FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS.

A Brief Description of the Aims of the Kindergarten.

One of the Greatest and Best Far-reaching Educational Reforms of the Present Age.

Among the various systems of child education now in vogue no one has attained the high standard and given an equal practical demonstration of its many and superior advantages as that of the kindergarten system. Since the organization of this familiar system a rapid and steady increase in its popularity has been evident, until to-day fully 100,000 children in the United States are being instructed by this method.

When the plan was first suggested it met with considerable opposition and its founder was subjected to all kinds of ridicule and unfavorable comment. Not discouraged, however, with the attempt made to crush it out of existence he persevered and in a short time demonstrated to the satisfaction of the public that the system possessed many great advantages over others then in use.

Frederick Froebel, the founder of the kindergarten, took for his motto: "Come let us live with our children." The idea in brief is, not to confuse the child with a series of meaningless words but to intimately associate action on the part of the child with similar action of the outside world.

From the Misses Blake and Johnston, who have recently arrived from San Francisco and organized a kindergarten in this city, the following information was gained relative to the system: All occupations in the kindergarten are called plays, and the materials for occupation, gifts. Among these are the movement plays, in which the children imitate the flying of birds, the swimming of fish, the motions of sowing, mowing, threshing, etc. By this method the child is not compelled, first, to learn a certain vocabulary of words and then a system of putting them together, and then associate the object with this acquired knowledge, but is brought in close touch with the object.

Each step in the course of training is a logical sequence of the preceding one, and the various means of occupation are developed one from another in a perfectly natural order, beginning with the simplest and concluding with the most difficult features, thus satisfying all the natural demands of the child's nature. Movement plays are alternated with light gymnastics and vocal exercises. All occupations that can be engaged in out of doors are carried on in the garden whenever weather will permit.

Through kindergarten play the child becomes acquainted with the external world, and knowledge acquired in this manner has been shown to be much more certain to be retained than by methods less entertaining to the child. Work is the great panacea for the young as well as for the old, and we give work as a reward and take it away as a punishment.

In the kindergarten, the mental, moral and spiritual unfoldment of the child's nature go along with his physical training and the best results are always obtained by an early start. It is the aim of all kindergartens to get hold of the little child as early in life as possible. All children after passing a certain age and being surrounded by influences not tending to future progress acquire a certain amount of superficial knowledge which is a serious obstacle to overcome. This can scarcely be termed knowledge but is a natural result of throwing a child upon its own resources.

Any especially strong natural talent or ability which the child may possess eagerly feeds upon anything relative to or directly associated with the development of such talent or ability. Should these natural qualifications tend toward the vicious, it can be easily seen the almost incalculable lasting injury which will be inflicted upon the child's nature.

Taking any subject of which the child is totally ignorant, it is a comparatively easy matter to instill into his mind the proper ideas and the correct system of following them up, but if ideas have already been formed a double duty then lies with the teacher as the incorrect must first be broken down before any progress can be made. If the kindergarten could control the first seven years of a child's life it would have great and substantial benefits to show to the public. Thoughtful educators are coming more and more to believe that the system of unfolding the child's nature through their senses rather than dwarfing the intellect through the meaningless repetition of mere words, is the most natural and the only correct method.

Since "the child is the father of the man," the child is the chief consideration and childhood is the most sacred period of life. Many of the public schools are making modifications in the system in order to conform more closely to the kindergarten system. This shows a generous and a broad mind on the part of public educators and the change will no doubt soon show itself to be a good one in the way of beneficial results.

As regards charity kindergartens, it is necessary to secure sufficient funds in monthly subscriptions and not to rely on spasmodic efforts or voluntary donations as the success of the work depends very largely upon its stability and freedom from financial anxieties. A well trained kindergarten teacher should, above all things, love little children and love her work. In San Francisco, the charity kindergartens are doing excellent work. Mrs. Leland Stanford has five memorial kindergartens in that city dedicated to her son Leland, Jr., who died in Naples some years ago. Each one is managed by a superintendent and a corps of six or seven young lady teachers. The system is one of the most perfect in existence and the Christmas exhibition is a beautiful spectacle, the classes all showing great proficiency in the various exercises. The superintendents are in receipt of daily letters from all over the United States asking for information and a description of the system.

The importance of this system cannot be overestimated and it is now a generally conceded fact that the greatest and most far-reaching educational reform of the nineteenth century is the kindergarten.

WORDS IN COMMON USE

The Dictionary Called Down—Three or Four Thousand English Words That Are Mis-Pronounced.

New York Times: There are in our English at the least three or four thousand words that are frequently mispronounced. Some of these are as follows:

Ab-a-tis. Not a-ba-tis. That has been done for this word that should be done as soon as possible for all foreign words that we use. It has been fully Anglicized. The more English we make our English the better English it is.

Ab-do-men. There is no authority, except popular usage, for accenting the first syllable of this word.

Ab-dom-inal. The o short, as in don.

Ab-er-crom-by. The o of this proper name is not the o of con, but the o of come.

Ab-ject. Not ab-ject.

Ab-ject-ness.

Ab-ject-ly.

Ab-so-lute. Not absoloot, as is often pronounced by the careless.

Ab-sol-u-to-ry. The dictionaries say that the penultimate o in such words as declamatory, migratory, inventory, matrimony, dedicatory, derogatory, natatory, category, parsimony, pleatory, prefatory, territory, etc., is or should be pronounced like short u; that is, like o in major, actor, factor, etc. Is this true? The penultimate o of these words falls, without an exception, under a rhythmic accent, which naturally does and should bring out, in no small degree, the quality of the vowel, though not in the same degree that it is brought out when standing under a preliminary accent. It is safe to assert that it is only those who are specially schooled to slur this o that pronounce it according to the dictionary marking. There are many that pronounce matrimony and a few that pronounce inventory with the o very short, or obscure as Worcester has it; but there are probably none, in this country, at least, that are consistent and uniformly suppress this o in the whole long list of words in which it occurs. To do so is to take something from whatever of sonority the language naturally has, as all languages are sonorous in proportion to their wealth in vowel sounds.

Ab-solve. There is good authority for sounding the s of this word like z, but this is hardly in accordance with the best usage.

