

The convention called to place in nomination the first democratic ticket for the new state of Washington assembled at the court house in Ellensburg Monday morning and proceeded with the work with much vigor.

While there was much causing before the convention the feeling throughout the delegates was to support the best and strongest men, with regard more for the welfare of the party than for personal preferences.

Samuel Sullivan Cox, better known as "Sunset" Cox, died from peritonitis at his home in New York, Tuesday, September 10. Mr. Cox was a well known writer and left many valuable works behind.

The Riverview Times, in speaking of Olympia, has this to say: "Olympia, the present site, is so difficult of access that no one who is not directly concerned in Olympia could for a moment entertain any suspicion that the intelligent voters of the state of Washington would select it as a permanent capital, especially when no buildings or public improvements worth speaking of have ever been placed in the city at the public expense."

The Times-Mountain, of The Dalles, Oregon, says: "North Yakima is heading off Ellensburg in the race for the capital of the new state." That is true, Brother Mitchell, but not the whole truth.

No objection to North Yakima. Colfax Gazette: While North Yakima may not be the choice of everyone for capital honors or even the majority of voters, it is certain that no one can raise any weighty objections thereto.

The nominees were Hon. Eugene Semple, of Tacoma, for governor; Hon. Thos. C. Griffiths, of Spokane Falls, for congress; L. H. Flister, of Colfax, lieutenant-governor; W. H. Whittlesley, of Port Townsend, secretary of state; Col. M. Kaufman, of Tacoma, treasurer; John Miller Murphy, of Olympia, auditor; Harry J. Snively, of North Yakima, attorney-general; J. H. Morgan, of Ellensburg, superintendent of public instruction; M. Z. Goodell, of Chehalis, commissioner of public lands; W. H. White, of Seattle, B. L. Sharpstein, of Walla Walla, J. E. Reavis, of North Yakima, John P. Jackson, of Tacoma, and Frank Ganahl, of Spokane Falls, for supreme judges.

James B. Reavis, of North Yakima, was nominated by acclamation for one of the justices of the supreme court by the democratic convention at Ellensburg. Mr. Reavis is about 40 years of age, was born in Boone county, Kentucky, educated at the state university at Lexington, studied law and was admitted to the bar at Hannibal, Missouri, in 1872.

Palouse City Boomerang: It seems to us that North Yakima is so situated that it is the natural center of our territory, and is therefore the proper place to successfully compete for the location of the state capital.

THE CAPITAL QUESTION. North Yakima Far in Advance of the Competitive Cities. Puyallup Critic: As yet the question of the change in location of the state capital has occupied the attention of our readers but little and it would be a difficult matter to find which city is really the choice of our voters, barring their own city.

Spangle Record: One of the important questions that should be settled at the general election this fall will be that of locating permanently the state capital. It is to be earnestly hoped that a sufficient number of the people will unite on one of the central cities to dispose of the question now and for all time to come.

Goodwin & Pugsley have cheap money to loan on improved business property. Rubber hose all sizes at cost at Vining & Bilger's on account of removal sale.

John, when you go to town, just step in at Bertholet's and get me some of that elegant salt pork. It is delicious. Geo. W. Solomon has the only exclusive cigar and tobacco stand in the city.

For a nobby suit, made to order, do not fail to call on our popular merchant tailor, M. Probsch, on Yakima avenue. For square dealing and value received for your hard earned cash, call on T. G. Redfield for anything in the line of jewelry.

If you have lost any money lately, Redfield will return it by selling you goods so remarkably cheap that you will forget your misfortune. Persons desiring transportation about the city or vicinity can be accommodated by leaving orders at Allen & Chapman's for Stanton's hack line.

C. E. McEwen takes a pride in turning out good work. This is the reason his harness, saddles, bridles, etc., give such satisfaction and outlast all others. Dr. Savage will be found always ready to attend calls day or night. Office over postoffice; residence on Second street, two doors south U. S. Land Office.

Disease is caused by a lack of some constituent part of the human organism at the part affected. Biochemic Remedies supply the deficiency and thus restore the normal condition. A car load of furniture has just been received from the east by Lombard & Hovey and will be sold at eastern prices freight added. The furniture is of the latest and most approved styles.

Readers, in our advertising columns you will see the generous offer of Goodwin & Pugsley. Six lots in the best part of town given away. This is an opportunity which should not be thrown away. Notice for Publication. LAND OFFICE AT NORTH YAKIMA, W. T., September 12, 1900.

NOTICE is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof to support his claim to the following described land, to-wit: Section 36, T. 12 N., R. 12 E., S. 1, containing 640 acres, more or less, in Yakima county, Washington, on October 20, 1900. JOHN C. MACBRIDE, who made his Application No. 1771 for the N. 1/4 of Sec. 36, T. 12 N., R. 12 E., S. 1, and who claims the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon said land, to-wit: J. H. Neffman, N. T. Goodwin, Peter Leonard and G. H. Mitchell, all of North Yakima, W. T. IRA H. LEWIS, Register.

At North Yakima, September 4th, of typhoid fever, Oliver O., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lewis, aged 10 years, 8 months and 15 days.

Unite the Vote. Palouse Gazette: A correspondent of the Oregonian from Ellensburg states that the state capital now lies between the cities of Olympia and Ellensburg.

Land Office Holdings. The action of the commission of the general land office has approved the decision of the local land officers in the desert land entries in this district for the reason that the land entered in the proposed entries is within the granted limits of the Northern Pacific and is therefore double minimum land, requiring the payment of 25 cents. The decision was made on the lands along the proposed Sunyside ditch for which there was such a great rush a year ago, and on which a tender of 25 cents an acre was made.

The honest entry of Phillip H. Stenley has been suspended on account of error in published notice of intention to make final proof. The department has ordered a rehearing regarding the pre-emption of Delbert A. Wilson to determine the status of the land on May 24, 1894, said tract being in the primary limits of the N. P. grant.

Under a ruling by the acting secretary of the interior, the local land officers will submit to the Board of Equitable Adjudication suspended entries only as are so far complete in themselves that when the defects on which they are submitted are cured by its favorable action, they will pass at once to patent; that is, that no final cases are to be submitted to the board if final payment has not been made and certificate issued.

HOW ABOUT YAKIMA?

Listen to the Story as it is Told by Careful Observers from Abroad.

(San Francisco Examiner.) The new State Capital will probably be at North Yakima.

(Spokane Falls Review.) The best and most extensive agricultural region in the Yakima Land District, and in the Territory, lies about the City of North Yakima and is known as the Yakima Valley.

(Seattle Post-Intelligencer.) To-day, where four years ago were uncultivated prairie, the home of great herds of untrained wild cattle and vicious bands of coyote ponies who knew no halter, now stands the City of North Yakima, the Queen of Eastern Washington.

(Nor West Magazine.) The knot of valleys which meet at the new town of North Yakima seems a bit of Southern California here in the north. Public opinion in all parts of Washington has settled upon this place as the Capital of the new State.

