesday.

Royal Baking Powder ABSOLUTELY PURE

Last year J. M. Ready, an Ellensburg lawyer, contributed much towards the success of the republican ticket. This year he demanded recognition in the form of the nomination to the state senate, but was downed by C. I. Helm. Among those who worked against Mr. Ready was Dr. W. H. Hare, and after the convention Ready sent a telegram to the secretary of the interior demanding Hare's removal from the receivership of the land office. "If you don't know me," telegraphed the defeated politician, "I will refer you to Senator Squire." Hare is still receiver, and has been granted a two weeks' vacation to recuperate for the fall campaign.

Paul Schulze and Attorney J. H. Mitchell were in Yakima Tuesday looking after the interests of the Northern Pacific Irrigation and the Irrigation company in the contest over the Sunnyside lands now being heard at the land office. The evidence went to show that 75,000 acres of the land were bought from the Northern Pacific by the Kleinschmidt-Granger-McLary combination at $1.25 an acre, and that the present irrigation company is the legal descendant of the projectors of the scheme. Testimony was introduced showing that the Northern Pacific executed its first deed to the lands in question in March, 1892, and that the railroad company owns 1.25 of the 5,000 shares of the Irrigation company.

Saved from Death by Onions. There has no doubt been more lives of children saved from death in croup or whooping cough by the use of onions than any other known remedy. Our mothers used to make poultices of them, or a syrup, which was always effectual in breaking up a cough or cold. Dr. Gunn's Onion Syrup is made by combining a few remedies with it which makes it more effective as a medicine and destroys the taste and odor of the onion. 50c. Sold by Janek's Pharmacy.

Billiardists, give attention; the billiard table at Shardlow & McDaniels has been completely overhauled and is now as good as when it came from the factory, for it not only has been newly covered but a splendid set of genuine ivory balls have been purchased. A short time ago, while the Northwestern Shingle association was in session, it was announced that body that the Washington State World's fair building would require 337,000 shingles for its roof. Thereupon the association promptly instructed its secretary to buy that number of shingles and to donate them to the World's fair board for the state. The quarriesmen, lumbermen and loggers of Washington have been equally eager, and almost all the building material that is required has been donated.

Hot Griddle Cakes.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder possesses a peculiar merit not approached by that of any other baking powder. It produces the hot buckwheat, Indian or wheat cakes, hot biscuit, doughnuts, waffles or muffins. Any of these tasteful things may be eaten when hot with impunity by persons of the most delicate digestive organs. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder leavens without fermentation or decomposition. In its preparation none but the purest of cream of tartar, soda, etc. is used, and in such exact equivalents as to always guarantee a perfectly neutral result, thereby giving the natural and sweet flavor peculiar to buckwheat and other flour that may be used, the natural flavor so much desired and appreciated by all. The oldest patrons of Dr. Price's powder tell the story, that they can never get the same results from any other leavening agent, that their griddle cakes, biscuits, etc. are never so light and never taste so sweet or so good as when raised with Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

THE Northern Pacific, Yakima & Kittitas Irrigation Company
in its great work of reclaiming 200,000 acres of arid land by building immense canals and irrigating the same has placed Yakima County in the front rank as the great Hop, Fruit, Vegetable and Hay producing section of Washington. In the center of this magnificent agricultural and horticultural country the Northern Pacific, Yakima & Kittitas Irrigation Company has plotted and laid out the TOWN OF ZILLAH and on Monday, June 27th, 1892, the town market. Zillah is 25 miles south of North Yakima on the river of that name and is the official terminus of the Motor Railroad to be built to North Yakima. Zillah is the headquarters of the company and handsome quarters are being erected to be occupied by the officials as soon as completed. Situated as this town is there are legitimate reasons why it should be prosperous, progressive and healthy. Investigate Zillah.