Ab-stract-ly. Not ab-stract-ly.

Ab-tract-ly. The u of this word has the sound of long oo. This is the rule. U preceded by r or the sound of sh or zh, in the same syllable, often is sounded like long oo, as in rude, rumor, rule, sure, issue.

Ab-by-dos. Not Ab-y-dos.

Ac-cu-mu-late. When a noun, the first when a verb, the second, is the accented syllable. We accent a syllable with an accent.

Acceptable. In Walker's time this word was accented on the first syllable by the majority of the better speakers.

Access. It is more in accordance with the best current usage to accent the first rather than the second syllable of this word, Webster to the contrary notwithstanding.

Ac-cen-sory. Ease of utterance has shifted the accent from the first to the second syllable, where it will remain.

Ac-cu-mu-late. For the pronunciation that accents the first syllable there is no authority.

Accrue. Here is another word in which the u has the sound of long oo.

Ac-cu-mu-late. The a long as in fate.

Acoustics. All our dictionaries pronounce the ou of this word ou, while nearly the whole English-speaking world, so far as the writer's observation goes, pronounce it like long oo. Many persons thus pronounce it, knowing that the authorities are against them. Squalor is another word treated in like manner. A-bus-tica is certainly not pleasing to the ear.

Act-or. Not the o of nor, but the o of Major.

Ac-cu-men. Not ab-n-men.

Ad-ad-tion. Address. Both noun and verb are now commonly accented on the second syllable.

Adduce. When, in the same syllable, long u is preceded by one of the consonants d, t, l, n, z, or th, it is not easy to introduce the sound of y; hence careless speakers omit it, pronouncing duty, dooty; tune, toon; lute, lot; nuisance, noo-nance, etc. And yet to make the u in these words as clear and perfect as in mate, cute, etc., is over-nice and consequently smacks of pedantry. The two extremes should be avoided with equal care.

Ad-apt. Not ad-apt.

Ad-apt-ly. There is abundant authority for accenting the first syllable, but it is to be hoped that no one will be inclined to follow it.

Ad-apt-ly. There is abundant authority for accenting the first syllable, but it is to be hoped that no one will be inclined to follow it.

ARE YOU OF GOOD SHAPE?

Some years ago Dr. D. A. Sargent, director of the Hemenway gymnasium at Harvard college, offered $1000 in two prizes to persons, male and female, whose physical proportions should most nearly approach perfect symmetry as indicated by his anthropometric chart. The object of both chart and prizes was to stimulate the youth of both sexes with the laudable incentive to systematic and judicious physical training with the view of reaching as nearly as possible the normal standard. The time allowed for the competition was three years, and there have been about 3000 competitors. The prizes have been awarded as follows: The prize for the most perfect male development, Henry Chester Jackson, of Wiscasset, Me., senior of the Bowdoin college and prominent as a carman since entering college. The prize for the most perfect female development, Margaret Blanche Beck, of Meadville, Pa., a member of the summer school of physical training in the gymnasium, and instructor in physical training at Allegheny college. Mr. Jackson's nearest competitor was William Fay Garcelon, a graduate of Best's college and director of the Forsyth school gymnasium, Philadelphia. Miss Beck's closest rivals were two members of the Hemenway summer school. A saleswoman in a Boston store, a teacher at Wellesly Highlands, a pupil of Laeelle Seminary, Auburn, and two members of the Birkely ladies' athletic club of New York, both daughters of prominent lawyers in that city. It is understood that similar prizes are to be offered for the coming year.

He Didn't Laugh.

Some years ago it was still the custom in France to conduct condemned criminals through gaudy crowds of idle spectators to the public guillotine. On one such occasion the unfortunate, seated upon his coffin in the cart, heard a would-be wit in the crowd remark to a companion: "Well, I'll bet that fellow don't feel much like laughing."

The coarse attempt at a joke stung the prisoner, and when he arrived at the scaffold he asked that the proceedings be stayed a moment, as he had a confession to make.

"Although I denied it at my trial, I had accomplices in the crime for which I have been sentenced, and there," pointing to the joker, "is one of them now."

Great excitement ensued and the party designated was seized by the gendarmes with no gentle hands. Out of the confusion somebody managed to drag order and the wit was placed on the scaffold beside his accomplice.

Such a fearful case of abject terror as the joker presented was never witnessed in that somber locality. After enjoying his helpless plight for a few moments the fated convict said to the official in charge:

"He tried to make sport of my sufferings, but the man is innocent. And as soon as he seemed to be sure that it was no laughing matter for me to be here, I was curious to see how much such a funny fellow would laugh under similar circumstances himself."

A Pertinent Proposition.

The police officer danced frantically along the river bank, waving his hand and shouting to a man in the stream. "Come out of there!" he vociferated. "Hi, there! You! Don't you know it's against the law to go in bathing here in the day time?"

"I need not know eet," apologized the offender, making for the shore. "I do not leaf in zees countree. I am here on a veesit."

"What is your name?" demanded the officer sternly, taking out his note book. "My name ees Emile Zola."

"The fellow that writes them French novels?"

"Ze same."

The policeman regarded him in silence a moment, and then put his note book back in his pocket.

"Go back in the water," he said, "and finish your bath. The Lord knows you need more washin' than other people."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Governor Francis Returns the Greeting.

In response to a telegram to Governor Francis, of Missouri, to the effect that 40,000 Missourians in representative capacity assembled in social reunion at North Yakima, sent greeting, the following reply was received:

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 5.—J. H. Thomas, president: Your congratulations received, and on behalf of the 3,000,000 Missourians who are standing by the old commonwealth, cognizant of our resources and advantages, and confident of her glorious future, I return your greeting and wish you happiness and prosperity in your new home.

HAS WILSON SUCCEEDED?