(Portland Oregonian.) There is no just reason why this city and county, when they shall have reached their maximum in population, should not have in the city from 10,000 to 25,000, and the county 40,000 to 50,000. Neither is there any good reason why they should not be eventually among the very wealthiest towns and counties in Washington Territory.

(Tacoma Ledger.) The valley in which the city of North Yakima is situated in the center of a series of very fertile valleys which open into it and have a crown famous for their products. With a splendid agricultural country surrounding it and the peculiar advantages of location for railroad approaches North Yakima cannot but figure in the future brilliantly.

(Spokane Falls Review.) Although less than forty miles apart the difference in climate between Yakima in Yakima county and Ellensburg in Kittitas county is almost as great as that between a northern and southern latitude. The valley surrounding Ellensburg is a excellent for producing grain, while in the valleys near Yakima the farmers are devoting more attention to fruits, vegetables, hops, tobacco and similar crops, which can only be grown in a warm climate.

Interview with Judge J. R. Lewis on his return from attending the Mechanics Fair in California, Published in the Sea Ice Post-Intelligencer. It was a great exhibition of the wealth of California, but I found no better specimens of vegetables and many varieties of fruit than Washington Territory produces. I can go over into the Yakima country and in two days collect finer products in those lines than I saw in California. The Yakima peaches are of better quality and flavor than any raised in California; the apples are superior and the prunes are away ahead of anything I ever saw. Then, too, they raise finer melons, squashes and all kinds of vegetables in the Yakima country than any produced in California.

"Seeing that the action of the Biochemic Remedies are so certain to cure, surely every medical man who desires the good of his patients will select from these for the scientific and rapid cure of the sick; and all patients will be anxious to be treated and restored to health in the new way, with safe and truly rational remedies." Prof. Huxley, before the International Medical College at London in 1873.

"Biochemic Remedies, which act in perfect harmony with Nature's laws, have achieved such notable cures that thousands of thinking minds have already accepted this method by which health is so certain to be restored, even in almost hopeless cases, if Providence be pleased to grant ever so small an amount of vitality or powers to further the continuance of life." Dr. Walker, Dundee, Scotland.

"The question whether this or that disease is or is not dependent on the existence of foreign germs or bacilli, is of no importance in Biochemic treatment. If the remedies are applied correctly the great aim of medical science—that of curing disease—will be gained in the only true scientific way." W. H. Schussler, M. D., Oldenburg, Germany.

"I have made Biochemistry a careful study, and like it better and better through the light of actual practice." Wm. Chapman, M. D., Columbus, W. T.

"Long standing chronic diseases, which have been brought on by excessive dosing with drugs that form no part of the human organism, such as quinine, calomel, opium, alcohol, &c., can be cured by small doses of the Inorganic Cell Salts." Prof. Leibig.

"I use the Biochemic Remedies exclusively in my practice, with the most wonderful results. A careful study has convinced me that no so-called medicine can be a remedy that is not a constituent part of the human organism. These remedies are only found in the twelve Inorganic Cell Salts." Frank L. Tappin, M. D., Kent, Wash.

DEATH OF JAY HOLTON.—On Wednesday morning the community was greatly shocked and pained with the announcement that James Williams Holton, only son of Col. and Mrs. C. M. Holton, had died suddenly at 1:30 a. m., of typhomalarial fever and peritonitis. "Jay," as he was called by his many friends, was born on the family homestead at Pater, Yates county, New York, and was twenty-two years old on the eighth day of May last. He was but just entering upon a useful career, having returned a few months ago from the east, where his education was completed, and taken active management of his father's paper, the Yakima Republic. The funeral services will be held from the family residence, Friday, at 2 o'clock, p. m., and will be conducted by Rev. S. H. Chesdie, and be under the auspices of Progress lodge, No. 41, I. O. O. F., of which the deceased was a member. The body will not be interred here but will be taken to Portland, where it will lie in a vault until such a time as it can be taken to its final resting place at Battle Creek, Michigan. The citizens of Yakima have only the most heartfelt sympathy for Mr. and Mrs. Holton and Miss Myrtle in their great bereavement, and seldom does death occur where the feeling of sadness enshrouds so many.

THE TRUE INDEX OF PROSPERITY.—An Ellensburg paper makes a good ado over the fact that the receipts of the freight office of that town had increased about eleven thousand dollars last month over the corresponding month of last year, and that the increase of the North Yakima office was comparatively slight. Ellensburg must remember that she has had a disastrous fire and that the business men had all to replace their stocks. If they will look back to the month previous to the fire they will find that the freight receipts of the North Yakima office were much greater than those of the corresponding month of the preceding year, while for the Ellensburg office they were much less. But the receipt of freight is not so good an index of prosperity as the shipment of products and in this respect Ellensburg lags far behind her sister city of North Yakima.

WILL CELEBRATE WITH US.—Col. B. F. Shaw, of Vancouver, spent Monday and Tuesday in this city among his many friends trying to recall the locations he remembered in his early days, but the great change that has been wrought by the hand of Progress completely bewildered him, and he finally gave it up and was satisfied to replace the recollections of hardships with the luxuries of today. Col. Shaw has been a member of the territorial legislature for nine terms and in and out of that body he has been a steadfast friend of Yakima, and for that, as well as his many noble and kindly traits, he is held in high esteem by all our people. Col. Shaw says he will return this fall after North Yakima has been selected as the state capital, and celebrate at the home of his friends. Of all who will come, none will be more welcome.

RESULTS OF THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.—The complete ticket nominated by the republicans at Walla Walla is as follows: Congressman, John L. Wilson, of Spokane Falls; governor, Elsie P. Ferry, of Seattle; lieutenant governor, Chas. F. Lanham, of Tacoma; secretary of state, Allen Weir, of Port Townsend; treasurer, A. A. Lindsey, of Vancouver; auditor, T. M. Reel, of Olympia; attorney general, W. C. Jones, of Spokane Falls; superintendent of public instruction, R. R. Bryan, of Chehalis; land commissioner, Wm. F. Forest, of Whatcom; supreme judges: R. O. Dunbar, of Goldendale; Elmer Scott, of Garfield county; T. L. Stiles, of Tacoma; T. J. Anders, of Walla Walla, and J. P. Hoyt, of Seattle.

DISCUSSION OF JEFFERSON.—The democratic county convention was held at the court house on Saturday last, and was characterized by harmony, good will and unity. Hon. Geo. W. Goodwin was made chairman, and presided with dignity and to the entire satisfaction of the members of the convention. David Lomenie, of the Wenas, was nominated for representative, and Dudley Keshelman, of North Yakima, for county clerk. The delegates chosen to attend the state convention at Ellensburg were J. B. Reavis, Matt Barthollett, W. A. Cox, E. M. Reed, Joseph Baxter, Sam Vincent, John McPhee, David Longmire and T. G. Redfield.

BREAK IN THE CASCADE TUNNEL.—The east-bound train was several hours late in arriving here on Friday last, the delay being caused by a break in the Stampede tunnel. While a freight train was passing through the tunnel a car jumped the track knocking out four posts and letting down the spurs, lagging and a quantity of rock. The damage was quickly repaired and before night the trains were running as usual.

