VOTE FOR BONDING.

On Tuesday, Sept. 13, a county election will be held for the purpose of determining whether or not the county shall issue bonds not to exceed $75,000 to procure money for strictly county purposes.

Our county is now growing rapidly; investors are coming in from all sides; the price of farming lands is advancing, and the assessed valuations are increasing so rapidly as likely to be doubled in a couple of years.

The bonds are not intended to increase our indebtedness, but rather to decrease it and if but the $4,000 are used, which the commissioners think will be necessary to take up the floating indebtedness $1,000 per annum will be saved in interest besides receiving a premium of $1,400 on the bonds.

After long waiting the president's letter of acceptance is at last out, and a great mass of incoherency it is. The letter is probably the longest on record. It devotes much attention to the praise of the national banking system, and urges the international silver conference, from which no one expects anything.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN has fallen from the pugilistic pinnacle with a thud that has cast his fame in all directions. Even his most ardent supporters who grieved before his feat will now be calling him a "padding" and a "beefy old block."

W. H. KELSO, republican nominee for county commissioner, tells the Walla Walla Union-Journal that notwithstanding his Yakima is the home of Mr. Seively, when the votes are counted in November it will be found that John McGraw will have a large majority.

OLYMPIA Tribune: H. J. Seively, the democratic candidate for governor, says he is in favor of canal-irrigating canals—which will spread the sparkling waters of eastern Washington over the dry earth and make it fruitful.

The democratic party recognizes the power of the Federal government to impose tariff duties for revenue purposes, but denounces as a fraud the republican tariff that taxes one industry for the benefit of another.

THE LATEST HOP NEWS.

Brief Notes Regarding the Situation, Locality and in General.

There is no Trouble About Pickers—Many Children Will Go Into the Yards—The Price is One Dollar a Box.

One hundred and twenty-five Indians, a full quota, started in on the two yards of the Moxee company, Monday. While the company has sixty acres, but thirty-five acres will be picked, as the balance is a new yard and was given but little attention.

Myron Meeker was over here in the spring and found lice in various yards, but during his recent visit he took a look through the Moxee yards and acknowledged that he was unable to find any; and he expressed himself as convinced that Yakima need have no fears on that score, and showed his faith by buying a section of land in the Sunnyside country which will be planted to hops.

The Associated Press says: In England the hop yield is played at 4,000,000 cwt. The German production is about 46,000,000 pounds avoirdupois. The English crop promises to be much reduced from the estimates given, owing to unfavorable climatic conditions of the last ten days.

The preliminary estimate puts New York's crop of 1892 at 10,000 bales; Pacific coast crop 91,000 bales, or a total of 101,000 bales for the United States this season. Reports of packing up to Wednesday of this week at Osnego, Madison, Schoharie and Oneida counties indicate that this estimate for the state is high.

J. J. Carpenter ordered 9,000 yards of barbed for this year's hop crop. The supply is now about exhausted, and he has been obliged to send in another order to accommodate customers.

Wallace Atherton takes great pride in speaking of his hop yard, which he claims is one of the most promising and thrifty in the valley. He confidently looks forward to a ton to the acre and 40 cents a pound.

Somewhere between $170,000 and $250,000 will be distributed here this fall for hops. This is a wide range, but the market cannot go backward and there is no telling where she will jump to.

From Mr. Presey, of J. J. Carpenter's, THE HERALD quotes the following prices for hop supplies: Sacks 33c; burlap 13c per yard; sulphur 4c per pound in quantity; brimstone 1 1/2c per pound; twine 25c per pound; kiln cloth 7 1/2c per yard.

John A. Stone returned from Puyallup.

They say, and says that the hop crop there will not be more than one-third of the old time yield and about a half of last year's yield. Aside from this the hop will be of a poorer quality on account of picking while they are green to save them from the loss.

The first through hop train, with cargo for England, will pass through here on the 21st, shipped from Puyallup. The hops are mainly on consignment, the growers refusing the offers ranging from 2 1/2 to 25 cents.

