A Lewis and Clark Expedition Bibliography
In Honor of the Bicentennial

A joint project of the Washington Lewis and Clark Trail Committee the Washington State Chapter of the Lewis and Clark Trail Heritage Foundation and the
Washington State Library, Office of the Secretary of State
August 2008

Over the last six years the Governor-appointed Washington Lewis and Clark Trail Committee, the Washington Chapter of the Lewis and Clark Trail Heritage Foundation, and the Washington State Library, a division of the Office of the Secretary of State, partnered to produce this bibliography. This is the final bibliography the three partners produced in honor of the Lewis and Clark bicentennial. Previously issued bibliographies in this series are:

The Corps 33 issued in January 2005. This bibliography represents the essential core books about the Expedition. Thirty-three members of the Corps of Discovery, the official name for the Lewis and Clark Expedition, made the journey from Fort Mandan to the Pacific and back; thus the title The Corps 33. Titles from The Corps 33 are indicated with an *.

100 Books, 200 Years issued in February 2007.

150 books, 200 Years issued in March 2008.

The goal of this partnership was to produce a bibliography of 200 books that encompassed the most significant and influential books published about the Lewis and Clark Expedition. Books about Thomas Jefferson and Native Americans are included; they provide context for fully understanding the significance of the Expedition. As might be expected, the bibliography has a Pacific Northwest emphasis.

Because numerous books were published during the 2003-2006 bicentennial, the partners waited until the end of the bicentennial to select the books and issue this final bibliography.

This final bibliography includes 199 books and one documentary film, Ken Burns' Lewis & Clark: The Journey of the Corps of Discovery. This film was so influential in educating people about the Expedition for the bicentennial that the partners felt it deserved to be included. The 200 entries are divided into four sections. The "General Selections" section is first, followed by "Adult Fiction Selections" and "Children and Young Adult Selections." The "Journal Editions" are listed last, in chronological order by publication date with the editor's name.

Committee and Chapter members selected the titles and supplied the majority of the annotations. Their annotations are in quotation marks, while annotations in italics are from the Washington State Library's online catalog. Washington State Library staff provided the bibliographic information.

Call numbers are from the Washington State Library collections. The call numbers are correct as of July 2008, but call numbers do change. Please check the Washington State Library's online catalog at <http://www.secstate.wa.gov/library/> to see the most up-to-date call number.

Washington State Library books are available for checkout and interlibrary loan unless the call number begins with R (reference), RARE, RARE V (Rare Vault), SI (Smithsonian federal publication), T (Territorial Library), or YGP (Ye Galleon Press). These are in special collections and are available "for library use only" at the Washington State Library.

Every effort was made at the Washington State Library to purchase a circulating and non-circulating copy of each title selected. In some cases, depending on availability and cost, reprints were purchased instead of first editions. While current cataloging practices do not treat an editor as an author, listing a book under its editor is frequently done in bibliographies; this practice was followed for many books in this bibliography.

A huge thank you for this project must go to two individuals: Barb Kubik and Rändi Coleman. Barb, as chair of the Washington State Lewis and Clark Trail Committee, was instrumental in keeping this project going by rallying her Committee to select titles and write annotations. Rändi Coleman, of the Washington State Library, has done a yeoman's job as the word processor and extra set of eyes for proofing all editions of this bibliography.

It is hoped that this bibliography will keep the Lewis and Clark story alive and introduce it to new readers of all ages and interests.

Proceeding on,

Washington State Library Lewis and Clark Bibliographies

In addition to The Corps 33 and subsequent editions of the 200 Books, 200 Years bibliographies, the Washington State Library produced the following Lewis and Clark bibliographies from 1997 to 2007:

The Lewis and Clark Expedition: Proceeding on towards the Bicentennial, 2003-2006, issued in November 1997 (number 76 of the Washington State Library's Today's Issues).

Lewis and Clark in Washington State issued in 2003, 2004, and 2005.

Lewis, Clark, and Seaman, Washington Reads, winter 2004. State Librarian Jan Walsh's comments about the four books she selected for the quarterly themed Washington Reads are found at: http://www.secstate.wa.gov/library/wa\_reads/WashingtonReadsWinter2004.aspx Patti Reeder Eubank's Seaman's Journal is the book that influenced Ms. Walsh to start her Washington Reads program.

Plants and Animals of the Lewis & Clark Expedition issued in 2003.

Romp with Pomp, Books for Kids about the Lewis and Clark Expedition issued in 2005 and 2007.

Seaman: The Newfoundland Dog Who Accompanied the Lewis and Clark Expedition issued in 2004.

Sergeant Patrick Gass issued in 2004.

A brief comment on a few Lewis and Clark books in the Washington State Library's collections

The Washington State Library has always owned some wonderful Lewis and Clark books. The Territorial Library, established in 1853, has first editions of the Gass and the Biddle/Allen works. (See "Journals Editions" section at the end of this bibliography for full bibliographic information.) During the course of this project the Library acquired more items for the Rare collection including one of the 50 limited copies of the Thwaites edition of the Journals and a set of the 550 oversize maps produced by WSU Press to accompany Martin Plamondon's three volume cartographic set.

"Law professor Miller explores the Doctrine of Discovery, which is key to understanding land and tribal claims in the American West. This doctrine is important today as it still affects the governmental relationship between the United States and tribes. The study of Lewis and Clark, Western American history, and the history of exploration should begin with this book."