MARCHING THROUGH YAKIMA.—Troop F of the 2nd Cavalry from Vancouver barracks, under command of Captain R. M. Swigert and Lieutenant R. B. Bryan, acting quartermaster, passed through North Yakima on Tuesday last, bound for Lake Chelan, where they will meet General Gibson and staff on the 18th inst. There were forty-five enlisted men in the party.

A WEEK'S ENGAGEMENT.—The Chicago Comedy company, which is well spoken of by the press at large, will commence a week's engagement at Mason's opera house, Monday, at the popular prices of twenty-three and fifty cents, according to the location of seats. The company is composed of twelve people.

BORN.—At Fruitvale farm, Yakima county, a Sunday, September 7th, 1906, the wife of Sheriff D. E. Lesh, a son; weight 10 pounds.

BORN.—At North Yakima, Saturday, September 11, 1906, to the wife of Jeff D. McDaniel, a daughter, weight, 8 lbs.

LOCAL BRIEVITIES.

—The public schools of North Yakima opened Monday with 210 scholars.

—C. R. Leake has opened a bakery in T. J. V. Charles's building on Front street.

—Ira M. Krutz is now the possessor of a handsome phonograph purchased from G. W. Cary.

—Banning with Saturday the West Shore, of Portland, will become an illustrated weekly.

—Judge J. W. Beck was nominated by the democrats for justice of the peace. His opponent is Mr. Hintan.

—A. B. Weed is prepared to furnish money on farm property at low rates of interest and on short notice.

—Col. A. H. Reynolds has purchased Date Bunnell's transfer business and will add several teams and trucks.

—The republicans have nominated John Clemans for representative and Richard Strobach for county clerk.

—The freight receipts of the North Yakima office for this month, judging from the present indications, will exceed $20,000.

—Miss Alice Simpson is temporarily installed as teacher in the intermediate department of the public schools during the absence of Mrs. Rodman at the bedside of her daughter.

—It is rumored that C. M. Barton and J. F. Carriere are negotiating for the purchase of the Spokane Falls Review. If the transfer is made it will not be until after the October election.

—Bishop Paddock will be here on Sunday next and will hold services at St. Michael's Episcopal church at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. It is desired that the congregation will be a large one.

—Ed. White, a merchant tailor of high repute, has engaged the storeroom of the Hotel Yakima and is daily expected from New York. A number of cases of Mr. White's goods have already been received here.

—An Ellensburg real estate firm has given away seventy-nine lots, in their "Capital" addition, to newspapers in order to be boomed. The publishers might pool their issues and have quite a respectable little farm.

—The "Fun on the Bristol" troupe which laid off here for a week, departed for Portland, Wednesday, with three rousing cheers from North Yakima, and a "digger" that carried the wish that we might get the state capital.

—Walter J. Thompson, the Tacoma banker, while here recently was so greatly taken with the Yakima mineral water that he ordered the immediate shipment of six cases, remarking that he preferred to Apollinaris or any other table water.

—Col. Frank Parker, of the Steadman, Walla Walla, was intending to stop off here on his return from the democratic convention, but a telegram received on the train requiring his immediate presence in Walla Walla prevented him from fulfilling his desires.

—A meeting of the republicans of Yakima county will be held at the council chambers on Saturday evening, September 14, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of reorganizing the republican league. Everyone desirous of furthering the cause is requested to be present.

—Aedileus Juncos, bishop of the diocese of Nequally, together with his attorney, Judge Stewart, of Vancouver, is in the city and before the U. S. land office resisting the contest for the St. Joseph Catholic mission claim, which is situated on the Ahtanum and comprises 477 acres.

—William Smith will be the guest of Sheriff Lesh for the next ten days, owing to his being so indisposed as to temporarily appropriate an overcoat belonging to an honest stranger. Smith pleaded in extenuation that he was about to go to Ellensburg, where it would be necessary to have an overcoat.

—Messrs. Lombard & Horsley, the enterprising furniture dealers, have now in stock the largest and most complete stock of carpets, matting and rugs ever brought to central Washington. They embrace all of the latest patterns and styles and appeal strongly to the housekeeper. Call and examine the goods.

—The business of the Hotel Yakima is so good and increasing so rapidly that C. E. Smith, the popular proprietor, has been compelled to look for additional rooms and has leased the upper floor of the adjoining building, the new Vining block, and will cut an archway through. This will add twenty handsome rooms to the Hotel.

—Patents have been received at the land office for Samuel C. Thomas to the E½, SW¼ and the W½ of the SE¼, section 4, tp. 18, N of R 19 E; Carlos Z. Cheney for the NW¼, section 35, tp. 13, N of R 19 E, and for Sophonia E. Polington for the N½ of the SW¼; SE¼ of the SW¼ and the SW¼ of the SE¼, section 34, tp. 18, N of R 18 E.

—Vancouver Independent: It is said there is a party of engineers now at work in the Cascade mountains and pushing eastward toward North Yakima, which multiplies the rumors regarding the building of a railroad from the latter place to Gray's harbor, which shall be the western connection of a transcontinental line, possibly the Manitoba. The Natchez pass is the route over which the corps of engineers are now working eastward.

—Jeff McDaniel's daughter and D. E. Lesh's son were born on the same day. Naturally, the papa got together and Sheriff Lesh rather crowded over McDaniel on account of having a boy. Jeff was temporarily nonplussed but finally said that he had been talking with several old women and they had assured him that it was an easy thing to have a son, but it was an indication of a good man, but it was the father of a girl. Mr. Lesh bought the mineral water.

PERSONAL.

E. Cory, of Waterville, is in the city.

Plean, Bounds and wife have gone to Roslyn.

Mrs. L. S. Darland is back from a visit to the Sound.

Dr. J. H. Lyon, of Roslyn, is registered at the Yakima.

Ralph Vining is again able to be around after a long siege of sickness.

President Wm. Ker of the Moxee Co., returned from the Sound Wednesday.

C. W. Henry, the architect and builder, has gone to the Sound, to be absent a month.

Major I. T. Keene is now a partner and the advance agent of Keene the horse breaker.

Lyman S. Barrell and wife, of Wenatchee, were the guests of the Hotel Yakima this week.

R. M. Starr, of Waterville, the democratic nominee for state senator for this district, is in the city.

J. B. Snodderly, a prominent citizen of Astoria, was in the city this week enjoying our splendid climate.

Paul Schulze, Senator J. H. Mitchell and Paul Mohr were in the city Monday. They were on their way east.

Alderman H. P. McLanahan and wife, of Tacoma, were the guests of the Hotel Yakima for a couple of days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pugsley and children returned Sunday from Walla Walla, where they were visiting Mr. Pugsley's parents.

George Lewis Gower, a newspaper representative and a prominent society man of Tacoma, spent several days in the city this week.

T. K. Beard returned from Moloto, Cal., on Thursday last to spend a few days at his ranch in the eastern end of the county.

M. B. Goldstein, manager of the Chicago Comedy company, was in the city this week arranging for the appearance of his troupe.

