

TURNER VS. WILSON.

The movement to make Hon. George Turner the republican nominee for congress seems to be assuming interesting proportions. It had its inception in Spokane Falls, the home of Congressman John L. Wilson, where a petition was circulated and signed by over four hundred prominent and active republicans, asking Judge Turner to make the contest. Wilson's friends claim that the Turner movement is the result of the personal enmity of a few sore-heads, but the man who can live in a city four years, and in that space of time acquire as many hundred personal enemies, comes very near being a failure. These so-called "personal enemies" are representative and influential men of the party, many of whom were active workers for Wilson when he made his successful race. The change has come about through a feeling expressed and felt that this state is not creditably represented in the person of the present incumbent. "Is true we hear much of Wilson and his wonderful activity through the press dispatches, and he can scarcely turn around without the movement being chronicled by telegraph. By some means he has secured the friendship of the press reporter and he is accredited with everything, from the stippling of such big guns as Clarkson and Commissioner Stone to this state sitting down on Senators Powell and Squire. To be sure some of these fulsome dispatches make him look ridiculous enough and disgust the thinking men of the state, but nevertheless the advertisement and attempt to boom Wilson is there, and on this shaky basis he hopes to be assisted into office again. The call for Judge Turner has grown beyond a Spokane movement. From Stevens county in the north-east through the tier of counties, with Yakima in the center, to the ocean-lapped shores of Pacific county, there has been a well-defined feeling that Washington should have a more creditable and dignified representation, and the republicans, by a common impulse, are looking to Judge Turner to lead them in a struggle which promises, on account of manifold administrative blunders, to be one of close contest.

EDITORIAL DRIFTWOOD.

The administration in anxiously casting its eyes around for some strong western man to succeed Assistant Postmaster General Clarkson, has allowed them to rest favorably on Judge W. H. Calkins, of Tacoma. Among other points that Harrison sees in Calkins' favor, is the very prominent one of his being an Indiana man. The president is sticking to the sons of his native state as closely as a red headed woman to a white horse.

Dayton is one of the most unfortunate towns that this state has had to grieve for. There have been fires enough there to create a very respectable Baptist shoemaker and now she has just experienced another one which, on Tuesday, licked $100,000 worth of property, including the brick blocks of Messrs. Sturdevant, Guernsey, Wingard and McClary. High wind and little water is the old, old story told again.

The Pacific coast extension of the Great Northern railroad will be begun as soon as the requisite men and teams can be collected. Advice from Montana are that a thousand men are needed immediately.

The supreme court has filed an opinion in the Seattle, Clark county and Spokane Falls bond question, and has affirmed the judgment of the lower courts, simply requiring three-fifths of those who vote to legalize the funding of city or county indebtedness.

The New York Central is struggling against a gigantic strike by Knights of Labor men, which has put a complete paralysis on all traffic in that section. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers have so far failed to join in with the strikers, as was anticipated. The strike is the result of the refusal of the company to be guided by the Knights in the selection of employes, or to make promotions according to the seniority rule promulgated by the Knights.

John Boyle O'Reilly, the poet and editor of the Boston Pilot, died, Aug. 11th, from an overdose of chloral taken to induce sleep. The deceased was 46 years of age and was one of the impulsive Irish patriots who occupy the warmest place in the hearts of his countrymen. O'Reilly, at the time of his death, was an outlaw from Great Britain, having been one of those excluded from the amnesty act of 1869. The British government had set a reward of £1000 upon his head, dead or alive. This was never recalled.

The Morning Telegraph, D. Durie manager and Alexander Begg editor, began publication at Seattle Monday as a simple pure exponent of Jeffersonian democracy. The paper reflects credit on the party.

The total wealth of the United States exceeds that of either England or France. It is estimated at $71,450,000,000, $50,000,000,000 and $30,000,000,000 respectively. According to this estimate the wealth per capita in the United States is $1000, which is an increase of 42 per cent. in the last ten years. If, as some people of the communistic tendencies desire, there should be an equal distribution of wealth, how long before it would be again divided into large and small holdings? With human nature unchanged and business and social conditions unmodified, not many years would elapse before the rich and the poor would be on the same equal footing as now.