ALLAN C. MASOR: "I'm as good a republican as ever was, and I have never yet voted for a candidate of any other party. I'm free to say, though, that my ideas of duty would permit me to vote the republican ticket for governor this year."

Shardlow & McDaniel's was crowded Wednesday night to hear the reports from the great fight. In the fifth round when Corbett drew first blood there was little Sullivan music to be heard and from that time on when the bulletins arrived, each one telling of Sullivan being pushed against the ropes, up to the 21st round, when he finally collapsed, the Boston boy's supporters seemed to lose interest.

Three arrests were made Monday of parties charged with selling liquor to Indians. The spotters are getting in their work with much effect.

THE HERALD bows its acknowledgments to John Reed for a box of delicious Bartlett pears.

SEATTLE Telegram: Mr. McGraw says he was born in Maine, and he ought to know, if his memory is extra good, for he was on hand at that time. Still, other people say he was born in New Brunswick. One man says his father was an English soldier in that province, deserted, lived in Maine about a year and died; that he was never naturalized, and that John never was either, and is not a citizen of this country.

"German Syrup"

Here is something from Mr. Frank A. Hale, proprietor of the De Witt House, Lewiston, and the Tontine Hotel, Brunswick, Me. Hotel men meet the world as it comes and goes, and are not slow in sizing people and things up for what they are worth. He says that he has lost a father and several brothers and sisters from Pulmonary Consumption, and is himself frequently troubled with colds, and he is Hereditary often coughs enough to make him sick at Consumption's stomach. Whenever he has taken a cold of this kind he uses Boecher's German Syrup, and it cures him every time. Here is a man who knows the full danger of lung troubles, and would therefore be most particular as to the medicine he used.

The founders of the government and the early statesmen recognized and adopted the principle of protection, in a small degree, as a temporary expedient for the purpose of establishing "infant industries," raising revenue, and providing for the public defense at a time when the nation was impoverished and the treasury empty. They never intended that the "infant industries" should be fed and fattened until they would rule the country by means now employed.

Billiardists, give attention: the billiard table at Shardlow & McDaniel's has been completely overhauled and is now as good as when it came from the factory, for it not only has been newly covered but a splendid set of genuine ivory balls has been purchased. A game of billiards and a glass of Pabst Milwaukee beer is a pleasant way to spend an evening and these are inducements which Messrs Shardlow & McDaniel have to offer.

Shardlow and McDaniel now keep Pabst's Milwaukee beer on draught. "It has no superior" it is the verdict of all who have tried it.

Most Yakima ladies realize the great benefit of irrigation, but everybody likes to know it. For proof use Victor Flour, which is now made of home grown, irrigated wheat, and cannot be beat in color and fine flavor. Every bread maker should try a sack of Victor and have proof of its excellence. Irrigation is the blessing of Yakima valley.

The rhododendron is now the state flower, having received 7,704 votes to 5,720 for the clover, 730 for the gallardia, 227 for the holly, 84 for marguerite and 34 dogwood. THE HERALD is glad this painful strife is ended and if some one will tell us what the rhododendron is, and where it is found we will immediately stop down on our marrow-bones and worship it with psalms of praise.

HERALDINGS.

Married, September 2, 1892, T. W. Clemons to Miss Mariette Hayes.

A marriage license was granted to Russell L. Austin and Miss Adella Lewis on August 19.

Mike Mackison was down from Ellensburg, on Tuesday, where he is now temporarily located.

Will Snipes left for The Dalles, Sunday, in response to a telegram announcing the serious illness of his mother.

Pat Jordan started Monday for his summer outing, and will spend several weeks visiting Wenatchee, Waterville and Lake Chelan.

Receiver W. H. Hare, of the land office, spent a couple of days at Hot Springs this week, in an effort to slough off a bad cold.

Pete Walen accompanied Sheriff Rigdon to the Sound, Tuesday, as guard over United States prisoners accused of selling liquor to Indians.

The Moose postoffice has been discontinued. Hereafter THE HERALD, which have been mailed to that point, should be called for at the North Yakima office.

Mrs. Mitchell Gilliam, of Seattle, has been spending the past week as the guest of Mrs. Ed. Whitson. She expects to leave for home the latter part of this week.