The night operator at the depot, Mr. Frank Henshild, is down with malarial fever. His place is being temporarily filled by Mr. Baker.

Major J. B. Ker is back from Vancouver, B. C., where he has large property interests, and is the most of his brother, Wm. Ker of the Moxee.

H. Dustin and G. W. Stapleton, of Goldendale, were registered at the Yakima Tuesday. Mr. Dustin is the democratic nominee for supreme judge of this district.

Mrs. Geo. Goodwin, Mrs. J. H. Thomas and Mrs. L. J. May, accompanied by the Misses Ida Stephens, Jesse policy, Leslie Barker and M. Th. to test for Tacoma Monday, where the young ladies will finish their education at the Anna Wright seminary.

A happy event occurred at the residence of J. H. Conrad, at Tamlico, Monday, September 10th, being the marriage of Miss Letta Conrad to Nelson J. Hicks. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. T. Eselman. The young couple will reside in North Yakima.

Willis Therp, of Juneau, Alaska, was in the city early this week, shaking hands with his many friends. He left Tuesday evening for his far northern home accompanied by his niece, Miss Dora Lindsey, who expects to be absent for six months or more.

Walter J. Thompson, a well known Tacoma banker and a candidate for the United States senate at the hands of the republicans, was in the city on Friday and Saturday last. Mr. Thompson spoke in glowing terms of North Yakima as a city and of its capital prospects.

W. P. and A. W. Gray, of Pasco, passed Wednesday and Thursday in North Yakima and are loud in their praise of our progressive city and splendid climate. They had just come from Ellensburg, with its winds and cold weather and the comparison of the climates, as Mrs. Partington has aptly said, was "odorous."

C. A. Elmer, of the Union, and Henry Kelling, secretary of the democratic convention, both of Walla Walla, spent a couple of days in the city this week. They were glowing in their expressions regarding beautiful North Yakima and declared themselves strongly of the opinion that nature as well as an enterprising people had made this the proper home of the capital.

Messrs. W. P. Thornton, Norman Woodhouse, Chas. Woodcock, Benton Greenwood and the Misses Simpson, Curtis, Lillie and Owens returned on Monday from a two weeks' outing in the mountains. The men say the young ladies were tramped and stood the trip as well as they did. Mount Adams was visited and a delightful time was had by all. The only drawback to the trip was the loss of a splendid buggy horse belonging to Mr. Thornton.

John N. Fuller, formerly chief of police of Tacoma, and now a member of the council of that city, was the guest of the Hotel Yakima for a couple of days this week. Mr. Fuller was the engineer of the party that ran the first lines for the Northern Pacific through this country, eighteen years ago. The line took pretty much the same course as the road does now with the exception of in Kittitas county, where it was run from the Snoqualmie pass. Mr. Fuller was accompanied by his wife and daughter.

THE ARIZONA "KICKER."

Tacoma Ledger: The capital question will excite much interest in the coming election. But it is fortunate its location is not the vital matter with us that Paris is to France.

There is no other European capital in which such an interest centers, as history demonstrates. It is not so with Berlin, nor Vienna, nor Madrid, and it was not so with Paris in former centuries.

It has not yet been claimed by the candidates for the capital east of the mountains that it should not be left at Olympia where Admiral Henshaw might run his flag ship up against its upper pier, and so disturb the legislature, with its lobby and reporters.

Later.—Since the above was in type we have received a call from Mr. George de Vol, the handsome, accomplished an liberal-minded agent of this circus.

Let us explain. We dropped into Yancy's gambling house to pick up a few subscribers. We ran across Bill Thomas, familiarly known as "Shoo-You-Dead-William," and the first thing we knew he had a revolver at our nose and was asking us to take back something.

There is a change.—Some of our old pioneers boast that they are impervious to civilization, and that philanthropy and sentiment have found no lodging places here. And yet we can see that a change is going on despite these boasts.

the reason why he was being lynched. It was duly explained that he was a worthless cuss who was a barnacle on society, and that the boys hadn't had any fun for several weeks, and yet the hanging didn't go off.

DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES.

The Platform on Which Democracy Will Stand—The Republican Party Arraigned.

The democratic party of Washington, by its representatives in convention assembled, do declare:

We unqualifiedly approve the administration of President Cleveland and we congratulate the country upon the prosperity enjoyed under it and upon the reforms inaugurated by this true apostle of democracy, and we appreciate the declaration of principles made by the national democracy in St. Louis in 1888.

Sum of money to meet the regular annual expenses of the government, building and maintenance of the navy and other great national works, and the payment of vast appropriations for pensions, requires a revenue of such enormous proportions that we believe a tariff for these objects wisely made and adjusted will afford all the protection needed by deserving industries of the country, and we arraign the republican party for organizing a tariff to foster unnecessary monopolies and to oppress the weak and struggling industries, and so as to tax the great laboring masses for the enrichment of plutocracy and aristocrats in order that the "fat" may be fried out of them with which to run the party's corrupt national campaign.

We arraign the republican party for its duplicity by violence toward the laboring masses in the last national campaign by which they capoled, hoodwinked and coerced many of them into support of its ticket, through the medium of falsehood as to the democratic policy and intentions by pay envelopes and other nefarious devices, and by frauds and tricks, and we denounce plutocrats and monopolists who control the policies and destiny of the party, for their bad faith toward their deceived victims, displayed immediately after election day, when an almost universal reduction of wages or a discharging of workmen took place in the mining and manufacturing districts.

Standing on the verge of statehood and about to assume the manifold duties and responsibilities of state government, we declare that among the important issues before the people at the election are to secure pure and economical administration of state and county government, and the most perfect management and care of valuable school and other lands of the state through an efficient system of common schools is necessary for the well-being of the state, and it is our duty to preserve inviolate the school fund afforded by the munificent grant of land made by the general government in the enabling act.

The constitution of the state should be a non-partisan document, therefore the people ought to be left free to decide on the constitution for the state of Washington without the influence of political parties. It is the duty of the legislature of the state to enact such laws as shall fully preserve and protect the rights of the laborer and wage-earner, and to encourage and foster the best business interests and productive industries of the state.

We demand the enactment by the legislature of laws regulating the opening, working and inspection of mines that the ventilation and safety thereof may be secured and the lives of miners protected.

We regard trusts in whatever form organized, as the legitimate result of our present tariff, and we demand the repeal or re-adjustment of all such tariff taxes as enable them to extort from the people exorbitant rates for the products they control.

speedy restoration of all unnecessary portions of such lands to settlement under the land laws of the United States.

We favor the passage of just laws in conformity with and for the purposes of carrying into effect the provisions of section 18 of article XII of the proposed state constitution in relation to charges for passengers and freight, and that such laws shall fully protect the people from oppression and discrimination, and be at the same time just and fair to the capital invested in transportation enterprises, and provide for the speedy adjustment of all such corporations and the people.

While we recognize the patriotism and devotion to public duty of the great mass of the republican voters, we declare that the republican party of the state is controlled and dominated by professional politicians and ex-federal officers, intent on gaining office to such an extent as to imperil the best interests of the state in its formative period and inimical to the most perfect and safe management of the state's valuable property and other interests.