Superintendent Porter says that the state of Washington was the greatest surprise to him of any in the union. He underestimated the population of this state by 100,000. Its growth, he says, is a marvel. He made calculations for an increase, but the showing is far greater than anyone could have anticipated.

The farmers of Yakima county should steal a while away from the busy cares of ranch life and gather up such of the best exhibits of their productions to forward to the exposition at Spokane Falls. It will certainly be of inestimable value to the county to let the outside world into the secret of the enormous yields and unequalled specimens of all varieties of crops, and it is not frequent that such opportunities are afforded. J. B. Pugsley is making the collection to forward to Spokane at the proper time.

The Spokane Globe has this to say of Congressman John L. Wilson: "Numerous are his mistakes and broken promises. The cry has also been raised by numbers of his friends that his term is not complete. This is untrue, for he has had the same term that all congressmen have and will draw his salary for his work. Nothing is due him from the people of this state. He has been given a chance and proved a failure. He should now step down and out, and if he has any inordinate hungering for wealth and activity he should smother it for the best interests of the state. The comparison of the men, Judge Turner and Wilson, shows the difference between an intellectual giant and a small bundle of nerves and plagiarized ideas."

Camp Humphrey, Lake Katcheez.

The first arrivals Tuesday morning, August 5th, were the Misses Dunning, Miss Annie Monroe, H. C. Humphrey, G. W. Jones and A. C. Walker. They were joined a few hours later by Miss Lou Monroe, of North Yakima, and Clarence Ward, of Seattle.

The camp was pitched at the foot of the lake and head of the Katcheez river—a green, grassy sward, overshadowed by tall pine trees.

Others joining the camp on Wednesday morning were Mrs. Goodwin and daughter, Miss Bailey, and on Saturday morning by George Coleman and Lawrence Lamping, and on Saturday night by E. T. Wilson and George Vance.

Adjoining us is Dr. Graves and party, next sheriff Lesh and family, and still further on are Drs. Coe and Savage and their families, making in all fifty persons. Lake Katcheez is nine miles long and two miles broad, and is surrounded by a series of mountain peaks, leading up to Mount Stewart.

As an initiation, our mayor, Mr. Nichols, whose knowledge of camp life is unquestioned, showed the gentlemen and ladies how to handle a canoe. It was a short tussle, the canoe coming out up top, and the mayor, we hope, is wiser.

The men took the first fishing trip, going to the head of the lake. On the return Humphrey led by a clear length, producing a mountain trout nineteen and one-half inches long. The total catch was thirty. That luck has kept up, and each day fish were served. Of course, Sunday we observed, and the fish were spared.

Each night we gather around the camp fire, and being joined by our neighbors and being led by their guitars and mandolins, our voices join the harmony of the rolling waves and swaying pines, making a soothing effect—a very proper preparation for retiring. One evening the amusement was varied by introducing a Quaker dance, led by Mayor Nichols and Miss Lou Monroe, who were joined by all, old and young, with a spirit that only camp life is capable of reviving.

One peculiarity of Katcheez is, that while surrounded by mountains, one end seems to have been reserved for bathing, having a fine, pebbly beach, the water at all times being warm enough for that second spiritual injunction, "Be clean."

Our culinary department is the choicest, being under the direction of Mrs. Goodwin; and with the announcement of any meal the campers draw together in double-quick time, when the merry chatter and exchange of experiences add a flavor to the meal.

Through the thoughtfulness of our commissary, G. W. Jones, we were provided with a camera, with which were taken some views of the surrounding scenery, also a picture of the campers.

The sky keeps always clear, mercury in campers keeps always up, and one of those rare, happy occasions that once in a life time visit humanity has reached us. Look later for results and conclusions.

Table Talk.

Watermelon for breakfast is quoted as the new gastronomic fad. It is a fashionable affectation to put a pinch of salt into the breakfast cup of coffee.

It would be better for the health of the community if there were fewer frying pans in the world.