Gus Stranson was drunk and disorderly on Monday night, and being thrown from P. Povich's saloon landed in such a manner as to fracture his collar bone. Dr. Coe dressed the fracture.

W. E. Gaynor and V. J. Pearce, of Everett, who have desert claims on the Moxee, were again in the city this week but left for the Sound Tuesday. The rotary well machine is boring for water on their claims.

The town of Wenatchee has filed its papers petitioning for incorporation. Among the signers of the petition are George Guillard, H. R. Schildknecht, E. J. Mackison and J. W. Arthur, all of whom are well known in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. James Schultz, of Ellensburg, arrived here Monday. Mr. Schultz returned the following day, but his wife will remain for a visit with her sisters, Mrs. A. J. Splawn, Mrs. P. A. Bounds, Mrs. George Nevin and Mrs. Phil Fitterer.

The orators of the people's party continue to hold meetings and make incursions into the peaceful country in all directions. The other day Wm. Lee, Bob Fraker and W. A. Clarke spoke on the Wenas, and Saturday night John G. Boyle and W. A. Mackinnon held a good sized audience spellbound at the Yakima City schoolhouse.

E. C. Ferguson, of Ellensburg, spent Saturday, Sunday and Monday in the city, renewing old acquaintances and making new ones. Mr. Ferguson is a plumber, and he recognizes that there will be much plumbing to be done here upon completion of the sewerage system, and may compete with the local mechanics for this work.

Fred Pennington, successor to Sawyer & Pennington, left for his home in Minnesota, Tuesday. Mr. G. S. Rankin, a recent arrival from the east, will represent Mr. Pennington as manager, and the business public will find him a most agreeable gentleman, while society will be benefited by the presence of Mr. Rankin and his charming family.

The Sons of Veterans' entertainment at the residence of J. O'Neal, on the hill, Friday evening of last week, was a grand success. The attendance was unusually large, and the games and supper thoroughly enjoyed. The lawn and grove in front of the house, which was lighted with Japanese lanterns, was one of the attractive features of the occasion.

On September 24, Yakima's day at the exposition, Cappa's superb band will play for the first time a composition, written and arranged by Sullivan, and dedicated to Yakima. An effort will be made to get up a huge excursion to Tacoma at that time, and if 300 tickets can be sold the Northern Pacific has evidenced its willingness to make a round trip rate of 65.

The completion of Eugene Filkins' new hop house on the Ahtanum was celebrated on Saturday of last week by a dance. Musicians were in attendance from the city, and all seemed to enjoy themselves to the fullest extent, although at one time it looked as though a bumptious individual might mar the harmony of the occasion by his lack of knowledge of conventionalities.

Seattle Telegraph: Mr. Snively is a man of character and capacity, fit for the office. He will make a good canvasser of the state, and his election is altogether probable. King county should roll up a good majority against the ring candidates and in favor of Snively. The uprising in Seattle started the movement which started the state agog with enthusiastic expectation of democratic triumph, and should be foremost in November in completing the work.

AN IMPORTANT LAND OFFICE DECISION.

The Register and Receiver Make a Decision Effecting Claimants for Sunnyside Lands.

By letter "F" of March 8, 1892, the commissioner of the general land office directed this office to confer with Special Agent James A. McCormick and to thereafter order a hearing in the matter of the application of the Northern Pacific Railroad company to amend its election to take certain odd numbered sections in overlapping limits of its main and branch lines.

The lands involved in this application and hearing are those falling within the overlapping limits of the branch line of the Northern Pacific railroad and the main line of said road as projected down the north side of the Columbia river from Wallula Junction to Portland, Oga., and the slope of the Yakima river in this land district. They are comprised within the following named townships: 10 N, 21 E; 11 N, 22 E; 9 N, 22 E; 9 N, 23 E; 8 N, 23 E; 7 N, 22 E, and 7 N, 23 E.