The republican organ of John L. Wilson keep reiterating that he should be returned to congress on account of the "energy" he has displayed. They do not seem to bear in mind that this energy is constitutional with him, and if no satisfactory results accrue from this trait it is of little value. If a representative does not conduct himself so as to impress his associates and place his constituency on a level with those of other congressional districts he is a failure. If he brings his "energy" into play with the result of ridicule rather than commendation he is a failure. If this "energy" is displayed in profanity on the floor of the house or in imitation of the stammer he has no hold on the favor of the people of this new state, where so much of its future is dependent upon the respect in which its representative is held by his fellow members. There should be something else beside "energy," and what has Mr. Wilson done that the voters of this state should feel compelled to return him? Have they not a right to inquire as to the result of his labors in the high office to which he was elected. They ask for an accounting of his stewardship and get the answer that he has displayed "energy." This is unsatisfactory. The voters of Yakima are aware of some of his local exhibitions of energy and will not uphold him. The people at large know of his recent escapade, which the Springfield (Mass.) Republican denominates as "unquestionably the greatest display of foolishness, vulgarity and rowdiness ever seen in the house."

Such "energy" cannot benefit this commonwealth. Mr. Wilson should be retired.

POLITICAL PITH.

R. S. Steiner, of Waterville, is spoken of as a candidate for state senator from the third district on the democratic ticket.

The prohibitions of the state have nominated Robert Abernathy, of Spokane Falls, as their candidate for congressional honors.

The Olympia capital campaign committee is already organized. It is divided into three sub-committees—finance, real estate and printing. A fourth should be added—clams.

The Snohomish Sun thinks that when John L. Wilson returns to this state he will "lam the 'arnal cider outen" all the newspaper men who have been criticizing his slugging powers.

Walter J. Thompson, of Tacoma, has announced that he has retired from the senatorial race. This is news, indeed, as very few were aware he was in it at all. Thompson is a good man and shrewd enough to acquire riches, but he is not tall enough physically or mentally to represent the state of Washington in the senate.

The prohibitionists, in state convention, have resolved that Congressman John L. Wilson, in his recent attack upon Representative Beckwith, on the floor of the hall of representatives of the United States congress, was guilty of conduct unbecoming a gentleman and unworthy of his constituents, and thereby disgracing the state of Washington and dishonoring his country.

The democrat who overcame the republican majority of 800 in the city of Tacoma is a hard man to beat. Look out for Thomas Carroll in the next election. The farmers and laborers will not alone support him, for his character will win friends among all classes who advocate the election of an able, intelligent and honorable representative who will maintain the dignity of the commonwealth and not be known as a public brawler.

A process has been devised by Professor Force Bain, of Chicago, says the Post, for the mining of coal by electricity which does away entirely with the necessity for miners. The process is said to be cheaper than the old way and it certainly has the advantage of never going on a strike, nor is it likely to be killed in a fire-damp explosion. Although very little is known or heard of Professor Bain's discovery, it is now in practical operation and is taking out of one shaft alone 600 tons of black diamonds per day without the employment of a single miner. The coal is not only mined by the electric motor, but the mine is lighted, the coal is hauled from the different chambers, lifted out of the mine and rehailed to the cars, all by the same force. A plant has been in practical operation for two years now, working day and night. This is the first practical application of electricity in this direction.

In speaking of Thomas Carroll, the democratic nominee for congress, the Seattle Telegraph says: "It may be said of him that he has the sincere esteem of all the people of the city wherein he lives; and this is a high tribute to his qualities. A man who wears well among his neighbors for many years has good stuff in him. Familiar with the law, acquainted with the condition and needs of this state, in the prime of life, with an active and well-trained intellect, industrious in the performance of all duties, of good temper and possessing the valuable quality of tact, Mr. Carroll will be able to serve this state in congress most acceptably, if the people honor him by an election."

SHATTLEWORTH: Editor Watterson, while luridly brilliant and given to flowery flights of gushing imagination, can under the exigencies of the moment turn his attention to abstruse mathematics. Taking Superintendent Porter's rough estimates of our population and contrasting it with the recent Kentucky holocaust of highwines, Editor Watterson says: "Over a million gallons of whisky were burned—enough to give every inhabitant of the United States a good drink." On the basis of 64,000,000 population, figures the Pioneer Press, this means sixty-four drinks to a gallon, sixteen drinks to a quart, eight drinks to a pint, four drinks to a half pint, and there you have expert testimony on the correct size of a Kentucky drink. It is not so large as popular impression had estimated it.

ALL is not harmony among the republicans. They indulged in primaries on Saturday last, and the tactics were so sharp between the two leading factions that the discomfited side is sore. Holton, Spain and their followers held a caucus after general plans had been formulated and arranged to do up the other side. This leaked out, and Parker, Miller and Butler took up the very same scheme and played it back with such telling effect that the opposition was completely routed. Now Captain Holton will have to depend on the country precincts for that support which he has been so active in his endeavors to organize. The county convention will be held Saturday, and it can be confidently expected that far will fly.

It may interest those who go out between the acts at a theater to see a friend to know that the chief supply of cloths is obtained from the islands of Zanzibar and Pemba, and that the cloths from a ten-year-old tree would be sufficient to change the breath of a very large-sized audience for a whole month.

Dr. W. H. HARE, of Ellensburg, is aspiring to become the candidate from Kittitas to the state senate, and those who are best posted claim that he will get there at a gallop. Dr. Hare says if he is successful Yakima will have at least one friend in the upper house that she can depend upon.

NORTH YAKIMA, Sept. 15, 1890.

EDITOR HERALD:—Living as I do near the center of the northwestern state of the union, and looking at the action of the plutocratic lawmakers, is it any wonder that I often get "sick at the stomach?" If it is, please let me ask a few questions.

What is patriotism? Is it the devotion of one man or a combination of men to laying plans for filching the working classes' hard earned support from them by enacting laws to give them chances to steal and not be prosecuted for it? We have laws against men obtaining money under false pretenses; but the men we elect for our lawmakers, when they get together, manage to pass laws giving them (or others who pay them well) chances to gather in our earnings under false pretense and to be protected under the guise of law.

Is it patriotism to take the advantage of a fellow man's confidence and lack of proper information and get his vote to put men in office for the purpose of enacting laws to legalize stealing?