Nobody who pretends to be fashionable in these days will venture to eat berries in public with anything but a fork.

Roast clams continue to be regarded as a great luxury at the seaside, and the consumption of them this year is extraordinary.

Sardine sandwiches are served at the 5 o'clock tea, and we read that the proper way to eat them is with a fork. Clam juice is a delightful preparation and an excellent tonic for the stomach. It has grown greatly in favor, especially with those men who find that after a night's outing a wine-glass full of clam juice and chopped ice will make them as fresh as a lark. The juice is now put up in bottles for the benefit of those who cannot get the fresh clams.

In hot weather the midday meal should be the heartiest for those who would be both healthy and comfortable. Late diners, some one has said, should be ruled out from May to November.

Griddle cakes are served at tea or supper at many of the watering place hotels. They are supposed to fill one of the traditional "long felt wants" in the human frame at that particular time.

Important to Teachers.

Section 77 of the school laws of Washington says: "Any teacher failing to attend the institute in the county in which he holds a certificate to teach, unless on account of sickness, or for other good and sufficient reasons, shall be deemed to have forfeited his certificate."

To Make Ice Water Last.

A useful attribute of paper not generally known is preserving ice in a pitcher of water. Fill the pitcher with ice and water, and set it on the center of a piece of paper; then gather the paper up together at the top and place the ends tightly together, placing a strong rubber band about the coil to hold it close, so as to exclude the air. A pitcher of ice water treated in this manner has been known to stand over night with scarcely a perceptible melting of the ice.

THE CO-OPERATIVE STORE A SUCCESS.—The farmers' and traders' co-operative store was opened at a period of the year when there is the greatest depression in business, but notwithstanding this fact THE HERALD is credibly informed that it has proven an unquestioned success, and the steady stream of customers always to be found there verifies this statement. The fact that the adjoining building is required as a warehouse is evidence of the way business is growing. Mr. Unger is always on hand and personally watchful to see that all of the customers get every attention, and his large and constantly increasing sales indicate that his patrons are well pleased with the prices and the quality of the goods. Mr. Unger makes a business announcement in this issue of THE HERALD which should be read by everyone who has any trading to do.

ENRaptured With Yakima.—Charles S. Fee, of St. Paul, general passenger agent; A. D. Charlton, of Portland, general western passenger agent; J. Jay Haynes, of St. Paul, official photographer, and A. B. Guptile, of Fargo, official reporter, all of the Northern Pacific company, arrived in their special car Sunday and spent the day in visiting points of interest in and about Yakima. They were driven to Sheriff Lesh's orchard, where they revelled in luscious fruit; taken to some of the vegetable gardens, where they secured monstrous products with which to astonish the effects east, dined to their satisfaction at Col. Howlett's, and spent the evening contentedly at the Yakima club. They were pleased with everything and carried away with them a number of photographic views of Yakima and an impression which will redound to the benefit of this section. The tour is for the purpose of getting new material and views for "Wonderland," folders and other publications, and judging from the expressions of pleasure which the various features of Yakima brought out this garden spot will be justly recognized therein. Our visitors highly praised the appointments of the Yakima club, and Mr. Fee remarked that no like sum of money could have been expended that would prove more beneficial to this section, and that he had heard the club well spoken of by a number of influential gentlemen who had enjoyed its entertainment, and whose good word would have great weight. Mr. Fee volunteered to emulate Allen C. Mason and present the club with some engravings.

MAYOR NICHOLS EMULATES MCGINTY.—Mayor R. K. Nichols and Mr. Walter Granger spent several days in the mountains last week and finally wound up at the Yakima camp on Lake Natches, where, on account of their winning ways and attractive presence, they were the cynosure of the ladies' eyes. They vied with each other in the matter of entertainment until Mayor Nichols, finding himself a neck behind, hit upon a scheme to distance Mr. Granger in this friendly rivalry. Announcing that he would give an exhibition of skill in canoe management, he found an Indian dug-out, and at the time announced, when all were gathered on the banks of the lake, he suddenly shot out from the shore and with a flourish paddled his craft directly in front of his admiring audience. But, alas! as the poet says, "The best laid plans of mice and men gang aft a-glee," for instead of kneeling in the canoe Indian fashion Mr. Nichols had rigged up a seat, and when the treacherous boat lost its momentum it suddenly careened and, McGinty-like, the occupant went to the bottom of the sea. He was rescued without difficulty, but limp and bedragged, his spirit was crushed, and Mr. Granger held undisputed sway among the petticoated campers.