The necessity for the hearing arises in the neglect by the land agent of the Northern Pacific Railroad company to select lands sold and to elect to give up other lands in lieu of those selected, as provided for by act of September 9, 1890. This error was corrected at a later date. Paul Schulze, general land agent of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, notified this office on the 6th of March, 1891, the day before the land was to be opened for entry, as advertised by directions of the general land office, of the error and of the certain sections claimed to have been sold to it by the Northern Pacific & Yakima Irrigation company on the 17th day of April, 1890; by the same letter also electing certain lands the company would give up in place of those sold.

The day following the notification given by Mr. Schulze, above alluded to, applicants for the lands advertised as restored appeared at the land office to the number of about fifty. Their applications were received and held subject to action on the railroad company's application. The applicants thereupon filed with the local officers a protest against the allowance of the railroad company to include in its exceptions the land alleged to have been sold to the irrigation company.

The full bearing of the neglect to promptly make the exceptions referred to, the correction of the error, the applications to file and the protest by the applicants, is set forth in detail by the letter of the secretary of the interior to the commissioner of the general land office on the 16th day of February, 1892, transmitted to this office with the commissioner's letter ordering the hearing. These matters are not, however, included in the commissioner's list of questions to be determined at the hearing. These questions are so sharply defined as to admit of neither misunderstanding nor departure from the scope of investigation. This office is directed by the commissioner to order a hearing to determine:

1st—How, when and where the Northern Pacific & Yakima Irrigation company was organized, and the terms of its incorporation.

2d—Who are its promoters, officers and stockholders, and their relation to the Northern Pacific Railroad company.

3d—When, how and where the contract was executed for the sale of land in question, and when and where recorded, if at all.

4th—What was the consideration agreed to be paid and when, and how the same was paid.

5th—Whether there are settlers on the land; if so, when they settled, and the character of their improvements and claims.

6th—The relative value of the lands proposed to be surrendered and those taken in lieu, and enquire into such other material facts and questions relative to the good faith of the parties as may be presented by the government, the settlers, irrigation company, or railroad company.

Hearing was ordered as directed, and all parties in interest notified, the date fixed being June 16, 1892. As this date approached, it was deemed essential to a full knowledge of the facts that Special Agent McCormick go personally to New York city and inspect the books of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, wherein were the records of the sale to the irrigation company. This course was adopted and a continuance by agreement was had to July 14, and again to August 2, to admit of the journey.

On August 2d the hearing began, all parties being represented, the Northern Pacific Railroad company by its general land agent, Paul Schulze, and Attorney J. H. Mitchell; the Northern Pacific, Yakima & Kittitas Irrigation company by its manager, Walter N. Granger, and Attorney J. B. Reavis, and the applicants to file by George W. Rodman, one of their members, who sat through the case, though not as an attorney. The applicants introduced no testimony.

The hearing developed clearly the information necessary to findings of fact as directed, departing from the issue only, perhaps, in the effort to clearly determine between the value of the lands excepted and those surrendered in lieu.

The several exhibits submitted by Special Agent McCormick and by the railroad company and irrigation company are most helpful and to the point as showing the location, the line of the irrigation canal, the sale of lands, the incorporation of the companies and their succession through a series of years. From the testimony submitted it appears:

1st—The Northern Pacific & Yakima Irrigation company was formed by an incorporation which merged the Yakima Canal and Land company in a new company with the same as above given—the Northern Pacific & Yakima Irrigation company—which corporation succeeded to the properties, rights and contracts, and also assumed all liabilities of the Yakima Canal and Land company. The original company was formed in Montana and New York, and expended some $18,000 in surveys and preliminary work, as shown in the testimony of Walter N. Granger. This sum was credited to the company merged, in consideration of the options and valuable rights acquired through it. The Northern Pacific, Yakima & Kittitas Irrigation company was organized in Tacoma, Pierce county, Wash., on May 13, 1890. Its term is for fifty years. The fact that the irrigation company operated through some of its reservoirs and proposed lines in the county of Kittitas, led to another change of its name, to include the name of Kittitas. This was done on the 26th day of August, 1890. The corporation now existing is known as the Northern Pacific, Yakima & Kittitas Irrigation company. It succeeds to all the rights, properties and options of the Northern Pacific & Yakima Irrigation company with the Northern Pacific Railroad company.

