

Delinquents Must Settle.

This is the time of year when newspapers need money, and subscribers should not forget that the times pass more rapidly with the reader than they do with the publisher who has to pay the bills.

HERALDINGS.

Dr. Nourse October 11. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

Dr. Nourse is unique on the lecture platform.

Mrs. Anna Price has returned from Swauk to remain.

The fireman's dance has been postponed until Friday, October 7th.

Miss Amanda Role, of Oakland, Cal., is visiting the family of J. A. Leach.

Ed. Fogarty and T. C. O'Connor, of Ellensburg, spent Sunday in the city.

Dr. Nourse is full of sense and fun. He creates a laugh before he utters a word.

Be sure to hear Dr. Nourse, the greatest humorist and dramatic orator of the world.

Miss Moon and her niece, Miss Edith Adams, returned from a visit to Tacoma on Sunday.

Work on the sewer extension to connect St. Elizabeth's hospital was commenced Wednesday.

The superior court, with Judge Carroll B. Graves presiding, will convene in this city on Monday next.

Born, at North Yakima, Wednesday, September 27, to the wife of Charles Worth, of Ellensburg, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Reed returned from Tacoma on Wednesday. Mr. Reed left on the following day for Seattle.

Frank C. Reed, brother of Fred R. Reed, arrived here on Wednesday from South Bend, with the intention of making his home here.

John Bartholet has once more assumed control of the dining rooms of the Hotel Bartholet, and the Fitterer Bros. are now in Ellensburg negotiating for the dining rooms of The Horton.

Frank Bartholet, assistant cashier of the Yakima National bank, was married at Spokane on Wednesday, September 21, to Miss Flora M. Hans, of that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartholet made a brief wedding trip to the Sound and arrived in Yakima on Tuesday. They will go to housekeeping as soon as the residence Mr. Bartholet is building is completed.

J. J. Imbrie, of Ellensburg, died in that city on Sunday, September 25, aged about 40 years.

The doctors disagree as to the cause of his death, but it is believed to have been typho-malarial fever.

The deceased was the son of the late James Imbrie, one of the pioneers of the Willamette and Yakima valleys, and a brother of W. C. Imbrie, of Tacoma, Mrs. Phil Stanton and T. B. Imbrie. He was formerly in the hardware business at Yakima City, and had friends scattered all over this state and Oregon.

At the time of his death he was a justice of the peace at Ellensburg. He leaves a little daughter who is now with relatives in California.

Ira M. Krutz and family returned from Indiana on Sunday last, where Mr. Krutz has been making campaign speeches in the interests of democracy.

He says it is conceded there that the state will give $5,000 gratuity for Cleveland. Mr. Krutz met with a heavy loss on his way home.

He was carrying a sum of money amounting to about $985, and at Spokane he was routed from bed early to meet his friends, the Gordons.

His wife handed him the money, but in some way he dropped it, and although only a couple of minutes had elapsed before he discovered his loss the money could not be found.

He was in the smoking apartment of the Pullman at the time, and three gentlemen and the porter were present, all of whom insisted upon being searched, but the missing money was not unearthed.

While in Tacoma THE HERALD representative interviewed B. F. Young regarding the hop situation.

Mr. Young had just finished picking and baling his hops and was qualified to speak from a practical standpoint.

He said that by spraying six times he had managed to save his hops from the lice at a cost of $2,000 for 20 acres.

That while his hops were of a fairly good quality he had only half a crop or about 1,000 pounds to the acre, and that one five acre yard from which he had received 1,800 pounds the second year yielded only about one-third of that amount this year.

"The hop industry on the west side," continued Mr. Young, "is doomed. While we may make a little money this year owing to the prospects of high prices those who continue in the business are bound to lose money. The lice can be controlled only at a great expense and a loss in quantity of yield.

Growers whose yards look fairly well, owing to careful cultivation and spraying, found when it came to the baling that the yield was much less than anticipated.

West side hop growers will find that if they continue in the business they must transfer their interests to Yakima and many have reached that conclusion.

Land that was held at $400 per acre can now be bought for $150 and many growers will plow up their yards this year.

I have made arrangements to water my Selah valley land and shall be in Yakima this fall to plant a good sized yard of hops."

THE REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN BLOW-OUT.

Great Fees and Feathers, With the Effect of Embittering Many Having Opposite Views.