GRAND BARBECUE.—The managers of the fair, which is to occur at North Yakima September 4th, 5th and 6th, have decided to wind up the festivities by giving a grand barbecue as an especial honor to the visiting Missourians. The preliminaries have not all been definitely arranged, but it is thought the barbecue will be given near the river, east of the city. Half a dozen steers, a dozen sheep, and as many hogs have been contributed, and a glorious, old-fashioned picnic is promised. Stands will be erected on the grounds for speaking and music, and the Missourians will march in a body from the city, accompanied by as many of the home societies as will join the procession. The various committees of the fair are working like Trojans, and there can be no doubt as to the successful issue of the entertainment.

YAKIMA WILL GROW COMPLET.—Samuel Vinson and wife spent several days in the city this week. Mr. Vinson reports that the Northern Pacific has forty engineers in the Natchez pass and along the Ogilvie river. Every indication goes to confirm the published report that the Northern is going to build the line from North Yakima to Centralia and South Bend at an early date, and at the same time the rumors of the Great Northern coming this way are multiplying. The Natchez pass, with its economic grades and immense beds of anthracite, promises to be the battle ground of these two mighty corporations, in which event Yakima will be an interested spectator of this bloodless strife and take upon herself aldermanic proportions with the good things that will fall to her lot.

BIG SHIPMENT OF FRUITS.—Yakima is coming to the front this season in noble style and is daily shipping from three to five tons of fruit, to various points, including Ellensburg, Kootenai, Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane Falls. The Yakima fruits command a better price in the market than the fruit from other sections, and as a result the shippers will realize handsome returns. Another point which will be gained is that we are practically demonstrating to the Northern Pacific that we have these products for shipment, and if the company desires our business and wishes to encourage the increase of acreage the long promised favorable transportation rates should now be made.

"LET THERE BE LIGHT."—The prospects now are favorable for the city being lighted by electricity before very long. The poles are all up and the wires strung, and Mr. Whitson has concluded not to wait for the completion of the water works for the power, but has ordered an engine of sufficient capacity to operate the dynamo, and as soon as it arrives the plant will be put in working order, and the necessity for that poor and dangerous excuse, kerosene, will be done away with.

—All expenses incurred at this term of the county commissioners' court and all bills presented were met with orders on the current expense fund, which means good hard cash. It is to be hoped the commissioners will be able to keep up this new and very satisfactory departure.

—Little Hazel, daughter of W. H. Chapman, died at the residence of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Allen, near the hour of midnight, Wednesday, after a brief illness of eight days, aged 6 years, 6 months and 4 days. The funeral will occur to-morrow (Friday) afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

—J. G. Lawrence returned from the sound Tuesday, where he had been sojourning for a week looking after the fruit market. He states that the dealers are most anxious to handle the Yakima products, as consumers generally ask for them in preference to those from Oregon and California.

—Jacob Giesentanner has recently been offered $10,000 for his ranch near Kiona. Farm lands in that neighborhood are looking up. When F. M. Her is questioned by a HERALD reporter about the claim he filed upon in that section he said: "I sold too soon and as a result lost about $8,000. Had I waited a few months I could have realized $50 per acre for land that went for little more than a song."

SHE WAS POISONED!