2d—The promoters of the Northern Pacific & Yakima Irrigation company were Walter N. Granger, Albert Kleinschmidt, J. B. McIntyre and Paul Schulze. Its trustees—Albert Kleinschmidt, Walter N. Granger, J. B. McIntyre, Wm. Ker, Walter Oakes, George P. Eaton and Paul Schulze. Its officers—Paul Schulze, president; Wm. Ker, vice president; E. N. Costello, secretary; J. A. Baker, auditor, and Walter N. Granger, general agent. The incorporators of the Northern Pacific, Yakima & Kittitas Irrigation company are Wm. Ker, Paul Schulze, Walter N. Granger and Walter Oakes. Its directors—Kleinschmidt, Granger, Ker, Oakes and Schulze. The stockholders of the Northern Pacific & Yakima Irrigation company were Walter N. Granger, Albert Kleinschmidt, J. B. McIntyre and Paul Schulze. The stockholders of the present company are Paul Schulze, George Ker, Walter N. Granger, Albert Kleinschmidt, Walter Oakes, E. N. Costello, George S. Baxter, trustee for Northern Pacific railroad company, Robert Dale Hill and William Ham Hall. But one of the parties named—excepting Baxter, trustee—has any relations, as shown, with the Northern Pacific Railroad company. This is Paul Schulze, general land agent for the Northern Pacific Railroad company at Tacoma.

3d—The contract for the sale of the land in the shape of an option given to the Northern Pacific, Yakima & Kittitas Irrigation company above named on the 17th day of April, 1890, by resolution of the board of directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad company at the office of the company in New York. This resolution is recorded in the books of the company. It is proper to state, in this connection, that there had been an option on the land since the formation of the Yakima Land and Irrigation company, which had been renewed from time to time and to which the latter company succeeded.

4th—The consideration agreed to be paid was $1.25 per acre and the construction of a canal which should be sufficient to irrigate all lands lying under the line to be completed in sections, the lands to be conveyed as completed, by sections.

On the 26th day of January, 1892, 2,200 acres were conveyed by deed, in accordance with the above conditions.

5th—There are no settlers on the land. Two of the applicants, George W. Rodman and Frank Rodman, have improvements to the amount of $75 each, consisting of a house on each claim and some clearing. The testimony, uncontradicted, shows no other improvements.

6th—As to the relative value of the lands proposed to be surrendered and those taken in lieu, the testimony is not such as to make a distinction possible; they are, without irrigation, alike valueless. As to the good faith of the parties in interest, it may be said that there is nowhere bad faith shown. The applicants to file were wazanted in making their applications by the publication of a notice opening up the land to entry, and such notice was the result of the railroad company's error in neglecting to take into consideration the lands it had optioned away to the irrigation company when it elected which sections it would retain as its moiety, which error was afterwards corrected. The irrigation company's good faith appears in the statement of its manager and secretary that there has been already expended by it the sum of $30,000. The original granting of an option on the lands, by the directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, and the subsequent resolutions agreeing to sell and stipulating quotations all seem to us such transactions as would be binding in court, and such as could be enforced as against the railroad company by the irrigation company on proof of the performance of its part of the contract.

These findings, taken with the showing in the various exhibits of the successions from company to company of all rights, properties and liabilities, lead to the conclusion that the Northern Pacific Railroad company has the right to elect to retain the lands in controversy and surrendering lands in lieu, as provided by the act of September 29, 1890.

A. C. Turner, who was reported as having mysteriously disappeared and about whom sensational rumors were in circulation, is again in the city. He left Yakima as a salesman for nursery stock under engagement of J. D. Medill. Mr. Medill furnished him a saddle horse to go to the Wenatchee and Big Bend country, and not getting returns from him had a warrant issued for his arrest, charged with stealing the horse. The warrant was served on Turner at Ellensburg, as he was on his way back to Yakima. Turner is now out on bail and says that he will soon bring a $5,000 damage suit against Medill and that his attorneys at Ellensburg are engaged in preparing the case.