Is it not true patriotism to protect the rights and interests of those who are not properly informed, and who devote their time to the production of that which sustains life and produces capital for the support of the government, and whose entire time is devoted to agricultural and mechanical production—I mean the working classes, the manual laboring classes? If it is not, then I am mistaken in the meaning of the word patriotism. I do not believe in the protection of a few to the disadvantage of the masses, let it come from what source it may. Now, what is the effect of the silver bill which has been passed by the present congress? Does it benefit the working classes or the plutocratic speculators? It gives no guarantee of a solid basis for silver and leaves speculation open in silver bullion, so it is in the interest of the speculator, and does the laboring class no good and leaves too much authority in the hands of the secretary of the treasury. The weakness of the legislative bullion bargain will soon present itself. If it has not already done so. The expectations of the people entertained from the silver law will be disappointed. Bullion prices may be good enough as far as they go, good for plutocrats; but money is what the people of the country call for, and bullion owners may be so well pleased with their chances that the secretary of the treasury cannot get his supply of bullion, and he may get so tender and good toward the money sharks that he will stop coining (which he has in his power under the bullion bargain law or so-called silver bill.) Events have proved the wisdom of the silver advocates, and if there is any redeeming quality in the present silver bill it is that its working may arouse the people to a proper consideration of the question and bring about free coining and solid value.

What will be the effect on the circulation of money by taking thirty millions of dollars from the treasury and buying government bonds, which are now due, and paying the premium, demanded by the holders? Will it do the producing and laboring classes any good? No; but it will make the taxpayers pay a heavier tax to pay that premium and put no money in their hands for circulation. The plutocratic bondholders will get the money and use it in speculating in our labor and produce, and they will be certain not to put it out so we can get it to handle.

So we can see the laws are all being made in the interest of the money "grabbers" instead of the interest of the wealth producers. There are changes necessary in the management of the circulating medium of the government that must be made and that soon or the laboring wealth producing portion of the population are doomed to ignominious slavery; in fact, we are now nothing more than slaves subject to the dictates of the plutocratic money thieves. [I give them their true name.]

Farmers and wage-workers, do take a rational view of your situation and do not let party affiliations lead you astray; stand up for a principle that will do the whole people good instead of only the speculator and money grabber. Think of yourselves and those who are in need of help; see that laws are made for their good. The millionaires need no help and need no sympathy. They are always planning some way to get the proceeds of your industry and labor without leaving you any profit, and, in fact, they will not leave you a support if they can get it without, and that is just what they have been doing and are now doing, and are still strengthening the laws in their favor by buying up votes to elect their men to pass such laws as they want.

Think of the enormous expense of running our government! I say, think of it, and do a little investigating for your own benefit! It would make this article too long for me to say much about it; but I will call your attention to one small expenditure just to give you a starter. We pay our president a salary of $50,000 a year; $25,000 for repairs on the white house, to be expended as he pleases and no questions asked; $3000 for coal; $5000 for care and repairs of greenhouse; $5400 for clerks; $4800 for messengers; $2400 for freeman and valet; a contingent fund to be spent at his discretion of $8000; $5000 for gas, electric lights, stable and watchman; $3000 for steward and door-keeper; $4800 for four assistant door-keepers, making a total of $116,400 a year for a president or $465,600 for four years. I will now stop and let you think of it, but must add one more thing, and that is, we need the repeal of the national banking law, and we need it at once, for it is a grand swindling scheme and has been from the start, "conceived in iniquity and born in sin."

To think of the people, who are the support of the government, being compelled to pay interest on the money they furnish the government is certainly a preposterous idea to say the least of it. As stated before, there must be a complete change in the management of the monetary system of the government. A FARMER.

Camping and Campers.

W. H. H. Murray in Boston Globe: There is no other word in the vocabulary of our language so suggestive of rare and pleasant conditions of life as camping. It is more than a mere word; it is a symbol as well. It stands for a whole class of experiences so fresh, novel and healthy that it is beloved by imagination and memory alike. It is so truly a mirror of many of us that in it, as in a glass, we see trees, the shores of lovely lakes, the banks of quietly flowing rivers, wooded islands, around which the waves run carelessly, beaches of gleaming sand and ranges of lofty mountains. In it also are cabins of bark, campfires that crackle and blaze and flare red lights high up amid swaying branches and widely out in a great circle through the dark forest. And in the word are faces and forms that have been companions with us in our forest wanderings, some of whom are with us to this day, and other ones that are not now with us, nor will they ever be again on this earth, and, alas, we know not where they are.

Not only is it a word for the eye, but it is equally a word for the ear. For in it are the sighing of zephyrs, the soft intoning of slow-moving night winds, the roaring of strong gales, the moaning of tempests and the sobbing of storms amid the wet trees. The loon's call, the splash of leaping fish, the panther's cry, the pitiful summons of the lost hound, the splashing of deer wading among the lily pads, and the gentle dripping of odorous gums falling softly on the pine stems, listening to which in silence and sweet content we who were lying under the fragrant trees, like happy and weary children, have fallen gently asleep—all these sounds live in this magic word as music lives forever in the air of heaven, being a part of it.

And in it, too, are human voices, songs, laughter and all the noises of merriment and frolic. No other photograph is like to it. The happy hunter's proud hurrah over the captured game, the songs around the camp, the campfire under the stars in the hush of evening; the stranger's hail; the guide's strong call to breakfast—a heavenly sound; the flute's soft note, heard over water on a still night; the cheer at reaching camp and the murmured farewells at leaving; verily it is a vocal word, and all the sounds that come from it are melody.

Dear word, sweet word, keep vocal to my ears until they cease to hear, and mirror to my eyes until they see no more the fair, the sweet and the honest faces that out of the dear old camps that we have built in so many parts for so many years now look forth upon us as out of many heavens. For if there be a better heaven than a well-placed camp with a wisely assorted company of honest and cheerful folk, I know not how to find it in my imagination nor that passage of revelation that tells us of it.

Mysterious Disappearance.

SAMUEL FEAR. BROKEN OUT!

How often do we see this on the faces of children and, alas, of people who otherwise are healthy? What causes it? Bad Blood. The thought is terrible; the trouble is worse. No ordinary help can remove it. It requires something unusual. Do not take cheap sanaparillas or blood purifiers. You must have something that has proven its power in both Europe and America. General Wheatcroft Nelson, of London, says: "My experience in the English army, as well as in America, convinces me that nothing so thoroughly purifies the blood, or adds to the health, vigor and life, as Dr. Acker's English Blood Elixir." This grand Elixir is sold by druggists in all parts of America. It is a good, pure, honest medicine. Try it to-day.