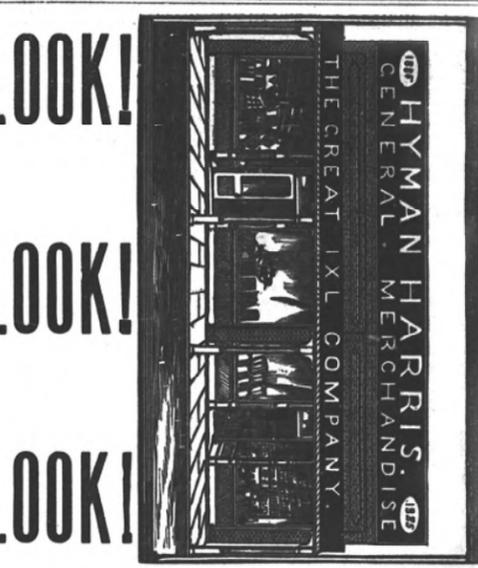

Not by anything she drank or took, but by bad blood. Is it any wonder she looks "blue"? In most cases blues are only another name for bad blood. A man or woman feels unhappy. Life seems dark. The heart is heavy. Bad blood is carrying its poison all over the body, and we call it "blues."

Read these experiences: Mrs. C. C. Hutchinson, of Pittston, Pa., says: "I consider Dr. Acker's English Blood Elixir the best medicine in the world, not only for blood troubles, but also for dyspepsia, with which I have been afflicted."

"Both my wife and myself firmly believe that Dr. Acker's English Blood Elixir is the best of all blood medicines, and will remove all impurities of the blood." Geo. V. BOUSE, Valley City, Dak.

This grand Elixir is sold by druggists in all parts of America. It is a pure, honest medicine; not a cheap snare-pilla. Try it to-day.

MEN SHOULD NOT MARRY.

Tolstol Declares Marriage Was Not Instituted by Christ.

The Author of "Kreutzer Sonata" Says That Celibacy is Right and Marriage Wrong.

I have received and still continue to receive numbers of letters from persons who are perfect strangers to me asking me to state in plain and simple language my own views on the subject handled in the story entitled "The Kreutzer Sonata."

My views on the question may be succinctly stated as follows: Without entering into details it will be generally admitted that I am accurate in saying that many people condone in young men a course of conduct with regard to the strict sex which is incompatible with strict morality and that this dissoluteness is pardoned generally.

It is not possible that the health of one class should necessitate the ruin of another, and in consequence it is our first duty to turn a deaf ear to such an essentially immoral doctrine, no matter how strongly society may have established or law protected it.

A more rational mode of life should be adopted, which would include abstinence from alcoholic drinks, from excess in eating and from flesh meat, on the one hand, and recourse to physical labor on the other.

In the second place, I think that of late years, through various reasons into which I need not enter, but among which the above mentioned laxity of opinion in society and the frequent realization of the subject in current literature and painting may be mentioned, conjugal infidelity has become more common and is considered less reprehensible.

In the third place, I am of the opinion that another consequence of the false light in which "falling in love" and what it leads to are viewed in our society is that the birth of children has lost its pristine significance, and that modern marriages are conceived less and less from the point of view of the family.

In the fourth place, I am of the opinion that the children (who in our society are either an obstacle to enjoyment—an unlucky accident as it were) are educated not with a view to the problem which they will be called on one day to face and to solve, but solely with an eye to the pleasure which they may be made to yield to their parents.

"Love God with all thy heart, all thy soul, and love thy neighbor as thyself." "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise." "Love your enemy." Such is Christ's doctrine. He gives no definitions of acts; He only points to that imperishable ideal which every man finds in his own heart the moment it is revealed to him.

Fashionable dress to-day, the course of reading, plays, music, dances, lascivious food—all the elements of our modern life, is a word from the pictures on the little boxes of sweetmeats up to the novel, the tale and poem—contribute to fan this sensuality into a strong, consuming flame, with the result that sexual vice and dissoluteness have come to be the normal conditions of the period of tender youth, and often continue into the riper age of full manhood.

It is high time it ceased. The children of humans should not be brought up as if they were animals, and we should set up as the object and strive to obtain as the result of our labors something better and nobler than a well dressed body. This is my fourth contention.