We demand the enactment by the legislature of rigid laws by which the secrecy and purity of the ballot may be secured and maintained.

We denounce as unworthy the representation of a party professing to be respectable the falsification of history contained in the first declaration of the republican state platform concerning the admission of Washington into the Union, and we call on the people to repudiate a party whose representatives deliberately go before them with a willfully false statement in their platform. We declare that it is insulting to the intelligence of the people to make such a declaration in the face of the facts that Washington was wrested from British possessions by democratic courage, statesmanship and diplomacy, that it was first organized as a political division by a democratic administration; and that the bill for the admission of the new states was formulated by a democratic committee, passed by a democratic house and promptly signed by a democratic president.

Cholly—Take them off when you sit down.

Apple, as well as potatoes, buried in the ground and so covered as to be protected from heat and frost, (and out in the spring as fresh and bright as when buried in the fall. Grapes, picked and wilted, then buried in boxes three to four feet below the surface, will come out with stems green and fruit bright and plump. In these two cases the temperature remains more uniform than could result with atmospheric exposure.

Such a building need not be expensive. It can be built of coarse lumber, the air spaces shrouded with building paper, while the stone passage can be put down for $5 to $8 per rod, depending upon the hardness of the soil and the proximity of the stone. We have no knowledge that any such appliance has been used for keeping fruits and vegetables, but it seems to present just the conditions necessary for retaining every valuable quality in fruits and vegetables, and for heating decay.—American Agr. ## RICH SILVER MINES.

Important Discovery in the Cle-Elum River Mining District.

Excellent assays from Tacoma, San Francisco and the Smithsonian Institute.

Tacoma Globe: The Cle-Elum mining district has long been looked upon by experienced men as one of the most prominent districts in Washington. No great stir or spread has been made over the discoveries, but the fact that they were made has become known and quietly discussed among mining men. George Bethune, the assayer, has had several urgent and somewhat mysterious calls to that region recently, the object of which he has studiously concealed. That it concerned important developments near Roehn has been conjectured, but at this point conjecture is stopped for lack of suitable foundation.

Yesterday, however, the whole business was explained by the presence in Tacoma of E. E. Gooding, a well-known mining man of Roehn. Mr. Gooding and Bethune held "high carnival" over the latter's disclosure, and then gave the whole thing away to a Globe reporter. They had been making an assay on some ore brought from a new mine on Goat mountain, and the result was so wonderfully satisfactory that they consented to give the following facts to the public:

The Silver Dump mine was discovered about three months ago by one of the present owners, and was immediately recognized as a most valuable piece of property. The first assays were made by George Bethune, of Tacoma, Tom Price, of San Francisco, and the Smithsonian Institute simultaneously, and resulted in giving results almost exactly alike—$122.50 to the ton. This result so encouraged the prospectors that they immediately organized a company, which was incorporated and development work begun. The incorporators were W. P. Haskell, Thomas Lund, Charles R. Boush, William Sharp and E. E. Gooding, and these gentlemen have been quietly investigating the prospect ever since they came in possession of it. That it was good they had no doubt, but how good was to be determined. The vein grew better and better as work progressed until they became satisfied that this property was a bonanza. The assay yesterday showed 1.6 ounces of gold, 18.5 ounces of silver and 28 per cent lead, or a value of $234 to the ton. This result is not only satisfactory to the owners, but it is a great thing for the district.

When questioned regarding his property yesterday, Mr. Gooding said that it was discovered almost by accident, while in 2.0 feet of a well-traveled wagon road. It lies about twenty-eight miles from Cle-Elum Junction on the Cle-Elum river in Goat mountain. It is easy of access and can be worked at comparatively slight cost. It is only twenty-eight miles from the railroad, and in the very material item of getting the ore to the smelter the proprietors of the Silver Dump have a great advantage over less fortunate owners.

"As to the name," remarked Mr. Gooding, "it came about in this way. The mine is so situated that we could not get material for a dump, and as we have to work directly on the vein we were obliged to use the ore, so that it is literally a silver ore dump. This fact suggested the very appropriate name we have given it."

As an illustration of the richness of the Cle-Elum district, Mr. Gooding displayed a small box containing a nugget weighing nearly two pennyweights and considerable gold dust, saying it was the result of washing out two pans of dirt on a placer claim which he owns. He did not want it understood, however, that the result could be obtained as a regular thing but did believe that ten cents a pan was a fair average on placer mining in that district. The dust which he displayed is exceptionally large-grained and easily worked, comparing in this respect most favorably with any district in the country. The whole Cle-Elum region is rich in minerals, some of the best gold, silver, copper and iron mines of Washington being located there, and the people are naturally much gratified at this latest discovery.

What a Porterhouse Steak Is.

Very few people who sit down to a good breakfast of "porterhouse steak" could tell, were they asked, what part of a bullock this choice tidbit is cut from. The "porterhouse" is that portion of the beef either side of the spine beginning where the ribs end and extending along to where the hip bone begins. The tenderloin should form a part of the "porterhouse." This is a narrow strip of succulent and tender flesh extending along and protruding the inner sides of the spinal column. Its high price is due to its choice quality, and the fact that in the largest bullocks there are not above ten to twelve pounds of tenderloins. The word "porterhouse" is of English derivation, and it has no equivalent in either the German or French language, while, on the other hand, tenderloin is known among the Germans as "Lammel" and "filet," by which latter name it is known among the French. The term "porterhouse" probably originated from the innand eating-houses of London also known as porter and ale houses. A customary order was: "Give me a porter and steak," and in time the name "porterhouse" was probably given to the choice piece of steak as distinguished from the more ordinary kinds.

Justice Demands the Capital Removal.

Spokane Review: The anxiety of the people of Eastern Washington to locate the capital at a more central point is based solely on the broad ground that justice to those residing in this section of the state demands it. There is no desire to bring it to the extreme eastern border, as that would be an great injustice to the people of the extreme western portion of the state as its retention in its present location would be to the people of this section. It would seem that a spirit of fairness should prevail and that the west end people should concede the reasonable request of their eastern Washington friends and throw no obstacles in the way of the proposition to permanently locate the capital at a central point, a reasonable site from the east and west. Will they do it?

Called Him Down.

The Yankee Didn't Want to Fight a Duel, But Couldn't Stand a Bluff.

Just after the war there was a crowd of us in the billiard room of a hotel one evening, and among the "ton-by" southerners was a Col. Gray, of the Tennessee troops. He was said to be a duelist, a dead shot, a fearless man and all that, and was therefore held in awe. Among those present was a long lean, typical Yankee, who had come down to smell out cotton. He looked humble and harmless, and had been hustled around a coal field without losing his temper. By some accident in moving about he bumped the colonel, and the latter promptly wheeled on him with:

"Sir, you are as clumsy as an ox."
"Don't get itiled, kumel; I didn't mean to," was the reply.
"It was a good time to bluff and the colonel drew himself up and replied:
"Then apologize, sir—apologize at once!"
"Is it I I didn't mean it, and I didn't, but I ain't going to crawl, you know."
"Who are you, sir?"
"Wall, now, I'm Isaac Williams and who might you be?"
"You have insulted me, sir! There's my card."