Among those present were Messrs. and Mesdames Rockwood, Whitson, Humphrey, Weed, Steinwaser, Fischer, Donald, Strobach, Vanne, Pugsley, Ellis, Cornett; Mesdames Nichols, Ross, Gilliam, Thompson, Watt, Snively; Misses Nichols, Guillard and Mattoon; Messrs. Gov. Miles C. Moore passed through Yakima Tuesday, bound for the Sound. He informed a HERALD representative that he was taking it easy and enjoying the political situation immensely. He is of the opinion that the republican state ticket will be snowed under, but thinks the electoral ticket will pull through. In speaking of the republicans of Yakima who drilled with the rink, he said that they were good fellows but that one couldn't lie down with dogs without being in danger of getting fleas.

Charley Carpenter and Al. Whitson made a novel trotting race on Wednesday. In the center of this magnificent agricultural and horticultural country the Northern Pacific, Yakima & Kittitas Irrigation Company has plotted and laid out the TOWN OF ZILLAH and on Monday, June 27th, 1892, the town will be placed on the market. Zillah is 25 miles south of North Yakima on the river of that name and is the official terminus of the Motor Railroad to be built to North Yakima. ### BRAVE SIXTY-NINTH.

THE CRACK IRISH REGIMENT OF THE AMERICAN ARMIES.

It Stands Number One on the Roll of Honor Among New York Troops—Distinguished Days at Malvern Hill, Antietam, Fredericksburg and Gettysburg.

Copyright, 1892, by American Press Association. Book rights reserved.

AD all the volunteer regiments of the civil war which were distinguished in the recruiting camps as "crack" organizations maintained their honor after entering the fight, the cruel conflict must have ended long before it did. Show lack of enemies to overcome would have spoiled the occupation of those doughy fellows who were expected to hew a way through living breastworks straight from the Potomac and the Big Sandy to the Gulf. But it is the fortune of war that all cannot be great. To the majority the bubble reputation breaks and in gone before eager hands can toss it in the air to be seen of all men. Those who built great hopes on the Sixty-ninth New York volunteers, however, never had cause to regret their enthusiasm.

The Sixty-ninth volunteers sprang from that old Sixty-ninth militia, which fell into disgrace for refusing to parade as the Prince of Wales' reception in 1803. Irish to the backbone in their heart of England, but not less so in their love for their country, when Lincoln called for militia troops in April, 1861, they asked to be purged of contempt for insubordination in order that they might march to the defense of Washington. On April 20 the charges against their colonel, Michael Corcoran, were dismissed, and three days later the regiment with overflowing ranks started for the capital. The order for transportation called for 1,000 men, but over 1,500 were borne on the rolls, and the display they made marching down Broadway was unique even for those days. The city was carried away with excitement, and their line of march was almost carpeted with bouquets flung at them from windows, balconies, pavements and even housetops. The column was headed by a banner drawn by four horses, bearing the motto: "Sixty-ninth! Remember Fort Mifflin."

Soon after the regiment reached Virginia it was joined by a company of boy Zouaves, known as the "Meagher Guards," and led by the famous Irish patriot, Thomas Francis Meagher. The Sixty-ninth made a spirited charge at Bull Run—the men impetuously stripping off their knapsacks in order to have free swing, and came out unless the colonel captured, the lieutenant colonel killed, and a loss altogether of 192. The killed outright were 20, the second highest in the battle. Capt. Meagher led the regiment home, and was the hero of the hour. His Zouave company, in bright red uniform, had been conspicuous at Bull Run, and one of his men, John D. Keefe, had brought off the green flag after the first banner had been shot down. Keefe was himself wounded while defending the banner. After his musket had been torn from his hands he shot down two snailshells with a revolver and made another one prisoner.