NORTHERN PACIFIC PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED.—The up passenger train met with a serious accident at Barnes, a switch just east of Prosser, Tuesday. Engineer Schultz was at the throttle, and it is claimed the train was coming along at a good speed when it was discovered that the switch was open. Mr. Schultz had barely time to reverse the lever and jump when the train was in the ditch. The fireman stayed at his post and fell under a mass of coal, from which he did not believe he could extract himself until the steam from the wrecked engine struck his body, causing him to make mighty efforts for release, which finally were successful. His injuries, although painful, are not thought to be dangerous, and Doctor Heg, who was summoned to the scene of the accident, says he will recover. The only other person injured was a young lady, who suffered a cut at the wrist. The engine was badly wrecked, as was a baggage car, while some of the other cars will have to go to the shops for repairs. Engineer Schultz has been relieved and summoned to headquarters, but as near as can be learned the only thing that can be charged against him, if there is anything, is the rate of speed he was driving his engine while crossing over the sidings. He has always been looked upon as one of the best and most careful engineers on the road, and his many friends feel great regret at this misfortune.

WEST SIDE CHILDREN SHOULD ATTEND SCHOOL.—Director J. H. Thomas states that the west side or Columbia school will be finished in about two weeks, and in the meantime classes are being organized at the Central school house and they will be transferred to the new school building as soon as it is completed. Capt. Thomas says that there appears to be a misunderstanding and that children from west of the track are staying away from the Central school awaiting the new structure under the impression that it is the proper thing to do, whereas they are unnecessarily losing time and getting behind their classes, which are already making good progress.

A YOUNG HORSE THIEF.—About ten days ago some one stole a team of horses from Wm. Steel's place near Toppenish, and Mr. Steel, accompanied by Wm. Lewis, started in pursuit. The thief proved to be Benny Newall, a young man about 21 years of age, who was formerly in Mr. Steel's employ. He was caught on Tuesday at Ellensburg as he was headed for the Sound, having the horses hitched to a hack ready to start. Newall's parents lived until lately at Konnewick.

THE COUNCIL ADVISED ON SEWERAGE.—The council met Monday night with all members present, the two new councilmen, Chambers and Stanton, taking their seats. Major R. A. Jones, a sanitary engineer, who planned the Spokane Falls sewerage system, was present on invitation and addressed the council, advising the abandonment of the old plans and the substitution of those which would more adequately answer the requirements of the city.

WANTS TO BUILD A DISTILLERY.—A Kentucky distiller has made a proposition through Messrs. Fechter & Ross to put up a distillery at Yakima to cost not less than $10,000 and employ from thirty to fifty hands, on condition that he be given thirty acres of land accessible to the railroad. The distillery of the capacity proposed would consume about 250 bushels of grain per day.

A NEW SERIAL FOR THE HERALD.—Subscribers of THE HERALD who remember Captain Chas. King's thrilling story entitled "Donnaven Ranch," will learn with pleasure that we will soon begin the publication of "The Two Soldiers," from the pen of the same gifted author. It is one of his best works and replete with well narrated incident.

Superior Court Notes.

Jim Phillips, who was charged with assaulting a young girl at the old town this spring, is still held in duress vile, a new complaint having been drawn up charging him with rape.

Frank D. Reynolds, against whom there was a charge of obtaining chattels from Wm. Lewis under false pretenses, was convicted, but sentence was suspended during good behavior.

A new hearing has been granted in the case of W. H. Minner, charged with assault with intent to do bodily harm.

Montgomery and Milburn, who held up the freight conductor and brakeman near Toppenish, were sentenced on Monday, the former getting five years and the latter one.

Pat Doyle was fined $500 and costs for shooting the Indian at the fish trap a year ago.

Five opium smoking Chinamen are working out a sentence of $50 and costs each. They refused to work at first, but when the alternative of bread and water stared them in the face they gave in.

Teachers' Association.

At the teachers' institute held in this city a county association was formed. The first regular meeting of this organization will be held at the Central school, Saturday, September 27th, commencing at 9 o'clock a. m. All friends of education are invited to attend during the day. E. P. GREENE, President.

A Record-Breaking Year.

Washington Star: This is a record-breaking year. Steamships have broken the record at sea; Salvator broke it in the best running mile; Alabaster broke it for four-year-old horses; Roy Wilkes broke it in 2:08 1/2 against Mand S.'s 2:08 1/2, and congress has broken it in a dozen places against all comers.

H. H. ALLEN would not refuse to accept the nomination of county treasurer at the hands of the democrats if tendered him; at least so it is reported.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

—Dr. G. J. Hill is talking of returning to North Yakima to locate.

—Born, at North Yakima, September 13th, 1920, to the wife of Dick McDaniel, a son.

—Mr. Linder, who has been very low with consumption for a long time past, died on Tuesday.

—A rare treat in music can be had at Mason's opera house Friday, September 24th. All by local talent.

—The new Wide Hollow school house is receiving its coating of paint, which makes it loom up in fine style.

—Judge Graves discharged the jury on Tuesday and on the following day adjourned court until the coming week.

—The watering cart team indulged in its fourth runaway for the season Wednesday. As usual, the cart was somewhat of a wreck.

—Indian Agent Stabler has notified saloon keepers of orders prohibiting the sale of liquor to half breeds living on the reservation.

—The Washington Sentinel is the name of a new democratic paper to be issued shortly at Ellensburg by Messrs. Patterson and Reeves.

—L. S. Howlett's name may be presented to the republican convention for state representative. His friends are urging him to make the race.

—The republican delegates from the city to the county convention are credited with being Myron H. Ellis for auditor and George O. Nevin for treasurer.

—The forthcoming paper at Roslyn is to be called the News, and while it will support Tom Carroll, it will maintain independence on the county ticket.

—Captain J. H. Thomas is mentioned by republicans for the office of county treasurer. Candidates are becoming as numerous as crows in a cornfield.

—Young Anderson, who rode Lady Jenks in the race at the track on the 6th inst., was thrown while riding at Ellensburg, resulting in a broken arm.