WAITING.
(WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD.)
Here is of life the stream,
Its dulceness and its little men and things—
Of babbling irrigation—in rumpled bridge
Disquiet only: "Is a feverish dream!"
The gray clouds touch me here;
The mist envelopes, and the dew's fair face
Seeks from the markless a hiding place—
Aloof I stand and wait in silent fear.
I feel, heart-beat suppressed,
Mid noise of traffic on the slipping tide,
A silver-sailed ship to softly glide
A-down—my hungry heart shall give me rest.
Then chill air warm shall be
In languorous sweetness of love's increase near;
The waves lie still; the day be passing fair,
And low sails swim away in drunken glee.
A sudden smothering breeze
To twittering bird and noisy katydid,
Of full heartiness of heart no longer hid—
When some one comes—some one for whom I wait.
W. H. REED-CLIFF.
Memorable Ravenna.

Ravenna is the end of the old, the beginning of the new. "Toward Rome all ancient history tends," from Rome all modern history springs; but here for a brief moment the broad current of history was dammed up into the little space, then ebbing away, even as the Adriatic has done, it left Ravenna full of straggling, stranded monuments of a time that has elsewhere been swept out upon the tide into the ocean of oblivion.
Among the graves of the buried past the sarcophagi of exarchs, captains and priests which lie scattered in the churches and the streets—walls from the shipwreck of Italy when Alaric burst upon her—were the sepulchers and offices of those rulers who epitomized the art history of the city; of Galla Placidia, the conquered Roman princess who outstayed in her turn and married her captor, and preserved to Ravenna that remained of old-time splendor; of Theodoric the Ostrogoth, who infused the vigor of the north into worn-out forms; of Justinian, the Emperor, who dowered the city with the art heritage of the Greek. The mausoleum of Placidia and the Baptistery represent the first of the three groups into which the buildings of the city fall; those remains of the Theodosian epoch being followed by the works of the Ostrogothic period, San Apollinare Nuovo and the tomb of Theodoric; while the last group, that of Justinian, boasts San Vitale and St. Apollinare in the Fleet.
The little mausoleum of Placidia may claim first visit. There for 11.5 years her body sat upright in jeweled ornaments in her sarcophagus, and was the very type of her city's mission. For in Ravenna antique art grew rigid, swathed away in the enshrouding cloths of conventionality, gilded and stiffened, mummied within the stone walls till, eight centuries having rolled by, the spirit of antiquity arose again and the chrysalis was forgotten, even as Galla's actual body crumbled in fire and ashes at a moment when the renaissance had straddled its full strength.

FACTS FOR IRRIGATORS.
Points That all Residents of an Arid Country Should Know.
Something About the Various Water Measurements—Legal Definition of a Miner's Inch—Water Required.
The interest in the subject of irrigation is becoming more widespread every day, and much popular curiosity as to the meaning of many of the terms involved has been aroused. As is well known, nearly all irrigation discussion is based upon the miner's inch as a unit of measurement. For the benefit of those who do not understand this term it may be said that a miner's inch of water has been legally defined as the amount which will flow through an opening one inch square in the side or bottom of a vessel at a distance of four inches from the surface, or, as the saying is, with a four-inch pressure; that is, if the water is kept at an exact level with the top of the board or other object confining it, an opening an inch square and four inches from the top will carry exactly a miner's inch.
In many localities the measurement is by cubic feet, and there is a great deal of confusion as to the relative proportion of cubic feet to the miner's inch. This, however, can readily be understood by remembering that a single cubic foot of water consists of fifty miner's inches per second.
As an illustration, suppose a canal fifty feet wide at the bottom, forty feet at the top and five feet deep, thus giving a sectional area of 175 square feet, or carrying five feet of water. With a grade of such a level that the water flows at the rate of one mile an hour this would be eighty-eight feet a minute, or a flow of 15,400 cubic feet per minute, or 256 2/3 per second. Multiplied by fifty, which is the number of miner's inches to the cubic foot, and there would be a supply of 12,800 miner's inches in the canal.
The next question which naturally arises is as to the amount of land which can be irrigated by such a canal, or, technically speaking, the duty of the water contained therein. This will depend largely upon the nature of the soil, and varies largely in different localities. Thus in southern California, where the most economical use of water has been rendered necessary, the duty is in the proportion of one inch to ten acres. This, however, does not represent the actual amount of land that can be irrigated from a canal whose flow is measured at the head or a considerable distance from the plot to be irrigated. The loss by evaporation or seepage is so great by the use of open ditches running through the loose soil that as high as 50 per cent is frequently lost. But in the arid practice of irrigation in the older colonies, such as in Nevada settlement, it has been demonstrated by an experience of many years that one inch of water to five acres is amply sufficient. The soil at Riverside, however, is of a consistency which requires much more moisture than others, and consequently there are large areas where an inch to ten acres has been proved to be sufficient, and in one remarkable locality the supply is so small as an inch to sixty acres. That, however, is an exceptional case, and an inch to five or ten acres may be set down as the proper limit.