In the fifth place, I am of the opinion that owing to the exaggerated and erroneous significance attributed by our society to love and to the idealized states that accompany and succeed it the best energies of our men and women are drawn forth and exhausted during the most promising period of life, those of the men in the work of looking for, choosing and winning the most desirable objects of love, for which purpose lying and fraud are held to be quite excusable; those of the women and girls in alluring men and deceiving them into liaisons or marriage by the most questionable means conceivable, as an instance of which the present fashion in evening dress may be cited.

The truth is that the whole affair has been exalted by poets and romancers to an undue importance, and that love in its various developments is not a fitting object to consume the best energies of man. People set it before them and strive after it, because their view of life is as vulgar and brutish as is that other conception frequently met with in the lower stages of development which sees in lascivious and abundant food an end worthy of man's best efforts.

How about the human race? If we admit that celibacy is better and nobler than marriage, evidently the human race will come to an end. But if the logical conclusion of the argument is that the human race will become extinct, the whole reasoning is wrong. To that I reply that the argument is not mine; I did not invent it. That it is incumbent on mankind to strive to the end that celibacy is preferable to marriage are truths revealed by Christ 1900 years ago, set forth in our catechisms and professed by us as followers of Christ.

The same truth is confirmed by our reason, which tells us that the only solution not repugnant to the sentiment of humanity of the problem of over-population is afforded by the systematic striving after chastity, which, though distasteful to animals, is natural to man.

It is a most extraordinary thing when you come to think of it; Malthusian theories can be broached and propagated; millions of children may be allowed to die every year of hunger and want; millions upon millions of human beings may be butchered in war; the state may strain every nerve to increase and perfect the means of killing the people and look upon this as the main aim and object of its existence—all these things may be done under our eyes without striking us as in any way dangerous to humanity; but let someone hint at the necessity of celibacy and immediately the cry is raised that the human race is in danger.

When a person asks you his way to a place there are two methods of directing him. You may either point to a distant tree and tell him to make straight for that, thence on to the village, and from the village along the river bank till he comes to the hill, etc., or else you may give him the general direction, telling him to walk due eastward and to let the inconstant sun or the stars serve him as finger posts.

Such a thing as Christian marriage never was and never could be established. Christ did not marry, nor did he institute marriage; neither did his disciples marry. But if Christian marriage does not exist there is such a thing as a Christian view of marriage. And this is how it may be formulated: A Christian (and by this term I understand not those who call themselves Christian merely because they were baptized and still receive the sacrament once a year, but those whose lives are shaped and regulated by the teachings of Christ), a Christian, I say, cannot view the marriage relation otherwise than as a deviation from the doctrine of Christ—a sin.

"Love God with all thy heart, all thy soul, and love thy neighbor as thyself." "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise." "Love your enemy." Such is Christ's doctrine. He gives no definitions of acts; He only points to that imperishable ideal which every man finds in his own heart the moment it is revealed to him.

"Love God with all thy heart, all thy soul, and love thy neighbor as thyself." "As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise." "Love your enemy." Such is Christ's doctrine. He gives no definitions of acts; He only points to that imperishable ideal which every man finds in his own heart the moment it is revealed to him.

Chastity and celibacy, it is urged, can not constitute the ideal of humanity, because chastity would annihilate the race which strove to realize it, and humanity can not set up as its ideal its own annihilation. It may be pointed out in reply that only that is a true ideal which, being unattainable, admits of infinite gradation in degrees of proximity. Such is the Christian ideal of the founding of God's kingdom, the union of all living creatures by the bonds of love.

But even if we suppose the Christian idea of perfect chastity realized, what then? We should merely find ourselves face to face on the one hand with the familiar teaching of religion, one of whose dogmas is that the world will have an end; and on the other, of so-called science, which informs us that the sun is gradually losing its heat, the result of which will in time be the extinction of the human race.

If the lives of us Christians are characterized by such a frightful contradiction between our consciences and reality it is because we fail to understand the doctrine of Christ, which points to an unattainable, imperishable ideal, and in consequence allow ecclesiastical prescriptions, wrongly called Christian, to be substituted for the Christian ideal.