—The North Yakima democrats will meet at the city hall Saturday evening at 8 o'clock sharp for the purpose of choosing delegates to the county convention.

—Auditor Bartholet issued a marriage license on the 17th inst. to Thomas Wheeler and Elizabeth Fear. Mr. Wheeler has just arrived from England.

—John Reed sends out his ultimatum in this issue of THE HERALD. He has wood and coal for sale, but says no thirty days time goes. Fuel is cash and cash is king.

—Lovers of music should not miss the musical next Friday night. Non-lovers will be converted. September 26th is the date. Admission, 50 cents; children, 25 cents.

—The Girls' Guild of St. Michael's church will entertain the members of the Guild Saturday evening, September 19th, at the home of the Misses Allen, Natchez avenue.

—Wm. Putney, who for several months was learning the printer's trade at THE HERALD office, is now at death's door. His brother arrived from Eugene, Ogn., Wednesday night.

—Andrew Gervais brought to THE HERALD office to-day a handsome specimen of the Queen Crown squash. He has about four tons of them, for which he is desirous of finding a market.

—Have you noticed the big advertisement of Stone & Son in THE HERALD? They have dry goods and groceries to exchange for coin—lots of the former commodities for little of the latter.

—At the K. of P. lodge rooms Wednesday evening Knight Charles Charbert, Young and Spain conferred the Oriental Degree on Knights Ellis, Houser, Redman, Keuchler, Lamping and Walker.

—The democratic club meets every Thursday evening in the hall over H. H. Allen's drug store. The meeting Thursday evening was an interesting one and the audience listened to speeches by Wm. Lee and J. B. Reavis.

—Attention is called to the new advertisement of Mrs. M. M. Trayner, First street, who has just received a large and very attractive addition to her stock of boots and shoes, to which she invites the inspection of the public.

—The Yakima democratic club held a very successful meeting in H. H. Allen's hall, Monday evening. There were 61 members present who listened to entertaining speeches by H. J. Snively, J. M. Stout, Dudley Eshelman and Theo. Stone.

—Citizens of Sprague have drafted a resolution to be presented at the Lincoln county republican convention asking that the vote of that section be given to North Yakima for the capital on account of its being for the best interest of the county.

—Five new performers will appear at the concert on the 26th for the first time in North Yakima—Mrs. E. P. Greene, of the First Baptist church choir of Port Huron, Michigan; Mr. Conley, of the Glasgow Musical Society of Scotland; Mr. Frank Bartholet, of North Yakima; Rev. W. H. Cornett, of the Queen's University Glee Club of Canada and the Edinburgh Glee Club of Scotland; Miss Fulkerson, a graduate of Springfield college, Missouri.

—Samuel Kreidel, of Ellensburg, made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors on Tuesday. The losses by fire, the subsequent erection of a large and costly brick building, and the dull times prevailing, have all contributed to force him to his present embarrassment. It is to be hoped that Mr. Kreidel can arrange his affairs satisfactorily. Chattel mortgages to the amount of $18,000 and attachments aggregating $6000 were filed Wednesday. A deed to the Kreidel block, consideration $32,000, was filed a few days previous, being made out in the name of M. Harris, of San Francisco. The liabilities are said to be $75,000; assets, $50,000.

—The board of directors of the Cowphee and Wide Hollow Irrigation district was organized, Thursday, by the election of D. W. Stair, president, and R. Strobach, secretary. Mr. Stair was commissioned to engage engineers to run the preliminary lines for the south fork of the Tietan project. Then it is to be turned over to John O'Neal to run the line from the main channel of the Tietan. Bonds of the officers amounting to $205,000 were approved by the court. It is proposed to observe rigid economy in the work of construction.

—Ellensburg Register: Mr. George Coleman and the Misses Bailey and Sheffield recently made the ascent of the high mountain peak near Lake Katchee in the western portion of the county near Easton. The mountain is fully 2000 feet high, and was a hard climb for the fair climbers, taking them to 4 p. m. in the afternoon before they reached the summit. They returned that evening foot sore and weary, though much elated over their successful feat.

—At fashionable dinner parties just now the guests do not sit at all at one table, but are disposed at small tables in groups of eight. By this means is obviated that frigid solemnity which inevitably characterizes occasions of this kind. A flower to which is attached a tiny card signifies to each gentleman which lady he is expected to escort to dinner, and he sits at the place designated by a posy corresponding to the one which he wears.

—Goldendale Sentinel: "Traveler," who has just returned from the Sound, says that Hon. J. B. Reavis was the best dressed and finest looking delegate at the democratic convention held at Seattle last week, that Judge L. B. Nash presided over the convention with great ability; that the "kids" (the juvenile drum and fife corps) of North Yakima attracted much attention and behaved themselves even better than grown folks.

—Gen. Robert S. Gardner, United States Indian inspector, who has been visiting the Yakima agency for some time, says that the great majority of the Yakima Indians are in favor of the distribution of the reservation lands in severalty, and that the class opposed to this movement is formed of the large land-holders, who have from eight to ten thousand acres under fence and stocked with cattle.

—The field and line officers of the national guard of Washington will assemble in convention at North Yakima, on the first Monday in October, for the purpose of electing a brigadier general and an adjutant general of the guard for the ensuing four years. While here they will be entertained by Company A with a pork and bean supper. It is expected that fifty visiting officers will be with us.

—William Hamilton Hall arrived from California Tuesday, and the next day the engineers of the Northern Pacific & Yakima Irrigation company established camp on the Hubbard ditch, upon which work was immediately commenced. It is proposed to enlarge this ditch and make it the main source of supply in watering the Sunnyside country.

—Gorman and Meyers had another set-to at Ellensburg last week and again the latter won, although it seemed to be the general impression that it was made up. Meyers ducked once to save himself from punishment and got caught with Gorman's left, which lifted him on to the ropes and made the claret fly.

—The forest fires up above Ellensburg have been seriously annoying the Northern Pacific during the past week. Saturday the fire reached a large pile of old ties and that evening one of the bridges near Cle-Elum caught fire and was destroyed. The loss of the company was about eight thousand dollars.

—The farmers and truck-growers are urgently requested to bring in their products for the Spokane exposition. The time is short, and the space to be occupied is large. It is not essential that the exhibits be phenomenally large, but all healthy fruits, vegetables, etc., will be gladly received.