After Bull Run the floodgates of glory and admiration were again opened, and the new Sixty-ninth, formed from a nucleus of the militia regiment, took the field handicapped with a reputation that only the fiercest heat of battle could bring to a proper temper. It was the largest outfit teers, 750 strong, marched down Broadway under a span new banner—the Black Horse cavalry and the Louisiana Tigers on the southern side and the Irish Sixty-ninth on the northern. Meagher became colonel of the regiment, and in accepting its services for three years the war department suggested the formation of a brigade composed entirely of Irishmen. The idea spread like wildfire, recruiting began in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and the west, and in a few weeks the Sixty-ninth volunby a bill. The contest was so desperate that muskets became foul and ammunition gave out, but the gallant fellows held on, using the weapons of the dead, of whom there were plenty, until relieved by a fresh brigade, and then on a few squares west of earth the banner regiment of the brigade and of the state of New York scored a record of 71 killed and 125 wounded. That means 196 victims among 317 combatants, and every veteran knows how deadly the fire must be where the proportion of killed to the wounded is greater than one to two. Among the officers the mortality was even higher. Five were killed and four wounded.

THE BEARER OF THE COLORS WAS FOUND ON THE FIELD.

ed. Col. Kelley was hit twice. True the Sixty-ninth didn't win the battle of Antietam; but suppose it had finished before that biting hail and carried back the brigade line with it, and with that the supporting divisions? What then? Possibly the emancipation proclamation would never have been issued. Such incidents may decide great battles and turn the scale of war. Just three months after Antietam the Irish brigade was again called into the breach to try where others had failed. A new leader had come to the division—Richardson Prentiss—a successor to Richardson, who fell at Antietam.

In front of Mary's Height, on the morning of Dec. 19, 1862, the command formed in line to support the battalions of Gen. French in assaulting the stone wall. Shortly before the battle the old green flags of the Irish regiments had been sent home and replaced with new colors, presented by admirers in New York. The ranks were so thin that Gen. Meagher decided not to risk the new banners in the Fredericksburg fight, and when the men paraded on the flats along the river and formed for the charge he rode up to the Sixty-ninth, which was in front as usual, and taking a bunch of green from a box he gave it to the Sixty-ninth and then rode out beside its colonel, Robert Nugent, leading it by column to the point of assault.

Shot and shell swept the ground; a deep mill race and two fences obstructed the march, and the Sixty-ninth was obliged to halt under fire to allow the rest of the line to close up. At the base of the hill the brigade formed in two columns, the Sixty-ninth in front, on the right. Forward the doomed ranks marched against the deadly stone wall, over the dead and wounded of French's shattered brigades, up to the third fence, which had not yet been passed by any boy in blue. Halting there, the men knelt or lay down and fired at the enemy above. A supporting brigade soon reached the spot, and then the survivors of French's battalions and the few Irishmen yet unharmed arose and joined the charging ranks. The last fence was passed, and a handi-capped rush for the stone wall to die nearest the work, the only thing left to do. The Sixty-ninth was literally wiped out. About 40 men who had been in six-month line were all that remained for Sixty-

The roll call that morning showed 18 officers and 310 men present, and the casualties were 18 officers and 108 men killed and wounded. The mortality in the ranks was again enormous, the dead numbering 23 against 70 wounded. The banner of the United States colors was found on the field with the flag wrapped around his chest, his arms folded across it, and a bullet hole through the flag and through his heart as well. Among the wounded officers were Col. Nugent and the major, and two captains that had succeeded them in command. For some reason the Irish brigade was not allowed to recruit its ranks, and after Fredericksburg the Sixty-ninth was consolidated into two companies. At Gettysburg it responded to Hancock's call and charged across the Wheat Field, losing 19 killed and wounded and 8 missing out of 69 engaged. After Gettysburg the survivors re-enlisted, the brigade was kept up and the regiment fought under Hancock in the Wilderness and Petersburg. In its last hard fight, March 25, 1865, its killed numbered 25, with only 25 wounded. In its whole career, not including Bull Run, the casualties scored 1,177, of which 674 were killed and wounded. The total deaths on the field were 261. The regiment carried 1,513 men on its rolls. The percentage of killed was a trifle over 17, the highest among all the New York regiments and the fifth from the top in all the Union army. A few more such and England could well have paid us to keep the war a-going. Her old hereditary foe would soon have been "Wearing of the Green" out of harn's way, that is wearing it over their graves. GEORGE L. KILMER.

Deafness cannot be cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian canal. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be lost forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists—75c. 32 1m