Upon that basis such a canal as the one described in the foregoing would carry a supply for the irrigation of from 94,000 to 128,000 acres, provided all the water taken from the parent streams were applied to the land to be irrigated. That being impossible with the open earthen ditches, the supply would not be adequate for more than 22,000 to 34,000 acres. If cemented canals and laterals and wooden flumes were used in the orchards and vineyards, nearly all the loss might be obviated, and the water spread over the larger area mentioned. By the adoption of such methods of handling, it has been found possible in many places in California to deliver upon the land to be irrigated within a very small percentage of the actual amount of water diverted from the source of supply. The importance of thus preserving all the water possible may be appreciated from the fact that a common basis of valuation of water is from $1,000 to $1,200 a miner's inch, while a case was some time ago reported where an orange grower in the south paid the enormous sum of $18,000 for a single inch, and did not consider that an exorbitant valuation, all things considered.
There is another consideration which must not be lost sight of in determining the ultimate duty of water. The amount of desert and arid lands which may be reclaimed at the outset by a given amount of water is no criterion of what may reasonably be expected as the ultimate result. There are large areas where the soils of such a nature that immense amounts of water must be poured upon it before any appreciable results are secured. The soil will, however, become gradually filled up until, in the course of time, less and less water is needed for the production of crops, and finally the necessity for irrigation ceases altogether. The water, therefore, utilized, may then be devoted to the reclamation of other land, so that in time many times the area at first cultivated may be made productive. This has been the experience to a greater or less extent wherever irrigation has been practiced, and it is well within the bounds to say that, ultimately, such a canal as the one described will suffice for the irrigation of at least 150,000 acres, and perhaps even more. Actual experience, however, will only demonstrate whether the soil is of such a nature that the water may be diverted into other directions without fear or danger.—Irrigation Age.

THE VOICE OF THE THIRD PARTY.
How the Oregon Representative of the People's Party Compares It with Older Organizations
Portland Telegram: The people's party is not a "calamity" party at all. It is so called by the organs of monopoly in order to discredit it in the opinion of unthinking people. It has not only a legitimate foundation, but a reason for its existence. When George Washington was president of the United States and Alexander Hamilton was secretary of the treasury, and for four years afterwards when John Adams was president and Hamilton, though not secretary, dictated the financial policy of the country, the democratic party was then the "calamity" party. Jefferson was a "calamity howler," because he stood up for the rights of the people against monopoly, against monarchism, against tyranny, against oppression.
In 1861 Lincoln was a "calamity howler." That is he represented, in a certain and very important sense, the people, arrayed against a slave-holding oligarchy. It has become so that any public man who dares to open his mouth to tell the truth about the shams and frauds and robberies that are being done in the name of the government is a "calamity howler."
We do not agree entirely with all the declarations of the Omaha platform. We refuse to associate ourselves any longer with either of the old parties; not men of great wisdom or practicality; yet we cannot fail to recognize the fact that this new party is the natural, legitimate and wholesome outgrowth of evils and wrongs perpetrated by the other and older parties. The republican party is the party of monopolism, of plutocracy, of plunder. It has lived on plunder ever since 1868. The democratic party, in its traditions, in its fundamental principles, in its inner clean conscience, if you get into it, is the party of the people. But sometimes it seems to be doing its best to hide that conscience, or to even deny its existence. It did this very conspicuously in Oregon when it held its last convention, and again, more notoriously, at Chicago.
Do not mistake or misunderstand us. As between Harrison and Cleveland, and between the party that is an ally of plutocracy and exists upon plunder and the party that is founded upon the principles of right and justice, our choice is an easy one. Yet we are not going to call all the third party people "calamity howlers." That party will, in our opinion, get about one-sixth or one-seventh of the votes cast next November. And it will get them because it deserves to; because the other parties have not done their duty to the people.