—A letter from George Hazard, secretary of the democratic society of Washington, states that Theo. Carroll's date on the west side of the mountains will take him up to the 14th of October, from which date, up to election day, he will spend in canvassing the counties east of the Cascades.

—A master mechanic in the employ of the Northern Pacific was in the city for several days last week overhauling the fire steamer, which had gotten out of working order through unskillful handling. The engine has been tested several times since and found to be in good condition.

—Goldendale had another fire last Thursday, in which property to the value of $5000 was destroyed. It was supposed to be of incendiary origin, so a watch was kept, and Jesse Allen was arrested as he was kindling a fire in the barn back of McFall's hotel.

PERSONAL.

Judge O. F. Weed returned on Monday from southern California and will tarry with us for a few days before starting for Florida.

Wm. Ker, of the Moxee plantation, returned to-day from Stellacoom, where Mrs. Ker and children are inhaling the sea breezes.

Ed F. White has gone to Tacoma to meet his wife, who is returning by the Canadian Pacific from a four months' visit in Pennsylvania.

Frazer Ashurst, of Philadelphia, has returned here from his trip to California and expects to locate and engage in the raising of fine horses for the eastern market.

Fred R. Reed returned from the east via Portland Sunday, but only stayed a couple of days, as he was about to take his wife to California to see if the change would not prove beneficial.

The First National bank of The Dalles was burglarized last Tuesday of $10,000. Professionals did the work, and tunneled under the building to the vault. There is no clue as yet.

The bill to repeal the timber culture law has passed the senate and in such a form that it will probably pass the house. It allows claimants under this act to commute after having occupied the lands for four years.

While a large force of men were engaged at rock work in the Northern Pacific yards at Spokane Falls on the 6th inst. a cremature explosion occurred, in which fifteen of the laborers were killed and many more seriously injured.

A remarkable spectacle was presented Wednesday morning at the Spokane Falls exposition building. Two hundred union carpenters struck work because the board of directors found it necessary to use a small quantity of lumber from a boycotted mill, being unable to get it elsewhere. Public indignation was at once aroused, and prominent citizens, bankers, merchants and councilmen, with hammers in their hands, went to the building and engaged in the work of laying the shingles on the immense roof. Those who went to work were J. J. Brown and A. M. Cannon, both millionaires; W. H. Tyler, president of the board of trade, and Mayor Clough.

The McKinley tariff bill is doubtless going to become a law practically as it came from the house, with a reciprocity clause tacked on. The reciprocity feature puts in the hands of the president the power to enforce discriminating duties on sugar, tea, coffee and hides against countries which refuse to admit our products free, and to admit those articles from other countries; in other words, he is given the power to grant or refuse free trade as to certain articles, as he may determine. This is not exactly the Blaine idea, but it is a concession to it, and is the result of the party managers having seen the growing restlessness of the people under the tariff burden and are attempting to stave off defeat at the polls in '22.

The Chehalis correspondent of the Post-Intelligencer writes: The United Railroads of Washington, which constitute a portion of the Northern Pacific system, were mortgaged to the Farmers' Loan & Trust company of New York, and the deed filed last week, the instrument being the longest of the kind ever recorded in Lewis county. They consist of the following proposed lines in the western portion of the state: From North Yakima via Natchee river at or near Cascade pass, down the Cowlitz river to or near Chehalis; between Chehalis and South Bend, on Shoalwater bay; between South Bend and Gray's Harbor; from South Bend to the Columbia river opposite Astoria; down the river to the Pacific ocean and along the spit of land to Leadbetter point; from some point on the Northern Pacific railway down the Chehalis river to the south side of Gray's harbor; between some point in Pierce county and Montezano, by way of Olympia and Black river; twenty-five miles up to Hoquiam, the Wishakee, and the Wynochee rivers, and fifty miles up the Hupnall river.

A Literary Treat

A New Serial Entitled:

TWO SOLDIERS.

By CAPT. CHAS. KING, U. S. A.

A Thrilling Army Romance.

We shall shortly begin, in this paper, the publication of this splendid story. To those of our readers who have read Capt. King's stories this will be good news; to those who have not, we would say, read this one by all means. There is not a dull or uninteresting line in this serial from beginning to end.

An Interesting Sketch of CAPT. KING,

Yakima Cigars

MANUFACTURED AT Moxee, Yakima County.

ARE PRONOUNCED BY LEADING judges of Cigars, East and West, to be the best Cigars they can get. There is no coloring or flavoring matter used in their manufacture. They have a

Most Delicious and Peculiar Flavor

OF THEIR OWN, AND, WHILE blended, like all first-class Cigars, are made principally from tobacco grown and cured on the

Moxee Plantation

THEY ARE THE FINEST AMERICAN Cigars in the country, and there is nothing purer or finer imported.

YAKIMA AVENUE NORTH YAKIMA, WASHINGTON

AN EVENING CALL.

PONSOMBY—Aw—good evening Miss Brindle. Edith (meeting him in the hall)—Why, it's Aug—Mr. Ponsomby! Do come in! Let me have your hat and cane, please.

Edith—Do you prefer the mountains? PONSOMBY (seeing his way out)—Oh, yes, the mountains! Jolly place, the mountains! lots of fun camping out and shooting and fishing and—(breaks down.)

Edith—Where were you ever in the Rocky mountains? PONSOMBY—Not exactly in them (feeling that he must get out of it somehow), but my uncle died there. Speaking of uncles, is that your aunt's picture? Seems to me I've seen—

Edith—Why, Mr. Ponsomby, that is a crayon of me! Julie Mervilleux drew that from a photograph and everybody says— PONSOMBY (hastily)—I meant that one in the corner.

Edith (stiffly)—That is my father at the age of 21. PONSOMBY (in a cold sweat)—Ha, yes! I—I saw your father this morning. Edith (not much impressed)—Did you? (Pause)—Dear me I wish the opera season would open?

PONSOMBY (enthusiastically)—So do I! Edith—I am so fond of the opera, aren't you? What is your favorite opera? PONSOMBY (who has had time to repent of his rashness)—I—I couldn't exactly say.