Williams took the pasteboard, looked it all over, slowly read the name, and turned to the colonel, with:
"How ye got any cotton to sell, kumel?"
"So, I'm your kumelberry."
"If you have a friend, let him consult with the major here!" replied the freater.

Some one explained to the Yankee that he had been challenged, and he scratched his head, and bluffed his surprise, and following the colonel to the bar he said:
"See here, kumel, I don't want this blame thing hanging over me all night and disturbing my sleep. Let's have it out now."

He fished up a Remington from his right hip pocket, a second from his left, and handing one to the colonel he advanced his right foot and said:
"Toe to toe, kumel, and muzzle to breast. That guarantees sure work and no fooling. Somebody count five and then we'll begin the skirmish. My will has been made for two years and I reckon the papers will tell Manner how I turned up my loss."

The colonel took the revolver, started to advance his foot, drew it back, turned white, and, laying the weapon on the bar walked out of the place without a word to say to any one. The Yankee had raised him out of the game.—New York Sun.

He Was a Man Sharp.

Chicago Mail: A big raft of logs was being floated down the river and a Swede and a helper were in charge of a certain part of the float. One day he came to the boss and said:
"Giesse Ae grotta haav noota man!"
"Well, I guess you ain't got to have nothin' of the kind," said the boss. "If two of you fellows can't take care of that end of the raft, I guess I'll get somebody who can."
"Veil, coets haav noota man," said the Swede stubbornly.

"What's the matter with the one you've got? What's the matter with Johnson?" asked the boss.
"Johnson hae went coonda dae raft boot twinda minit ago, and Ae giesse he's quit."

The New Discovery.

You have heard your friends and neighbors talk about it. You may yourself be one of the many who know from personal experience just how good a thing it is. If you have ever tried it you are one of its staunch friends, because the wonderful thing about it is, that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever after holds a place in the house. If you have never used it and should be afflicted with a cough, cold, or any throat, lung or chest trouble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. It is guaranteed every time or money refunded. Trial bottles free at C. B. Bushnell's drug store.

A DIAMOND CORNER.

A Big Syndicate Gobbles All the Best Mines in Africa.

Baron Rothschild invests $10,000,000 in the Pool-Mollatire Will Cost a Fortune.

There has been a rapid increase in the price of diamonds within the past few months, and the cause of the general rise is being discussed with great interest by large importers. New York and Philadelphia dealers are now compelled to pay from 15 to 30 per cent. more for diamonds in the rough in European markets than they did two months ago.

The American retailers and purchasers of these gems have not yet felt the weight of the increased price. The rough diamonds purchased in July will be placed on the market for the fall and holiday trade and there will be some fancy price paid for pure gems. A consolidation of the diamond-producing companies is the reason most generally given for the advance. A large, increased expense of the mining of rough diamonds is the chief cause which led to the consolidation. Southern Africa is the greatest diamond producing continent of the world.

It is said the Rothschilds have entered into the combination and have invested $10,000,000 in it. This makes the Rothschild diamond mine one of the largest largest diamond mines in the world. Other corporations have exercised their influence on the diamond market and every mine of importance and location in South Africa is operated by the syndicate. The last mine to pass under the control of syndicate power was the Bullfontein which is the richest in the world, producing stones of a fine quality color and lustre. With the Bullfontein consolidation was joined the De Beers, Kimberly, Central and Dutoitspan companies, all under one management, the two former being guaranteed 45 per cent on their capital stock to join the combination.

The diamond supply is not becoming exhausted. The difficulties of reaching the stones are daily becoming more and more difficult. The operation of diamond mining is, of course peculiar. Beveled excavations are made from the surface of the diamond field down to the blue earth where the rough gems lie. In the course of time, the steep banks, unable to sustain their own weight, cave in and bury the fields under thousands of tons of heavy earth.

THE EXPENSES OF DIAMOND MINING INCREASE. Great expense is entailed in the removal of this debris. The surface supply of diamonds is nearly exhausted, and the digging in deep mines is attended with great risk and cost. Even these operations are only practicable when expensive underground methods are employed. The Bullfontein and De Beers companies did not reach the level of their fields, and were compelled to suspend operations or adopt the underground plan. The latter have already sunk shafts and are operating in tunnels, leaving pillars of the blue earth to support the roof.

VIEWS OF AN EXPERT. "This advance was a natural consequence of the condition of the diamond trade," said one of the leading authorities on diamonds, recently. "I have just returned from the European centers, and the market was excited. Nearly fifty cutting establishments have closed down in Amsterdam, and rough was so high in London that the cutters could not realize from their goods what they cost. The market will adjust itself in a couple of months, and the advance prices will then be assured. In my opinion the rise is solely due to the consolidation. I do not see how under the present difficulties experienced in mining that there could have been less than an advance. The European market is feeling the rise of from 15 to 30 per cent. now. American exporters will feel it in a month. The senseless reason advanced that the Paris exposition and the multitude of various diamond-seekers had caused the advance, is without foundation.

"The rise will affect the price on an annual output of $30,000,000. America uses $10,000,000 worth of these gems. She annually imports over $12,000,000 worth of diamonds and draws for the other $3,000,000 worth on her reserve stock. We use the finest run of stones in the world.

"Of course, London and Paris are ahead of us in the possession of the rarest gems, but, generally speaking, the finest run of diamonds find their way to America. The market will adjust itself to the advance, because it is not speculative, but the result of natural causes. By this consolidation of interests in South Africa the small companies will not be able to secure the profits they have been struggling for so long."

The Home of the State Capital.

Tacoma Globe: North Yakima is soon announced, after a picturesque and scenic run through the narrow Yakima canyon. The first thing that impresses the stranger is the natural beauty of the place. Broad streets, with plenty of shade trees all under way, on either side, and substantial brick blocks and pretty private residences to be seen on every hand. A magnificent brick school building, costing over $12,000, is the pride of every Yakiman, and it should be, for it is equal to any in the state. There is also a Catholic school for young ladies, which is patronized largely by Sound cities.

It is known that North Yakima was especially laid out and arranged for the home of the state capital, and a correspondent in a recent number of the Oregonian sets forth the why and wherefore that it should be located at that point. There is one thing certain, that since the close vote in the legislature on a change of the capital to a central location—only one vote—the people of North Yakima have been constantly beset by the legislature, their city in the ultimate object of entering into the state's lawmakers and offering a permanent site for suitable buildings which the new state will soon begin to build.

The Hotel Yakima is another new feature recently thrown open to the public. This hotel cost over $2,000, and is first class throughout and in every department. Mr. C. E. Smith, of The Tacoma, has recently taken charge and this is a guarantee that it will be run as a first class hotel. Mine host Smith has been connected with some of the best hosteries in the country, and his reputation as a caterer will make The Yakima a big favorite.

THE HOPS OF WASHINGTON.