The "talent" of the republican party was concentrated in Yakima on Saturday last.

John McGraw, candidate for governor; James H. Price, candidate for secretary of state; John W. Corson, of Seattle, and T. B. Eddy, of Olympia, were all here on Saturday.

The duty of McGraw and Price was to put in an appearance at the meeting and spend their money with the "boys" afterwards, while Corson was to work the tariff and Eddy to abuse the people's party and endeavor to whip them into line.

The local club was to officiate as claqueurs and do the spectacular business with their torches and Roman candles.

This program was carried out as laid down. The procession was a very creditable one in point of numbers, which was assured before hand by all those interested pleading and using every influence to bear to bring out a crowd.

It's true that office holders, candidates and boys were conspicuous for their numerical strength, but they helped to swell the procession. Republican money seems to be very plentiful for these demonstrations, and many a dollar was shot away in Roman candles.

The demonstration had its effect in gathering a crowd at the opera-house, although the probabilities are that the hall would be filled anyway, as curiosity regarding McGraw held possession of those who had never seen him before.

The meeting was presided over by Edward Whitson, who introduced the several speakers. Mr. Corson was the first one introduced, and he confined himself entirely to the tariff.

His speech was a reiteration of what has been given many times before. He took as a basis that the democratic party was a party of free trade, and the republican party the party of protection with but one object in the world, and that was to benefit the poor laboring man.

He demonstrated to his own apparent satisfaction how everybody was made prosperous by protection, and what a blessing free trade in sugar—a republican measure—was to the whole country.

The jumbling of these two measures, which are diametrically opposed in principle, did not strike him as funny, or at least he did not show his mirth to the audience, and his comparisons in wages were always made with free trade England and never with the heavily protected countries of Europe; and above all he did not appear to realize that the matter of wages was largely dependent upon the natural resources of the country.

He was asked previous to the meeting to tell how the people of Yakima were benefited by protection as especially applied to hops and other products of this section, but he wisely left this alone.

Mr. McGraw followed Corson in a short speech, in which he endeavored to uphold the first legislature in their royal expenditures, and he read off the amounts of the appropriations which must have astonished and astounded his hearers, notwithstanding the list was not complete, and among other things did not include the appropriations for Conover, Black and the agricultural college.

Mr. McGraw would never be called an orator, although he got through with his little set-speech in fairly good style.

The chairman of the evening introduced Mr. Price with laudatory remarks regarding his record as sheriff of Pierce county, but Mr. Price's appearance on the rostrum would carry the impression that while he might make a good sheriff he would be utterly out of place as secretary of state.

It was painful to listen to his efforts, and even those who were opposed to him politically breathed a sympathetic sigh of relief when he managed to withdraw.

Col. Eddy was the next and last speaker, and his speech was directed wholly against the people's party. It was caustic and vindictive, and judging from remarks of those present, who have affiliated with the new organization, Col. Eddy neither ridiculed nor forced those who had separated from the republican party back into the party tracks.

His speech will appear in this week's Republic—dressed down, altered and with the sharp edges blunted, for Col. Eddy had the representative of that paper in his room for an hour and a half, after the public meeting, dictating what should and what should not be published.

People's party men now openly say that they intended to vote for some of the candidates upon the republican ticket, but that they have changed their minds and will stick to the nominees of their own party, or at least not vote for those who so violently abuse them.

PROTECT OUR BREAD.

The machinery of the law has not been put to work too speedily against the fraudulent use of ammonia and alum in Baking Powders.

Both health and the pocket of the people are demanding protection. The legislatures of New York, Illinois and Minnesota have taken this matter of adulteration up, and especially that of Baking Powders.

It will be in the interest of public health when their sale is made a misdemeanor in every State in the UNION, and the penalties of the law are rigidly enforced.

There is no article of human food more wickedly adulterated than that of Baking Powder.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is the only pure cream of tartar powder having a general sale that is free from ammonia, alum or taint of any kind of impurity.

It makes the sweetest and lightest bread, biscuit and cake that are perfectly digestible whether hot or cold. It costs more to manufacture Dr. Price's than any other baking powder. It is superior to every other known and the standard for forty years.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is reported by all authorities as free from Ammonia, Alum, or any other adulterant. In fact, the purity of this ideal powder has never been questioned.