Edith—I adore "Rigoletto" above everything. And do you know they are going to sing "Rigoletto" the first week of the season? PONSOMBY (sees he is in for it)—I hope I may have the (inward groan) pleasure your company to hear it?

Edith—You are very kind. I think I have no other engagement— PONSOMBY (quickly)—Of course if you have another engagement— Edith (more quickly)—No, I'm sure I have not. Fanny Cash is also fond— PONSOMBY (determined to draw the line)—I can't enjoy the opera with a crowd.

Edith—Oh, I like to be crowded (sings). Of course I don't mean— PONSOMBY (growing gallant and sitting beside her)—I rather like it myself—depends upon the company, though. Edith (trying to look unconcerned)—I do believe it is getting warmer.

PONSOMBY (not to be put off)—A gentleman can't be too particular about his friends, especially his lady friends. Edith—I should say so! I know girls that I'm sure if I was a gentleman I wouldn't notice.

PONSOMBY (getting closer)—And there are other girls— The Old Man (banging the hall door)—Where the devil's the hat rack? Why isn't the gas kept burning? Edith (restraining Ponsomby)—It is only father; he won't come in.

PONSOMBY (a little shakily)—I have known girls—one girl in particular— The Old Man (outside)—In the parlor, is it? What's it doing in the parlor? No, I didn't leave there—pooh! nonsense! Edith—He is coming in!

PONSOMBY (pulling up his collar)—We understand each other. In case of a war— Edith—War! Is there going to be war?

PONSOMBY (coming to her)—There is no telling what may happen, but if the worst comes to the worst you may depend— The Old Man (outside)—I will not keep quiet. What do I care about a jackanapes of a ten-dollar clerk. If I thought Edith—(door closes suddenly in the distance.)

PONSOMBY (turning pale)—Really I—(consults watch)—how time does fly! Edith—You were saying that in case of war— PONSOMBY—Yas; in case of war (happy thought), I would be the first to go.

Edith (tenderly)—And this 'girl in particular,' what would she say? PONSOMBY—That I ought to go. Edith (rising haughtily)—She would be quite right. Beautiful night for a walk Mr. Ponsomby.

PONSOMBY (seizing his hat and cane)—Lovely, isn't it? When may I hope for the pleasure— Edith—Such a beautiful night. PONSOMBY—Really, Miss Brindle— The Old Man—Edith!

PONSOMBY (hurriedly)—Aw—aw—good night! (Falls down the stoop as the door closes with a bang.—New York World. That Blackguarding Match.

San Francisco Ad: Wilson and Beckwith, after a blackguarding match of the most vigorous violence, have fallen to and cuffed each other like two pups on the stage of a variety dive. No wonder that the democrats roared at the sight. It was enough to raise the sensibilities and risibilities of the solemn figures which ornament the adjoining hall of statuary, and make Bill Allen wink at Cass, and make Robert Fulton take his marble eyes off his steamboat model to join Ben Franklin in regrets that the courtly customs of the last century have been changed along with the rules of the house. What kind of manners are these shown by two republicans cuffing each other and Mr. Cannon blackguarding so loudly as to drive ladies into the open air?

Springfield (Mass.) Republican: Isn't it about time that the farce which is daily being enacted in the national house of representatives was put an end to? The American people are wonderfully long-suffering with their legislators, and can excuse many shortcomings, but when representatives on the floor of the house so far forget themselves as to indulge in pithless vulgarity, call each other liars, and actually come to blows, patience ceases to have even a semblance of virtue. The lower branch of congress long ago demonstrated that it has outlived its usefulness for this session.

Anacosta Standard: With Carter, of Montana, secretary of the national republican committee, and Wilson, of Washington, ex-chief plenipotentiary and slagger extraordinary, the new northwest continues to keep her end up in the fifty-first congress.

Democratic Convention. AT A MEETING OF THE YAKIMA COUNTY Democratic Central Committee held September 10th, 1890, it was resolved to hold the Democratic Convention of Yakima county at the Court House in North Yakima on Wednesday, September 27th, 1890, at 1 o'clock p. m. It is further recommended that North Yakima precinct adopt the "Primary Election Law" in its primary election.

Each precinct will nominate one justice of the peace and one constable, exercising North Yakima precinct which will nominate two justices of the peace and two constables. Each precinct will organize a Primary Club to have representation in the county central club. The ratio of representation for each precinct in the county convention will be one delegate at large from each precinct, one delegate for each ten votes, and one delegate for each fraction thereof cast for the Hon. Thomas Griffith, Democratic candidate for Congress at the election held October 1st, 1890.

The precincts in the county, under this appropriation, are entitled to the following representation: Redrock 1 Alder Creek 1 Abanashum 2 Cowyachoo 1 Lone Tree 2 Simcoe 1 Natchess 4 Morse 1 Koon 2 Newwicks 1 Parker Bottom 1 North Yakima 20 Temple 2 Wide Hollow 4 Wenas 2 Yakima City 4

The committee recommend that alternate delegates be elected and that no proxies be allowed. C. W. LIGGETT, Secretary. R. M. SAVAGE, Chairman.

Probate Court Notice.

STATE OF WASHINGTON,) ss. COUNTY OF YAKIMA,) ALICE ALVERSON, plaintiff,) vs.) D. W. ALVERSON, defendant.)

The state of Washington to the above named defendant: You are hereby notified that Alice Alverson, the above named plaintiff, has filed a complaint against you in the Superior court of the county of Yakima, holding terms at North Yakima, which will come on to be heard sixty days after the first publication of this notice, to-wit: sixty days after the 4th day of September, 1890, and unless you appear and answer the same on or before the 4th day of November, 1890, the same will be taken as confessed, and the prayer of the said complaint granted. The object and prayer of said complaint is to obtain a decree of this court annulling the marriage contract entered into by the parties hereto, to-wit: Yakima county, state of Washington, on the 1st day of January, 1888, on the ground that defendant then had a living wife from whom he was not divorced; also, for a decree permitting plaintiff to resume her maiden name.

(SEAL.) Witness my hand and the seal of said court, this 2nd day of September, 1890. DUDLEY EBBELMAN, Clerk. N. T. CATON, attorney for plaintiff. 804-4