Some Interesting Figures—A Veteran Aims His Knowledge on the Subject of Hops.

Tacoma Leader: The hop market, in the opinion of Isaac Lucas, the veteran dealer, is for the present in a state of "uncertainty." Crises are expected to be in the order of quality, yet of buyers there are none.

When asked the meaning of this anomaly, Mr. Lucas said:
"I've crossed in Germany, England and the United States. Consumers know that there can be no prolonged stringency, and I've seen the hop grower in the hop-picking states' perspective."
"It is stated by our hop-bird friends that whenever hops are high or scarce brewers substitute chemicals for the hop in the blossom. Can they be doing this in the present case?"

"That is wholly error. Brewers, like other producers, must market a wholesome article, or their establishments would not stand. Besides, unless hops rose above 25 cents a pound brewers could not be tempted to such a practice. They even offer to pay that price, and do not believe the hop will always remain the principal product in manufacturing brewed liquors."

"How do you see the consumption of hops compare from year to year within the last decade?"

"It keeps a close pace with the amount of beer drunk, and as I have not the figures for the hops at command I will answer by a question. The establishment in the internal revenue department of the United States, and Mr. Pinon produced a table showing the barrels of beer taxed since 1871. In that year the total was 33,372 barrels; in 1873 the barrel had increased to 1,349,940, in 1874 to 19,216,483, and in 1875 to 2,094,765, being an increase of over 30 per cent during four years, or of barrels, 11,715,416.

"I can state that but few hops are being sold in Washington, please state if the hops were not fully contracted for in advance?" ask the reporter.

"Only a small number of bales. The crop of 1875 is estimated at 42,000 bales for this territory, of which not over 6000 bales are contracted and those at an average price of 14 cents. Growers are not withholding their bargains, but buyers will probably wait until after harvest, when the results can be known and an active market ensue, though the prices are beyond any safe prediction."

"Is there anything in the Washington hop to explain the difference in prices which favor the eastern competitors?"

"Our hops are entitled to a place in the best rates, but the industry being comparatively new in this young country, there has been a prejudice against them in the foreign markets. This must cease in time for the Washington hop is first class and should be so rated.

A Round-up of Opinions.

E. Bahnbri's Monday, Esq., county attorney, Clay Co., Texas, says: "Have used Electric Bitters with most happy results. My brother also was very low with neuralgia fever and jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. An afflicted Electric Bitters saved his life." Mr. D. I. W. of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a testimonial saying: "I positively believe he would have died had it not been for Electric Bitters. This rest remedy will ward off, as well as cure all neuralgic diseases, and for all kidney, liver and stomach disorders stands unequalled. Price 50 cents and 1 at C. B. Bushnell's.

Independence, Mo., Dec. 13. Both myself and wife have been for some years afflicted with disease of the kidneys, and had tried many remedies without obtaining any permanent relief. About three months ago we were induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, which has apparently entirely cured both of us, as since taking it two weeks we have felt no symptoms of the disease. We can heartily recommend it to others similarly afflicted as we believe it will do all that is claimed for it. M. W. WHITE. Sold by Allen & Chapman.

THE TERRY'S HOME.

A Sweet Idol of Music, Love and Birds --Why Sarah Althea Didn't Star.

She Had Made Arrangements, But Abandoned the Idea After Sharon's Death.

Charles MacGeechay, formerly manager of Mrs. Sarah Althea Terry, but who is now manager Richard Golden's tour in "Old Jed Prouty," was interrogated by an Omaha Bee reporter on his experience with the Terry.

"I am, I believe," he said, "one of the limited few whom Judge Terry and his wife admitted to their inner social circle, and one of the few, besides, who possessed their esteem and confidence. I shared their hospitality to such an unlimited extent and saw so much of their domestic life that I have been naturally pained to read the severe references that have been made to them recently in leading newspapers since the judge's tragic end. My relations with them in the beginning, four years ago, were purely on business connected with my proposed stage presentation of Mrs. Terry. That dramatic venture came to naught through the sudden death of Senator Sharon. I was their guest at Fresno on several occasions and a frequent caller at their hotel apartment in San Francisco whenever their great law suit brought them to the city.

"It was at Fresno that the world did not know the judge and his wife. The town was too small for the mad rush to find, as the Terry's were secure in their retreat, and but a chosen few were permitted to cross his threshold. Their intimates were of the best class, and most pronounced in their respect and sympathy. In the several visits I paid the Terry mansion at Fresno, I did not hear the least reference to court matters. Legal topics seemed forbidden in that household. The life within that circle was wholly domestic. The premises indoors and out were alive with pets, and the halls and chambers were lined with cages of birds of all colors and sizes. Blooded dogs of every size and variety followed their master and mistress everywhere. Mrs. Terry's hobby was a large aviary, about twenty-five feet high and over fifty feet in circumference, containing with a feathered population of all kinds flying around from perch to perch--canaries, doves, mockingbirds, pigeons, parrots--even our national pet, the sparrow. The little creatures seemed to know their mistress, for her approach to the mammoth cage invariably caused an agreeable commotion within, and on her entrance numbers of the birds would fly about and upon her, and many would feed from her hands. That is a vision I think, for those journalists who had given currency to the playful story that Mrs. Terry's chief domestic duty was shooting, at a mark on the family barn with a Deringer! None the less did Mrs. Terry love her poultry yard, nor were the folk-lore in the manifestations of welcome at her presence with their allotted meals.

"The judge's pets were the dogs, horses and stock of Jersey cows. His stables were his principal concern. The spirited thoroughbreds resented handling by any but their master, who had raised and trained them all from early coltage. "The extensive flower-beds around the house received the joint attention of the judge and his wife, and they never tired of the charge. Flowers were in profusion about the house as well as without. Especially was this the case in their dining-room, which was a veritable conservatory, with its plants in all stages of blossoming. This caring for their pets and flowers was invariably an after-breakfast occupation for the two, and when fulfilled they would drive in a phaeton and peddle to the postoffice. The drive was sometimes extended to their 30-acre vineyard on the outskirts of the town. Returning home, the afternoon would be largely monopolized by the mail, in which Mrs. Terry often took quite as lively a hand as her husband. When her assistance was not essential her time was spent in some needle or fancy work demanded by the house. Dinner was usually preceded by another drive behind the judge's pair of fleet young Hanaboltions, and they were always accompanied in these outings by their guest or guests of the dinner to follow.

"The Terry dinners were stately affairs in the matter of cuisine, and the service strictly after the code. The good eating seemed to whet the judge's smiles and his wife was not slow in adding her retorts. "Their home life was most interesting. Their evenings were spent quietly. Mrs. Terry played on the piano or harp and the judge remained in his library, unless there were guests or callers, when the duty of entertaining them would principally devolve on Mrs. Terry. "But what about your thwarted stage presentations of Mrs. Terry?" inquired the reporter.

"Four years ago," replied Mr. MacGeechay, "I happened to be in St. Louis, at the time Judge Sullivan rendered his famous decision recognizing Mrs. Terry as the lawful wife of Senator Sharon. The finding was printed in full in the leading papers of that city and occupied over two entire pages of the paper. I reflected that the man or the woman who could command so much valuable space in the greatest papers of a city like St. Louis, and at such a distance as San Francisco, was good property to stage, and I cordially resolved to proceed to San Francisco and secure Mrs. Sharon, as she was then named by the law. Within a few weeks I reached that city, and almost the first person I encountered was Mrs. Sharon herself. I called at her residence, a pleasant dwelling in the best section of the city. A modest and rather attractive to engage her for a lecture tour she was highly amused. She said she had never addressed an audience in her life, and, therefore, could not undertake to do so however she might be profited. At this stage Judge Terry appeared unexpectedly to view, and I was introduced to me by Mrs. Sharon. He had been reclining at full length on a lounge in a dark recess of the rear parlor. He threw such chilly water on my aspiration for Mrs. Sharon as a lecture star that I withdrew from the scene. A few days later I renewed the application, without avail. A third, fourth and fifth appeal were each in vain. I ultimately prevailed upon her to engage herself on the terms of $50 for each lecture. It was later arranged that she should act instead. I cast her for Portland in "The Merchant of Venice," engaged a company, built scenery and secured theaters, the tour to begin at the Grand opera house in San Francisco. As Mrs. Sharon was so reserved to the stage I sent her part of Portland, confining it to the final acts. I engaged Mr. Charles R. Thorne, Sr., to coach her and prepare her for the general rehearsals. In time I placed my seats on sale to a brisk demand, at even the advanced prices. The sale had hardly opened when Senator Sharon was announced as seriously ill. I told Mrs. Sharon that this illness was but a game of possum to win public sympathy and prejudice her sale of seats. The senator's condition was bulletined in news and across each day, and yet the seats kept up. When his death became inevitable and his illness was proven genuine, I stopped the sale at Mrs. Sharon's request and cancelled all engagements of the theaters and actors. Senator Sharon died on the afternoon of the very night Mrs. Sharon was to have made her debut. She would have opened to over 4,000 that night and perhaps played to about $20,000 on the week. I was to give her $1,000 a night and a third of the profits. I refused $500 for my prospective profits of the week's business, and the same amount for the first night's receipts, and $1,000 for the balance of the week. Mrs. Sharon would not consent to my accepting the latter offers, believing that they emanated from Senator Sharon, who would close the house to the public and force her to play to empty benches. I could not persuade her to play to empty benches even for the proffered $15,000. I felt that I could afford it if the senator was willing to pay for it. The senator was likewise credited with having approached several of the members of my company seeking to buy them off to desert us on the opening night. If there was no truth in this report had the desired demoralizing effect on the company all the same, each one regarding the other with suspicious envy and suspicion.

"A few weeks subsequent to Senator Sharon's death, Judge Terry married the widow. I accordingly abandoned the theatrical project and returned east. "But did you not recently undertake to bring the lady before the public as a lecturer?" "I did make the attempt," Mr. MacGeechay continued, "and in this instance it was my own sudden sickness that nullified the attempt a failure. I took sick the day I was to start from San Francisco to Fresno, from which place the tour was to begin. Suspecting that I had been brought off by the Sharon estate Mrs. Terry assumed the direction of the tour herself, but owing to some misarrangement had taken in the course, she was unable to open the tour."

"Had Judge Terry been at last reconciled to the lecturing scheme?" the reporter asked. "The judge was as obstinate as ever," said Mr. MacGeechay. "It was only after repeated pleadings and affectionate coaxing on the part of his wife that he yielded and this on the condition that the tour should not extend beyond the state of California. He opposed the venture on the score that he was quite able to support his wife and the case against the Sharon estate also. Her argument, to the contrary, was that as the case had brought her an undesirable but valuable publicity that the same should be made to meet the expenses of the case. If the California tour proved productive it was designed that other states should be visited."

"Is it true that Judge Terry was to lecture alternately with his wife under your management?" "Only in the east should the tour extend thither. Mrs. Terry and I got the judge to promise that he would accompany us and lecture in some of the principal cities. He used to laugh heartily over our preparations for the California tour. He did not believe the public were interested sufficiently to pay an admission fee to hear her debate on what he termed a thread-bare topic."

"Was Judge Terry wealthy?" "I only know that he owned a 20-acre ranch stocked with cattle, also a 2-acre vineyard and two the residences in Fresno, the latter with large surrounding grounds and located in the most valuable section of the town. Judge Terry was ever reticent about his own affairs and Mrs. Terry quailed his example. All I know I acquired by their casual admissions."

"What do you suppose will be the effect of Judge Terry's death on this case?" "I am not able to say for the reason that the case was never at any time a topic of discussion between the Terry's and myself. Indeed, it was difficult to realize when visiting them, that they were such central figures in a great lawsuit. They never spoke of the matter to any one at home. Public sentiment, I see, is against them. But there is this in their favor that they were actuated by human impulses in whatever they did that appeared unwise or ill-tempered. She was wrung up in her case--it was her very existence. He was devoted to her and loyal to her."

"As I happened to know well the better side of Judge Terry's character in regard to his wife, his enjoyment of home, lady answered the bell. She said that Mrs. Sharon was in, and invited me to enter the parlor. On stating my mission his modesty, his ability, his integrity. I must be pardoned for speaking in his favor as I have done. Mrs. Terry's personal traits resemble her husband's in that she is a stiver Coman of the strictest honor, his best friend, retaining the same mind but that she will be equal to the present emergency and pursue the Sharon estate to the last with the same extraordinary pluck she has done in the past five years."

For weak and delicate women nothing builds up the entire system more thoroughly and effectually than Oregon Kidney Tea. It is especially adapted to diseases peculiar to the sex, is pleasant to take and in every instance proves of great value. Oregon Kidney Tea is composed of herbs found in Oregon, is put up in neat tin boxes, and can be prepared fresh by simply steeping in hot water. It contains no mineral substance whatever, is pleasant to take and never fails to cure kidney or urinary troubles. Sold by Allen & Chapman.

Why will you go about with that listless air and pale face? Have you no life, no ambition? You seem to care nothing for what transpires around you. The beauties of nature do not interest you, and you feel that life is a burden. If you could have the vigor and elasticity of youth return, enjoy a good hearty meal, and feel like an altogether different person, then take Dr. Healy's Dandelion Tonic. It certainly produces remarkable results. Sold by Allen & Chapman.

Dandruff is probably one of the most difficult diseases of the scalp to cure, but Dandruff's Specific never fails to remove it permanently. Soreness after shaving is instantly relieved by its use. Sold by Allen & Chapman.

If you could see your own scalp through an ordinary magnifying glass you would be amazed at the amount of dust, dandruff and dead skin in accumulation. The best and most reliable preparation for cleansing the scalp is Ayer's Hair Vigor.

With a feeble appetite and imperfect digestion it is impossible for the body to secure the requisite amount of nourishment. Ayer's Sarsaparilla not only stimulates the desire for food, but aids the assimilative organs in the formation of good blood and sound tissue.
